London, April 29.—Sir William Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will move in the House of Commons Monday that the rest of the session be devoted entirely to Government business. Henry Seton-Karr, Conservative for St. Helen's, will propose an amendment directly negativing the motion, thus virtually putting the question of confidence. A very close division, probably the closest since the last general election, is expected. All parties are rallying their forces, and urgent whips and telegraphic summonses have been sent in every direction to members.

ALIVE TO THEIR DANGER.

Minneapolis People Making Enquiries with Regard to a Canadian Discovery.

Minneapolis, April 29.—There has been an unusual number of deaths from heart disease in this city during the last few months, and in many cases the victims were unconscious of being sufferers from the dread complaint. Post morterms have shown in several instances that the trouble was directly traceable to a diseased condition of the kidneys, and people have become alive to the dangers. A number of enquiries have been instituted with regard to the best methods of cure, and the new Canadian specific remedy known as "Dodd's Kidney Pills," has come come in for a great share of attention owing to the extraordinary number of cures which have been effected through this agency.

Wedding Bells.

The St. Thomas Daily Times says:—"On the 15th of January, 1895, a quiet wedding took place in the Church of the Holy Angels, the contracting parties being Miss Minnie Poulette, daughter of Mr. Fred. Every farmer should have the Guide and Rural. Both sent to any address on receipt of $2.25.

A Hundred Cords of Wood go up in Smoke.

Mr. H. Calcutt received word this morning that a pile of cordwood belonging to him at Yelland's Landing, about three miles below the locks, had been burned during the night. The loss is quite a heavy one as there were over a hundred cords of wood in the pile. Incendiarism is suspected, as there is no other possible way conceivable by which the wood could have become ignited.

We are Downing Prices.

At the bottom means lowest prices with Gough Bros. They are always at the bottom so far as prices are concerned. A complete summer outfit bought at Gough Brothers—including coat, pants and vest, hat or cap, boots or shoes—will not cost within a five dollar bill of what it will cost elsewhere, at separate stores—that is, the clothing bought at one store, the hat or cap at another, and the boots and shoes at another. See if it don't.—GOUGH BROS.

Peterborough's Streets.

Ashburnham is setting a good example to Peterborough in gathering up the loose stones from the streets, where they have become such a nuisance, and having them broken for redistribution on the thoroughfares. Water street, between Hunter and Simcoe, though right in the heart of the business portion of the town, is positively a disgrace on account of the roughness caused by the non-removal of the boulders, which have adorned it since early spring. As carriages are beginning to avoid the street, merchants having places of business thereon should raise their voices in the matter.

The Owner Found.

The owner of the horse and rig which was found in Mr. H. C. Garbutt's barn in Lakefield one day last week, has turned up in the person of Mr. Jas. Munro, of Bayliffe, a small post office near Trenton, who went to Lakefield on Friday last to claim his property. Mr. Munro stated that he drove into Trenton on Friday, April 12th, with his hired man, and left the horse tied to a post in front of a store, in charge of the hired man. When Mr. Munro returned the horse, rig and hired man had disappeared, and the first place he heard of them was in Lakefield. The thief has not yet been discovered.

A MIDNIGHT BLAZE OVER IN ASHBURNHAM.

Buildings Belonging to the Dickson Estate go up in Smoke.

At about one o'clock, Sunday morning, the fire brigade was called to Ashburnham where fire had broken out in the butcher shop occupied by Mr. J. S. Dawson, on Elizabeth street, just opposite Davidson & Munro's flour mill.

The engine was taken across the river, but as the building was of wood it was completely enveloped in flames, as were several adjoining frame buildings, before the water was playing on the fire.

As the old tannery and Faint's woolen mill were just west of the scene of the fire and Davidson & Munro's mill, only across the street from it, the firemen were kept busy preventing the sparks settling on these buildings and igniting them.

The buildings which were burned all belonged to the Dickson estate, and their estimated value was about $500 or $600. As stated before one building was occupied as a butcher shop by J. S. Dawson, who meets with quite a loss in the destruction of a quantity of meat on the premises, as well as the spoiling of his knives, saws and other implements.

Davidson & Munro had about one hundred new empty barrels in another of the buildings and the loss on them is a net one as they were uninsured. Mr. Samuel Bittle had a quantity of cheesemaker's material, including cheese cloth, boxes, rennet, etc., stored away in another of the buildings and although none of it was saved his loss will not be a great one as the stock was well insured, it is understood.

A Beautiful Bay Pig.

On Saturday, Mr. H. Perrin received by express at the Peterborough G. T. R. office, a handsome little porker—a five weeks' thoroughbred Tamworth boar pig, which weighed eighteen pounds. His bay pigship was a handsome little specimen of the now popular breed and was sent by Mr. Charles Perrin, of Mariposa, to his brother.

Suppose you call and see our pick of the leading styles of the best makers.—A. H. STRATTON & Co.

Quick Work.

On February 27th, the office and entire plant of the Folding Sawing Machine Company, of Chicago was destroyed in the great fire on the West Side, which involved a total loss to manufacturing interests of $750,000. Notwithstanding the fact that it was necessary for above mentioned company to have malleable castings made, which usually takes about four weeks, this company, with commendable enterprise, shaped matters so they were able to fill orders in just 21 days from the date of the fire. This was certainly quick work, and the gentlemen connected with this company deserve a great deal of credit for their energy and push. Their new address is Folding Sawing Machine Company, 64 and 66 So. Clinton street, Chicago. 3d100

A Noon-day Blaze.

At noon to-day as Mr. Peter Henry was lighting the gas in her bedroom, the curtains caught fire from the burnt match and a strong draught blowing in through the open window caused the flame to leap quickly to the curtains on another window and in an instant the whole room was ablaze. Mrs. Henry fought the flames heroically for a few minutes, but they were soon beyond her control, and she was compelled to cry for assistance. A number of men responded to the call and extinguished the fire by means of copious showers of water from pails. The brigade was quickly on the scene, but the impromptu volunteer service had quenched the last spark before the arrival of the hose. Mrs. Henry was badly burned about the hands and face, and had her eyebrows and lashes scorched off in her fight with the fire.

AN EARLY WEDDING IN ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL CHAPEL.

Special Church Decorations are Used for the Occasion—The Chapel Crowded by the Friends of the Bride.

A very pretty ceremony took place at half-past five o'clock, this morning, in St. Peter's Cathedral Chapel, when Miss Ellen M. Delaney, daughter of Mr. John Delaney, Brock street, was united in marriage to Dr. M. O. Ward, one of Montreal's most prominent physicians.

The chapel was most tastefully decorated for the occasion, the prevailing tones being cream and pink. Roses and other flowers were blended artistically and the sanctuary presented a pretty scene indeed to the guests assembled in the body of the chapel, which even at the early hour of half-past five was almost crowded to the doors by the many friends which the bride had made, through her kindly thoughtfulness and charitable actions. Special church decorations were displayed in the way of handsome altar cloths, etc., and prie-dieux were provided for the occasion, the chapel being also illumined with gas light.

As the guests assembled, Miss Kate Hurley, the Cathedral organist, rendered selections appropriate to the occasion, and when the bridal party entered the chapel they were welcomed with the wedding march from Tannhauser.

The bride was handsomely attired in a pretty fawn gown, with trimmings of gimp and pompadour silk, and carried a magnificent bouquet of cream Marechal Neil roses, brought from Montreal by the groom. She entered the chapel on the arm of her brother, Mr. Thomas Delaney, V.S., of Detroit, who gave her away.

The bridesmaid was Miss Helen E. Muncaster, a neice of Miss Delaney's, who was also the recipient of a bouquet of roses from the groom, which she carried, and who was prettily gowned in blue, with trimmings of point lace and shot silk.

Mr. William Curran, of Montreal, assisted the groom.

The ceremony was performed by Ven. Archdeacon Casey, of the Cathedral, mass being served by Masters Charlie and Harold Muncaster, the little nephews of the bride.

Upon repairing to the residence of the bride's parents at the conclusion of the ceremony, the bridal party were greeted at the door by the strains of a brilliant piano duet tastefully played by Misses May and Gertie Muncaster. The house was lavishly decorated with cut and potted flowers for the occasion. Delicately tinted roses, handsome hydranged and stately palms abounded on every side, together with a profusion of cala and Easter lilies.

The many beautiful presents received bore tribute to the love and esteem in which Miss Delaney is held by her many friends. The groom's gift consisted of an exceedingly handsome pair of diamond earrings.

A most recheche wedding breakfast was served during the morning, of which the members of the family only partook, with the exception of Mr. and Mrs. H. LeBrun. The refreshments were served under the direction of Caterer Harry Long, and comprised a menu of rare excellence and taste. The table presented a handsome appearance, indeed, being all a glitter with cut glass and plate, as well as being beautifully ornamented with flowers.

Dr. and Mrs. Ward were accompanied to the G.T.R. station at 8.30 a.m. by a large number of friends and many more of the bride's acquaintances gathered at the depot to wish her happiness in her new home. Rice flew in showers and the many merry faces left behind as the train pulled out cannot but prove a pleasant remembrance to the Doctor and Mrs. Ward for many days.

As a travelling dress the bride was prettily costumed in dark grey tweed, trimmed with cadet blue velvet.

The bridal trip will include a visit south to the Carolinas and the Atlantic seaboard. On their return journey the bride and groom will spend a few days in New York as the guests of the former's brother, Dr. Delaney, who was unable to be present at the ceremony this morning.

Before taking up their residence in Montreal permanently, Dr. and Mrs. Ward will spend a few days in Peterborough, where the bride will receive.

PROF. JOHN RUSKIN'S LETTER.

In "Arrows of the Chase," a collection of the published letters of Prof. John Ruskin, reference is made to the Misses Webling, who appear here under the auspices of the Hockey club, on Monday next, as follows:

To Mr. R. J. Webling, Sheffield:

DEAR SIR,—I am most happy to assure you, in reply to your interesting letter of the 12th, that I heard your daughters' recitations in London, last autumn, with quite unmixed pleasure and the sincerest admiration, nor merely that, but with grave change in my opinions of the general value of recitations as a means of popular instruction; usually, I like better to hear beautiful poetry read quietly than recited with action, but I felt in hearing Shelly's Cloud recited, (I think it was by Miss Rosalind) that I also was "one of the people," and understood the poem better than ever before, though I am by way of knowing something about clouds too. I also know the "Jack-daw of Rheims" pretty nearly by heart, but I would gladly come to London straightway, had I the time, to hear Miss Peggy speak it again. And—in fine—I have not seen any public entertainment for many a long year—at once so sweet, so innocent, and so helpful, as that which your children can give to all the gentle and simple in mind and heart.

Believe me, my dear sir, faithfully and with all felicitation, yours,
2d JOHN RUSKIN.

After the Grip

No Strength, No Ambition

Hood's Sarsaparilla Gave Perfect Health.

The following letter is from a well-known merchant tailor of St. George, N. B.:
"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:
"Gentlemen—I am glad to say that Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills have done me a great deal of good. I had a severe attack of the grip in the winter, and after getting over the fever I did not seem to gather strength, and had no ambition. Hood's Sarsaparilla proved to be just what I needed. The results were very satisfactory, and I recommend this medicine to all who are afflicted with rheumatism or other afflictions caused by poison and poor blood. I always keep Hood's Sarsaparilla in my house and use it when I need a tonic. We also keep Hood's Pills on hand and think highly of them."

PERSONAL.

Mayor Kendry has returned to town after an absence of two weeks.

Mr. Thomas Delaney, V.S., of Detroit, is spending a few days with his parents, Brock street.

Miss LeMay, of Watertown, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. H. LeBrun, for the past several months, returned to-day to her home across the border.

Mr. William Aldridge and daughter leave to-morrow for New York, sailing in a few days for England, where they will visit friends for some months. Their many friends wish them a safe voyage and an enjoyable holiday.

Commenting on editorial matter in late Cobourg papers in regard to Mr. W. Scarlett's new methods of teaching, the Brighton Ensign says of the popular Seymour man:—A natural teacher—to the manor born—schooled right in the business—not only up to date in methods, but away ahead and admittedly in advance of the times—a humorous paragrapher, a clever writer, a genial companion and a social favourite, our good friend Scarlett could not fail to be a success.

The numerous friends in Peterborough of Mr. Theodore Ludgate will regret to learn that he has decided to leave the town, having resigned his position in the Crown Timber office, Peterborough, a position which he has most satisfactorily filled for the past thirteen years. Mr. Ludgate will leave Peterborough on Wednesday morning to assume the duties of the new position he has accepted with one of the largest lumbering firms in the State of Michigan. His headquarters will be at Traverse city. The firm have secured a most capable manager. He has passed the whole of his life in Peterborough, actively connected with the lumbering business, and from his youth to the present he has borne himself in such a manner as to merit the respect and esteem of a very large circle of acquaintances, who, while regretting his removal, join in the hope that his anticipations may be fully realized.

RELATION BETWEEN MASTER AND SERVANT.

REV. DR. TORRANCE DEALS WITH THE SUBJECT.

An Interesting Sermon in St. Paul's Last Evening—Difficulties Between Capital and Labour Assuming Great Proportions.

Rev. Dr. Torrance last evening delivered a most appropriate sermon, dealing with the difficulties arising between capital and labour. In handling the subject he said: There never was an age when the relative duties devolving upon masters and servants needed to be more clearly pointed out than the age in which we live. The difficulties between capital and labour have assumed great proportions, so that from time to time we hear of strikes taking place, disastrous in their consequences, both to employers and to those whom they employ. It is not much more than a year since the strike among the colliers in Great Britain took place, as the result of which large numbers of men were out of employment, and traffic on the railroads was suspended for a considerable time. Last summer, in the United States, there was the strike among the employees in the Pullman Car Works, which became so serious a matter that the military were called out to protect lives and property.

Quite lately we have heard of a strike among the employees in the shoe factories in the Midland counties in England, and a threatened strike among the bricklayers in Toronto. And now at our own doors there is the difficulty between those employed in the Electric Works and their employers.

These things clearly indicate that the relations between capital and labour are, in many cases, at least, not what they ought to be. The lava does not burst from the mouth of the volcano unless the fire is burning within; and so these disagreements between employers and those whom they employ are plain indications of the existence of discontent. It is only natural that, in view of the difficulties between capital and labour, that many expedients should be proposed for bringing about a better state of things. The social problems of the present day are being discussed from very different standpoints by some of our ablest men.

It is not too much to say that many of the difficulties which now arise between employers and those whom they employ would be lessened if they were to act in accordance with the teaching of the Bible. Certainly the state of things would be different if all acted upon the words of our Lord: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them; for this is the law and the prophets." The observance of the golden rule would lead to the cessation of strikes.

In the verses, which we have selected as our subject to-day, Ephesians 5th Chap, verses 5 to 9, the Apostle points out the duties which devolve upon masters and servants in their relations to each other. There is a tendency to unduly exalt the one or the other class of these duties, according as our sympathies go with the employer or with those whom they employ. We must remember that if masters owe certain duties to their servants, servants owe certain duties to their masters, and that these reciprocal duties must be discharged in order to the existence of satisfactory relations between masters and servants.

I. The duties of servants.

1st. There is the duty of obedience.

"Servants be obedient to them that are your masters according to the flesh."

The relation between master and servant is formed by contract, the servant agreeing to do so much work in return for so much wages. The servant owes obedience to the extent of the contract. The master has no right to enfore anything not implied in the contract. He may seek to alter the contract, but the servant is under no obligation to consent. Within the range of the contract only is the servant bound to obey. Thus far his obedience must be hearty and unquestioning.

The obedience to an earthly master has reference to earthly things alone. He is a master according to the flesh. He has no lordship over the spirit; he may demand the time, the strength, the thought of his servant, but over his conscience he has no control. He may not interfere with the religious beliefs of his servant or insist upon his acting in opposition to his convictions of duty.

Obedience. As we gaze upon the material world we see everything obeying the law of its being. It is in obedience to the laws of their being that the tides of ocean ebb and flow and the planets revolve around the sun. The violation of these laws in the material world would lead to the ruin of our world.

It is the glory of human beings in general and of servants in particular to obey. (2) This obedience is to be rendered with fear and trembling. The idea here is not that of a crouching, servile spirit—a spirit of abject fear. It is rather such a spirit as shrinks from giving offence. The servant is to be anxious so to act that his master cannot find fault with his conduct. He must seek to do so in order to bring no reproach upon the cause of Christ. In thus serving his earthly master with fear and trembling, the Christian servant is carrying out the injunction of the apostle. "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling."

This obedience is to be in singleness of heart. Our Lord says, "If thine eye be single thy whole body shall be full of lights." James says, "A double minded man is unstable in all his ways." Singleness of eye is much the same as sincerity heart and purity of motive. Double mindedness is the very opposite of these.

Uppermost in the heart of the servant should be the desire for the glory of God. He should remember that he is called upon to glorify God in the sphere which he occupies, just as truly as the one in the position of authority. Whether a labourer on the farm or a mechanic in the workshop or a clerk in the store, he should act in constant reference to the glory of God. This will lead him to do his very best. Closely connected with the desire for the glory of God, will be the desire to forward the interests of his master. We may imagine a servant doing his very best at his work, seeking to ingratiate himself with his master, and all the while he is thinking only of his own selfish interests. Certainly that is not serving the Lord in singleness of heart.

(4) This obedience is to be, not with eye service as men pleasers. The servant is not to work while he knows that his master's eye is upon him, and to loiter away his time when his Master's eye is turned aside. They are to work just as diligently in the absence of their master as when he is present with them. Their earthly masters may not see them; but they are under the all-seeing eye of God. They ought to do their work, then, as under their great Task Master's eye. Eye service is simple dishonesty. The eye servant will not forward his own cause. Sooner or later his true character will be discovered.

(5) This obedience is to be from the heart, with good will.

It is is one thing to obey with reluctance, and quite another thing to obey cheerfully. The value of obedience is greatly increased by being rendered cheerfully. There are servants who will not disobey, but who show by their conduct that obedience is no pleasure to them. Such are only too ready to excuse themselves, blaming the work in which they are called to engage; or the masters, whom they are called to serve. The say, "How can we obey from the heart, with good will, when our work is hateful to us, and when our masters are hard and cruel. The Apostle Peter says: "Servants be subject to your masters with all fear; not only to the good and gentle, but also to the forward. For this is thankworthy, if a man for conscience toward God endure grief, suffering wrongfully."

The duty of obedience is enforced by some strong considerations.

(1) In serving earthly masters, servants are obeying Christ. The Apostle says, "As unto Christ," "Not with eye service as men pleasers, but as the servants of Christ." "With good will doing service as to the Lord and not to men." This invests the humblest service with dignity. As John Newton says, "If two angels were sent down from heaven with a divine command, one to rule an empire and the other to sweep a street in it, they would have no inclination to choose employments." The consciousness that they were doing the will of God would make the one employment seem as honourable as the other in their eyes.

(2) In serving earthly masters they shall in due time receive from Christ the reward of their obedience.

THE DUTIES OF MASTERS.

These are the counterpart of the duties of servants. The Apostle says, "And ye masters do the same things unto them." He says in another place, "Masters give unto your servants that which is just and equal, knowing that ye also have a Master in Heaven." Masters are to give unto their servants a fair remuneration for their work. They are not to grind their servants down, exacting from them as much work as they can get, and giving as little as possible in return. They are not to be like the Egyptian task-masters who, at the command of Pharaoh, refused to give the people straw to make brick, and yet required them to render the same amount of brick as formerly. It is to be feared that this state of things prevails in many large establishments in this and other lands. Employees are ground down under the sweating system, so that they scarcely receive enough to keep body and soul together. The severity of competition is brought up as an excuse for this state of things. Price are so cut down that it is impossible to make a business pay without reducing wages to a minimum. Even granting this to be the case, it is no excuse for the sweating system. The labourer is worthy of his hire, and he has a right to expect a fair remuneration for his work.

Masters should remember that their servants are their fellow creatures, to whom they owe reciprocal duties and not merely instruments for enabling them to amass a fortune, and they should not aim at making all the profit by them, which they can at the least possible expense, heedless of essential wrong which a servant may suffer. The Apostle James, "Behold the hire of the labourers which have reaped down your fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth, and the cries of them which have reaped are entered into the ears of the Lord of Sabbaoth.' (3)In the discharge of their duties to those whom they employ, masters are to forbear threatening. There are masters who take advantage of their position to make their servants feel as uncomfortable as possible. They often look upon their servants with frowns, never with smiles. They speak to them many cross words, never any kind ones. They urge them to obey on pain of dismissal; and, alas! they often intersperse their threats with oaths. How sad that this should be the case.

Masters should have the interests of their servants at heart. They should so act as to win their servant's affections and respect. In Naaman, the Syrian in the Old Testament, and in the Roman Centurion in the New, we have examples of masters, who were kind and considerate in their treatment of their servants. Naaman evidently had the affection and respect of his servants, for they said unto him, "My father, if the prophet had bid thee do some great things." The servants of the Roman Centurion was dear unto him, and when he was sick and at the point of death, his master sent the elders of the Jews to Jesus on his behalf. If all masters were like Naaman, the Syrian, and the Roman Centurion, there would be no such things as strikes.

(2) The Apostle gives as a reason why masters should so act toward their servants, this fact that they have a master to whom they shall render an account. He says, "Knowing that your master also is in heaven, neither is their respect of persons with him." As masters summon their servants before their tribunal and pronounce upon their conduct, so shall they themselves be summoned before the tribunal of Christ.

AN ELEGANT AND COMPLETE MODERN RESIDENCE.

The New Home of Mr. W. H. Manning, Dentist—Mr. Architect Bartlett's Excellent Design Successfully Carried Out.

A handsome new residence, built from designs of Mr. F. Bartlett, architect, has been completed for Mr. W. H. Manning. This fine residence, which well deserves such a title, is situated on McDonel street, nearly opposite Central Park, is of modern design and with a very picturesque exterior, is built of brick laid in coloured mortar. The walls are hollow, both inner wall faces being plastered. The exterior walls are strapped and lathed and plastered, the air space in walls and behind strapping being cut off and made thoroughly tight at each story, making the house a very warm one. The trimmings are of Credit Valley brown stone, the front gable being covered with tile and rock work. The interior design is a model of convenience and economy of room. The well lighted and ventilated basement contains the laundry, furnace room and vegetable and fruit cellars. It is floored with Portland cement, and the walls are white-washed, the latter being also plastered.

From an entrance verandah access is gained to a vestibule leading to a spacious staircase hall, with broad stairs, upholstered seat and plate glass pier mirror on the first landing.

FROM THE MAIN HALL

a wide archway, filled in above with spindle work, from which to hang curtains, gives entrance to the spacious parlour. The parlour is connected to the sitting room, which has also an independent entrance from the hall, by folding doors. The parlour is furnished with an artistic fireplace in encaustic tiles, and is well lighted by a wide plate glass window with art glass transom. The parlour and main hall are finished in natural cherry, the former having a plaster cornice and the hall one of wood as well as panelled ceiling.

The sitting room is pleasantly situated at the south-east corner, thus having abundant light and sun for the most important living room. From it a sliding window opens upon a front verandah and two windows open into the conservatory on the east. A large useful fire place of fine design ornaments this room. It is on the principle of a hot air furnace and amply heats the room above. Connected with this sitting room in the rear by folding doors is the spacious dining room which catches the first light of the morning sun. A sliding door opens into the conservatory. This room, also furnished with an open fire place, is, as well as the sitting room, finished in natural oak and has a panelled ceiling and a

CORNICE OF ORNATE OAK.

The serving or butler's pantry, of ample size, well fitted with shelving and drawers, flour bins, etc., is off the dining room and is provided with pantry sink, hot and cold water and dumb waiter to cellar. In connection with the kitchen is a kitchen pantry at the entrance to the summer kitchen. The kitchen has range with hot and cold water supplies, copper boiler, etc.

The back hall contains the cellar entrance and also the back stairs, an arrangement which prevents kitchen odours from ascending to the upper floors, besides securing privacy of access to the latter.

On the first floor are four large airy bedrooms, (each with clothes closets), back stair hall, bath rooms, water closet and slop sink. All the bed rooms are well-lighted, with proper bed space, and all have a pleasant outlook.

The bath room has steel-clad bath tub, marble wash bowl, and hot and cold water supply to each. The water closet connects with the bathroom, and is also accessible otherwise. It is fitted with the best of plumbing.

The main hall on this floor contains the stairs to the attic, and is a continuation of the main stairs and of similar design. At the mid landing of the attic stairs is a door which separates the lower portion of the house from above. A large closet off this landing is an instance of

THE ECONOMY OF SPACE.

The attic contains four large rooms, the two front being in combination, and may, at the will of the occupant, be used either for billiard room or nursery. The other rooms are bed rooms, each with closets.

The heating apparatus is a combination of warm air and hot water furnace. The conservatory and bathroom are heated with hot water and the rest of the residence with hot air, so that fresh air may be wholly or partially used, or that the air in the interior may be wholly or partially re-used or passed out through the house through a heated ventilating shaft. The plumbing throughout is of the most modern character.

The interior finish throughout is of a most excellent, substantial and workmanlike character. It is all finished in the natural wood; the ground floors and principal rooms are done in cherry and oak, and the rest of the rooms is clear pine. There is nothing that is not what it appears to be, and the work is well and thoroughly done.

Lack of frontage is the only drawback to

of this handsome residence, though this is little noticed from the inside, through a judicious arrangement of windows. However, lack of grounds is a common fault of the great majority of Peterborough residences.

The fence which incloses the nicely-levelled lawns, is hardly in keeping with the dignity of the building, being too frail and unsubstantial looking to correspond with it.

For achitectural symmetry of exterior appearance, for convenience of internal arrangement, for economy of space, and general adaptability to make an elegant and comfortable home, this residence is, perhaps, not surpassed by others that have cost twice the money.

The following were the contractors employed on the work, and the building can speak best for the manner in which the work has been done: Architect, F. Bartlett; masonry and brickwork, James Bogue; carpentery, Froude & McGregor; plastering, Geo. Brown; painting, Ralph Carton; plumbing and heating, Adam Hall; galvanized iron work, Breese & Jones; Electric lighting, J. H. Greer.

The fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla, once fairly tried, becomes the favorite spring medicine, speaks volumes for its excellence and merit.

CATARRH.

The New Remedy

Scores Benefitted by its use.

Belleville, May 20th, 1893.

I was troubled with catarrh of the head and throat for at least 10 years. I have spent hundreds of dollars with doctors and medicines of all kinds; I found plenty to give me temporary relief, but none to cure me. I tried one bottle of LOUTTIT'S CURE, it helped me and I continued its use. Eight bottles cured me, and at present I feel safe in saying that any person suffering with catarrh, that will give this treatment a proper trial and stick to it, will be permanently cured.

Those wishing any further information may write me or consult me and I will be pleased to state my case more fully.

Yours very truly,

M. S. Dean Estate.

THERE WILL BE OFFERED FOR SALE by Public Auction on

Friday, the 10th day of May, 1895,

at 2 o'clock p.m. at Dean's Mill, Bridgenorth, by John Haggart, Auctioneer, the following valuable property, viz:—

PARCEL NO. 1.—

A 50-barrel Roller Mill.

Part of lot No. 15 in the Village of Bridgenorth, more particularly described in registered instrument No. 623 for the Township of Smith, save and except the south 100 feet of said part of said lot.

Upon this parcel there is erected a large four-story Flour Mill, 31x54 feet, with a large stone engine room 35x52 feet attached, and also an office 12x13 feet attached to Mill. This Flour Mill is situate on the shore of Chemong Lake on the main travelled road in the district and is most convenient for milling purposes for a large number of farmers in the thickly settled and prosperous Townships of Smith, Ennismore, Emily, Verulam and Harvey.

This mill has been recently equipped with all the most improved and modern machinery. A new pan sifter was put in last summer.

PARCEL NO. 2.—

A Frame House in Bridgenorth.

Part of said lot No. 15 being the south 100 feet of the land more particularly described in registered instrument No. 623 for the Township of Smith.

This parcel is immediately south of the above flour mill and there is erected upon it a frame one-and-a-half storey dwelling house 21x32 feet, with a summer kitchen attached.

PARCEL No. 3.—

Six Acre Lot adjoining Bridgenorth

Part of lot No 12, on the east side of the Communication road, in the Township of Smith, more particularly described in registered instrument No. 7271 for the County of Peterborough, save and except that portion sold to Kelly under registered instrument No. 4226 for the said Township of Smith.

PARCEL No. 4.—

Bridgenorth Village Lots.

Lots Nos. 68 and 69 on Colbourne street and lot 65 on Charles street, all on registered plan No. 4 for the Township of Smith. These lots are nearly opposite the Methodist Church and are excellent building lots.

"My six-year-old daughter, Bella, was afflicted with eczema for 24 months, the principal seat of eruption being behind her ears. I tried almost every remedy I saw advertised, bought innumerable medicines and soaps, and took the child to medical specialists in skin diseases, but without result. Finally, a week ago, I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and the first application showed the curative effect of the Remedy. We have used only one-sixth of the box, but the change is very marked; the eruption has all disappeared, and I can confidently say my child is cured. (Signed) MAXWELL JOHNSTON

THE NEW ILLUMINANT.

EXPERIMENTS WITH ACETYLINE AND THEIR RESULTS.

A Product of Great Power—An Illuminating Gas of Great Value From an Economic Point of View—Passed Through Heated Tubes it Produces Benzol—T. L. Wilson's Astonishing Discovery.

The astonishing announcement was made at a recent meeting of the Society of Chemical Industry that a powerful illuminating gas could be manufactured by a newly-discovered method at a reduction of nearly one-third of the present cost of gas. Should the discovery prove as practical as claimed it will revolutionize the manufacture of gas.

Factories are being erected, and it is expected that gas made by the new process will be on sale in the near future.

The new illuminant is called acetylene. It has been known to the chemists for years, but the difficulty of its manufacture prevented them from utilizing it. It is the lowest gas in the series of hydrocarbons, and is usually manufactured by passing a stream of hydrogen through a globe which the electric air is produced between two carbon points. But by this method the gas is made in minute quantities only, and serves merely for experimental purposes in the labratory and lecture room.

It remained for T. L. Wilson to discover a means by which the gas could be produced in sufficient quantities for practical purposes. Mr. Wilson discovered the method by mere accident. He was working in his labratory with an electric furnace, endeavoring to form an alloy of calcium from some of its compounds, when he noticed that a mixture of powdered lime and anthracite, under the influence of the electrical current, fused down to a heavy semi-metallic mass. This substance was found not to be the one sought, and it was thrown into a bucket of water.

The strange results which followed its contact with the water immediately attracted Mr. Wilson's attention. A gas was given of whose chief characteristics seemed to be its penetrating and disagreeable odor. On applying a light Mr. Wilson found that the gas burned freely, with a smoky but luminous flame.

Here Mr. Wilson became interested and imediately began his investigations. He repeated the experiment, and found that the substance he had cast into the bucket was a substance called Calcic carbide, containing forty parts by weight of calcium and twenty-four parts by weight of carbon. At this point, Professor Venable, of the University of North Carolina, took up the matter, and it was there that the experiments looking to the utilization of acetylene as an illuminant were first carried out. Experiments soon proved that a pound of this calcide carbide would yield 5.3 cubic feet of acetylene gas, which immediately gave it commercial value, and a company was formed to manufacture the gas on a large scale.

From an economic point of view, this gas is of great value, for it has been found that it can be generated in a house as it is needed by a very simple apparatus. This would undoubtedly be a boon to families living in the country.

Perhaps the most remarkable quality of the gas is the fact that it can be liquified by pressure, and put in cans that can be tapped when the gas is needed. A very simple device has been arranged by which the pressure of the gas will be regulated while changing from its liquified condition, and then pass into the various pipes.

Acetylene is a most powerful illuminant. It is dazzling in its brightness and steadfastness of its flame, and when compared with the ordinary coal gas its superiority is wonderful, the latter apearing dim and flickering. There is no dark centre to the flame, as is the case with the ordinary gas. The illuminant is somewhat peculiar, viewing it from a popular point of view, in that it gives only one-half the heating power of the ordinary gas. It is also impossible to use it in the ordinary burners, for they are too large, but this apparent fault has been easily overcome by constructing burners which admit a smaller amount of gas.

It has been proposed by promoters of the enterprise to do away with gas piping through the streets, for they say that lamps can be made containing the necessary chemicals by which the gas can be generated and consumed on the spot. This method may be a solution to the car-lighting problem, to which the elevated and surface railroad authorities have devoted considerable attention of late. The cost of the gas is dependent upon the cost of the carbide. It is said by the company which is about to place the carbide on the market that if the substance is sold for $50 a ton the gas can be furnished at 50 cents per 1,000 feet, which will give light equal in amount to that given by the ordinary illuminating gas. Of course, this would not represent the actual cost of the acetylene, which has not as yet been decided, but the cost is sure to be only a small proportion of the cost of the ordinary gas. It has been found that when the gas is passed through a tube heated to redness that benzol, the substance which is the foundation of the aniline colors, is produced. Even this feature alone would serve to make the discovery one of great value.

Mr. Adam, of the Boston Gas Company, of Boston, says :—"The question of the greatest importance to gas manufacturers is as to whether acetylene can be used to increase the power of common coal gas."

Professor Elliott, the chemist of the Consolidated Gas Company, and a well-known authority on gas, says :—"The subject of this calcium carbide would be of the greatest interest to gas manufacturers."

The gas cannot only be obtained in the gaseous and liquified states, but also as a solid. The latter is most interesting, for when cast upon the surface of liquid mercury it had the effect of freezing that element to a solid mass, and the thermometer placed in its midst registered a fall of 118 degrees below zero on the Fahrenheit scale.

France and Germany.

Fortunately for Europe, the relations between France and Germany are becoming more friendly as the years pass by. No better proof of this has been given recently than the reception accorded to the article of Anatole Leroy Beaulieu, the well-known French writer, in one of the Paris reviews. M. Beaulieu declares that there is no hatred for the Germans in the breasts of the young Frenchmen of to-day. He advises them to form associations for the study of the German language and literature, and declares that of all the nations in Europe, Germany, so far as advanced knowledge is concerned, is most worthy of their attention. A few years ago it would have taken a brave man to give voice to these sentiments. With that we would not say that M. Beaulieu is not brave; but the day is past when the expression of such opinions is dangerous. The author's suggestions have been discussed dispassionately, and many commentators have praised them. This is a happy result for the lovers of peace—and the inhabitants of Alsace-Lorraine.—New York Tribune.

A Common Affliction

Permanently Cured by Taking

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

A CAB-DRIVER'S STORY.

"I was afflicted for eight years with Salt Rheum. During that time, I tried a great many medicines which were highly recommended, but none gave me relief. I was at last advised to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by a friend who told me that I must purchase six bottles, and use them according to directions. I yielded to his persuasion, bought the six bottles, and took the contents of three of these bottles without noticing any direct benefit. Before I had finished the fourth bottle, my hands were as as ever they were. My business, which is that of a cab-driver, requires me to be out in cold and wet weather, often without gloves, and the trouble has never returned."—THOMAS A. JOHNS, Stratford, Ont.

SNAKE BITE ANTIDOTE.

STRYCHNINE NEUTRALIZES THE VENOM OF DEADLY SERPENTS.

Whisky at Last Discounted - The Bulletin Which the Smithsonian Institution is About to Publish on the Subject Will Gladden the Hearts of the Prohibitionists — Two Poisons Which Kill Each Other.

A sure antidote for snake poison has been found. The discovery will mark an epoch in the history of medicine. For thousands of years the secret has been sought in vain. It was Prince Lucien Bonaparte who, in 1843, first made a chemical analysis of the venom of the viper, separating its active principle, which he called "viperine." A similar principle has been separated from the poison of the rattlesnake by Dr. Weir Mitchell, which he has termed "crotaline." But until now no knowledge has been obtained of anything antagonistic to this toxic agent, though alleged "cures" for snake bites have been plentiful enough. The remedy so long looked for has been found at last in strychnine.

The deadly fluid secreted by certain species of snakes was made a subject of study from a very early date, but the old-time investigators knew not how to solve the intricate problems of organic chemistry. All that they accomplished was to produce a prodigious number of antidotes, so-called, most of which in their turn were declared infallible. Not one of them was worth a penny. The most notable work in this line has been performed by Dr. Weir Mitchell of Philadelphia, who, for the sake of obtaining sufficient quantities of the poison, has somtimes kept as many as 100 serpents in his laboratory. His method for securing the venom for examination was to seize the snake by the neck with tongs, forcing a saucer between the jaws. The enraged reptile would then bite into the saucer, on which the poison emitted was left.

The substance thus obtained is a yellowish, transparent, sticky fluid, without smell or taste, easily dissolved in water. When dried it will retain its toxic properties for any length of time apparently, looking like a gum or varnish, and it has been preserved for 22 years without altering in the least. On this ground it is advisable to handle with caution even the dried fangs of snakes long dead. Boiling, unless continued for a long time, does not render the fluid harmless.

It is a fact sufficiently well known that poisoning and even death sometimes results from the bites of rats, dogs, cats, horses, cows and even man himself. Recent investigations have proved that in such cases the consequences are due to the presence in the saliva of minute organisms. These bacteria find their way into the wound and, rapidly multiplying, cause blood-poisoning. Not so very long ago it was imagined that some sort of bacterium in snake poison might be accountable for its effects. Drs. Wolfenden and William tried to grow cobra venom on gelatine, proceeding on this theory. If it had been correct they would have been able to produce any quantity of the toxic agent by artifice; but they were entirely unsuccessful. It is now established beyond question that serpent venom is a specific poison, having nothing to do with bacteria. It paralyses the heart and the nervous centres.

Alcohol has long held the first place in popular esteem as an antidote for snake poison. In truth, it is not such at all, though useful to sustain the vitality of the person bitten against the attack made upon it by the toxic agent. It stimulates the nerve centres and the action of the heart if taken in small doses. But the mistake ordinarily made is to pour into the patient large quantities of whisky, the effect of which is exactly opposite of that required. In such great doses alcohol depresses instead of stimulating the vital functions. Intoxication, far from helping the cure, aids the poison. And, by the way, people have often died from snake bite who were bitten when dead drunk.

With the newly-discovered antidote the case is exactly opposite. Danger is far more likely to result from hesitation in using it liberally than from an overdose. Strychnine—itself a poison, scarcely less terrible than snake venom—acts directly upon the nerves, stimulating and turning on their batteries, which the snake poison seeks to depress and turn off. Acting with the unerring certainty of a chemical test, it neutralizes the effects of the serpent venom. But it must be administered in extraordinary quantities, even to the point of spasmodic twitching of the muscles.

In fact, the ordinary doses must be greatly exceeded, and the administration of the strychnine must be continued, even if the total quantity injected within an hour or two amounts to what in the absence of snake poison would be a dangerous, if not fatal, dose. The few failures among the numerous successes with the drug thus far recorded have nearly all been traceable to an insufficiency of the antidote. In urgent cases as much as twenty to twenty-five minims should be given to any person over 15 years of age. If at the end of twenty minutes the symptoms show no abatement a second injection of the same strength should be made promptly, and unless then decided improvement is perceptible, a third one after a like interval. The action of the drug when applied as an antidote is not cumulative. The tendency to relapses is always great where much venom has been absorbed. Apparently yielding to the strychnine for the time, the insidious poison, after an interval during which it seems to ahve been conquered, all at once reasserts its presence, and has to be met by fresh injections, regardless of the quantity previously administered. With children the amount of the remedy to be given must not be judged by the age of the child, but by the amount of venom to be counteracted, the degree of danger chiefly depending on the size of the snake. The bigger the reptile, of course, the more poison it has. Furthermore, it is to be remembered that of all American serpents the rattlesnake is the most dangerous, the copperhead less so and the water moccasin least.

In case of snake-bite, the first thing to be done is to tie a string or a handkerchief as tightly as posible between the wound and the heart, whenever practicable. Next, cut deeply into the punctures made by the fangs, so as to cause the blood to flow freely: suck the blood from the wound—a proceeding perfectly harmless, inasmuch as the poison does not harm when taken internally. Then carefully loosen the ligature so as to admit a small quantity of fresh blood to the member, in order that mortification may not ensue. Small doses of whisky may now be given at frequent intervals. If the patient has to wait for the arrival of a doctor, this is the time to try all means to produce perspiration. The physician will administer extract of jaborandi, for a sudorific and diuretic, and hypodermic injections of fifteen or twenty minims of liquid strychnia, repeated every twenty minutes until slight spasms appear.

It has been ascertained that human beings and other animals are rendered comparatively immune against snake poison by repeated small doses of the venom. This suggests the idea of preventive inoculation, which though not worth while in the United States, might be decidedly so in such serpent-cursed countries as India and Australia, or to travellers in regions where snakes are plentiful and dangerous. It is a fact that the poisonous snakes are proof against their own venom. That this is true has been demonstrated repeatedly by inoculating such serpents with the poisonous secretion from their salivary glands. It is believed that there exists in the blood of the venomous snake some agent similar to the poison itself and that the presence of this toxic principle is accountable for the immunity exhibited.

EDISON'S LATEST.

The Kinetophone Will Show Life Size Figures That Talk.

The kinetophone is the name decided upon by Thomas A. Edison for his latest contrivance. It is a combination of the well-known kinetoscope and the phonograph. The new machine resembles the kinetoscope closely, with the addition of rubber tubes and ear pieces, by means of which the voices of the subjects shown in the pictures may be heard. The matter of combining the two machines was, according to Mr. Edison, very simple, the only obstacle being to get them to work in perfect accord. That is, the kinetoscope and phonograph had to be started at exactly the same time, or the action and sound would not come in together. The machine in its present state is small, and the pictures produced are only the ordinary small ones of the kinetoscope. The problem that Mr. Edison has now set to solve is the production of life size figures, and he says he will have the machine in working order in three months. His idea is to throw the life size pictures of the kinetoscope upon sheets by means of the stereoptikon, and produce the sounds through trumpets atached to the phonograph. In experimenting for the production of life size pictures many obstacles have been encountered. The machine requires a larger film and a more powerful light, and the pictures produced must be flawless. In the small machines slight flaws are not noticeable, but when these pictures are magnified 500 times to make them life size, the deviation of a hair's breadth will amount to an inch when shown on the sheet. The slightest waver will spoil a picture. Mr. Edison is enthusiastic over the kinetophone, and he says he will be able to produce grand opera with it, besides many other things. "In fact," he said to a reporter to-day, "the field of usefulness of the kinetophone is without limit."

Fortunes From Fishy Risks.

The underwriters who were not afraid to take flyers on the cargo of La Gascogne, in spite of the fact that when she was six days overdue she had become what they term in insurance circles a fancy risk, are at present reaping the rewards for their temerity. In one case some thousands of dollars clear profit was made by the transaction of a couple of brokers. It looked on the seventh day as if nobody in the business could be induced to take La Gascogne on any terms, and but three hours before the staunch ship was sighted off Fire Island an insurance man went all over the street literally begging his confreres to help him out of the hole he was in by consenting to relieve him of a share of his risk. But could not get rid of his policies on any terms, although the rates he offered were very tempting.

In fact this business of reinsuring risks when they have in the course of events become "fancy" has developed into something of a lottery, and the returns in not a few instances have been very profitable. La Gascogne, after every man in the profession had in his heart of hearts given her up as lost, has shown that a ship may be overdue more than a week from purely natural causes, and the alarm felt in similar cases will be much diminished hereafter. It is noteworthy that Captain Baudelon refused all aid in his distress, a fact which saved many thousands of dollars to his employers. In fact, the ocean liner captains are not permitted aid except in tremendous emergencies, as it is too costly, and the captain who comes into port without it is more highly esteemed than the one who brings his ship in home in better condition, but with the aid of tugs and tramps of one kind and another.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM IN A WONDERFUL MANNER.

James A. Bell, of Beaverton, Ont., Brother of the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., Prostrated by Nervous Headaches--A Victim of the Trouble for Several Years --South American Nervine Effected a Complete Cure.

In their own particular field few men are better known than the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., and his brother, Mr. James A. Bell. The former will be recognized by his thousands of friends all over the country as the popular and able missionary superintendent of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Among the 20,000 members of this order in Ontario, his counsel is sought on all sorts of occasions. On the public platform he is one of the strong men of the day, battling against the evils of intemperance. Equally well known is Mr. Bell in other provinces of the Dominion, having been for years a member of the Manitoba Methodist Conference, and part of this time was stationed in Winnipeg. His brother, Mr. James A. Bell is a highly respected resident of Beaverton, where his influence, though perhaps more circumscribed than that of his eminent brother, is none the less effective and productive of good. Of recent years, however, the working ability of Mr. James A. Bell has been sadly marred by severe attacks of nervous headaches, accompanied by indigestion. Who can do fit work when this trouble takes hold of them, and especially when it becomes chronic, as was, seemingly, the case with Mr. Bell. The trouble reached such intensity that last June he was completely prostrated. In this condition a friend recommended South American Nervine. Ready to try anything and everything, though he thought he had covered the list of proprietary medicines, he secured a bottle of this great discovery. A second bottle of the medicine was taken and the work was done. Employing his own language: "Two bottles of South American Nervine immediately relieved my headaches and have built up my system in a wonderful manner." Let us not deprecate the good our clergymen and social reformers are doing in the world, but how ill-fitted they would be for their work were it not the relief that South American Nervine brings to them when physical ills overtake them, and when the system as a result of hard, earnest and continuous work, breaks down. Nervine treats the system as the wise reformer treats the evils he is battling against. It strikes at the root of the trouble. All disease comes from disorganization of the nerve centers. This is a scientific fact. Nervine at once works on these nerve centers; gives to them health and vigor; and then there courses through the system strong, healthy, life-maintaining blood, and nervous troubles of every variety are things of the past.

EYES TO SEE AND SEE NOT

That is the case with many people. They need spectacles, and the strange part of it is the some folks never knew how bad their eyes are until they have them tested. Have been going through life without seeing as much as they ought to see—perhaps suffering from headaches and tired eyes.

If you will call at Sanderson's Jewellery Store, George street, your eyes will be examined free of charge. If you need Glasses they will be supplied at a reasonable price. Do not neglect this matter and so be like those who have EARS TO HEAR AND HEAR NOT.

OBITUARY.

The Late Mrs. Fairbairn, of Smith.

The death of Eliza Ann Fairbairn, relict of the late Andrew Fairbairn, of lot 26, con. 9; of Smith, took place on Friday, the 19th of April, at the family homestead. The deceased was 83 years and 9 months old.

She was born at Port Hope in the year 1811, and was married to the late Andrew Fairbairn on Feb. 13th, 1833. To this union there were born 11 children—seven sons and four daughters. Of these eight are living, and all married. There are living 43 grand children—22 sons and 21 daughters.

There are also living 29 great-grandchildren—17 sons and 12 daughters. Thus this venerable lady leaves behind her 80 direct descendants—one, almost, for every year of her life.

She was a faithful member of the Presbyterian church, has lived on the same farm for over 62 years and passed peacefully away at a ripe old age, full of years and honour. The pall bearers at her funeral were her four sons and two grand sons, namely, Charles Fairbairn, M.P., Victoria; John Fairbairn, Smith; Andrew Fairbairn, the homestead, Smith; Alexander Fairbairn, Smith; and the grandsons, Andrew Johnson, Smith, and William Falls, Verulam. The funeral was a large one, the remains being followed by about one hundred vehicles. The services were conducted by Rev. A. C. Reeves, and were very impressive. So closes the life of one who was always ready to help the needy.

BASEBALL.

The Auburn Baseball Club has organized for the season with the following officers:
Captain—M. Walsh.
Secretary-Treasurer—W. Hartley.
This club had a very successful season last year. Out of ten games played only three were lost, which is a record of which the club may well be proud. The employees at the Auburn take a great interest in their crack club, and a large number were in attendance at the annual meeting.

N. A. A. A.

At a meeting of the N.A.A.A. Saturday evening it was practically decided to make Mr. Calcutt an offer immediately for the use by the club of Riverside Park for the season. An effort will be made to bring a baseball nine from some outside town for a game on the 24th.

THE WHEEL.

At a meeting of the Driving Park Association this morning it was decided to turn the horse track into a regular bicycle track and the necessary changes will be made at once.

MAY WEDDINGS.

The Wilson-Jackman and Ingram-Charlton Nuptials Celebrated on Wednesday Last.

(Lakefield News.)

On Wednesday afternoon last St. John Baptist church in Lakefield was filled to witness an interesting ceremony, when Miss Eliza Jane Jackman, eldest daughter of Mr. James Jackman, of Lakefield, was united in marriage to Mr. Andrew Wilson. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. Warren. The bride, who was tastefully dressed in a very becoming heliotrope costume, was assisted by Miss Hattie Smith, cousin of the bride, and Miss Mary Watson and Miss Rebecca Watson, also cousins of the bride. Mr. Wm. Wilson, brother of the groom, acted as groomsman. After the ceremony had been performed the wedding proceeded to the residence of the bride's father, where the usual wedding supper was partaken of, the rest of the evening being spent in a social manner. The bride was the recipient of many handsome and useful presents. The happy couple will take up their residence in Douro, followed by the best wishes of a large number of friends.

INGRAM—CHARLTON.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. William Charlton, Lakefield, was the scene of a joyous gathering on Wednesday evening last, the occasion being the marriage of their eldest daughter Minnie, to Mr. Henry J. Ingram, of Douro. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. C. Reeves, in the presence of the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The bride, who was very becomingly dressed in a handsome wedding costume, was assisted by Miss Ada Irwin, cousin of the bride, and Miss Lottie Ingram. Mr. Wm. Charlton acted the part of groomsman. After the ceremony, the assembled guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding supper, after which the evening was spent in games, etc. The bride was the recipient of many handsome and costly presents. The happy couple start out in life followed by the best wishes of a large number of friends.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The congregations in St. Andrew's yesterday were very large both morning and evening. Able and stirring sermons were preached by Mr. MacWilliams from the texts Gen. xi, 4, "Go to let us build us a city, and a tower whose top may reach unto heaven," and Tim. i, 15th, "This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am chief." The music was excellent.

There were over seventy in Mr. McWilliams' Bible class yesterday.

197 MILES IN 185 MINUTES.

This Is the Best the Delaware, Lackawanna Road Can Do.

Binghamton, April 29.—The record for the fastest long distance run on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western was broken Saturday by a special train from New York to Buffalo. The train, which consisted of three cars, left Hoboken at about 8 a.m. The run to Elmira, 57 miles, was made in 58 minutes. The first stop was at Bath, where four minutes was spent. From Bath to East Buffalo, 103 3-4 miles, the time was 103 minutes. A stop of four minutes, however, was made at Mount Morris, so that the actual running time for the distance was 99 minutes. The train was reported at East Buffalo at 3.59 p.m. Deducting eight minutes for the two stops the travelling time for the 197 miles was just 185 minutes.

Thrown From a Wagon and Killed

Bracebridge, Ont., April 29.—Last evening a boy named John Osborne, 16 years of age, was driving a team with a load of lumber, when the horses became unmanageable going down a hill and ran away. They ran against a telegraph pole and the boy was instantly killed, being crushed between the pole and the wagon.

Italian Precautions Against Anarchists

Rome, April 27.—Vigorous methods are being taken by the authorities throughout Italy to enforce the edict prohibiting May day celebrations. Three battalions have been added to the garrison in this city, and all the troops here and at Milan, Genoa and all garrison towns will be kept in barracks from April 30 until after the danger of a demonstration is passed. Many Anarchists and Socialists have been arrested and are temporarily confined.

The Willard Fountain Unveiled.

Chicago, April 27.—The Willard Fountain, which was presented to the city by the children of the World's W.C.T.U., was unveiled and dedicated Saturday. The fountain cost over $20,000, and over 300,000 children living in Europe and America contributed to the fund.

$200 Loss in Collingwood.

Collingwood, Ont., 29.—Fire broke out here Saturday in the residence of J. McNabb. Cause, defective flue. The house was burned to the ground. Loss $600; small insurance.

Uxbridge Farmer Loses $3000.

Uxbridge, Ont., April 29.—The barns and outbuildings of Robert Stretton were totally destroyed by fire, together with most of the farm implements, eight head of cattle and five hogs. Loss about $3000; insured for $800.

Collapse of a Big Brussels Building.

Brussels, April 27.—While a large force of workingmen was busy on an immense building, in which a show, representing the City of Venice is to be given, the roof collapsed, and many of the men were buried under the wreck. Fifteen of the victims were seriously injured.

NEW GAME WARDEN.

Edward Tinsley of Hamilton to Succeed A. D Stewart.

Hamilton, April 27.—Edward Tinsley has been appointed Fish and Game Inspector in succession to Mayor Stewart, who had notice of his dismissal three months ago.

The Choir Danced in Church.

Winnipeg, Man., April 28.—A leading church member of Winnipeg is in bed with a nervous shock. He happened to be out late Saturday night, and when passing his church going home was astounded to find the organist in her place playing lively music, to which the members of the choir were holding a dance. There will be an advertisement in Monday's paper calling for applications for organist and choristers. As may be imagined the affair is all the talk, overshadowing for the time the school question.

Suicide of an American at Stratford.

Stratford, Ont., April 27.—Luther J. Allen, brother of John C. Allen, the Buffalo bucketshop man and gambler, who failed on Thursday, suicided at the American Hotel, this city, Friday night. From papers found on the dead man it seems that he is a victim of his brother's failure and that his suicide was due to financial troubles.

There will be no inquest, as the coroner considers it a clear case of suicide from opium or morphine.

A Stratford Man in Michigan.

Capac, Mich., April 27.—William Manse, a German, aged 26, whose parents live near Stratford, Ont., cut his throat here yesterday. He had fled from home because he had got a girl into trouble.

Death of Baron Moncreiff.

London, April 29. — Baron Moncreiff died in Edinburgh Saturday. James Wellwood Moncreiff, the first Baron Moncreiff, was born Nov., 1811. He had been Solicitor-General for Scotland and four times Lord Advocate of Scotland. In 1869 he was appointed Lord Justice Clerk and President of the second division of the Court of Session in Scotland. He was created Baron in 1873. In politics he was a Liberal.

Canadian Pictures in Paris.

Paris, April 29.—This year's exhibition of pictures and sculptures at the Old Salon in the Champs Elysees, which opens to the public on May 1, ranks distinctly above the average. There are more real works of art than have been seen in recent years.

Sixty-two of the exhibitors are from Canada and the United States. Several of them show two pictures each.

No Hackneyed Offer Here.

Something that no other clothiers can do. A suit of boy's clothes—a coat, a pair of pants, another pair thrown in, a cap thrown in—all for $4.25. That is, a cap, coat and two pairs of pants for the price of the coat and one pair of pants. What more do mothers want. This is GOUGH BROTHERS' offer and holds good for a month.

BRITISH PRISON REFORM.

Possibility of the Present System Being Swept Away Root and Branch.

London, April 29.—Harold Frederics cables: If the present Government manages to remain in office it is likely that the present year will witness a remarkable organisation and reform of the British prison system. A Departmental Committee of the Home Office has been enquiring into the subject, and its unanimous report almost takes the most sanguine philanthropists's breath away. The report declares the existing system to be inhuman and vicious, and says that it must be cleared away, root and branch. It urges that prisoners be better treated and fed, allowed a certain degree of intercourse with their fellows and with books, be taught trades, or put intelligently to work at the craft that they know, and be helped when released. it also warmly recommends some plan for not imprisoning young offenders at all, and a special treatment for habitual drunkards. The report as a whole is an exceedingly important document in philanthropic literature, and, if Asquith and Herbert Gladstone continue in the Home Office, it is certain to bear fruit speedily. The trouble with any possible Tory successors would be not that they are less humane men, but that the matter has been made a party question by certain Tory papers, who have been treating Sir Edmund Du Cane, the dismissed Surveyor-General of Prisons, as a martyr to partisan rancor, whereas he was really put out because he was chiefly to blame for the mismanagement and savage barbarity which have marked the English prison administration under his long rule.

VICTIM OF BAD BOOKKEEPING.

Tilbury's ex-Treasurer Arraigned for Misappropriation of Township Funds.

Windsor, Ont., April 28.—Clement Mailloux, ex-treasurer of Tilbury, was arraigned on Saturday on a charge of misappropriation of the township funds to the amount of $5900. The evidence was all given by Eli Queenbell, Mailloux's successor, and by C. A. Quellette, one of the auditors who discovered the alleged shortage.

The evidence indicated poor bookkeeping on the part of the ex-treasurer rather than any intent of defraud.

Mailloux was bound in $12,000 to appear at the sessions.

EAST WICKLOW BYE-ELECTION.

Sweetman, the Would-Be Parnellite Member, Defeated by a McCarthyite.

London, April 27.—The Parliamentary election in East Wicklow yesterday, caused by the action of the sitting member, John Sweetman, in withdrawing from the McCarthyite section of the Irish party and allying himself with the Parnellite faction, was very exciting. Mr. Sweetman, upon deserting the Anti-Parnellites, applied for the stewardship of the Chiltern Hundreds and sought re-election as an Irish Nationalist, independent of all English parties. There were three candidates in the field, and the full vote of the constituency was cast. The election, which was fought bitterly throughout the day, resulted in the defeat of Mr. Sweetman. The result was as follows: O'Kelly, McCarthyite, 1273; Sweetman, Parnellite, 1189; Tottenham, Liberal-Unionist, 1159.

HOLLAND'S QUEEN IN LONDON.

She Visits Her Betrothed, Alfred of Saxe-Coburg Gotha.

London, April 27.—Queen Wilhelmina and Queen Regent Emma of Holland arrived at Queensboro on board the royal yacht Valk this morning, and proceeded at once by special train for London. Upon their arrival here they were met at the station by the Duke of Saxe-Coburg, the Duchess of Albany and the members of the Netherlands legation, and driven to Brown's Hotel, where they will remain for the present.

Talking
- ABOUT -
Clothing.

The most advantageous shop to buy Clothing in leads to one conclusion—to purchase from us. You may twist and turn and argue as you will—admit you must that our Clothing is by far the best ready-made in Canada. If you discuss prices, we say again—our selling figures are lower, because the qualities are so much better.

Fathers and sons grown up, you, to whom a sensible word can be seriously spoken, take a look at our Spring Overcoats or our new Spring Suits and convince yourself whether we are not more stylish and if our goods are not better made and trimmed or fit neater than any goods shown elsewhere.—Mothers, who generally have good judgment and look for novelties for their youngsters, never fail to look in at our establishment, for we surpass any competition in the way of Children's Clothing.

The splendid value we give in a 2-piece suit at $2.00, or a 3 piece at $3.50, should make us many new acquaintances.

HATS

"We are HATTERS, successful in our business. We sell cheap and sell the quantity and the quality.

"We know Clothiers that sell Clothing. Their capital is in their business. Close buyers patronize them. They do a good solid trade."

We are not egotistical enough to suppose that the able writer of the above lines had our store in mind when he wrote them, yet it fits us—fits us like our Hats.

Our Hat department DOES grow every year. As the "Spring time comes, gentle Annie," and the season for renewing Hats draws on apace, the styles we show take precedence with the best dressed men and b'hoys.

COST

Ah, yes! COST is what counts every time. Take our "Stanley," for instance. You can't get over that 'Stanley' Hat of ours. You do not pay anything extra for style with us. Double the price could not improve the quality. Our unequalled facilities for bringing to you the latest shapes have, this season, resulted in one of those surprises to our Hat competitors that never misses the target.

Stylish Hats from $1.50 up. "Derbys" and "Fedoras," if you like, at $3.00.

If you prefer a Soft Hat, the correct thing is the "Tourist." But we carry every CONCEIVABLE shape fit to wear at every CONCEIVABLE price.

LESS

LESS than our price is too low for a Hat. We make price an important item and this we fix so as to get merely a decent profit. Selling Hats along with Clothing helps to make the price less than if we sold Hats alone. We don't put all our eggs in one basket.

"Yes!" we need about as many styles as we have customers. Nobody—except he be a twin—wants a Hat exactly like somebody else. Didn't somebody say "variety is the spice of life." If so, you will find our Hat stock highly seasoned.

AT

GOUGH'S Hats are always Good. Not to have one of GOUGH'S Hats is to miss what most becomes you. Put us to the proof of what we have stated, and we are willing to be "called down," if we can't sell you your favourite Hat in a canter. We can suit you in—

Men's Hats,
Boy's Hats,
Children's Hats,
Tweed Caps,
Soft Hats,
Silk Hats,

And remember—PRICES ARE ALWAYS LESS AT

GOUGH BROS.
The Wonderful Cheap Men.

BOOTS

The value of a Boot depends as everybody knows, upon something altogether outside of the material itself. That something is "Style." The skill of the shoemaker to produce fit and effect goes a long way. The best Shoemaker's come to us and we go to them; and when you come to look at the stylish boot we can give you for your money the prices are hardly worth mentioning.

SHOES

It's the same with SHOES. A trim and handsome foot is what every lady yearns for; and gentlemen who want to please their wives or sweethearts should profit by this knowledge and make their feet shapely and pleasing by wearing GOUGH'S SHOES—which are the acme of style and shoemaking skill. It is an old saying: "worn on the heel spends a good deal;" worn on the ball, spends it all," worn on the toes, spends as he goes;" "worn on the side, will be a rich man's bride."

PRICES

You have two feet and those two feet must have shoes, for the weather was'nt made on a bare-footed plan. To get into a shoe store where you feel at home and where they keep your favourite Shoes, is a treat. That is what Gough Bros. offer you. You have feet and we have shoes to fit them at prices that will win you for a customer. Who's to blame if you have been buying shoes at stores where they don't care whether they fit you or not, so long as they sell you something? Try GOUGH'S.

DOWN

Wonderful reductions are made to promptly remove stock and make room for more Summer Styles. Selling Clothing and Hats alongside of Boots and Shoes lets down the price. Here are some things to remember us by;—

Ladies' Shoes from 90c to $3.00
Misses' Shoes from 75c to $1.50
Men's Shoes from $1.00 to $3.00
Boy's Shoes from 75c. to $1.50
Children's Shoes from 50c to $1.00
Infant's Shoes from 25c to $1.00
Ladies' Spats 35c, 50c, 75c.

Excuse our persistence. Prices will be kept DOWN all summer,—at the same time qualities and styles will be ALWAYS GOOD

Crowd-Bringers

DRESS GOODS here never show the mark of age. They move too fast for that. There's no law against our selling the quantity we do at prices that make them move. The afternoon crowds here are certainly a rebuke to hard times.

PARASOLS much under the weather in a price way. Ladies who are quick to appreciate good value should come early or they will miss what they want most. Bargains like these don't keep.

LACE CURTAINS from 25c. per pair up to $10. Even our 25c kind are bound all round. During House Cleaning time we can help you to decorate and furnish in good taste at moderate cost. There's a golden fringe to everything we have to offer, and we can meet all baits thrown out to catch the unsuspecting.

NEW BUCKLES, NEW BELTS, NEW GLOVES, NEW HOSIERY, NEW UNDERWEAR. To be sure there's not much profit on what we sell, but it beats sitting down and worrying for buyers.

ART MUSLINS, for Wall Decorations, etc. Challies, at 5c a yd. Every day is our bargain days. No floor walkers. If you want anything you will be waited on courteously; if you don't, you won't be nagged at to buy.

ESTIMATES BROUGHT DOWN

A Claim for Economy That Doesn't Hold Water.

COMPARISONS THAT MISLEAD.

The Auditor-General's Report Shows How the Government Press is Pap-Fed and the Cost of the High Commissioner—An Interesting Day at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Ont., April 29.—An interesting incident of the sitting of the House today was the introduction by Hon. Mr. Laurier and Hon. C. F. McIsaac of Christopher Alphonse Geoffrion, the distinguished member of the Quebec bar, who achieved such a splendid victory over his opponent in Vercheres. Mr. Geoffrion was greeted with tumultuous applause by the Liberal members, who recognise him as a decided acquisition to the Opposition forces. It was peculiarly appropriate that Mr. McIsaac should act as one of his sponsors, for he, too, come forth victorious in a struggle in which every influence was wrought by the Government to defeat him.

AUDITOR-GENERAL'S REPORT.

Ten months after the close of the fiscal year the Minister of Finance laid on the table the report of the Auditor-General. This bulky volume shows how the public money was expended in 1894.

The Government's advertising account was $44,600, and the printing and lithographing accounts $224,936. Out of these sums there was paid $877 to the Montreal Gazette for advertising, $305 for printing, $583 to La Minerve, $265 to La Presse, $344 to The Montreal Star, $6194 to the Sabiston Litho' Company, Montreal, $750 to E. Senecal & Sons, $171 to La Monde, $575 to Colonisateur, $376 to The Moncton Times for advertising and $14,175 for printing, $2840 to The Toronto Empire, $720 to The St. John Sun for advertising and $9849 for printing, $821 to The Ottawa Citizen, $356 to The Hull Despatch, $651 to The Quebec Chronicle, $569 to The Courrier DuCanada, $315 to L'Evenement, $369 to The Quebec Mercury, $701 to The St. John, N.B., Gazette, and $1109 to The Toronto World. In addition to this The Empire got $1000 for issuing an illustrated World's Fair number.

WORLD'S FAIR ACCOUNTS.

The Columbian Exposition accounts are $113,937: $89,967 for 1893, $37,038 for 1894, and refund amounting to $12,798. The late Senator Tasse received for his expenses at the Fair $3850, and George E. Cockburn, M.P., $4425. J. S. Larke was paid an additional bill for expenses of $5246. In the Fair accounts is an item of sixteen dozen of ale, for which John Labatt, the London brewer, was paid $14.28.

SIR TUPPER'S COST.

That extravagant luxury in London, the High Commissioner, cost Canada $28,837, divided as follows; Sir Charles Tupper's salary $10,000, office staff $8200, contingencies $10,687. The contingencies include $2000 of an allowance to the High Commissioner.

J. C. Nelson of the Dominion Land Survey charged in his expense account the following items: One waterproof pair of boots, $7.50; one pair of trousers, $3.50; another pair of trousers, $4; one portmanteau, $24. The Auditor-General refused to certify to these extraordinary charges.

STOLE GOVERNMENT LUMBER.

The report contains a letter addressed by the Auditor-General to Collingwood Schrieber in regard to the theft of a million feet of lumber from the Curran Bridge Works. Alluding to the conduct of Superintendent Kennedy and the men Darragh and McConomy, he said: "We relied on the certificate of Messrs Darragh and McConomy, that they received all the materials, and they knew nothing about what they were signing. They argued because they were told to do so by the superintendent. Had a proper examination been made by them before certifying, and a record kept of issues, the commission would not now have to report a shortage of 1,000,000 feet of lumber. For the conduct of these two officers, as described by themselves, I can see only three possible explanations, dishonesty, natural incapacity and ignorance. It is so unlikely that ignorance was the sole cause that your department should prove it if they are continued as certifiers of accounts. Even if the department can take the responsibility of saying that these men will in the future perform their duties efficiently, and if retaining them in their positions, I shall think it unfortunate that the country does not derive the improvement in the performance of the public service, which would accrue from their dismissal."

The lawyers got out of the Government during the year $101,078. The portion of O'Connor & Hogg, Ottawa, amounted to $19,850, and Christopher Robinson of Toronto, $21,783.

The House of Commons invested in 535 pearl knives, 19 sample pocket knives and 48 buckhorn knives. The auditor asks for some explanation as to the object of purchasing this large number, but he neglects to publish the reply.

THE ESTIMATES.

The estimates, which were presented to Parliament to-day, show a total on consolidation fund account of $36,834,458, a decrease of $1,682,693. On capital account the estimate is $3,400,959, an increase of $1,215,498. The grand total of the estimated expenditure is $41,243,417, making a decrease as compared with the previous year of $467,115. These are the figures which appear in the summary statement, but a moment's thought will show that they are entirely misleading, and that the claim of economy which they set up is not borne out by the facts. The Minister of Finance for the purpose of showing a decrease, has made a comparison, not between the original estimates of 1894-5, and the original estimates of 1895-6, but between the original estimates of the latter year and the original and supplementary estimates of the former year, the original estimates of 1894-5 showed an amount chargeable to consolidated fund of $37,321,806.02, while this year the amount is $36,854,458.38, a decrease of $487,347.64, and not of $1,682,693.91, as claimed by the Minister of Finance. Under the head of capital account the increase is stated as $1,215,498.77, principally due to the redemption of debt, but it is actually $1,692,376.02, for, while last year the original estimate was $2,716,586.60, this year it is $4,408,959.61. The total original estimate in 1894-5 was $40,038,892.62, while this year it is $41,243,417.99. It comes down to this, that, instead of there being a decrease of $467,195, there is in reality an increase of $1,205,025.

THIS THE LAST SESSION.

Among the details there is an item of more than ordinary interest, for it dispels the idea held by some people that there will be still another session before the Government appeals to the country. It is an item of $150,000 for the general elections, as against $5000 last year. The sum of $2000 is dropped from the item of sessional indemnities, the membership of the House having been reduced from 215 to 213 by the lasy Gerrymander Act. The Minister of Railways and Canals told the House in replying to a question placed on the paper by Sir Richard Cartwright that it would require about $6,000,000 to complete the improvements now under way on the Dominion canals. Mr. Haggart added that it is not the intention of the Goverumet to deepen the channel and canals of the St. Lawrence to a greater extent than is necessary to complete the improvements now in progress.

In its haste to prepare for an election, which it had not the courage to announce, the Government spent $8415.98 in having the voters' lists for the Toronto and York constituencies printed outside of the bureau at Ottawa. Of this sum The Catholic Register, The Orange Sentinel and The Mail job office got a large slice. The money was apportioned among the constituencies in this way, as stated by Dr. Montague in reply to Mr. Casey: Centre Toronto $833.60, West Toronto $886.71, East Toronto $616.29, West York $901.25, East York $486.58, North York $288.55.

Following are the appropriations for Ontario public buildings:

Toronto harbor, dredging	1350

RETURNS DELAYED.

Mr. Charlton brought up on a motion for a return a subject of considerable importance to the members of Parliament and to the country. It was the inexcusably late period at which the important annual statements, such as the trade and navigation returns, and the Auditor-General's report, have been laid on the table of the House this year. The trade and navigation returns were not presented to the people or their representatives till 10 minutes after the close of the fiscal year of which it treats. Mr. Charlton and other speakers construed the tardiness of the Government in the presentation of these reports with its haste in preparing the voters' lists for the elections.

Upon a motion made by Mr. Edgar for a return showing the increase of duties which this gentleman has imposed, the Controller of Customs objected to the return on these significant grounds. It would involve an enormous amount of work to prepare the information, it would take three expert clerks three months, and if the present staff were to undertake it they would have to neglect all their own duties. The Opposition punctuated this statement with ironical cheers and laughter. It was pointed out by Mr. Edgar that the return was simply the counterpart of one moved for by a Government supporter the other day asking for the decreases of duties. No objection had been made to that.

CATTLE REGULATIONS.

The Government's negligence with regard to the cattle trade was made prominent by Mr. McMillan, who showed that an arrangement with the United States authorities had been made by the Grand Trunk Railway to convey Canadian cattle to Portland without quarantine. This was a great advantage to the cattle shippers of the country, which had been repeatedly urged upon the Government by Mr. McMillan, who made the significant criticism that the cattle trade should be indebted to private regulations for the benefit they received.

REDUCE LIEUT.-GOVERNORS' SALARIES.

In demanding increased economy in the public service Mr. McMullen has led the way by giving notice of a bill, which if it become law will result in a large saving to the country. He proposed to reduce the salaries of the Lieutenant-Governors of Ontario and Quebec from $10,000 to $6000, and of the Lieutenant-Governors of all the other provinces and territories except Prince Edward Island, to $5000, and of the Lieutenant Governor of P.E.I. to $4000.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell introduced the Insolvency Bill into the Senate. He said the measure was so fully discussed last session that it would not take up much time this. The bill was re-introduced this session in consequence of a distinct promise given by the late Premier in the House of Commons last session. There were very few changes or alterations made in the bill as now introduced, and none affecting the principles of the measure. Conflicting clauses and clerical errors comprised the only changes from the bill as amended last session. The bill was read a first time.

The laboratory branch of the Inland Revenue Department has this spring analysed 84 samples of agricultural fertilisers, an increase of 24 over last year. A bulletin has just been issued showing the relative value of each fertiliser as required by the act.

Lieut. Davidson of the 8th Royal Rifles has declined a position on the Bisley team. Sergt. Broadhurst of the 15th has accepted a place on the team.

Dr. Landerkin will ask for copies of all correspondence in connection with the seizure of Noble Bros.' fishing vessels.

Senator Boulton purposes bringing up the question of grading of Manitoba wheat and will move an address in the Senate for information.

Murdered for a Mule.

Bowling Green, Ky., April 29.—Columbus Phelps shot and killed his half-brother, Henry Phelps, this morning on account of a quarrel over a mule.

FISH POACHERS CAUGHT.

Two American Boats Put Under Seizure by the Cruiser Dolphin.

Port Colborne, Ont., April 30.—The fishing cruiser Dolphin, which left the harbor yesterday, returned at noon with two American fishing boats and four fishermen, two in each boat. One of the boats was caught in Canadian waters off Windmill Point, when the Dolphin came up and seized them.

The other boats, the men claimed, were fishing off Sturgeon Point, in American waters, and the fishing not being very good on that shore were sailing back to Buffalo. The wind was blowing from the east, and they sailed too close into Canadian water, as it happened, to where the Dolphin had captured the first one. Capt. Peterson seized it, as finding the boat in Canadian waters with a full fishing outfit, left it liable to be seized.

The two small boats, with their occupants, were towed into port, waiting orders from Ottawa as to their release.

IN NEWFOUNDLAND.

Advices via New York Still Tell of the Anti-Confederation Feeling.

St. John's, Nfld., April 29.—The seal-fishing season just ended has been one of the most successful on record. Two-thirds of the steamers engaged in it did remarkable well, while the remainder made enough to pay expenses. The value of the catch is estimated to be about $500,000. This will prove wonderfully beneficial in thew way of bringing about the recovery of the colony from the recent commercial disasters.

The movement against a union with Canada is spreading rapidly. Petitions opposing confederation are receiving a large number of signatures throughout the colony. The confederation opponents are organising to contest the question in all constituencies in the coming general election. The disruption of the Government party is probable, as all but the Cabinet ministers oppose federation.

THE CATTLE EMBARGO.

Mr. Augers' Report Failing Scotch Interest is Dying Out.

London, April 30.—The Scottish papers admit that as Hon. Mr. Augers' exhaustive report has failed to induce the Right Hon. Herbert Gardner, President of the British Board of Agriculture, to release the embargo on Canadian cattle, the agitation in Scotland against the embargo is collapsing on all hands.

ANGLICAN AND ROMAN.

Lord Halifax on the Pope's Letter Touching Union.

London, April 29.—Lord Halifax, president of the English Church Union, addressed a meeting of his society in London this evening. After referring to his recent visit in Rome, and his private audience at the Vatican, he expressed profound gratitude to Leo XIII. for his letter to the English people regarding church union. This document Lord Halifax showed that the Pope's attitude towards the re-union of the Church of England and the Church of Rome was quite different from that of men who were supposed to represent his authority in England.

Volcanoes and Quakes in Mexico.

City of Mexico, April 29.—The volcano of Clima was in eruption last Friday and Saturday, but its activity has almost ceased in the last two days. The eruption was slight and did no damage. Guadalajara, capital of Jalisco Province, was shaken on Saturday by an earthquake, lasting two or three seconds. The earthquake is supposed to have been due to the same cause as the volcano's activity.

Three Bodies in the Ruins.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 29.—Three bodies were found this morning in the ruins of last night's fire, which started in the feed store of E. F. Bials and burned several tenement houses adjoining.

TUESDAY, APRIL 30, 1895.

CORRINTO, where the British flag is now flying, according to the latest despatches respecting Great Britain's late unpleasantness with the South American Republic, is the chief importing point in Nicaragua, and is said to be the best port of Central America on the Pacific coast. The British imports for 1891-92 were $2,132,601; those of the United States came second at $1,497,650; Germany, $1,042,055; France, $998,144. The rest of the import trade was with neighbouring South and Central American countries.

MR. A. F. Gault, the Canadian cotton millionaire, has presented $10,000 for the erection of a Church of England college in Montreal.

Thus reads a news item now going the rounds of the press. Can this be the Mr. Gault, asks the Brantford Expositor, who instigated, twice within a year, the cutting of the already slim wages of the cotton mill employees in Brantford on the plea of "hard times." The circumstance reminds one of the great music hall which a certain manufacturer erected in Toronto with the money of the farmers.

SPECULATION is rife as to who shall introduce Mr. McGreevy to the Commons. A Quebec paper expresses the opinion that he need not take his seat at all. But quite as interesting a question is, whether or not the Government will introduce a law which will make returning officers responsible for such a mistake as has brought about Mr. McGreevy's count in. It is about time the electoral law was touched up so far as this point is concerned.

THE New York Press says:—"We don't want Newfoundland at any price." This is very gratifying. There is a fable somewhere, suggests a contemporary, about a certain fox and some sour grapes.

COLLIDED IN THE BLACK SEA.

A Russian Warship Sinks a Mail Steamship.

Vienna, April 29.—A despatch from Sebastopol says the Russian warship Penderaklia of the Black Sea fleet, collided this morning with the Russian mail steamer Kotsebu, near Takshut Lighthouse. The Kotsebu filled rapidly. Most of the passengers and crew were taken on board the Penderaklia from the Kotsebu's deck, and others were picked up after she went down. Five men sank with the ship and were lost. The warship was damaged below the water line. She is an iron vessel, nearly 20 years old.

BURNED WHILE THEY SLEPT.

Two Hired Men Cremated in a Blazing Stable

New Haven, Conn., April 29.—Last night John Guyer of Milford lost his barn by fire. His hired man, Emil Furrer, and a friend, John Notter, were asleep in the burning building. Their charred remains were discovered in the ruins. The case is mysterious. Guyer's loss is $5000.

A Perfect Substitute for Nature's Food.

Doctors say: It is the Best in the World.

In the study of what constitutes proper infant nutrition, the most eminent medical authorities find there can be no correct theory except it be founded upon the study of the composition of human milk. A perfect infant nourisher has been given to mothers in the form of Lactated Food; and the success that has attended its use proves it to be the most successful ever introduced. Lactated Food is the nearest approach of all infant foods, to pure mother's milk, and possesses every important element found in nature's food. Canada's best and ablest physicians are prescribing Lactated Food every day, knowing it to be the best. Thousands of mothers throughout the country know well that Lactated Food is the life of every babe that cannot be fully nourished on mother's milk.

He Was Raised

From the Fearful Pit and Miry Clay of Disease.

Paine's Celery Compound Set him on the Rock of Health.

Indigestion, Stomach Troubles, Headache, Sleeplessness and Anxiety.

The Great Spring Medicine Sweeps Away these Troubles.

In almost every Canadian home, one or more members suffers from indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, nervousness or sleeplessness. In the great majority of cases the doctors have failed to effect a permanent cure, and the common patent medicines of our times have only prolonged suffering and agony.

How different the results with those who have used Paine's Celery Compound! They have in every case been raised to a condition of perfect health, robustness and mental vigour. Thousands of renewed and re-created men and women in Canada, will forever remember that their lives were saved and made happy by Paine's Celery Compound.

Mr. Hugh J. Riley, of 42 Agnes street, St. Henri, Montreal, is one of the many who have given public testimony for the benefit of sufferers in Canada. Mr. Riley writes as follows:

"I wish to publicly acknowledge the fact that I am indebted to your Paine's Celery Compound for health, strength and life. For over three years I was a terrible sufferer from indigestion, severe pains in the stomach and headache. In addition to these serious troubles, I had no appetite or relish for food, and hardly knew what it was to have a full night's rest. This condition of sleeplessness and anxiety made me very nervous, and I was fast becoming unfitted for my daily work. After all other medicines had failed, I was fortunately advised to use your Paine's Celery Compound; and now, I am delighted to declare that it has no equal in the world for removing such dangerous troubles as I suffered from. I am daily gaining in strength, sleep well every night, and my appetite is good and healthy. I strongly recommend Paine's Celery Compound to all who need a reliable and honest medicine, and one that is sure to cure."

Miss F. E. Marquis is in the neighbourhood and so all the latest styes of dresses will be seen in due time.

Mr. John English has engaged a horse driver, and it is his intention to fit a couple for drivers. That is very desirable, John, and you shall find that a good driving horse attracts the eye.

Mr. Jas. Lynn has in his possession a young bear. He is putting him through a course of training, and at present he performs a few feats which are considered good after only one month's training. Jimmy is now trying to make young bruin stand on his head, and thinks he will soon be successful.

While some hunters from Norwood were up hunting in Mr. A. Fife's neighbourhood a glance ball passed within a few yards of Mr. Fife, who was at work near his house. At this time of the year there is not much hunting to be done, and parties should practice themselves where nothing serious may occur.

NICARAGUA WILLING TO PAY

If Given Fifteen Days to Raise the $75,000.

HONDURAS MUST [illegible] NEXT

A Rebellion Against the Government Imminent and United States Warships Ordered to Greytown—A Settlement Expected in 48 Hours—A Rebellion Brewing

London, April 30.—A Managua despatch says: "At a late hour this evening President Zelaya received a telegram from Washington, stating that Great Britain would withdraw her ships from Corinto, and give Nicaragua 15 days in which to pay the $75,000 smart money if such a proposition would be accepted by the Nicaraguans. The despatch also states that so far as the remaining conditions in the ultimatum were concerned they would be so modified as to meet the objections of Nicaragua. It is understood that these positions are the result of the efforts of the United States to bring about a settlement of the pending difficulty in a manner alike honorable to both countries. Upon the receipt of the despatch President Zelaya at once held an audience with his principal advisers, and a reply will probably be made within a few hours. President Zelaya, it is believed, will be disposed to accept the terms outlined in the despatch. It will, however, require careful consideration owing to the intense hostility which exists against the British Government and the willingness on the part of some of the people to continue the struggle indefinitely.

A Rebellion Brewing

New York, April 30.—The Herald's Corinto news says the Opposition is taking advantage of the uneasiness to foment a rebellion against the Administration, and the Government is taking steps to nip it in the bud.

Rogoberto Cabezas, Governor of the Mosquito territory, has been recalled, but he refuses to surrender his authority. General Augustine Duarte, the new Governor, leaves to-day with a large number of men.

Business at Corinto is paralysed. The customs house and the postoffice both remain closed.

It is said that the British Consul at Managua has been handed his passport.

The English appear to be puzzled how to act. There is reason to believe that they will retaliate for the closing of the port of Corinto by blockading San Juan Del Sur, Greytown and Bluefields.

The running of all trains is suspended, and Corinto is practically in a state of siege. No one is allowed to bring provisions into the neighborhood, and supplies are running short.

The British are organising their government. An officer of the cruiser Royal Arthur says that the next two days will decide whether the British will occupy more territory, including Passo De Caballos, or withdraw altogether, as important telegrams are expected from England.

Official Announcement in the House.

London, April 30.—Sir Edward Grey, Parliamentary Secretary for Foreign Affairs, announced in the House yesterday that the Government had received despatches from Rear Admiral Stephenson at Corinto conveying information that that port had been occupied by the British on April 27, and that no opposition to its occupation had been made by the Nicaraguans. The despatches also stated that upon the landing of the British forces of sailors the Nicaraguan authorities withdrew from the town. To this announcement Sir Edward added the statement that care had been taken that British trade with Nicaragua should not be placed at the slightest disadvantage.

Sir William Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, moved that the remainder of the session be devoted wholly to the consideration of Government business.

Sir William Harcourt's motion was carried, 252 to 230, a Government majority of 22.

Sir Edward Grey, replying to a question as to the terms of British recognition of the republic of Hawaii, said that official recognition of the Hawaiian republic was given by Great Britain upon the stability of the form of government being ascertained. He knew of no precedent, he said, for the withdrawal of such recognition after it had been granted upon adequate knowledge of antecedent.

Referring to the situation in Nicaragua, Mr. William P. Ryles (Liberal) asked if the dispute could not be settled by arbitration. Sir Edward Grey requested Mr. Ryles to give notice of his intention to introduce a motion in accordance with his question.

U.S. GUNBOATS ORDERED OUT.

Stationed at Nicaragua Ports in Readiness for the Revolt.

Washington, April 30.—After several conferences to-day between Secretary Gresham and Secretary Herbert, the Secretary of the Navy sent despatches to the commanders of the United States gunboats Alert and [illegible], directing them to proceed without delay to San Juan del Sur and Greytown, Nicaragua, respectively. The Alert is at Panama, and will be in about 1 1-2 days in San Juan del Sur, which is the cable station nearest to Corinto, situated about 100 miles below that port. The Atlanta is at Key West, and can make the distance of 750 miles from that place to Greytown in 2 1-2 days.

When Secretary Herbert was asked the significance of these orders he answered: "The newspapers say that a revolution is probable in Nicaragua. They state that the people are very much dissatisfied with the course of the Government and are likely to attempt to overthrow it. In order to protect the interests of American citizens there their lives and property, and following the policy always pursued in such contingencies I have sent the Alert to San Juan del Sur, and the Atlanta to Greytown. In addition to these vessels the Montgomery, now at Mobile, will sail on May 7 for Greytown, conveying the Nicaraguan Canal Commission to that place. The Monterey, which has sailed for Panama, will remain at Panama for the present. With two United States ships on one side of Nicaragua and one ship on the other side, it is plain that American interests will be well protected if the rumored revolution should take place. But I wish it distinctly understood that these vessels are sent to Nicaragua for the purpose of caring for citizens of the United States and their interests, and not on any business connected with the situation at Corinto."

The Alert is one of the older vessels of the navy, an iron cruiser of 1020 tons displacement, and propelled by a single screw. Her main battery consists of four guns, and she does not compare favorably with either of the British ships now at Corinto, although she would probably not be overmatched by the Wild Swan, now at San Juan del Sur, the port of her destination.

While the policy of the Government in the trouble at Corinto is well understood, the first authoritative statement on the subject was not made until to-day. A Cabinet officer said that the United States could not interfere between Great Britain and Nicaragua in their matter of difference, because Nicaragua was a sovereign state, recognised as such by Great Britain, for offences committed against British subjects.

"The United States Government," he said, "does not undertake to extend a protectorate over Central America and South America to such an extent that a sovereign state of one or the other of these countries may insult another sovereign nation with the expectation that this Government will protect it from forcible resentment by the nation insulted. Such a principle has never been recognised by the United States, and if we attempted to assert it we would incur the enmity of every nation having dealings with Central and South America."

It is understood that the situation in Corinto has been relieved of much of its tension by an intimation cabled by Ambassador Bayard that in case Nicaragua would guarantee payment of the indemnity asked within 15 days, Great Britain would accede to a request for such an extension of time.

BRITISH PRESS COMMENTS.

The Proper Course Pursued Against the Insignificant, Insolent Republic.

London, April 30.—The occupation of the Nicaragua port, Corinto, by British, provoked various and voluminous comment from the London afternoon papers. The Pall Mall Gazette belittles the affair from all points of view, dismissing it with the remark that the object of Great Britain is merely to teach the little Spanish-American Republic manners, not to harm her. The memorial of President Zelaya, lamenting the insignificance and weakness of Nicaragua as compared with England, is, The Gazette says, simply laughable.

The Globe calls attention to the opera bouffe aspect of the affair, the interjection of the Monroe doctrine into which accentuates its ludicrous features. That doctrine, says The Globe, never had any convincing or binding effect upon anybody except Monroe himself, and is not now, if it ever has been, an axiom of international law. The paper condemns the bombastic utterances of certain American journals, and expresses gratification that in spite of them there is no desire on the part of the United States to quarrel with England over that presumed prohibitory doctrine.

The St. James Gazette, while regarding an alliance offensive and defensive with the United States as preferable to a similar understanding with any other country, believes that a standing pact of such a character is a bad thing inasmuch as both parties to such a convention would naturally act together only in certain matters. Seeing that American and British interests in South America are identical, and that England has no intention of making conquests anywhere on the American Continent, there is no ground for American jealousy. It is merely the desire of both powers to conduct their trade peacefully, and both happen to be hampered by the anarchy prevalent in Spanish America. England is disposed to accept the co-operation of the United States to correct this if the latter is inclined to act in concert. Alliance in this direction would be welcome.

Further than this, The St. James Gazette declares in another article that Great Britain has taken the proper and only possible way in the premises against an insignificant, insolent, impudent, arrogant and anarchical little South American Republic. The basis of the trouble seems to be in this case, as in others, that these barbarian Governments rely upon United States protections; otherwise they would behave themselves. Moreover, the Monroe doctrine has been the peg upon which they have hung their absurdities of speech and action. The idea that they seek to convey is that the American Government is ready to afford protection to every South American half-breed who feels like robbing a European.

"These fellows," The Gazette says, in conclusion, "erroneously fancy that the electioneering bombastes furioso of American journalism utter the sentiment of the Federal Government, but the insolence and aggressions of the Venezuelans and Nicaraguans and others of their kind must be stopped. It is understood that the work in this direction begun with Nicaragua will be continued with Venezuela."

MAY COLLECT FROM HONDURAS.

Britain May Take Steps to Make the Hondurans Republic Pay Up.

London, April 29.—Representatives of Guatemala, who are acting also for Honduras, have been informed by the authorities of the latter country that Great Britain is preparing to take aggressive measures for the collection of the interest on Hondurian bonds negotiated in England, upon which that republic defaulted nearly 20 years ago. The interest and principal in arrears, it was said, will amount to between £20,000 and £30,000 per annum, and the negotiation is to collect the revenue of Honduran ports until some portion of the overdue interest at least is paid.

The Trouble and Its Origin.

Washington, April 30.—The news from London that Great Britain now contemplates a movement against Honduras to collect overdue interest on bonds negotiated in London 20 years ago adds gravity to the situation. The principal ports of Honduras liable to blockade or occupation are Ampala, on the Pacific Coast, and Trujillo, on the Atlantic. One of the trans-Isthmian Canal projects, which at one time was favorably considered, was the construction of a canal, 200 miles in extent, over Hondurian territory, from Puerto Cortes, in the Bay of Honduras, to the Bay of Fonseca, in the Pacific.

The present trouble between Honduras and Great Britain had its origin in 1868, when a British company was granted a concession to construct a railroad from Puerto Cortes to the Bay of Fonseca, a distance of 240 miles. The work was begun and sixty miles of the road completed. Then $30,000,000 worth of bonds were sold and operations were abandoned. Since that time the Government of Honduras has repeatedly attempted to reach an arrangement with the bondholders, so as to complete the road. In the meantime the enormous debt has been a bar to the country's advancement, and the Government has been unable to even pay the interest. The sixty miles of road are now operated by W. S. Valentine of New York, who hopes to complete the road to the Pacific when the difficulties shall have been adjusted.

A large proportion of the whole commerce of Honduras is with the United States, the imports from this country for 1891 amounting to $1,159,591, and in 1893 $684,912. The exports from Honduras were in 1891, $649,521, and in 1893, $471,693.

LOCAL NEWS

DURWARD LELY COMING.

It is gratifying to learn that nearly sufficient signatures have been secured to the guarantee list which has been in circulation, to warrant the engagement of Durward Lely, the eminent Scottish tenor, well known from his engagements with Patti, and that he has promised to come to Peterborough and sing in the Opera House on Thursday evening, May 9th. Mr. Lely is admitted by Scotsmen all the world over to be the finest living exponent of Scottish song, and in this respect the genuine successor of their great national vocalists Templeton, Wilson, Kennedy and Corbett. For the last few months he has aroused Scottish sentiment to white heat in all the leading cities of the United States. The guarantee list is still open for subscribers at Mr. H. S. Macdonald's drug store, and although an unusually large number of signatures have been secured, more are needed. The plan of the reserved seats will be open for one week, commencing Friday morning, at 10 o'clock. It is expected there will be a large and select attendance at this concert. The tickets have been placed at 50c, 35c and 25c, and a rare treat may be expected by all lovers of artistic singing.

Art Silks.

On Saturday Miss Melville will sell Art Silks, all colours, for 75c., worth $1.

Now for a snap! Cracking value in men's fashionably-trimmed, hand-made and tailor-cut Suits, at Grafton & Co's.

$100 a Yard.

Times are not hard with everybody. The other day a customer from the country bought at W. A. Murray & Co.'s, Toronto, 42 yards of real point lace at $100 a yard, total $475, and paid cash for the order, too.

Ladies and Gentlemen

Have you bought anything at the new confectionery and fruit store, in Lynch's block, 170 Hunter street, opposite the Oriental? You can depend on everything being good, fresh and nice. Comfortable lunch room in rear.—H. M. LEGAULT. dtf

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

Tuesday, April 29.—At this morning's observation the self-registering thermometer indicated 43 degrees above zero, with some prospects of coming rain. Yesterday was the hottest day yet, going up to 75 degrees in the afternoon.—THOS. TELFORD.

The Ashburnham Fire.

The reports that Messrs. Bickle & Fitzgerald's stock of cheese supplies, rennet, annato, boxes, etc., were completely destroyed by the fire in Ashburnham on Sunday morning are incorrect, as after the fire it was found that a large quantity was uninjured, and they are in a position to fill all orders with which they may be favoured.

We are Downing Prices.

At the bottom means lowest prices with Gough Bros. They are always at the bottom so far as prices are concerned. A complete summer outfit bought at Gough Brothers—including coat, pants and vest, hat or cap, boots or shoes—will not cost within a five dollar bill of what it will cost elsewhere, at separate stores—that is, the clothing bought at one store, the hat or cap at another, and the boots and shoes at another. See if it don't.—GOUGH BROS.

St. Andrew's Y.P.S.C.E.

This society held their consecration meeting last night, which was well attended. Miss Forsythe conducted the opening exercises, after which the meeting was in the hands of the prayer meeting. The topic, "Communion with Christ," was ably dealt with by Miss E. White. All were much benefitted by the words spoken. Interest still continues to grow, and we trust it will be continued. There were two active members received into the society last night. This is encouraging to the members.

A Clever Millbrook Boy.

Mr. Fred Clary, formerly of Millbrook, but at present of Osgoode Hall, Toronto, who composed the "Brownie's Parade," has just issued a march which he dedicates to the Ontario Jockey Club, and designates the "O. J. C. March." The prelude is brilliant, and in the composition a style distinctly original pervades the entire march, through which so decidedly catchy an air runs as to ensure it prompt recognition by the public. The composition suits admirably for a Jersey, and bids fair to become most popular amongst lovers of the Terpischorean art.

The Sixth Anniversary.

To-morrow will be the sixth anniversary of the episcopal consecration of His Lordship Bishop O'Connor and Pontificial mass will be celebrated at nine in the morning, at the Cathedral. This evening a reception will be tendered His Lordship at the convent.

Young Women's Association.

Bible study this evening beginning at eight o'clock. Cordial invitation to all young women.

Remember Thursday evening in the rooms. Let there be a large number present to enjoy the music, recitations and social intercourse. No admission fee or collections.

A Small Voyager.

While the fire was going on Sunday morning across the river, a young lady, who was assisting to keep the fire from making a headway down the lane through the sawdust, noticed a rat swimming for its life in the race. On catching hold of a floating plank it climbed aboard and was whirled away down the Otonabee. No doubt by this time it is registered at Jubilee.

Hotel Licenses.

The License Commissioners of West Peterborough meet at ten o'clock to-morrow morning. All licenses have to be taken out by Wednesday, May 1st, and the Inspector will be in his office all day to-morrow, for the accommodation of those coming in at the last moment. Mr. Cochrane says he wishes it distinctly understood that hotels not taking out a license to-morrow will be closed up.

A Montana Marriage.

A Montana, U. S., paper records the marriage at Hamilton, in that state, of Dr. Geo. McGrath, of Hamilton, to Miss Lulu A. Huffman, of Peterborough. The groom is a brother of Dr. McGrath, town, and the bride well known in town. The ceremony was performed on Easter Sunday last at St. Xavier's Church, by Rev. Father Rene, to the accompaniment of beautiful music by the choir.

Hales' Bridge now Completed.

A party of eleven were taken down to Hales Bridge, last evening, by Mr. R. M. Roy in his steam yacht. The bridge was inspected by Mr. John Belcher, C. E. who expressed his great satisfaction at the neat manner in which the work had been carried through to completion. It is understood that he will at once officially recommend the county to accept the bridge as being satisfactory. The structure was erected by the Central Bridge Company and will be a standing advertisement for the workmanship of this noted Peterborough manufactory. Mr. W. H. Law formed one of the party who visited the bride yesterday.

The Houghton's at the Opera.

The Houghton Dramatic Company opened a week's stand at the opera house last evening by presenting the "Golden Giant" in a manner which won them great favour in the eyes of a large audience. A percentage of the receipts will be given to the ex-employees of the Canadian General Electric Company, as stated, and doubtless in making the donation the company will be casting its bread upon the waters, and reap its reward in having large houses for the rest of the week. The Fire Brigade Band was present and played the overture, and the performance as presented by the company won them much well-merited applause.

Presbyterian Women.

Last week's issue of the Canadian Presbyterian was noteworthy owing to increase of size and the special interest and value of the contents. It contained a complete report of the annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, extending to fourteen columns. Every member of this important Society should have a copy. Other useful features are the Christian Endeavour Department, by Rev. W. S. McTavish, B.D., St. George; the Sabbath School Lesson, by Rev. W. A. J. Martin, of Toronto; and letters from missionaries in the foreign fields. "Sundays in Scotland" is a bright description of several ministers and churches in the motherland of so many Canadians. All the regular departments are unusually full. The publishers offer a trial subscription till 1st January next for one dollar.

Why Lord Aberdeen is Popular.

A correspondent writes from Tweed as follows:—If politeness consists in forgetfulness of self, and in trying to serve others, then surely Lord Aberdeen, the Governor General must be a perfect model of a polite man. Whilst the palace car of His Excellency was halting at the Tweed station for a few minutes, the other day, a circumstance occurred which strikingly confirmed this. As the Rev. Edward Cragg, well known in Peterborough, was crossing the track, the wind, which was blowing somewhat violently, took off his hat and carried it with considerable force from him. Mr. Cragg, who is very active for his years, made a lively chase, but was outstripped and badly beaten by an erect and handsome athlete, an unmistakable gentleman, who quickly recovered the vagrant head-piece, and after brushing it with his coat sleeve, with a polite bow, and a few pleasant words, returned it to its owner. The handsome, polite gentleman and successful hat retriver was the the Governor General, Lord Aberdeen.

THE ELECTRIC WORKS DIFFICULTY.

The works of the Canadian General Electric Company in Peterborough have been closed down for a month—a circumstance that practically nullified the action of the Citizens Committee of Conciliation in securing any immediately definite result of their mission yesterday. The probabilities point to the withdrawal of the original agreement, and indicate that the men to be employed upon the resumption of the works, will be asked to sign an agreement on the line of Mr. General Manager Nicholls' modified agreement, as outlined in his letter to Acting Mayor Cahill.

In the present position of affairs as shown by the abortive visit of the citizens committee to the Superintendent of the Works, it would seem that the best plan for the employees to adopt is to have recourse to "The Ontario Trade Disputes, Conciliation and Arbitration Act." This act, which was passed in 1894, provides that claims and disputes such as the Electric works present difficulty, come under the following sub-section of section 3, which specifies what matters properly come under the act:

(2.) Damage alleged to have been done to work, delay in furnishing the same, not furnishing the same in a good and workmanlike manner, or according to agreement, or a dispute respecting material supplied to employees and alleged to be bad, or unfit, or unsuitable.

The Act further provides for the appointment of a "Council of Conciliation" consisting of four persons, two nominated by each of the parties to the dispute, and invests the Council of Conciliation with the necessary powers and machinery for the effectual consideration and determination of the matters at issue.

This wise and commendable legislation provides that when either or both parties to a dispute are obstinate, and that the circumstances are such that a friendly settlement cannot be arrived at by mutual concessions, that a legal body is empowered to settle the difficulty—a body with all the essentials of judicially and impartially passing upon the matters submitted with a view of full justice being done in the premises without bias or favour.

A SUBSTANTIAL INCREASE IN POPULATION.

Peterborough's Assessment Rolls all Returned—A Few Figures.

Appended will be found a few figures extracted from the town assessment rolls which have just been returned. A reference to the figures in the recapitulation will show that Peterborough's population has increased by 147 souls since the census of 1894—a steady growth:

ANOTHER MAY WEDDING.

Celebration of the McCallum-Lambe Nuptials This Afternoon.

The nuptials of Mr. Will J. McCallum and Miss Annie Lambe were celebrated this afternoon at three o'clock, at the residence of the bride's cousin, Mr. Robert Morrison, of Wescott street.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. Rae, in the presence of a few of the most intimate friends of the contracting parties. The bride was handsomely gowned in cream satin and looked charming indeed.

Mr. and Mrs. McCallum left on the 4.48 C.P.R. express for Toronto, Hamilton, Brantford and other points west.

GENERAL SIR HENRY HAVELOCK, THE CHRISTIAN SOLDIER.

This Was the Subject of a Lecture Delivered by Rev. J. E. Trotter, Last Night.

The Young Peoples' Society of the Murray street Baptist church has introduced an arrangement into their schedule of meetings, which has a species of novelty in it and prove interesting and at the same time instructive. The meetings of the society are held every Monday evening, but as there are five Monday's in some months it has been thought wise to vary the programme by introducing some innovation at these fifth Monday evening meetings.

The meeting last evening partook of this character and the programme consisted in an address by Rev. J. E. Trotter, on "General Sir Henry Havelock, the Christian Soldier."

The stirring events in connection with the Burman War, the retreat from Cabul, the Relief of Lucknow, etc., in all of which Havelock figured, proved a recital of rare interest. Again and again during the course of the lecture was the audience thrilled by the relation of the triumphs of the British arms against stupendous odds at Lucknow, and the awful massacre of 16,000 English soldiers in the fatal retreat from Cabul. The history of the Indian campaign was depicted in the most graphic terms. As centring around the figure of the subject of the sketch, the most brilliant portion of whose career was in connection with the Sepoy rebellion in 1857, the Conquest of Cawnpore and the Relief of Lucknow.

After dealing with the character of the great Havelock thus generally, the speaker in closing his lecture particularised by speaking of the General's loyalty to duty being his his distinguishing feature. His character as a man was dealt with, and also as a soldier. In the latter capacity he was a rigid disciplinarian, requiring implicit obedience to orders, but what he demanded of his subordinates he was always ready to yield to his superior officers.

In the address General Havelock's character as a Christian was especially emphasised.

PERSONAL.

Miss M. Armstrong, of Peterborough, who is recovering from a serious illness, is visiting her brother in-law, Mr. Archambault.—Lindsay Post.

The Port Hope Guide says: Miss Cheate, who has been visiting friends in Peterborough and Warsaw for several months past arrived home to-day. She has had a delightful time while away.

In the competition at Albert College, Belleville, for Rev. E. N. Baker's prize of $10 in gold, given for pulpit oratory, there was a close contest, there being no less than fourteen competitors. The judges were Rev. E. N. Baker, Mr. Ritchie and Mr. Ponton, all of Belleville. The award was made to Mr. D. G. Harrison, a former resident of Peterborough.

The announcement of the marriage of Mr. E. B. Edwards to Miss Harriet Frances Brown, daughter of the late Edward W. Brown, formerly of "Goodwood," Douro, will call forth cordial congratulations from their friends. The ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Dr. Torrance, took place at the residence of A. C. Dunlop, Esq. this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

No Hackneyed Offer Here.

Something that no other clothiers can do. A suit of boy's clothes—a coat, a pair of pants, another pair thrown in, a cap thrown in—all for $4.25. That is, a cap, coat and two pairs of pants for the price of the coat and one pair of pants. What more do mothers want. This is GOUGH BROTHERS' offer and holds good for a month.

Quick Work.

On February 27th, the office and entire plant of the Folding Sawing Machine Company, of Chicago was destroyed in the great fire on the West Side, which involved a total loss to manufacturing interests of $750,000. Notwithstanding the fact that it was necessary for above mentioned company to have malleable castings made, which usually takes about four weeks, this company, with commendable enterprise, shaped matters so they were able to fill orders in just 21 days from the date of the fire. This was certainly quick work, and the gentlemen connected with this company deserve a great deal of credit for their energy and push. Their new address is Folding Sawing Machine Company, 64 and 66 So. Clinton street, Chicago. 3d100

ST. JOHN'S ADJOURNED VESTRY MEETING.

Rev. C. B. Kenrick Resigns His Cure—He Has Been Appointed to the Rectory of St. Mark's, Port Hope—A Tribute to His Faithful Service—Reports Presented Indicate a General Prosperous Condition of Church Interests.

The adjourned Vestry meeting of St. John's took place last night in the school house, the rector in the chair.

After devotions

The matter of electing a representative of St. John's on the Nicholls Hospital Board came up. Mr. Poussette, retiring representative, suggested that an effort be made to have instituted a day to be called Hospital Sunday, the proceeds of the offertory to be devoted outside the objects of the general funds of the Hospital.

Mr. Poussette was re-elected representative of St. John's on the Trust Board.

Mr. Fair moved, seconded by Mr. Poussette, the adoption of the Warden's statement of St. John's church and South Ward Mission, held over from the Easter Vestry meeting.

Mr. Dennistoun said he had made arrangements by which the year book could be printed for $30, by having the financial statement already printed, form a part of that book.

The report was adopted.

On motion Mr. Fred Foote's name was added to the list of sidesmen.

THE RECTOR'S REPORT.

The rector presented his report showing as far as outward indications went there was a slight falling off—that is in the matter of Holy Communion, there had been for the first time in six years a falling off in the number of communicants at St. John's, though the ground in this respect had been maintained at the Mission. The report spoke of the increased heartiness and interest of the public services, though there was a regrettable lack of interest in the week day services. Recognition of the heartiness with which the congregation supported the special Lenten services was heartily made. In the references made to special services particular mention was made of the open-air service held on Good Friday at the South Ward school, a departure, however, in line with the duty of the Church.

Regret was expressed that there had been a decline of organized work on the part of the women. The Girls' Guild had given place to the Young People's Society, which, however excellent, does not take the place in the field of special work, of the Girls' Guild. After further reference to parochial work the Rector said he read with the keenest regret, which he could not by any means express, the following letter:

MR. KENRICK'S RESIGNATION.

To the Rector and Members of the Congregation of St. John's Church, Peterborough:

It is my duty to acquaint you with the fact that I have accepted the Rectory of St. Mark's Church, Port Hope, and that I propose leaving Peterborough in the middle of June. During the six years and four months that I have been among you I have learned to love this town and parish, and the work which it has been my privilege to do among you. It is, therefore, with feelings of sorrowful regret that I contemplate my departure from among you. But I am acting in accordance with the dictates of my conscience, and I believe that the step which I have taken is for the best. Strong pressure has been brought to bear upon me by the Rector and others to induce me to reconsider my determination, but I cannot see my way to changing my resolve. Let me say again, however, that I cannot leave you all without pain, while I pray that the severance of the ties between us may be for the best interests of all.

Believe me,

Faithfully your servant,
C. B. KENRICK.

Peterborough, April 29th, 1895.

The reading of this letter was heard with the greatest regret by the large number present, and the Rector had difficulty in controlling his feelings when he referred in terms of warm commendation to the work Mr. Kenrick had done. He had come among us four years ago, and his work had been substantially recognized as well as heartily commended. The Rector said that at the moment he could not refer fully to to the special work which Mr. Kenrick had covered—especially in connection with the choir, where his place could not possibly be filled. His work among young men, in its earnestness, devotion and unobtrusive kindness, was well known to the congregation. Feeling reference was also made to the unity that had characterized the association in work of himself and Mr. Kenrick.

The matter of the resignation was referred to a special committee consisting of Messrs. Poussette, Rush and the Churchwardens.

The committee subsequently reported the following resolution:

Resolved,—That this Vestry has learned with unfeigned regret of the resignation of the Rev. C. B. Kenrick, who, during the six years of his Curacy, has been indefatigable in the discharge of the important duties which have devolved upon him and who by his lively interest in the boys and young men of the Parish and by his constant intercourse with and unceasing hospitality to them has, it is felt, been able to lead many of them in the path of rectitude, not only by the inculcation of manly virtues but by an example of patience and amiability. This Vestry cannot permit Mr. Kenrick to depart from Peterborough without expressing its deep appreciation of his untiring devotion to his work, which, they believe, has in no small measure contributed to the present satisfactory condition of the parish. The excellence of the Choir of St. John's has become a by-word throughout the diocese, and this is entirely due to Mr. Kenrick's skill and tact as a choirmaster. While congratulating him upon his well deserved promotion to the position of rector, although accepting much smaller emolument, the Vestry feel that Mr. Kenrick has again evinced, as he has throughout his residence among us, his complete unselfishness and disregard for pecuniary considerations when concerned with a call to his Master's service. The Vestry will long keep in affectionate remembrance the years that Mr. Kenrick has passed in this Parish, and they unite in the prayer that God's richest blessings may rest upon the work in which he is about to engage.

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORT.

Mr. Walkey, Lay Superintendent, presented the report of the Sunday School, which presented that important adjunct to church work in a favourable and prosperous light. The past year had been a most prosperous one. There was a need of more workers and also of parental encouragement. The finances were in a good condition, there being a balance in the bank of $630.49. The help given in the work of the Sunday School by the Boys' Chapter of St. Andrew's Brotherhood was warmly recognized.

In acknowledging a hearty vote of thanks to the Superintendent and Librarians, Mr. Walkey said that the great amount of credit was due to the clerical superintendent, Rev. C. B. Kenrick. (Applause.)

Mr. H. Varues presented the report of the choir, which showed the finances to be in a good condition, with a surplus of $16.45. The report referred to the great assistance given by Mr. Kenrick, whose help had been invaluable. The report was adopted.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY.

Mrs. G. A. Smith, president, presented the report of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's. Fifty-two poor families had been helped with clothing, there had been collected for missions $296.11—and there was a balance on hand of $8.27. Report adopted.

Miss Chamberlen, president, presented the statement of the south ward Women's Auxiliary. The amount of cash collected and procured was $75.01, with a balance on hand of $20.48. The Children's Guild, of the south ward Mission, reported by Miss J. E. Layfield, president, that there was $29.18 in the treasury. The reports were adopted.

Mr. W. D. Parker presented the report of St. Andrew's Brotherhood Chapter, which evidenced a healthy and helpful existence of that important aid to the clergy to which warm tribute was paid by the Rector.

Mr. Walter English presented the report of the first annual meeting of the Young People's Association. The present membership was 70. The report was adopted.

The reports, as a whole, were referred to Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, who was re-appointed editor of the church year book, and after prayer, the meeting adjourned.

PROF. JOHN RUSKIN'S LETTER.

In "Arrows of the Chase," a collection of the published letters of Prof. John Ruskin, reference is made to the Misses Webling, who appear here under the auspices of the Hockey club, on Monday next, as follows:

To Mr. R. J. Webling, Sheffield:

DEAR SIR,—I am most happy to assure you, in reply to your interesting letter of the 12th, that I heard your daughters' recitations in London, last autumn, with quite unmixed pleasure and the sincerest admiration, nor merely that, but with grave change in my opinions of the general value of recitations as a means of popular instruction; usually, I like better to hear beautiful poetry read quietly than recited with action, but I felt in hearing Shelly's Cloud recited, (I think it was by Miss Rosalind) that I also was "one of the people," and understood the poem better than ever before, though I am by way of knowing something about clouds too. I also know the "Jack-daw of Rheims" pretty nearly by heart, but I would gladly come to London straightway, had I the time, to hear Miss Peggy speak it again. And—in fine—I have not seen any public entertainment for many a long year—at once so sweet, so innocent, and so helpful, as that which your children can give to all the gentle and simple in mind and heart.

Believe me, my dear sir, faithfully and with all felicitation, yours,

JOHN RUSKIN.

THE ELECTRIC WORKS DIFFICULTY.

What Was Done—or Rather Not—Done at the Conference of the Civic Committee With the Superintendent.

The deputation of citizens, appointed at the mass meeting on Thursday night to mediate between the ex-employees and management of the Canadian General Electric Works, composed of Messrs. D. W. Dumble, chairman, Mayor Hall, Thos. Cahill, Andrew Macfarlane, B. Smartly, J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., and Adam Dawson, met Mr. Stephens, Superintendent, at the offices of the Works, at 3 o'clock, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Dumble explained the object of the meeting—to endeavour to remove the difficulties that separated the company and the employees.

The members of the deputation successively addressed the Superintendent on the subject, which is so well known now to our citizens—pointing out the hardship of men being required to sign a card of the nature of that presented them for signature on April 11th. Representations were made to the effect that, in the interests of the men, the Company and the town, the modifications in the original agreement, offered by the General Manager, Mr. Nicholls, should be accepted as a solution of the existing difficulty.

At the outset of the interview, in reply to Mr. Dumble, the Superintendent stated that the works were closed for a month, and that there were no employees to deal with; and, at the conclusion of the remarks made by the committee, the Superintendent stated that "his tongue was practically tied,"—that he had been grossly misrepresented during the past few days, and that he would, within the next thirty days, send a reply in writing to the chairman of the committee, Mr. Dumble.

The solicitor of the company, Mr. E. H. D. Hall, was present during the interview.

The committee retired, feeling that the spirit of conciliation with which they had made the visit, was by no means effusively reciprocated.

THE WHEEL.

First Citizen—It is not enough that bicycles should carry bells; the law should enforce a regular system of signals that all can understand.

Second Citizen—What would you suggest?

First Citizen—Well, I don't know exactly, but it might be something like this: One ring, stand still; two rings, dodge to the right; three rings, dive to the left; four rings, jump straight up and I'll run under you; five rings, turn a back somersault and land behind me; and so on. You see, us folks who walk are always glad to be accommodating, but the trouble is to find out what the fellow behind wants us to do.

President Doolittle of the Canadian Wheelmens Association has returned from Montreal, where he has been interviewing the railway authorities with reference to the accommodation of touring wheelmen. An arrangement will be made whereby every station agent will be supplied with the name and address of the local C. W. A. Consul. Tourists leaving the railway at any station will thus be able to find at once the local representative of the C. W. A., who will furnish all information as to the routes and roads.

In addition, the President will be able to furnish to all parties of eight or more who may give him ten days' notice, guides who will pilot tourists in any part of Ontario without any expense to the tourists.

The necessity of applying to every municipality and every toll road company for permission to erect the C.W.A. guide boards will prevent that scheme from being carried out in its entirety this season. In the meantime all the main roads will be placarded by permission of the owners of the adjoining lands, the signs being put up just inside the fences. Next year the C.W.A. will have a bill put through enabling the association to put up signs along the roads without a special and individual application, as in the case of telephone and telegraph companies.

Mr. Geo. H. Orr, chairman of the Racing Board, will in future issue a weekly bulletin modelled after that of the Chairman of the American Racing Board. The L.A.W. loop which had been intended to run through Canada for two weeks in August will be curtailed to six days. It is probable that the C.W.A. will arrange a circuit similar to that which had been proposed for the L.A.W., covering the same route and in a measure compensate for the failure of the "American circus" to appear.

Jack Lenty, Captain of the Cobourg Bicycle Club, and W. R. Kirkpatrick, of the same club, made the run from that place to Toronto on Sunday. They covered the distance (73 miles) between 10.30 a.m. and 5.30 p.m., and report the roads in excellent condition.

CRICKET.

Even cricket has caught a little of the enthusiastic feeling which pervades athletic circles this spring. The local club has rented the P.A.A.A. grounds for the season and will open them for practice on Thursday next. The grounds this year will be used only by the cricketers. Arrangements are being made for the season's fixtures and the schedule of matches will be published shortly. In the meantime the following practice matches have been arranged:

1. Colts vs. Veterans, May 8th and 15th.
2. President vs. Vice-President, May 22nd and 29th.
3. Bachelors vs. Benedicts, June 5th and 12th.
4. Bankers & Lawyers vs. Town, June 19th and 26th.

At the meeting of the managing committee last night Mr. C. McGill's resignation of the presidency of the club was received and Mr. R. B. Rogers was elected to fill the position. Mr. N. St. C. Gurd was chosen to succeed Mr. Rogers as Secretary.

One of the greatest factors which worked against the progress of cricket in Peterborough of late years has been the fact that practices were held only in the afternoons. Many enthusiastic cricketers were shut out from indulging in their favourite pastime through being unable to leave business in the afternoon. As the cricketers have assumed sole control of the grounds this year the crease will be used in the evenings as well as the afternoons, and in consequence the membership roll of the club has increased considerably since a decision in the matter has been reached.

GAUDAUR IS READY.

Orillia, April 29.—Jake Gaudaur was seen to-day in reference to Rogers' challenge for a race for the championship of America, and he said he was only too happy to accommodate the Saratoga oarsman. "I will row Mr. Rogers for $1,000 a side at the Belleville regatta, which will come off about the middle of July. I have just received an offer from Belleville guaranteeing a purse of $750 for the championship, and with the stakes Mr. Rogers will be able to go home with $2,700 if he can beat me."

—Just try a "Sir Robert Peel" Cigar after supper to-night. You will be delighted with both the flavour and the price—only five cents for a ten cent Havana, at BILLY MORGAN'S, the barber. d
—The young ladies in connection with St. Luke's Girl's Guild will hold a moon-"at home" on the Little Lake, per steamer Daisy with a palace scow attached, some evening next week, particulars of which will appear in THE EXAMINER later on.
—Motor men on electric street car lines are afflicted with a new malady termed "trolley foot." The alarm gong is rung by pressing a button in the floor of the platform, and the constant exercise brings new muscles into play and the men are troubled with soreness and stiffness in the right foot and ankle. Of course the soreness soon wears off.
—We hear of cases where the injudicious use of town water by young people has resulted in the besprinkling of passers-by, both gentlemen and ladies, and in the case of the latter, to the detriment of their dresses. Though due to carelessness and not intention, the discomfort to the passer-by remains, and the use of the hose should not be entrusted to any but capable hands.

CATARRH.

The New Remedy

Scores Benefitted by its use.

Belleville, May 20th, 1893.

I was troubled with catarrh of the head and throat for at least 10 years. I have spent hundreds of dollars with doctors and medicines of all kinds; I found plenty to give me temporary relief, but none to cure me. I tried one bottle of LOUTTIT'S CURE, it helped me and I continued its use. Eight bottles cured me, and at present I feel safe in saying that any person suffering with catarrh, that will give this treatment a proper trial and stick to it, will be permanently cured.

Those wishing any further information may write me or consult me and I will be pleased to state my case more fully.

Yours very truly,

WOMEN MADE BEAUTIFUL

THE APOTHEOSIS CAN BE MADE WITHOUT FACTITIOUS AICS.

Capabilities In Herself—How Art of Pantomime May be Used as an Element in a ocial Education.

Theophile Gautier had a horror of old age and human ugliness. That, indeed, is quite feminine, but while the great harmonist in words was actuated by a purely artistic sense woman is not. It is solely a matter of personal concern to her. It is vanity—a quality which, by the way, is responsible for many of her charms, her social excellencies, her complete lovability. This may sound like a polite fallacy, but it isn't.

A homely woman is sadly handicapped, and yet I have seen many such develop into very pretty creatures through proper training. Pantomining in its present perfection is much more than an ordinary theatrical accomplishment. It is one of the subtlest of arts, to which are brought a quick sympathy and comprehension and an adaptability as quick as thought itself.

THE GOLDEN SECRET.

In Europe it is no uncommon thing for women of high social position to study the art as a part of their polite education. It gives polish poise and symmetry. It broadens, expands and at the same time softens a personality. It makes continual harmony, running from inflection to inflection with perfect rhythm. Its golden secret is in curves, to which the body gives expression.

My scheme of training for any one desirous of following it would be to begin first with the arms and legs. Endeavor to walk with the body well balanced and supple—turning slowly, first with the left foot forward and then the right should come in for much practice. This may perhaps seem a very simple matter, but feet that are uneducated often have a habit of throwing their owners in awkward positions.

The greatest difficulty in the training of the hands lies in the fingers. They should be able to move entirely independent of one another. And this is not easy of accomplishment. Fingers of the ordinary persons are stiff jointed, but once under control are capable of a variety of shadings that are important in a complete picture.

COQUETRY IN A HAND.

There is just as much coquetry in a hand as there is in a fan, and it is much more telling, because it is human. The day may yet come when my lady can flash the music and sentiment of De Musset from her finger tips. No such diversion is mine. It is business with me, and yet a business not mixed with a certain sentiment, for I am the creature of the author whose work I delineate.

I have sometimes given fifteen hours a day practice to the hands alone. Especially when cold attacks the muscles of the wrist this is made absolutely necessary. Of course, to a person in private life this would not be essential; to the artist this is different.

With the adaptability of the hands and arms comes the training of the body in concord of action. It may be of interest to know that it is contrary to a fixed rule—and an excellent one, too—to cross the body with either of the arms. It has been done in some rare cases, but the action is calculated to make a discord.

I come now to the most important feature—the face. Of what depth and variety of expression the eyes are capable poets have sung for ages, and every day life furnishes us with numberless examples. They are the changeful jewels of womanhood, that tell the truth of her being—and quite frequently, too, silent, lily-hued lies.

There are eyes which, though they are jewels, do not often sparkle and which tell, if they tell at all, a quite commonplace tale. But the possibilities are there. A friend of mine, who is an enthusiast, once told me that the eye of fate could be so trained as to melt all its fearsomeness into the languor of poetry. Perhaps!

Practice with the eyes is comparatively easy to one apt at expression, but the method is just as severe as that applied to the fingers. Anything approaching perfection demands that the eyes should follow the general rule, and be able to describe the curve, to which the art owes its contour. I am perhaps a little vague, but the action must be seen to be appreciated.

WOMEN WITH SPEAKING EYES.

All eyes can be trained so as to be capable of all the delicacy of expression possessed by words. And this perfection, I should judge, is one that all women would desire. I have read of women who had "speaking eyes," and these should not be the particular endowment from a novelist, but, indeed, should be so natural to all women that the fact would be a foregone conclusion.

Some of those natural "speaking eyes," I imagine as a result of not being trained, are limited in their expression and often what they do say is silly and uninteresting. If many eyes expressed what their owners wanted to say there would be some odd looking persons in the world. And here is where the art of pantomime comes in. It enables one to conceal as well as to reveal. An untrained "speaking eye," like an untrained tongue, is very often apt to cause trouble.

I have known some artists who have put their faces through exercise for plasticity until the muscles actually ached. The muscles of my face are so pliable that I have suffered severely from neuralgia there. This, however, should not deter any amateur who desires to cultivate expression. Such a condition and liability are only acquired after years of incessant practice, and that would be far more than any society woman would need.

If the art of pantomime pure and simple were applied to the parlor the result might be startling, but I emphatically hold that modified to such conditions it is one of the necessities of refinement.

For instance, in a mere technical sense, a volume could be written upon the method of smiling, and yet that is something so simple and natural that we never give it a thought when we are moved by some quip or clever mot, or even by the spirit of coquetry that is inherent in all women.

TWO NOTED NATURAL PANTOMIMISTS.

Mmes. de Stael and Pompadour, I am led to believe, were natural pantomimists, and made the art conserve to much of their brilliancy and success. They possessed grace, with tact and the power to keep all of a circle of men interested at the same time. The nature of man is such that neither of these clever women could have done this with mere words alone or the originality with which they treated any subject under discussion.

There must have been something else equally vital—something as powerful as thought, yet more tangible. And this must have been pantomime, the expression of it, which these women must have adopted to meet many a situation. There is no reason why the same thing should not be done to-day, unless it be the purely masculine objection that it would render women more baffling, subtle and elusive.

And now we come to the homely woman again. There is really no reason why she should despair. Let her not put her faith in the youthful seductions of the "make-up" box. Nature has placed at her disposal gifts which, if developed, will render her charming and enable her to throw off her unattractiveness with as much ease as Faust discarded the snowy burden of his old age.

And no Mephistopheles will there be to foreclose his debt on the homely woman. What power she invoked would be her own, and the only debt she would incur would be for instruction. Let her learn by all means.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says: "A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the varioloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Weber, Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

WOMAN ON THE BICYCLE.

Advice That Should Make Her Attractive and Graceful on the Wheel.

Some women deprive themselves of the pleasure of riding a bicycle on account of the awkward appearance presented by a good many feminine riders, especially those who go along with knees rising and falling laboriously. They fear that they may commit the same fault, not knowing that the ungraceful exhibition is simply the result of one thing—ignorance concerning the choice of a bicycle.

If a woman were about to mount a horse one of the first things to which she would give her attention would be to the length of the stirrup leather, which she would adjust to suit her stature, otherwise she would ride and fall in the saddle in too pronounced a manner and her appearance would be more or less unsightly. The proper adjustment of pedal and saddle in the case of the bicycle is equally important. Bicycles are made in different heights from the saddle to the pedal, namely, 21, 23 25, 29 inches. If a woman with long legs has one of the low machines, it will be almost impossible for her to ride with grace. In choosing a bicycle a woman should test it by sitting on it while it is stationary and moving the pedal round with her foot. In this way she can ascertain if the seat is too high or too low for her.

When the pedal is at the lowest point the foot should reach it comfortably, not so as to exert full foot pressure, but with about the same pressure as the toe gives the stirrup when sitting at ease in the saddle or what it gives to the floor when in a comfortable rocker. It is not safe to have a pedal that the foot cannot control all the way round; while if the pedal does not give the leg a full stretch the result will be an ungainly jerking up of the skirts.

The length of the crank of the pedal is even more important. In length the crank varies from 7 to 5¼ inches, making a difference of 8 inches in the rise and fall. As the pedal revolves it raises the foot and knee just so much at each revolution, and if the elevation is too great an appearance of awkwardness is produced. Apart from producing awkwardness, the long crank has other serious drawbacks.

If a woman gets a bicycle with the proper height of saddle and a moderately short crank, she may be a graceful rider if she will observe one rule—not to turn the knee outward, but inward, in pressing the foot down. That it is natural to turn the knee out is demonstrated by the small boy, whose knees waggle from side to side like governors on an engine, as he rides his bicycle. With a woman this action stretches the skirts to their utmost width, and causes a very bad showing from behind, and from the front. It will also be found that there is much less fatigue from the inward stroke than from the outward, as the pressure is more direct and with less friction.

There is no royal road to learning to ride the modern safety, it is largely a matter of confidence. Some women learn in an hour and others in a week, Where it is practicable, it is best to go to one of the schools and take a lesson or two from a competent instructor. If this cannot be done, the next plan is to mount the machine near a wall or board fence, where there is a slight incline, and holding the handle with one hand and leading along the wall with the other, move along until confidence is attained. The reason why the wall is advocated rather than a friend with a strong arm is that if the friend is a male he will insist on being at the side of the learner, so as to be ready to receive her in his arms when she is about to fall. The prettier the girl is the more he will adhere to this line of conduct. So long as the support is in full view the rider can see what assistance is given, and she gets rattled the moment she sees it withdrawn. The assistant should keep well to the rear and should support the rider by holding the machine so that the learner cannot tell when the supporting hand is drawn. In this way the correct balance is learned before the rider knows it.

This is the reason why so many girls taught by friends are three times as long in learning to ride as those taught in schools, and even when expert seldom have the style of the school-taught pupil. Miss Frances E. Willard, who is an enthusiastic rider, said recently that she had three teachers before she could master the wheel, and that it was only by the method last described she learned to ride. It took Lady Henry Somerset two months to learn to mount and ride, but by following the directions here given any woman should be able to learn in six lessons of twenty minutes each.

Here is a description of the latest costume for a woman to wear when bicycling. It includes a loose blouse waist and has a skirt made of some loosely webbed fabric which falls into folds of its own accord. The skirt is gored to fit very close around the hips, while from just above the knee to the bottom it is flared or widened. The hem is lightly weighted. This, it is claimed, does away with all display of the ankles and the ugly, cumbersome look from behind, which most of the proposed costumes have been found to possess in actual use. In walking it does not look unbecoming. Knickerbockers or full trousers may be worn under it or not as desired.

Given a properly fitting machine, reasonable skill, and a well-cut skirt, there is only one thing needed to make a woman ride a bicycle gracefully, and that is the limitation of speed. No woman should attempt to ride more than about eight miles an hour on asphalt, or more than six miles an hour on a macadamised road if she values her appearance. Her skirt must have time to fall and drape between the motions of the feet, and this cannot take place if a rapid action of the knees is kept up. A well-mounted woman, riding at a moderate speed, is seldom seen, but when she is met with, every one turns to look at her, and here is given the secret of her superior attractiveness. The woman should set the pace for her escort, not try to keep up with him.

The Only Question

"Do you ever think, George, dear," she said, and her voice was soft and low as befitted the perfect beauty of the night, "how closely true happiness is allied with tears."

"I don't believe I ever do," replied George.

"Yes," she went on, looking up into his face, "when one is truly and wholly happy there is but little to divide a smile and a tear."

"That's a fact," said George, "but I never thought of it before. There's nothing but the nose."

THE "SPLENDID" PAUPER.

Relative Poverty and the Countess of Warwick.

The lovely Countess of Warwick, who as Lady Brooke achieved so much celebrity prior to her husband's accession to the earldom of his father, is now known as the "splendid pauper." Since her husband became mayor of the ancient city from which he derives his title she has taken her position as mayoress very much au serieux and has deemed it incumbent upon herself not only to take the lead in all kinds of local movements, but also to address public meetings. Some time ago she made a platform speech in which she complained that the pace set by the parvenus forced the old aristocracy to live beyond their means.

"We are not a rich aristocracy," she exclaimed. "We are many of us deadly poor; we are many of us little better than splendid paupers, added the fair Countess, with as much pathos in her voice as she could muster. Indeed, she made her hearers feel quite sorry for her hard lot. Under the circumstances it was unfortunate that on the following morning an agricultural laborer blessed with a wife and six children to maintain upon a mere pittance of $2 a week should have appeared before the local magistrates at Warwick on a charge of having stolen the $8,000 sable cloak of the Countess at the very moment when she was describing herself as a "splendid pauper."

Even still more glaring was the contrast offered between the want and misery in Warwickshire and the extravagant luxury of the class of splendid paupers to which she belongs on the occasion of the fancy-dress ball which she gave a few weeks ago at her castle. Arrayed in the guise of Queen Marie Antoinette she literally blazed with diamonds, and, indeed, so profuse was the display of wealth that the country rang far and wide with accounts of the magnificence and the Sardanapalian character of the entertainment.

WRECKED IN LAKE ERIE.

The Sakie Shepherd Goes Down Off Toledo —One Life Lost.

Toledo, Ohio, April 29.—The steam barge Sakie Shepherd sunk about five miles off Turtle Island in Lake Erie Saturday. She was loaded with salt, and bound for Toledo. A leak was sprung in the morning, and a heavy sea running, the captain and several of the crew put off for Vienna, Mich., for help, while they were away the sea washed away some of the upper works, and the vessel sank rapidly. Albert Hamlin, the engineer, and the cook, named Brown, were left on the boat. The tug Roy went out for the wrecked men. Hamlin was found on the roof of the cabin almost dead from fright and quite out of his head. He was brought to this city. When he was able to talk he said Brown had jumped overboard during the afternoon, after putting a life preserver around him. No trace of Brown was found.

Six Dead Seamen Washed Ashore.

London, April 29.—Six dead seamen and a small boat marked "Steamer Marie," came ashore near Plymouth on Thursday. The owners of the steamer Marie, Captain Rochester, have identified one of the bodies as that of her engineer, and they suppose that their vessel foundered in the channel not far from Plymouth.

MOST INVALUABLE.

The new Specific Remedy is Being Extensively Used in Ottawa.

Ottawa, April 30th.—The marvellous recovery of G. H. Kent, of this city, from Fright's disease by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills is still fresh in the memories of Ottawa people, and the remedy is being freely recommended both by druggists and private citizens. The similar wonderful cures of Dr. A.G. McCormick, of Richmond, Quebec, and of Mr. Arthur Coley, of Somerset, Manitoba, to say nothing of many others, are generally quoted in favour of the assertion that no remedy of modern times has gone so successfully through a severe trial, and been so efficacious in all cases of kidney trouble. It is also proving itself invaluable in the milder forms of sickness, which appear during the spring.

A Well Known Gentleman in the District of Algoma Writes About His Sufferings.

Gentlemen,—About three months ago I was all used up with Rheumatism, suffering more than torture from it frequently. I took three bottles of your valuable medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, and now feel all O. K. again. Some six years ago I took a few bottles of B. B. B. and found it the best medicine I had ever used. I had the best of health until this attack of rheumatism, but now I am glad to say that B.B.B. has made me as sound as a dollar.

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM IN A WONDERFUL MANNER.

James A. Bell, of Beaverton, Ont., Brother of the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., Prostrated by Nervous Headaches--A Victim of the Trouble for Several Years --South American Nervine Effected a Complete Cure.

In their own particular field few men are better known than the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., and his brother, Mr. James A. Bell. The former will be recognized by his thousands of friends all over the country as the popular and able missionary superintendent of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Among the 20,000 members of this order in Ontario, his counsel is sought on all sorts of occasions. On the public platform he is one of the strong men of the day, battling against the evils of intemperance. Equally well known is Mr. Bell in other provinces of the Dominion, having been for years a member of the Manitoba Methodist Conference, and part of this time was stationed in Winnipeg. His brother, Mr. James A. Bell is a highly respected resident of Beaverton, where his influence, though perhaps more circumscribed than that of his eminent brother, is none the less effective and productive of good. Of recent years, however, the working ability of Mr. James A. Bell has been sadly marred by severe attacks of nervous headaches, accompanied by indigestion. Who can do fit work when this trouble takes hold of them, and especially when it becomes chronic, as was, seemingly, the case with Mr. Bell. The trouble reached such intensity that last June he was completely prostrated. In this condition a friend recommended South American Nervine. Ready to try anything and everything, though he thought he had covered the list of proprietary medicines, he secured a bottle of this great discovery. A second bottle of the medicine was taken and the work was done. Employing his own language: "Two bottles of South American Nervine immediately relieved my headaches and have built up my system in a wonderful manner." Let us not deprecate the good our clergymen and social reformers are doing in the world, but how ill-fitted they would be for their work were it not the relief that South American Nervine brings to them when physical ills overtake them, and when the system as a result of hard, earnest and continuous work, breaks down. Nervine treats the system as the wise reformer treats the evils he is battling against. It strikes at the root of the trouble. All disease comes from disorganization of the nerve centers. This is a scientific fact. Nervine at once works on these nerve centers: gives to them health and vigor; and then there courses through the system strong, healthy, life-maintaining blood, and nervous troubles of every variety are things of the past.

BELLEVILLE DOES NOT COMPARE FAVOURABLY WITH PETERBOROUGH.

The Great Difference in the Standing of the Collegiate Institutes.

Principal Dyer, of Albert College, Belleville, in writing a letter to the Belleville Sun in criticism of the methods adopted at the Belleville High School, mentions Peterborough thus favourably in comparison:

"Let us take the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and compare methods and results: In 1894 Peterborough passed 35 primary candidates, 9 matriculants, 22 junior leaving and 9 senior leaving—a magnificent record. The results in 1893 were equally good. I have no desire to be offensive, but the record of the city high school in the best year suffers seriously by comparison. In Peterborough resident pupils pay $1 per month and non-residents $25 per year, quarterly in advance, the school board having refused to make the agreement with the county council that the Belleville school board has made. The fees realized $2,500 per year, and the balance required, $6,500, is realized by general taxation. Belleville realizes $4,100 by taxation and collects nothing by actual fee."

"Then take the salaries paid to the staff: The Principal receives $1,700, two assistants $1,100 each, two $1,000 each and two $900 each. What is the result? Every teacher on the Peterborough staff is an honour graduate and an experienced specialist, and is thus able to attract senior students to their school. Put side by side with this the fact that an altogether inexperienced under-graduate, no matter how able and clever he may be by nature, is asked to teach both moderns and classics. There is a false economy which may become altogether too costly. In my judgment a change of method is advisable rather than a change of building. The sooner the Belleville school board adopts somewhat the methods of the Peterborough school board, the better for the high school and the better for Albert College."

W. P. DYER.

POISONED BY ACCIDENT.

The Young School Teacher from Burleigh in a Precarious Condition.

A Toronto exchange states that as the result of a mistake in taking medicine Miss Mabel Dickens, of 215 Gladstone avenue, Toronto, is now lying at the point of death in the Toronto General Hospital. Last November Miss Dickens had a severe cold, for which she was taking a cough mixture.

One evening she went to the cupboard with the intention of taking a dose of the mixture, and being in the dark she picked up a bottle of a similar shape containing ammonia, and took a portion of it in mistake. Emetics were applied promptly, but since the accident Miss Dickens has been unable to take any solid food. She has, however, been in apparently first class health, and for the past three or four months has been teaching school at Burleigh Falls, a small place about 25 miles back of Peterborough.

She went home to Toronto before the Easter holidays, and while here her throat became suddenly very bad, and she was admitted to the hospital two weeks ago. She is suffering from bronchial pneumonia and her parents are at the hospital to spend the last hours with their daughter. Miss Dickens is only 20 years of age, and obtained a teacher's certificate last fall. She is a daughter of Thomas Dickens, and has a sister teaching school at Parry Sound. Her brother is also a school teacher, and he is taking her place at Burleigh Falls.

Later:—News was received this afternoon of the death of Miss Dickens at the Hospital.

NOTES FROM RICE LAKE.

Inspector White Makes a Capture or two—Illegal Fishing.

Fish and Game Inspector Zack White, Rice Lake, is busily engaged, just at present, in calling down anglers for fishing for 'lunge, bass and other fishes out of season. On Thursday, he seized four boats well supplied with fishing tackle, spears, nets, edibles, blankets, etc., at Stevenson's Landing and McGregor's Bay. The boats were broken up and consumed by fire and the balance of the outfit is locked up pending the arrest of the owners, who made good their escape at the time of the seizure.

Inspector White is devoting all his time to this end and anglers breaking the law will have to be cautious unless they cour arrest. Close season for maskinonge is from April 15th to June 15th, both days inclusive; for bass, close season from May 10th to June 30th, both days inclusive.

Mr. White also reports seeing three young men fishing in the river. He gave chase and captured them at Kent's creek, but found nothing in their possession to warrant their detention.

Three well-known gentlemen from Wedlock's Landing, while out fishing for mudcats, dog fish, etc., had their boat capsize and all three were precipitated into the water. Being good swimmers they reached the shore in safety, after ploughing through about twenty-five yards of weeds. On reaching shore they were quite exhausted, and left their craft to the mercy of the current. No doubt Inspector White will capture the runaway boat in the lake, which is some five miles distant from the scene of the disaster.

STRAIGHT ORANGE CANDIDATES.

If Remedial Legislation Passes Orangemen Will Campaign New Brunswick

St. John, N.B., April 29.—Orange Grand Master Kelly stated to-day that, in case the Government passed remedial legislation, the Orangemen would put up candidates in every constituency. In St. John, he says, Dr. Stockton and Major Armstrong, present military storekeeper, will be Orange candidates; in Alberta, H. A. McKeown of this city will run. In Nova Scotia he says the same thing will be done, and Grand Master Case will oppose Tupper. Printed pledges are now being circulated and signed promising to support no candidate who favors remedial legislation. Kelly says the Orangemen mean business and to be consistent, and they can do nothing else.

FATAL STROKE OF A WHIP.

A London Teamster Killed by whipping Up His Horse.

London, Ont., April 30.—George Hammond, a teamster in the employ of the London and Petrolea Barrel Co., while driving a load of wood, applied the whip to the horse. The animal started with a jerk, dislodged the wood, on which Hammond was sitting. He fell under the horse's heels. The animal kicked him and the wheels passed over his body, inflicting injuries from which he will die.

110 BODIES RECOVERED.

1000 Rendered Homeless by the Bursting Epinal Reservoir.

Paris, April 29.—M. Legues, Minister of the Interior, who has gone to the scene of the disaster at Bousey, near Epinal, has distributed pecuniary and other relief to 1400 victims of the flood caused by the bursting of the dam.

La Liberte has a despatch from Epinal stating that 110 dead bodies have been recovered, and the military who were at work upon the scene of the flood are busy digging trenches for the purpose of burying the carcasses of the thousands of cattle that were drowned. It is asserted that the heavy frosts which prevailed in that section the latter part of the winter and early spring were the primary cause of the disaster, through throwing the masonry of the dam out of plumb.

The Detroit Manslaughter Case.

Detroit, Mich., April 30.—Mrs. Alice Lane, the proprietress of the lying-in hospital, and Dr. D. J. Seaman were arraigned in the police court to-day, charged with manslaughter in having caused the death of Emily Hall by killing a quick child by the use of drugs and instruments. Neither defendant would plead. Their examination was set for May 11, and bail was fixed at $5000 in each case.

Dr. Buchanan in Mortal Agony.

Sing Sing, April 29.—Dr. Buchanan is extremely nervous. He has made no preparations for death, and should he have to go to the electric chair on Wednesday morning it is thought he will be in a fearful condition.

Easter English Mails.

London, April 29.—The hour for closing the mails on Saturday by the Cunard liners has been changed from 6 p.m. to 2 p.m. This change has been made so that the London mails will reach Queenstown four hours earlier and so facilitate the departure of the steamers.

Cut His Throat on His Birthday.

Chicago, April 29.—George H. Bowen closed the celebration of his 45th birthday yesterday afternoon by slashing his throat with a razor. Illness, with business troubles, is given as the cause.

Aosta-Orleans Wedding Postponed

London, April 29.—The marriage of the Duke of Aosta to Princess Helene of Orleans has been indefinitely postponed owing to an accident to the Duke of Orleans, brother to the prospective bride and head of the House of Orleans. The Duke of Aosta will start for Italy on Wednesday.

The accident to the Duc D'Orleans occurred at Seville, when he was thrown from his horse, sustaining a fracture of the leg.

Riot in St. Louis Jail.

St. Louis, Mo., April 29.—Riot, bloodshed and a serious attempt to break for liberty occurred last night in the city jail. The Board of Health has forbidden the removal of condemned prisoners to the penitentiary, owing to appearance of smallpox in the jail, and 47 cells in the institution are undergoing repairs. This forces 300 prisoners into 50 cells. Discontent over this has been breeding, and last night it broke out into violence. Five prisoners and four officers were injured.

No Answer Vouchsafed by Japan.

London, April 29.—A despatch to the Central News from Tokyo says the reports that the Russian, French and German Ministers have gone to Kioto for the purpose of having an interview with Premier Ito are unfounded. Japan has not as yet officially replied to the joint note of protest sent by the three powers. The Ministers of the powers mentioned are still inclined to take a pacific view of the situation.

GRAND TRUNK ELECTION

The Semi-Annual Meeting in London To-day.

TYLER TO RECEIVE HIS CONGE

The Rivers Men Claim to Control a Majority of the Votes and the Meeting Is Looked Forward to With Keen Interest

London, April 30.—The annual meeting of the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, which will be held Tuesday, is being awaited with keenest interest. The committee of the dissatisfied shareholders who are attempting to oust Sir Henry Tyler from the presidency of the company have every confidence that they will be successful in defeating him and placing Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson at the head of affairs.

The committee now claims to have proxies representing stock to the amount of £20,000,000. This is £7,000,000 more than was claimed a week ago. They also claimed to have a command of 620,000 votes. It is pointed out that at the half-yearly meeting in October last the board commanded only 286,681 votes. The city critics, however, say that Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson is only a financial expert, and that he would require the head of an authority high up in railway work to manage the road in case he is successful in displacing Sir Henry Tyler.

In a leader in yesterday's developments in Grand Trunk affairs, The Financial News says: Whatever the results of to-day's votes may be, a minority representing twenty millions of stock is emphatic enough to cause a self-respecting chairman to retire. The Board ought to resign en bloc. The Grand Trunk will never do much good on the present capital basis, whoever may be chairman. One essential factor of future success is a Canadian Board. Possibly at the eleventh hour the chairman will try to conciliate his critics by agreeing to introduce the Canadian element. This, however, would not suffice. Sir Henry Tyler has been the evil genius of the company, and while he controls the road there is no chance of recovery.

CANADIAN REPRINTS IN THE U.S.

Attempts to Prevent Their Sale Fail Because Not a Violation of the Copyright Law.

Washington, April 30.—Solicitor-General Conrad of the Department of Justice, has decided that the copyright law does not prevent American books copyrighted in this country from being published in Canada and sold in this country. The case came up on a cheap edition of "Ben Hur" being printed in Canada and sold in this country. It was sought to restrain the sale, but Solicitor Reeve of the Treasury held that it was not a violation of the law, and Solicitor-General Conrad sustains him.

ELASTIC HOTEL BILLS.

How Drummers may Beat a Tattoo on Their Employer's Bank Account.

"How much shall I make out your bill for?" invuired the country hotel clerk, as the guest was leaving.

"Make it out for what I owe," replied the man a little surprised.

"The bill is $6," continued the clerk, with an ingratiating smile, "but I'd just as soon make it out for $9 or $10. It's all the same to us."

"Perhaps it is," the puzzled guest exclaimed, "but it isn't to me. Why should I pay $9 or $10 when my bill is $6."

"Aren't you a drummer?" the clerk suddenly demanded.

"Certainly not." There was a pause, and then the guest suddenly exclaimed:

"What's all this business about fake bills, anyway."

"We always make out bills 'to suit' for drummers," explained the clerk, "so's they can come out even on their expense accounts. A travelling man who pays us $6 can get a receipt for $10 if he likes, and when he settles with his employers he shows them the receipted bill and pockets the difference. I thought you were a drummer."

"No, I'm not," replied the guest, "but I know a good many drummers. In fact, I employ about a hundred, and I notice that when they come to this town they always stop at this hotel. I observe, also, that it's a $2 joint and that I'm always charged $3.50. Never mind, though, I'll lay for the next man who stops here."

And as he went out the clerk looked as if he thought he had put his foot right in it and the foot was held there.

Those Terrible Children.

Here are two or three anecdotes of German children:

It was at a large party. A gentleman had the misfortune to break a glass. Little Lena, who was standing near her mamma, raised herself on tiptoe and whispered, loud enough for all the company to hear: "And one of the borrowed ones, too!"

Later in the evening the hostess gave one of her little daughters a nice apple.

"Now, give your mamma a kiss, there's a dear," said the child's uncle.

"I'm not allowed to when she's painted her face."

Little Paul was sent with a bunch of flowers to the manager's wife on her birthday, and waited in silence after he had been dismissed.

Lady—Well, young man, what are you waiting for now?

Paul—Mamma said I was not to ask for a piece of birthday cake, but wait till I got it.—Scraps.

One Opinion.

Clothing.

The most advantageous shop to buy Clothing in leads to one conclusion—to purchase from us. You may twist and turn and argue as you will—admit you must that our Clothing is by far the best ready-made in Canada. If you discuss prices, we say again—our selling figures are lower, because the qualities are so much better.

Fathers and sons grown up, you, to whom a sensible word can be seriously spoken, take a look at our Spring Overcoats or our new Spring Suits and convince yourself whether we are not more stylish and if our goods are not better made and trimmed or fit neater than any goods shown elsewhere.—Mothers, who generally have good judgment and look for novelties for their youngsters, never fail to look in at our establishment, for we surpass any competition in the way of Children's Clothing.

The splendid value we give in a 2-piece suit at $1.50, or a 3 piece at $2.50, should make us many new acquaintances.

HATS

"We are HATTERS, successful in our business. We sell cheap and sell the quantity and the quality.

"We know Clothiers that sell Clothing. Their capital is in their business. Close buyers patronize them. They do a good solid trade."

We are not egotistical enough to suppose that the able writer of the above lines had our store in mind when he wrote them, yet it fits us—fits us like our Hats.

Our Hat department DOES grow every year. As the "Spring time comes, gentle Annie," and the season for renewing Hats draws on apace, the styles we show take precedence with the best dressed men and b'hoys.

COST

Ah, yes! COST is what counts every time. Take our "Stanley," for instance. You can't get over that 'Stanley' Hat of ours. You do not pay anything extra for style with us. Double the price could not improve the quality. Our unequalled facilities for bringing to you the latest shapes have, this season, resulted in one of those surprises to our Hat competitors that never misses the target.

Stylish Hats from $1.50 up. "Derbys" and "Fedoras," if you like, at $3.00.

If you prefer a Soft Hat, the correct thing is the "Tourist." But we carry every CONCEIVABLE shape fit to wear at every CONCEIVABLE price.

LESS

LESS than our price is too low for a Hat. We make price an important item and this we fix so as to get merely a decent profit. Selling Hats along with Clothing helps to make the price less than if we sold Hats alone. We don't put all our eggs in one basket.

"Yes!" we need about as many styles as we have customers. Nobody—except he be a twin—wants a Hat exactly like somebody else. Didn't somebody say "variety is the spice of life." If so, you will find our Hat stock highly seasoned.

AT

GOUGH'S Hats are always Good. Not to have one of GOUGH'S Hats is to miss what most becomes you. Put us to the proof of what we have stated, and we are willing to be "called down," if we can't sell you your favourite Hat in a canter. We can suit you in—

Men's Hats,
Boy's Hats,
Children's Hats,
Tweed Caps,
Soft Hats,
Silk Hats,

And remember—PRICES ARE ALWAYS LESS AT

GOUGH BROS.

The Wonderful Cheap Men.

BOOTS

The value of a Boot depends as everybody knows, upon something altogether outside of the material itself. That something is "Style." The skill of the shoemaker to produce fit and effect goes a long way. The best Shoemaker's come to us and we go to them; and when you come to look at the stylish boot we can give you for your money the prices are hardly worth mentioning.

SHOES

It s the same with SHOES. A trim and handsome foot is what every lady yearns for; and gentlemen who want to please their wives or sweethearts should profit by this knowledge and make their feet shapely and pleasing by wearing GOUGH'S SHOES—which are the acme of style and shoemaking skill. It is an old saying: "worn on the heel spends a good deal;" worn on the ball, spends it all," worn on the toes, spends as he goes;" "worn on the side, will be a rich man's bride."

PRICES

You have two feet and those two feet must have shoes, for the weather was'nt made on a bare-footed plan. To get into a shoe store where you feel at home and where they keep your favourite Shoes, is a treat. That is what Gough Bros. offer you. You have feet and we have shoes to fit them at prices that will win you for a customer. Who's to blame if you have been buying shoes at stores where they don't care whether they fit you or not, so long as they sell you something? Try GOUGH'S.

DOWN

Wonderful reductions are made to promptly remove stock and make room for more Summer Styles. Selling Clothing and Hats alongside of Boots and Shoes lets down the price. Here are some things to remember us by:—

Ladies' Shoes from 90c to $3.00
Misses' Shoes from 75c to $1.50
Men's Shoes from $1.00 to $3.00
Boy's Shoes from 75c. to $1.50
Children's Shoes from 50c to $1.00
Infant's Shoes from 25c to $1.00
Ladies' Spats 35c, 50c, 75c.

Excuse our persistence. Prices will be kept DOWN all summer,—at the same time qualities and styles will be ALWAYS GOOD

THEY CHEERED M'GREEVY.

But Mr. Foster Did Not Act as His Sponsor

PREMIER BY GRACE OF SIR F. SMITH

Mr. Laurier Makes a Vigorous Speech on the Senator's Assumption That He Advised Sending for Mr. Bowell—Information He Newfoundland Refused.

Ottawa, Ont., May 1.—Amid a storm of Conservative applause, in which the members of the Government joined heartily, Hon. Thomas McGreevy, who was expelled in disgrace from Parliament in 1891, made his reappearance in the House yesterday. It is customary when a new member is introduced for the leader of the party to which he belongs to act as sponsor to him, but neither Mr. Foster nor any of his Ministerial colleagues would undertake the responsibility of ushering Mr. McGreevy into the Chamber, though they were willing to participate in the demonstration with which he was welcomed back to the fold. The joy which they evinced at the return of their old ally was quite as great as that which the Liberals betrayed yesterday when they received among them the man who, four years ago, convicted Mr. McGreevy of conspiracy to defraud the public treasury. Sir Hector Langevin and Sir Adolphe Caron were both in the Chamber, but their old partner was handed over to Mr. Taylor and Mr. Frechette, the Conservative whips of Ontario and Quebec respectively, who as the party representatives led the new member in and presented him to the Speaker. Mr. McGreevy took his seat, and was soon engrossed with his correspondence.

NEWFOUNDLAND PLEBISCIT.

The question of the negotiations with Newfoundland was again the subject of a discussion which grew into a lively tresse before it was concluded.

Mr. Davies asked for information about certain statements contained in a despatch which appeared in The Montreal Gazette, sent from St. John's, Nfld., in which it was stated that one of the terms of the negotiations was that upon the entry of Newfoundland into confederation Canada would bind herself to pay bounty upon the fish exported from the island. It was also stated that the Newfoundland Government did not intend to submit to the people for their sanction the question of the union or the terms of the negotiations.

Mr. Davies made a vigorous protest against the proposition that Newfoundland should be taken into the Canadian confederation without the consent of the people of that island. He asked Mr. Foster for an explanation of these two points, without, however, going into the details of the negotiations.

Mr. Foster absolutely declined at the present time to give any information to the House on the subject of the negotiations. The only information he volunteered was that the Governments of Canada and Newfoundland had agreed to lay the negotiations before their respective Houses simultaneously, and he added that the Canadian Government would adhere to that agreement.

A PRINCIPLE NOT MINUTIAE.

Mr. Laurier said that the House would regret the attitude taken by the Government upon this occasion. He quite recognised the importance of the principle laid down that the details of the negotiations should not be brought down before the proper time, but there were certain broad principles which were supposed to underlie these negotiations and when it was stated in one of the organs of the Government that the negotiations were to conclude in a manner altogether foreign to what would have been expected to have been the guiding principle of the negotiations he thought it was the duty of Mr. Davies and every other member of the House to question the Government as to whether these principles were to be adhered to or whether they were to be violated. The minister would violate no secret of office if he were to inform the House at the present time on the point raised by Mr. Davies, that no official negotiation should be terminated until the people of Newfoundland had had the right of speaking upon the question.

TREASON AGAINST THE COUNTRY.

Hon. Mr. Mills held that the House and the country had a right to know the obligation to which the Government was committing the country.

"Are we going to wait," he asked, "if the Government is going to commit treason against this country, until that treason if effected? This House has long been derelict in its duty in allowing the Government to assume absolute control of its affairs and to grant or withhold such information as it may think proper. The Government of the country has passed into the hands of men who are not able to conduct it. The honorable gentlemen who sit on the treasury benches are not qualified for the duty of Ministers of the Crown. That being so this House would be derelict in its duty if it did not watch the proceedings of these men and see that the interests of the party which the administration represent and which it undertakes to lead, so unsuccessfully, are not being betrayed in the negotiations which are being carried on at this moment."

Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Flint and Mr. Edgar maintained that it was in the highest degree important that the people of Newfoundland should be consulted before the proposed union was consummated.

Mr. Edgar, in a series of clever allusions sufficiently pointed to be keenly appreciated, while covert enough to save them from the appearance of clumsy personalities, reviewed some of the recent political events. The entertainment which they afforded the House was not confined to one side, and was not lessened by the trueness with which the shafts were aimed.

MR. LAURIER ON CABINET CHANGES.

An interesting feature of the day was the explanation given by Mr. Foster of the recent ministerial change, and the discussion that followed it. Mr. Foster's statement was remarkable for what it did not contain. He told of the changes that had taken place after the death of Sir John Thompson, but he omitted to say that Sir Frank Smith had been called by the Governor-General to form a Government, and that that gentleman had advised His Excellency to entrust the task to Sir Mackenzie Bowell. During the formation of the Ministry a statement by Sir Frank Smith to that effect was published broadcast in the Ministerial press.

Mr. Laurier said that there was not very much information in the statement made by Mr. Foster. Evidently there was a disposition on the part of the Ministry not to give any information this session. The Leader's statement was just as bare as it possibly could be. He was also inclined to the belief that there was a desire to load up the Opposition the wrong way. Nothing had been said either in the Senate or the Commons about another gentleman having been invited to undertake the task of forming a Ministry. It was but natural to expect at that time that Mr. Bowell would be called upon. He was the oldest member of the Ministry, and it was but natural to expect that His Excellency would send for him, and yet the Ministerial press had stated that the Governor-General had not sent for Mr. Bowell first, but for Sir Frank Smith. He read from an interview which appeared in Ministerial newspapers at the time, with Sir Frank Smith, in which that gentleman explained how he had been sent for by the Governor-General, but had respectfully declined to undertake the task of forming a Ministry, and had recommended him to send for Mr. Bowell. He (Mr. Laurier) characterized that as a false and mendacious statement. It was perfectly incredible that His Excellency could have called upon Sir Frank Smith. He did not wish to speak disrespectfully of the Senator. He was a good man in his own sphere, but politics, statesmanship and Parliamentary government were not his sphere. If Sir Frank Smith had known not the elementary principles but the elementary proprieties of Parliamentary government he would not have gone blabbering to newspaper reporters. At the very least he should have known enough not to divulge what had passed between himself and His Excellency. It was quite possible, and indeed quite probable, and it might have happened that Sir Frank Smith had not been consulted by His Excellency, but had had a confidential conversation with His Excellency, a private interview. But to go, as he did, and exhibit his own self-sufficient importance was, to say the least, nothing short of an impertinent vulgarity. But in that impertinence there was design. It was done evidently to do service for the Conservative party. The design was found in the last words of the interview of Sir Frank Smith. It evidently dawned upon the minds of the wise men who surrounded Sir Mackenzie Bowell, after he had been called to office, that perhaps an impression might be entertained in some quarters that the Orange color was rather predominant in the formation of the new Cabinet. It was well known that Sir Mackenzie Bowell has been all his life an active member of the Orange order, a past grand master, and the order was already well represented, not exactly in the Cabinet, but very close to the Cabinet, in the person of the present grand master. Evidently it was thought that so much Orange color in the Cabinet made it offensive to some eyes, and it was supposed it would be very clever indeed if it were given to the world that a prominent Roman Catholic had been called by His Excellency, and that that Roman Catholic, instead of accepting the honor for himself, had given his certificate to the Past Orange Grand Master. (Opposition cheers.) It was thought it would be very clever, indeed, if it looked as if a little mixture of Green was adjusted to so much Orange color. (Laughter.) Nobody objected that Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Sir Frank Smith should parade before the public their mutual admiration, but it became intolerably objectionable when these gentlemen attempt to cover their little political manœuvres behind the name of His Excellency the Governor-General. The Conservative party had been too long in the past in the habit of taking advantage even of the ordinary proprieties of Parliamentary life to foster party ends and party purposes, but when it came to this, that falsehoods were invented, circulated and published, and that the name of His Excellency was connected with those falsehoods, then it was high time that these proceedings should be branded with all the opprobrium which they deserved.

He was sorry that upon this occasion the Minister of Justice was not in his seat. He would not, therefore, say a word of what he intended to say were he present. As to the other Cabinet changes, they were simply little family arrangements which concern gentlemen opposite and as to which the Opposition had no observations to offer. It appeared that the Secretary of State now occupied the station which it had been supposed was reserved for one of the three gentlemen who had long been patiently waiting at the door of the council chamber. If rumor was to be credited, there was a rivalry between these three gentlemen as to which of them should enter the Cabinet first, but while they were disputing at the door there happened what sometimes does happen under such circumstances, there stealthily came from behind another gentleman, the member for Haldimand, who, with one single jump, clear over the heads of the Solicitor-General, the Controller of Customs and the Controller of Inland Revenue, landed safe and on his two feet right in the council chamber. (Opposition laughter.)

This was, to say the least, an acrobatic feat which showed in that somewhat corpulent gentleman great agility and suppleness of limbs. (Renewed laughter.)

It was thought this would conclude the discussion on this subject, but Mr. Edgar had a little piece to say, when Mr. Speaker closed him off with the intimation that it was contrary to the custom of the House in this regard.

BY THE GRACE OF SIR FRANK.

Dr. Landerkin followed and made one of his wittiest sallies. He noticed with surprise the singular omission from Mr. Foster's announcement of any reference to Sir Frank Smith. Why should he be ignored? Was it because he is Irish? (Laughter.) At a Conservative convention in North Grey a resolution had been passed giving "thanks to Sir Frank Smith for recommending Sir Mackenzie Bowell to His Excellency," but now the Government ignored the fact that Sir Mackenzie Bowell reigns by the grace of Sir Frank Smith. (Laughter.)

Mr. Casey also took part in the discussion, and in a bantering way exposed the weaknesses of the Cabinet. The remainder of the day was devoted to the consideration of the estimates in committee of supply.

Sir Richard Cartwright will call attention to a letter written by the Premier to Mr. McNeill, M.P. and ask who are the gentlemen to whom present vacant Senatorships have been promised.

Mr. McCarthy gives notice of the following question (1): Whether the Minister of Public Works caused to be published the following despatch in La Presse newspaper: "Ottawa, April 5. You are authorized to deny as being absolutely false the rumor published in The Herald that Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper demanded from his colleagues that remedial legislation should be postponed until after the general elections if such legislation was necessary by the refusal of Manitoba. In the latter case it will be presented with the shortest possible delay in order to secure passage of it. (Signed) J. A. Ouimet."

NO REPLY TO NICARAGUA.

Nicaragua's Offer to Pay in Fifteen Days Not Replied to.

Washington, April 30.—The Salvadorian Minister to England and France, Mr. Medina, who acts as a friend of Nicaragua, has been notified of Nicaragua's willingness to compromise the difficulty with Great Britain as outlined in the despatches from Managua. He had been asked to lay the matter before Lord Kimberley, with a view to securing his consent that the ships be withdrawn from Corinto and the indemnity paid in London. Should Lord Kimberley accept the proposition, instructions will be cabled to the British admiral to leave the coast temporarily. All the despatches from Managua state that the continued presence of British forces at Corinto is deeply irritating to the Nicaraguans, and that the longer they remain the stronger becomes the determination of the Nicaraguan people not to yield. Nicaraguan despatches say that the British consuls at the various ports in the republic are protected by the local troops, but it is feared grave troubles will follow if the present tension be not relaxed.

London, May 1.—Managua, Nicaragua, advices state that President Zelaya and his Cabinet will agree to pay the $77,500 smart money demanded in Great Britain, in London, within 15 days, but ask as a further condition that the British ships be first taken out of the harbor of Corinto. This preliminary is strongly insisted upon on account of the condition of feeling in the country, which otherwise might hinder compliance with the ultimatum, even in its modified form, impossible.

Great Britain's answer to the request has not yet been given.

Passive Blockade of Other Ports.

A special from Paso de Caballos, Nicaragua, says: A courier from Corinto reports that the British warships Wild Swan and Satellite have been ordered to Paso de Caballos and San Juan Del Sur, to declare a passive blockade at both points. Neither confirmation nor denial of this report could be obtained from any officer on board the British ships. The officers were all non-committal. Admiral Stephenson refuses to discuss orders or plans. He said, however, that he did not expect to remain here long, as he believes Nicaragua will soon see the folly of her present course. The admiral visited the town yesterday, remaining ashore some time. The English naval officers are getting on well with the natives.

A Tegucagalpa, Honduras, despatch says: It is believed here that the United States promised England non-interference in Nicaragua, because it intends to take similar measures against Honduras and Guatemala for the alleged murder of American citizens last spring.

BLIGHTED HOPES.

In the House of Commons last session the heart of every patriot beat high with hope when Hon Mr. Foster, Minister of Finance, "swore off" extravagance and made resolutions of amendment in the words following, that is to say:

"I do not," he said, "anticipate more than thirty six and a half or thirty-six and three quarter millions of dollars. If the expenditure from the 16th of March to the end of the year should be normal, that would leave us with a deficit; but this Government has come to the conclusion—a wise conclusion, which, I think, will be echoed by this House, and in which the Government will have the co-operation and cordial help of the House—to endeavour to live during this year within our income, and, if our income is less, to resolutely keep down the expenditure, so that in the end we shall not have that unwelcome visitation which so often made its appearance to my hon. friend who sits opposite me—an ugly and ill-visaged deficit. A prudent business man, any prudent business concern, any private gentleman, any householder, would take that course of action, and in the national housekeeping it is equally incumbent, it seems to me, to follow the same course."

But these roseate promises resulted in a deficit of one million two hundred thousand dollars for that year, which has boomed up to a deficit of between five and six million dollars the current year, and there is a prospect of another thumping deficit for 1895-6. This session Mr. Foster places the estimates of expenditure on Consolidated Revenue account at $36,834,458, which will be increased by supplementary estimates to the extent of, perhaps, a million and a quarter, as was done last session. But the above are only the estimates on the Consolidated Fund account; the total estimated expenditure, not counting the almost inevitable supplementary estimates, will amount to $41,243,427, as against $40,038,427 last year, an increase of nearly a million and a quarter. The fine words of promise that fell from Mr. Foster's lips last session have failed in fulfilment. Instead of "living within our income," Mr. Foster seems to have taken the motto of a preceding finance minister, Sir Leonard Tilley, and "clapped on all sail," to have acted as if there was no end to the national resources, no bottom to the taxpayers' pocket. Hon. Mr. Foster should pass an Act of Parliament interpreting the meaning of his language "to resolutely keep down expenditure."

THE Dominion Government had evidently made up its mind to have a general election before a session—if they hadn't been afraid to face the country. They rushed through the printing of the voters' lists with such anxious haste that they were unable to print returns passed at last session of the House. There is an evident intention to have the general elections before another session for the estimates contain an appropriation of $150,000 for election purposes.

IT appears that our noble volunteers will have to struggle on with their old "flint locks"—in comparison, with the most improved military weapons. The Mail and Empire says that "the prospects of a new weapon being purchased for the force are very slight."

IN the Dominion estimates, under the items chargeable to capital, $2,181,000 is for canals, of which half a million is a re-vote. There is an additional $150,000 for the Sault Canal and $400,000 for the Trent Valley (of which $103,000 is a re-vote).

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

The second international conference of the Epworth League will be held in Chattanooga, Tennessee, from June 27th to June 30th. The subject for the conference will be "Methodism for the Future." The addresses of welcome will be given by Hon. Geo. W. Ochs, and Rev. J. F. McFarren, D.D. Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, Premier of Canada, will respond for Canadian Methodists; Bishop Vincent and Bishop Hendrix, for American Methodists. Among the Canadian Methodists who will take part in the programme are: Hon. Clifford Sifton, Attorney General of Manitoba; Mr. N. W. Rowell, barrister, Toronto, and Rev. Messrs. Courtice, Kirby, Potts, Burns and Bond.

BOSTON '95.

There was a tea party in Boston harbour about 120 years ago, which led to an new era in the history of North America. This event has been yearly celebrated in season and out of season by our neighbours across the line. Nor can we blame them for so doing. We in this country should take a greater interest in cultivating a spirit of pride and patriotism in and for our country and its institutions.

There is a time and place for all things. But it does seem a little out of place to have on the programme of the C. E. International convention in Boston—a flag waving procession to Boston Common, where speeches will be delivered by prominent speakers. This has roused the patriotic wrath of many Canadian Endeavourers, who are afraid they will hear the spread eagle pyrotechnical display of oratory usually heard on July 4th.

We are very glad to see that Rev. Dr. Clark, the president of the United States society, says that nothing offensive was thought of in connection with this meeting. It is for the purpose of emphasizing work along the line of Good Citizenship, a subject, as he says, of interest to all nations.

We cannot believe that anything will be said at the convention to wound the feelings of British subjects, but if any of the delegates fear such a thing, there are plenty of places of interest in and around Boston where they can go with profit, and not attend this flag-waving, oratorical session of the convention.

It is to be hoped that many Endeavourers from Peterborough county will go to the convention, where they will certainly be filled with enthusiasm along the line of Christian service that will help them all their lives to be better workers for Christ. Do not let national prejudice keep you away, for after all we, as loyal subjects of King Jesus, must admit that the revolution of 1776 was not an unmixed evil, for good to the world has certainly been the result. Do not let us go there looking for an affront, but let us go with banners flying, inscribed with "Peace on earth, good will to men."

RIVERDALE.

The Riverdale Society had their semi-annual election officers on the evening of Monday, 23rd inst, when after the topic had been ably discussed, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

President—Miss E. Denoon.
Vice-President—Miss A. Hearmen.
Secretary-Treasurer—Miss L. May.
Assistant Secretary—Mr. G. W. Anderson.
Organist—Miss A. Rightmyer.

It was then decided by a passing vote of the members present that the Lookout and the Social Committees be united and bear the name of the Lookout Committee. The following committees with their conveners were elected as follows:

Prayer Meeting—Miss L. Anderson.
Lookout—Miss Reynolds.
Missionary—Mr. G. W. Anderson.
Temperance and Good Citizenship—Mr. G. H. May.
Music and Literary—Miss Rightmyer.

We are also pleased to report an increase of both attendance and membership and prospects of an active season's work ahead.

CHARLOTTE STREET SOCIETY.

The Junior Society held their monthly business meeting Monday evening last. The subject, "Children in Japan," was taken up by one of the Juniors. The attendance was much in advance of that of the week previous.

The Senior Society commenced their monthly business session at 8 o'clock. The topic was taken up by the President, Rev. J. J. Rae, who gave a very clear and instructive lesson thereon. At 9 o'clock the Executive met, when it was decided to have our pastor give a lecture under the auspices of the Society on the evening of Tuesday, May 14th, in the church, entitled "Mind your own Business," and charging an an admission fee which will be announced later on.

We hope our town Endeavourers and others will not fail to attend the Orchestra benefit concert under the auspices of our Sabbath school, in the lecture room of the church, at 8 o'clock, on Thursday evening, May 2nd. The Sabbath school work being a branch of our work, we feel that all should be interested in the success of this entertainment.

TOWN LOCAL UNION.

The annual meeting of the town societies will be held on Monday evening, May 13th, in the Murray street Baptist church. The election of officers for the ensuing year and an interesting programme should bring out every Endeavourer in town. The particulars will be given in next week's column.

GEORGE STREET SOCIETY.

The regular weekly meeting of the George street Y.P.S.C.E. was held Monday evening in the lecture room of the church. The meeting was opened by the President. The topic was ably taken by Miss Oliver, after which the regular monthly business meeting was held. The meeting was then dismissed by the Mispah benediction.

MARK STREET SOCIETY.

After the regular business meeting Monday evening the pastor, Rev. W. C. Beer, spoke on the topic with profit to all who were present. Before closing leaders were appointed to take the topic for next month. The attendance was not as large as usual, but we hope for a full attendance of members at the consecration services next Monday night. Will each member bring a friend along?

ST. PAUL'S SOCIETY.

The meeting of the Society on Monday evening was of more than ordinary interest. The fore part of the meeting took the form of a memorial service to two two of its members lately deceased, Miss Stenson and Miss Cromie. Both these young ladies connected themselves with this society on the evening that it was organized and remained true Endeavourers to the last. Rev. Dr. Torrance and Miss Fanny Dixon spoke of the faithfulness of these members, and the gratification it must afford to know that these sisters are now with the Saviour. The latter portion of the evening was given to the monthly consecration, the members responding in prayer. A portion of the time was also allotted to repeating promises, a large number taking part. Miss Quinn presided over the meeting.

NORTH SMITH.

A temperance meeting in connection with the North Smith C. E. society will be held on Thursday evening, May 9th. A good programme is being prepared. The topic to be discussed being "Pure thoughts, pure words, pure deeds." An address on Christian Citizenship will be given by the pastor, Rev. A. C. Reeves, B. A., also a paper on temperance and hygene by Mr. Williams. Every person is cordially invited to be present. Meeting begins at 8 o'clock.

The report of the county convention was given on Thursday evening by the delegate, Miss E. Blewett, and was very much appreciated by those present.

Rio Janeiro in a State of Siege.

New York, May 1.—The Herald's special from Buenos Ayres says: It is reported that a state of siege has been declared in Rio Janeiro, Brazil. Word comes from there that several street fights took place in the city Sunday night between soldiers, who are friends of ex-President Peixoto and his policy. Men were killed and wounded on both sides.

Disastrous Fire in Silesia.

Berlin, May 1.—A despatch from Breslau says a terrible conflagration has occurred in a small port town of Braesinka. Sixty-five houses were destroyed and hundreds of people made homeless. Three persons were killed by falling walls, and several others are missing.

Mrs. Wilde Not Seeking Divorce.

London, May 1.—The statements is at least premature, if not altogether groundless, that Mrs. Oscar Wilde has begun proceedings for a divorce from her husband. At all events she certainly could take no steps in that direction, pending a verdict in the present trial of her husband in the Old Bailey Court.

Took Poison at the Falls.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., May 1.—A man who registered at the Hotel Imperial Sunday night as W. B. Jackson, Baltimore, Md., was found in his room dead, with a 2-oz. empty opium bottle and several morphine pellets. He took every precaution to conceal his identity, even cutting out of his hat the name of the maker.

Notorious Forger Jailed.

Chicago, May 1.—Pinkerton detectives last night arrested Tom Metsel, said to be one of the most notorious forgers in the country. A week ago Metsel left Butte, Mont., with $6000, secured from the cashier of the National Bank of Butte on a forged cheque.

A FORGER AND HIS OUTFIT.

Complete Plant for Forging Notes and Stamps Found in London.

London, April 30.—Mendal Howard, 46 years of age, was arrested in this city to-day and arraigned in a police court upon the charge of having in his possession a quantity of engraved plates and other material for forging notes. He also had in his possession a passport attesting his United States citizenship. A detective swore that he searched Howard's lodgings, where he found a number of plates for printing thousand franc notes on the Bank of France, and also plates for the manufacture of French railway bonds. He also found several wood cut plates for printing counterfeit United States postage stamps and one dollar notes, and a complete outfit for the utterance of German bank notes.

In a padlocked room in the basement of Howard's lodgings, the detective discovered a printing press with all the necessary accessories, also a quantity of counterfeit notes ready for issuance. They were beautifully executed, and in every respect calculated to defy detection. Howard, as well as several other men now in custody, is supposed to be connected with the gang of counterfeiters, whose traffic in spurious United States postage stamps was recently disclosed in Chicago through shipments of the counterfeits from Canada.

HUDSON BAY RAILWAY.

Winnipeg Excited at Being Sidetracked—Contractors and Politicians Centre.

Winnipeg, Man., April 30.—Following Hugh Sutherland and Contractor Isbester of Ottawa, there arrived here to-day Messrs. Donald Grant, Michael Foley, and several other railroad contractors, also a number of the provincial politicians, who made the famous jaunt to Ottawa in connection with the formation of this somewhat, as yet, mysterious enterprise. Winnipeg people, who have naturally been much interested in the project, as they expect much material benefit, were up in arms to-day when rumor went the rounds that Gladstone, a point 80 miles away, and not Winnipeg, was to be the base of operations and the starting point of the line. Mr. Boyd, M.P., in whose constituency Gladstone is situated, would not deny the rumor, but he refused absolutely to say anything, and his attitude alarmed the Winnipeggers, even in spite of the vigorous denials of the report on the part of Mr. Hugh Sutherland.

STOMACH NEURALGIA.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT THIS PECULIAR TROUBLE.

A Pembroke Lady Who Suffered for Eight Years Gives the Particulars of Her Illness, and Tells How She Obtained Relief.

From Pembroke Standard.

The grateful thanks of thousands in all parts of the Dominion who have been made well is the best evidence of the sterling merit of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. We suppose there is not a city, town or village in Canada in which the good record of this health giving medicine is not known, and Pembroke is no exception to the rule. Among those who speak of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in terms of the highest praise is Mrs. Fournier, wife of Mr. Peter Fournier, both of whom are held in high esteem by those who know them. To a reporter who recently visited their home Mrs. Fournier gave a plain unvarnished statement of her illness and cure. "It is now about eight years," she said, "since I began to grow ill with a pain in my back, stomach and side, and the amount of suffering which it caused me can scarcely be realised. As the days and months passed by I began to grow weaker, and I was seldom free from the intense pains. At last I grew so weak that I was obliged to take to my bed, and even then suffered from the pains which were making my life so miserable. My appetite failed me, and I feared I was doomed to be an invalid. During those days I was under the care of a skilful physician, but his medicine did me no good. He said that my trouble was neuralgia or rheumatism of the stomach. It was during those dark days, as I lay an almost helpless invalid, that a friend strongly urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Although I had little faith in their efficacy at the time, I consented to try them. After using a few boxes I began to feel myself growing stronger and the pains leaving me. I continued using them until I had used a dozen boxes, and now you can see for yourself whether I look like a sick person or not. The pains in my stomach, side and back, have ceased to trouble me and I have not been as well in eight years as I feel now. My appetite which was so poor at one time is now fully restored, and I am confident that not only have Pink Pills cured me but that they have saved me from misery and pain I would have otherwise still been enduring." Mr. Fournier, who was present at the interview, fully endorsed all his wife had said.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make pure, rich blood, thus reaching the root of disease, and driving it out of the system, curing when other medicines fail. Most of the ills afflicting mankind are due to an impoverished condition of the blood, or weak or shattered nerves, and for all these Pink Pills are a specific which speedily restore the sufferer to health. These Pills are never sold in any form except in the company's boxes, the wrapper round which bears the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." All others are counterfeits and should be refused. Get the genuine and be made well.

THE G.T.R. BOARD RESIGNS

Half Yearly Meeting of Shareholders.

BEATEN IN THE FIGHT FOR PROXIES.

Sir H. Tyler Declares Expert Barker's Report Misleading - The Board's Resignations Accepted—Montreal Officials Don't Look Any More Changes in the Staff.

London, May 1.—There was a large attendance at the meeting of the shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railway, which was held here to-day. Sir Henry Tyler, president of the company, presided, and announced that the Board of Directors had adopted to-day a resolution that, it having been reported to them that the committee had obtained a majority of the proxies, they had decided to resign their seats, and were prepared to hold themselves at the disposal of the shareholders. This announcement was received with prolonged cheers.

For a long time past, he said, there had been a great struggle for proxies among the proprietors of shares, and it was his duty to announce that the committee of shareholders had now obtained a large majority of them. He would not hesitate to say that many of these proxies had been obtained by unfair and misleading circulars. However, the directors only awaited the appointment of their successors. A poll would be needless, as the committee themselves must decide the method of procedure. It was absolutely necessary first that efforts should be made to reduce the expenses of the company, in consequence of the great losses incurred by the passenger and freight accounts. Under great stress and by rigid economy the expenses had been reduced by cutting the train service. This alone had saved £172,750, and during the whole year the expenses had been reduced about £315,000, against a loss of receipts of £418,000. These extraordinary savings had been made in the expenses of a railway that had always been conducted under a system of great economy. It would have been impossible to have obtained such a reduction unless there had been the high state of efficiency to which the line had always kept up. After surveying the conditions of the line, Sir Henry said he thought the results were more satisfactory to the owners than they might have anticipated.

The adverse results, he said, were due to the continuous decline in rates since 1883, the competition of numerous railways, including the Canadian Pacific, the general paralysis of business and the lower prices in Europe. The resignation of the directors was accepted with few dissenting voices, and the meeting adjourned until May 7.

At the conclusion of Sir Henry Tyler's statement, Mr. Girdlestone, chairman of the Shareholders' Committee, offered the following resolution:

"That the directors be requested to hold their resignations at the disposal of the committee, until the committee shall have made arrangements for a reorganisation of the board; that such committee shall consist of the present committee and eight of the largest shareholders, not already members of the committee, and that the further business of the meeting be adjourned."

Mr. Girdlestone stated that the task of the committee had been simplified by the announcement by the president, Sir Henry Tyler, of the resignation of the directors. The agitation of those in favor of re-organisation had no other object than that of improving the condition of the company. The indictment against the policy of the Board of Directors was contained in their circular to which they had nothing to add nor nothing to take away. It was based upon the report made by Mr. Barker. A cablegram, he said, had been received from Mr. Barker, confirming the statements which had been made in the circular. He denied the assertions that the committee had acted unfairly and had misled the shareholders. The five principal charges made against the Board of Directors, he contended, had been fully maintained. He also denied that the disastrous state of the company's affairs was due to low rates. Such a state of things had not come suddenly, but was the growth of years. Despite the decreasing rates from year to year, Sir Henry Tyler and his associates on the board had been constantly amalgamating and taking vast subsidiary systems. "Were we to die ill," he asked, "under this bad generalship and see the stocks of the company sinking to zero and yet be like children, and be told nothing, while the accounts were being concealed and muddled? What is wanted is new blood in the board. (Loud cheers.) What else is wanted," he continued, "is a president of high financial ability, sterling character and sound judgment."

The company, he said, had procured such a man in Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, who would without doubt accept the position. The resolution was seconded by Mr. Joseph Price in a brief speech, and, after a short discussion of the situation, which was pronouncedly hostile to the board, Mr. Girdlestone's resolution was carried.

Sir Henry Tyler moved that the report and accounts be adopted. The motion was seconded by Shareholder Heygate.

The following is the Board of Directors which resigned: Sir Henry W. Tyler, president; George Allen, John Allan-Cuttons-Brock, Lord Claude John Hamilton, William Unwin-Heygate, Alexander Hubbard, William Brame Jefferies, John Marnhame, Sir Henry M. Mather-Jackson, Bart.; Hon. Sir Frank Smith.

In the ordinary course of events, the retiring directors would have been: Mr. Alexander-Hubbard, Sir Henry M. Mather-Jackson, Bart.; Hon. Sir Frank Smith and Mr. John Marnham. The two first-named gentlemen were eligible for re-election, and Mr. John Marnham, on account of serious ill-health, had expressed his wish to retire from the board.

Atonement.

They were engaged in mutual recrimination.

"You caused Eve to sin," protested the man, violently.

"That is true," rejoined the Serpent, "But I have sowed my wild oats and am in the temperance work now."

Of course, reference was thereby had to the numbers of persons who had been saved from a drunkard's grave by delirium tremens—Detroit Tribune.

Escaped Twice From Buffalo Justice.

Buffalo, May 1.—George Stone and Robert Camaron, well-known Canadian crooks, were arrested Jan. 12, plead guilty to petit larceny, and were sentenced to 5 year's imprisonment in the penitentiary. Their attempt to escape from police headquarters at the time of arrest created a sensation in police circles and now there's another one to the credit of Stone. When the cells were opened at the penitentiary this morning in place of the prisoner Stone the keeper found a well-made up dummy figure. How he got out and when is unknown, and he has not yet been recaptured.

A HAPPY RECOLLECTION.

St. Thomas has the Usual Amount of Spring Sickness.

St. Thomas, May 1—Now that the spring of the year is advancing the usual amount of accompanying sickness is showing itself with more or less virulence. The fact, however, that a great deal of spring sickness is due to a deranged condition of the kidneys, is becoming pretty generally recognised, and people who are acquainted with the wonderful effects of Dodd's Kidney Pills in stamping out all incipient symptoms are using the medicine freely. The marvellous cures effected not so long ago in the cases of Mr. Hezekiah Vaughan and Miss Nettie Freeman, both of Leamington, are still fresh in the memory of the citizens here, and they are acting on the remembrance with good results.

LOCAL NEWS.

DURWARD LELY COMING.

It is gratifying to learn that nearly sufficient signatures have been secured to the guarantee list which has been in circulation, to warrant the engagement of Durward Lely, the eminent Scottish tenor, well known from his engagements with Patti, and that he has promised to come to Peterborough and sing in the Opera House on Thursday evening, May 9th. Mr. Lely is admitted by Scotsmen all the world over to be the finest living exponent of Scottish song, and in this respect the genuine successor of their great national vocalists Templeton, Wilson, Kennedy and Corbett. For the last few months he has aroused Scottish sentiment to white heat in all the leading cities of the United States. The guarantee list is still open for subscribers at Mr. H. S. Macdonald's drug store, and although an unusually large number of signatures have been secured, more are needed. The plan of the reserved seats will be open for one week, commencing Friday morning, at 10 o'clock. It is expected there will be a large and select attendance at this concert. The tickets have been placed at 50c, 35c and 25c, and a rare treat may be expected by all lovers of artistic singing.

The Houghtons.

The Houghtons are drawing big crowds nightly at the Opera House. This evening they present the "Danites" and if performances of the last two evenings are any criterion to go by, and they certainly should be, the drama will be placed before the public in a manner which cannot be carped at and will give every satisfaction.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT THE CATHEDRAL.

A Large Number of Visiting Clergy in Peterborough To day.

Pontifical High Mass was celebrated in St. Peter's Cathedral, this morning, in thanksgiving to mark the sixth anniversary of His Lordship Bishop O'Connor's episcopal consecration.

His Lordship celebrated and was assisted by Venerable Archdeacon Casey. The deacon of the mass was Father Murray, of Cobourg, and the duties of sub-deacon were performed by Father Connolly, of Campbellford. The deacons of honour for the occasion were Father Conway, of Norwood, and Father Larkin, of Grafton. In the sanctuary were the cathedral clergy and Father McCloskey, of Brighton; Father Lynch, of Port Hope; Father McColl, of Enniamore, and Vicar General Laurent, of Lindsay.

At the conclusion of the ceremony in the Cathedral, the clergy repaired to the residence of His Lordship and presented him with a life size portrait in oil of himself, executed by Mr. J. W. L. Forster, of Toronto.

The clergy were afterwards entertained at dinner by His Lordship the Bishop.

Speckled Trout.

The disciples of Isaac Walton all over the country are to-day engaged in giving the final touches to their trouting kits to be in readiness for the opening of the fishing season to-morrow. Many of the more enthusiastic town fishermen are leaving town this evening in order to be at the trout ponds and streams by daylight to-morrow. During the past week many a little coterie of fisherman have gotten together and drawn up plans for a trip to a secluded creek to angle for the speckled beauties during the next week or two.

Pete Simons, the Reliable Cutter

Announces in another column of to-day's EXAMINER the arrival of a second instalment of the summer goods which seem to have caught the public taste so quickly. It speaks well for Mr. Simons' ability as a cutter and fitter (and Peterborough ought to be proud of it), when he receives orders for garments from such distant places as Hamilton (Montana), Rochester, N. Y., British Columbia and the Northwest. Mr. Simons, we believe, is willing to verify this by producing his books, which seems to us unnecessary, as he is so widely known here as a first-class cutter and fitter.

Presbyterian Missions.

Latest advices from China are to the effect that the Chinese soldiers are deserting and forming themselves into bands for the purpose of murdering and plundering their fellow-country-men. The great cause of apprehension to the missionaries is that the army may be disbanded without pay; if that were done, vast numbers of those bands would most likely be formed and then the lives and property of the missionaries would be in great danger. The board is anxiously waiting for a restoration of peace and order in the country, so that the work of the missionaries may be carried on with greater safety.

Three Pretty, Charming Young Ladies.

Of the Webbling Sisters who appear here on Monday next, under the auspices of the Hockey Club, Toronto Saturday Night says: "The entertainment of the Webling Sisters, unlike those by many highly advertised novelties, fully deserved the ecomiums of praise with which their coming was heralded. The Misses Webling are three pretty, charming young ladies of wonderful talent in the line of high-class entertainment. The scene from Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" was capital, as was also "An April Jest," in which the characters were most aptly taken. The naive ways of petite Miss Lucy quite captivated the audience, while the stately Miss Peggy made an excellent interpreter of masculine character, and the fair Miss Rosalind in her parts also excelled. The skirt dancing by Miss Rosalind and Lucy was an entrancing treat to the audience, as was also the Irish jig and the Highland sword dance by the same two respectively, dressed in national attire, in connection with the patriotic scene with which the entertainment closed. An air of refinement pervaded the whole proceedings and added greatly to their pleasurableness. The ladies of St. James's church, under whose auspices the sisters went to Stratford, are to be congratulated upon the success of the entertainment. The audience was very large, and though the expenses were also large, there will doubtless be a handsome sum to the good."

MERIT RECOGNIZED.

Mr. Theodore Ludgate the Recipient of a Handsome Gold Watch and Chain.

Mr. Theodore Ludgate, who is severing his connection with the Crown Timber office here to assume the duties of a new position, which he has accepted with a large lumbering concern in Michigan, was, last evening, presented with a handsome gold watch and chain.

The presentation took place in the office of Messrs. Stratton & Hall, where a large number of the principal business men of the town assembled at eight o'clock, and presented the gift accompanied by the following address:

Theodore Ludgate, Esq.,

DEAR SIR,—A few, of your hosts of friends, who have heard of your intended departure from Peterborough, wish before you leave us to take this opportunity of expressing how very much we regret a circumstance which means the termination of the exceedingly pleasant personal relations that have existed for so many years. Not only shall we feel the loss personally and socially, but the community will lose a popular, energetic and public-spirited citizen. You have passed the whole of your life in this community, as boy, youth and man, and we shall miss a gentleman who by virtue of sterling qualities of character, geniality of disposition, and exceptional business ability, has won so high a place in the general esteem. You have faithfully and satisfactorily discharged the duties of the important position you have held for thirteen years, and we feel that we are amply justified in congratulating those of our American cousins who have secured your services—a promotion of which we feel the value of your services will be the best endorsement; and, while we congratulate you, the community to which you are to be removed is to be congratulated upon securing a citizen who will practically demonstrate the value of Canadian ability, reliability and fidelity to service. As a parting memento, kindly accept this gold watch and chain as a token of our good will, with the wish that it may mark for you the hours of a prosperous and happy life in your new field of labour, and that it will serve as a reminder of your Peterborough friends, who will always be pleased to hear from you, and especially of your success and advancement in life.

The address was read by Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., and the presentation was made by Mr. J. B. McWilliams.

Mr. Ludgate was too much taken by surprise, he stated, to make such a reply as he would wish to on the occasion. His friends, he was sure, understood how their action affected him. He appreciated the kind expressions contained in the address and assured those in attendance that the present occasion would be a never-to-be-forgotten one to him. He concluded by thanking them heartily for the handsome gift with which they had seen fit to present him.

Mr. J. R. Stratton recalled reminescences of old school days spent with Mr. Ludgate, as did a number of other speakers.

Mr. J. B. McWilliams was sure no one would miss Mr. Ludgate as much as he himself, having been constantly associated with him for so many years in connection with the Crown Lands department.

Other speakers followed, in fact all took occasion to express their high esteem for Mr. Ludgate and the universal regret at hearing of his intended departure from Peterborough.

The assembly only broke up after each and every one had personally wished Mr. Ludgate every success in the new duties which he is assuming.

Our citizens generally will join with those who honoured Mr. Ludgate so deservedly last evening, in the regret at his departure. He has won great esteem in every capacity as a citizen, and all will unite in extending to him the most cordial wishes for happiness and material success. Mr. Ludgate left this morning for his new home and field of duty.

Quick Work.

On February 27th, the office and entire plant of the Folding Sawing Machine Company, of Chicago was destroyed in the great fire on the West Side, which involved a total loss to manufacturing interests of $750,000. Notwithstanding the fact that it was necessary for above mentioned company to have malleable castings made, which usually takes about four weeks, this company, with commendable enterprise, shaped matters so they were able to fill orders in just 21 days from the date of the fire. This was certainly quick work, and the gentlemen connected with this company deserve a great deal of credit for their energy and push. Their new address is Folding Sawing Machine Company, 64 and 66 So. Clinton street, Chicago. 3d100

A FESTAL TRIBUTE TO BISHOP O'CONNOR.

GRACEFUL GREETINGS OF THE CONVENT CHILDREN.

An Excellent Programme Presented—Bright Vocal and Floral Tributes—His Lordship's Thanks—A Large Attendance—Successful Celebration of the Sixth Anniversary.

Last night was the eve of the sixth anniversary of the episcopal consecration of Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Connor, and he was greeted on the occasion with a delightful reception and festal tribute by the children of the Convent, Congregation de Notre Dame. The beautiful music hall of the Convent building was the scene of the festivity, and it was beautifully and tastefully decorated for the occasion. Graceful festoons of bunting, red, white and blue, surrounded the hall and extended from the four corners to the centre. The school children who were present in strong force, occupied the eastern end and sides of the hall to about midway and were arranged in shining ranks on graded seats. They were all clad in white, and with their happy faces, as bright and beaming as their snowy attire, were a very pretty sight to see. The seating space of the hall was crowded with visitors, the friends and relatives of the pupils assembled to assist the little ones in doing honour to a prelate deservedly held in the highest esteem.

Shortly after eight o'clock to the stirring strains of a joyous march, the Bishop entered the hall attended by the clergy, Very Rev. Archdeacon Casey, Rev. Father Larkin, Grafton, Rev. Father O'Connell, Rev. Father Scollard and Rev. Father Collins.

Among the guests present were Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., and Mr. J. Hampden Burnham.

"THE FESTAL TRIBUTE."

As the strains of the march died away, His Lordship took his seat and a very pleasing and appropriate programme was presented. The first number was a strikingly apposite and effective chorus sung by the children, "Hail Festal day," the words of which were a tribute of respect to the honoured guest of the evening, coupled with the most earnest and gracefully expressed wishes for happiness. The next was entitled "Queen Cheerfulness," a dialogue of most interesting character and beauty, the same sentiments of respectful devotion and fervent good wishes pervading it, and incidental to it was the pretty ceremony of laying gorgeously beautiful flowers at the feet of his Lordship.

To this succeeded a magnificently presented overture by eight performers on four pianos, a concealed organ adding special effectiveness to the spirited and finely concerted performance of the young ladies. Another excellent chorus was "Wishes for our beloved Bishop," followed by a fascinatingly pretty "May Day Drill." A score of pretty flower crowned little girls, each armed with a basket of flowers, under command of Miss Hilda Kelly, performed a series of tantalisingly intricate evolutions; the manner in which the innocent and sprightly Amasonian band performed their warlike march was delightful to behold, and the climax when they heaped their blooming baskets of flowers at the bishop's feet, was the signal for hearty applause. After instrumental music and a very sweetly sung vocal solo by Miss Lily Jackson, to which the pianoforte accompaniment, played by Sister St. Mary, was practically perfect, a complimentary dialogue, embodying the most beautiful sentiments and concluding with the ceremony of the presentation of chaplets and wreaths of flowers to the honoured guest of the evening was well given. In fact His Lordship was environed and barricaded with flowers, the collective gifts of the little people.

The exceedingly pleasing programme was brought to a conclusion by a lively performance of Irish airs upon four pianos.

HIS LORDSHIP'S ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

The Bishop briefly, but heartily, thanked the little people and the good sisters for the exceeding gracefulness and cordiality of their welcome. He had been here six years, and every year seemed to increase his happiness. He was pleased with the good wishes and floral gifts, which were symbolic of the many virtues a bishop should possess. The memory of the delightful scenes and innocent devotion of the evening would be a pleasant one to him when he was far away among the hardships of the distant portions of his diocese. He graciously granted the children of the Convent and other schools a holiday—today—and felt sure that the good sisters would see that they were well supplied with sweets.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., in a few words congratulated His Lordship on the occasion, and spoke of the respect and esteem in which he was held, not only by his own flock, but by all denominations in town, increasing with the years of his residence amongst us. He spoke of the excellence of the entertainment which was a tribute to the effective character of the instruction imparted at this school. He felt that he only echoed the mind of the citizens generally in extending to the Bishop the most cordial congratulations and good wishes on the occasion.

Mr. J. H. Burnham in a few graceful terms expressed his congratulations for the present and good wishes for the future.

Ven. Archdeacon Casey in adding his congratulations, remarked that the dutiful sentiments expressed by the children were only a reflection of the teachings they received at the convent. The children had spoken eloquently for themselves and on behalf of the people, the clergy of the town, and he might add, of the diocese, he offered congratulations and good wishes.

The delightful evening was brought to a close with "God Save the Queen."

MAY DAY.

Recollections of How it is Spent in the Old Land.

Suns that set and moons that wane,
Rise and are restored again.
Stars that Orient day subdues,
Night at her return renews.
Herbs and flowers, the beauteous birth
Of the genial womb of earth,
Suffer but a transient death,
From the winter's cruel breath.
Zephyr speaks; serener skies
Warm the globe and they arise.
—Cowper.

It is not unnatural that the human heart should respond to the fresh up-springing of all things, and join in the glad chorus of welcome to the month of May. Who amongst us does not feel better and more cheerful for its advent, even though it bring in its train that foretaste of purgatory, the annual spring cleaning! But even that is made more bearable by the signs and sounds of freshness and coming beauty that are suggested by May day. For many of us memory flies back past many a year, to dales and vales all dressed in softest green in the Old Land which we still call home. There, more than here, May Day is still an event that children look forward to and welcome with simple joy. In many a pretty Devonshire village to-day the May pole will be once more platted and decked with spring's first fruit of hedge and mead, while troops of little ones dance round and round in all the joy of exuberant spring tide life. Old customs change and, alas! old scenes vanish. Blood grows colder and more sluggish and perhaps some of the brightness of life gets dimmed as the years flit by. Still, we do respond, all of us, more or less to the recollections of the past.

Of course May Day in the cities and towns of England is not observed with the quaint ceremonies of the olden time. The Canadian in London to-day will perchance come across a few parties of maskers dressed in more or less absurd costumes and dancing round a flower dressed "Jack in the Green," making such a hideous din with marrow bone and cleaver or dustpan and brush that he will gladly part with the few coppers that are required to effect a riddance of the nuisance. But away from the "madding crowd," the "hush and rush" of city life, the scene is very different, and the observance more complete and acceptable.

There, on many a village green, rosy-faced girls, with bright eyes, and fine consciousness of bright new frocks, will gather and elect the May Queen, do her homage, dance around her impromptu flower-decked throne, and acclaim her rose-crowned Majesty. Boys will join the simple throng and aid in platting with many-coloured ribbon the May Pole. Then, perhaps, there will be races, perhaps the greasy pole will be climbed by aspirants for the leg of mutton which is fastened to its top, or there may be a cricket or football match, Married v. Single, until the sun begins to bend towards the west, and tea and cake complete the happy festival. Do eyes grow dim as memory flies back to many such scenes of happy and harmless enjoyment? Do we wonder where are many of those we danced with years and years ago? Well, well, the strongest are weak, and the demands of our full, bright invigorating Canadian life soon rouse us from our day dreams, and hurry us on to our own day duties. "Hope springs eternal in the human breast," and May brings with it fresh hopes to most of us, for Country, Home, Family, Friend. May they all be fulfilled!

Are you all tired out, do you have that tired feeling or sick headache? You can be relieved of all these by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

CATARRH.

The New Remedy

Scores Benefitted by its use.

Belleville, May 20th, 1893.

I was troubled with catarrh of the head and throat for at least 10 years. I have spent hundreds of dollars with doctors and medicines of all kinds; I found plenty to give me temporary relief, but none to cure me. I tried one bottle of LOUTTIT'S CURE, it helped me and I continued its use. Eight bottles cured me, and at present I feel safe in saying that any person suffering with catarrh, that will give this treatment a proper trial and stick to it, will be permanently cured.

Those wishing any further information may write me or consult me and I will be pleased to state my case more fully.

Yours very truly,

H. J. Lisle, representing Ganong Bros., St. Stephen, N.B., says: "Chase's Ointment cured me of a very stubborn case of Itching Eczema. Tried everything advertised, several physicians' prescriptions without permanent relief. I also know of several cases of Itching Piles it has absolutely cured."

The Present Condition of the Electric Power Plant.

"Nearly three years ago you published a letter from this place in which I gave some account of how the dreams of the engineer were in the act of being realized, and, without injury to the natural beauties of the spot. Three years have passed, my work is ended, and it seems natural to continue the narrative and tell what these three years have brought forth. I am perched on top of a small Eiffel tower, lately erected, and, casting my eyes up the river, over the housetops and beyond the town, I see a new world created. There is a wide canal leading water into that gigantic power house, where three turbines are set up to drive three dynamos of 5,000 horse power each. There is the bridge to carry cables across to the transformer house. Inside the power house the water is carried down by pipes 7½ feet in diameter into the turbines, whence it passes through a 7,000 feet tunnel under the town, emerging below the falls and capable of developing 100,000 horse-power. Far as the eye can reach extend the company's lands, with here and there a huge factory, either now using the water power or waiting for the electric supply. One of these uses 3,300 horse-power, another 300, a third one 1,500, and that unfinished mill requires 1,000. You can see, far away, the model village for workingmen and improved sewage works with drainage pumps for water supply, electric light and well-paved streets. There, again, is the dock, where ships from all parts of the great lakes can unload, and there a huge expanse of reclaimed land, while the whole is swept by the company's railway, seven miles long, connecting every factory with the great trunk lines. The power is transmitted by electricity, and the first work is to produce aluminum with 1,500 horse-power. New types of machines have been devised for this work, as also for every other purpose. All criticism as to cost of electric works has been swept away by the results achieved, and the efficiency of each type of machine is greater than has been attained before. All the machinery for the first working has been made and tested in the shops, and the last parts are now being set up. The plans for carrying the power to Buffalo, eighteen miles distant, are complete. In a month or two factories will be in full operation; in a year Buffalo will be supplied; in two years the same company will be working the Canada side of the falls, and in ten years (shall we say ?) the whole of the 100,000 horse-power which can be supplied by the existing hydraulic works will be giving power to smokeless manufacturing towns. The period of planning the transmission scheme, of designing the greatest dynamos in the world and of construction of the first plant now closes. The earning of dividends and the ordering of duplicate machinery is the future work of the company. In conclusion, t ils difficult for me to say who were the boldest—the capitalists who embarked on the scheme before any plans were matured, or the manufacturers who moved their factories to this field before a single result had been achieved. The action of both was typically American, but their confidence was not misplaced. Theft success is now assurred."—Prof. Forbes, in London Times.

The Coldest Winter.

The most notable thing about the spell of cold weather through which we have passed is its widespread intensity. All Europe has been in the grasp of the ice king, and his antics are more talked about than those of any other monarch. In far Asia Japanese sailers were frozen to death while training their guns on the Chinese forts at Wei-Hai-Wei, and even in Northern Africa snow fell for the first time in so long a period that grown men gazed at it with wonder.

What does it all mean? Scientists have been at work for years to figure out a law of climatic and weather changes, and their conclusion is that it takes between thirty and thirty-five years to get from the extreme of heat to the extreme of cold. Just why this is they cannot tell, but their delving into the old records convinces them that there is some natural law at work and that sooner or later it will be discovered.

Five years ago a Swiss professor, Brueckner by name, published a book called "Climatic Oscillations Since 1700," and, strangely enough, his calculations made it appear that one of the culminating periods of extreme cold would come around about this time—perhaps in this very year—to be followed by gradually increasing warmer weather, which is scheduled to reach its highest point about the end of the first quarter of the next century.

While we think of our present sufferings, we may, therefore, turn for consolation to 1895 or 1930, and revel in the anticipation of the mildest winter that we can secure in this latitude.—New York News.

Solomon's Temple.

The cost of Solomon's Temple and its interior decorations and other paraphernalia was one of the wonders of the olden times. According to Villalpandus, the "talents" of gold, silver and brass used in its construction were valued at the enormous sum of $6,579,823,000. The worth of the jewels is generally placed at a figure equally as high. The vessels of gold, according to Josephus, were valued at 140,000 talents, which, reduced to English money (as has been shown by Chapel's reduction tables), was equal to £575,296,103. The vessels of silver, according to the same authorities, were still more valuable, being set down as worth $640,344,000. Priests' vestments and robes of singers, £2,016,000; trumpets, £200,000.

To this add the expense of building materials, labor, etc., and we get some wonderful figures. Ten thousand men hewing cedars, 60,000 bearers of burdens, 80,000 hewers of stone, 3,300 overseers, all of which were employed for seven years and upon whom, besides their wages, Solomon bestowed £6,733,997.

If their daily food was worth two shillings each, the sum total for all was £63,877,063 during the time of building. The materials in the rough are estimated as having been worth £2,545,337,000. These several estimates show the total cost to have been £17,442,442,168, or $71,521,665,936 in United States money.

The Other Side.

Railroad President (sternly)—You look sleepy this morning, Mr. Dash. I am now sixty years old, and I have always made it a point in life to get to bed by nine o'clock and get ten hours' sleep.

Stenographer (making short calculation)—But only think, sir, that, reckoning your time at a just valuation, you have wasted three hundred and forty thousand eight hundred dollars in bed, to say nothing of the fun you've lost by getting there before 2 a.m.

Nervous People

And those who are all tired out and have that tired feeling or sick headache can be relieved of all these symptoms by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives nerve, mental and bodily strength and thoroughly purifies the blood. AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. FENWICK, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the varioloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. WEBER, Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

SILVERWARE VERY CHEAP.

Various Effects of Cheap Silver Upon the Silversmith's Trade.

Since silver bullion has fallen so greatly in price there have been some strange manifestations in the business of the silversmiths. It might perhaps have been expected that the fall in price would bring about an improvement in the quality of solid silverware, but exactly the opposite has happened. Labor is always a large element in the price of really well executed silverware, especially of the larger pieces. Now the price of labor did not fall with the price of silver, so that the decrease in cost of solid ware of good quality was slow and really surprisingly small. The public that had been waiting for the change was disappointed, and to meet the expectations of such persons a large quantity of light and cheaply made solid ware was produced. This had the effect of narrowing the market for well-made ware and of further reducing its price. Persons unskilled in silverware bought the light, ill-executed ware without suspecting its inferiority to that of our grandmothers, and ware of a better quality remained on the hands of the dealers. The richest silverware has retained its value among the wealthy, and the price is still high, but ordinary tablespoons, teaspoons and the like, even of heavyweight, have fallen greatly in price.

So cheap is the light silverware made in answer to the expected fall in price that many makers of plated ware have gone into the sterling business, and many dealers in plated ware have gradually worked off their stock at a reduction and replaced with solid silver of the cheaper sort. It is said the light, solid silver, at least in the simpler articles, does not cost more than 25 per cent. more than well-made plated ware. The consequence is that plated ware has been discarded by many persons that have used it for ordinary occasions. Even good plate has to be renewed several times in the lifetime of the owner, and replating in good fashion is not economical. The cost of a new plated spoon is scarcely more than five cents above that of replating an old one, provided the replating be properly done. It is a saying of the silversmiths that you can plate Union square for a dollar, and plated ware subjected to the acid bath yields scarcely enough to pay for the process. Hotels which use up a set of plated ware in three or four years would find solid silver at present prices much cheaper but for the danger of loss by theft. Clubs doubtless would use solid silver but for the annoying necessity of daily counting and checking it would involve.

Of course, the manufacture of large articles in plated ware has not been so seriously affected by the fall of silver. Only the rich can buy such articles in sterling. Much of the best plated now is imported in the baser metal and plated in this country. This is true of some articles sold by the most reputable manufacturers of plated ware. The demand for cheap and tawdry large articles in plate continues, and the poorest of this stuff has but a thin wash of real silver.

Since the fall in the price of silverware the large dry goods houses have introduced solid silver spoons, and other plain articles into their stock, and are selling them at what seem amazingly low prices. The presence of these things in the dry goods houses, and latterly in even small shops of all sorts has greatly helped to popularize the use of sterling. Such things are usually sold singly and often to persons who would not go to the expense of buying a dozen spoons at a time. Sixty-seven cents seems a trifle to put into a spoon, and between birthdays, Christmas, marriage anniversaries, and like occasions, the thrifty housewife gradually gets together the dozen silver spoons she has coveted all her married life. After that one trifle or another is added until the table is fitted out for gala occasions with all the small silver needed for a respectable show. To be sure it is ill made to critical eyes, and light to the hand, but not lighter than cherished old spoons that have come down as heirlooms in richer families.

Persons who have not bought silverware in a long while and have been accustomed to the rich and heavy spoons of 40 years ago, are fairly dazed by the cheapness of the new silver. A lady whose silverware was old went to a shop not long ago to buy three or four spoons. The proprietor left her in charge of a clerk and returned to find a counter covered with spoons of all sizes, and the lady, in delight at their cheapness, preparing to buy four or five times the number of articles she at first had in mind.—N. Y. Sun.

A Golden Masterpiece.

Wenzel Jamnitzer's golden centrepiece the most exquisite piece of German goldsmith's work ever produced, is about to be lost to Germany. It is three feet high, the upper portion, held by a female figure, representing the earth, and was made for the Nuremberger Town Council in 1546. The material is silver, gilded and enamelled; the artist was paid 1,525 guldens for his work. At the beginning of the century it was bought by a merchant named Merkel, in whose family it remained till sold in 1590 to the Frankfort Rothschilds, and was known to sightseers as the Merkel centrepiece. The late Emperor Frederick III. when Crown Prince, saw the work, and obtained a promise from the owner that if it was ever sold, he should have the first refusal, but he was unwilling to pay the $200,000, which the Rothschilds gave for it. By the will of Meyer Karl von Rothschild's widow, the art treasure of the Frankfort house, including the Jamnitzer piece, are bequeathed to the Paris and London families. Some German papers, in consequence, ask for a law like that of Italy, prohibiting the exportation of works of art without the permission of the Government.—Architect and Builder.

Do You Know

That good manners seem to be at a discount nowadays?

That andromania is the aping of everything that is mannish?

That to mind your own business is one of the greatest arts in the world?

That contentment comes from within?

That self-consciousness is an impediment to success?

That to be a good listener is an accomplishment much to be desired?

That it is a very bad habit to accuse one of always having a motive?

A Good Thing Hard to Sell.

"Do you think you can sell a good thing for its value?" asked the major, as the crowd were sitting in a prominent cafe. "If you do, you are away off yonder and I'll tell you why I say so. I went out to Leadville in the days when its boom was booming. By good luck I got hold of some eight or ten pieces of mining property right in the best portion of the camp. Money was needed to develop the property and I came east and organized a company. The company was composed of the very best men in a certain town. The company issued stock and sent me out to sell it.

"But it was almost impossible to sell it. Leaving Pittsburg one night for Philadelphia to try to make sale of some of the stock, I met on the train a member of a wholesale firm that I had known for years. We went to the smoking car to enjoy a cigar and there I incidentally told him what my object was for returning to the east. He remarked at once: 'If your stock is all right you can sell it.'

"'Well,' I replied, 'you can't always sell a good thing, and I'll prove it right now. You see those two men sitting in the front of the car across the aisle. Well, here's a good $5 bill. I'll bet you $10 that you can't go over there and sell it to either of them for as much as $2.'

"He took the bet, and after he had made the trial I took his money. He came near taking a licking, too, from the men. He tried all his arts of persuasion, but he couldn't get them to even take the bill in their hands. They thought it was some kind of a bunco game, and he couldn't have gotten either of them to take it as a gift. No, indeed, you can't always sell a good thing for its value."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Absent Minded.

There is an Illinois congressman who is a trifle absent minded. His friends tell a story about him which exasperates him so that he has threatened to kill the very next person who repeats it. That only proves that it is true, you know. However, this is the story. The congressman was walking along a Chicago street one day with a friend, when he was stopped by a beggar.

The congressman—you know how tender-hearted congressmen are—went down into his pocket. He looked at the beggar sympathetically as he handed him a half dollar.

"How long have you been dumb?" he asked.

"Twenty years," said the beggar.

"Dear me! dear me!" murmured the congressman, as he walked on. "Isn't that dreadful! Dumb twenty years."

And then the point dawned on him.—Washington Post.

Made Harder.

The Bacillus shrugged his shoulders. "This kiss theory makes me tired," he exclaimed. My mission was certainly unpopular enough without dragging me into the chaperone business.

With which he glowered savagely into space.—Detroit Tribune.

True Charity.

Flowery Fields—W'ere ye bin fer de last two months, Willie?

Wayside Willie—W'y, 'twas dis way. I asked a kind-lookin' lady fer alms. She takes me in; gives me a square; asks me does I want ter sleep over night on a feather-bed. Does I? Course I does. Nex' mornin' her husban' 'rests me, tries me, fines me twenty dollars an' costs an' puts me in de cooler ter work it out. He was de local judge an' got half de fine an' most uv de costs.—Judge.

Wit of the Wayfarers.

A hard-looking tramp came into the office of the charities of a certain metropolitan church with a most forlorn story of destitution. The minister in charge had previously received unfavorable reports of this very man from the Charity Organization Society. After listening to his story he said: "I have heard all about you from the Charity Organization Society. They don't think much of you."

Bless the "Tuffy" Lad.

A jaunty young woman tossed a half withered rose into the street just before she went up the steps to the bridge. A Hop o' My Thumb newsboy instantly darted out from the crowd to pick it up. He buttoned his jacket over it carefully and then scudding to his companions, explained in a half ashamed way, "My sister, she likes posies."

A Well Known Gentlemen in the District of Algoma Writes About His Sufferings.

GENTLEMEN,—About three months ago I was all used up with Rheumatism, suffering more than torture from it frequently. I took three bottles of your valuable medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, and now feel all O. K. again. Some six years ago I took a few bottles of B. B. B. and found it the best medicine I had ever used. I had the best of health until this attack of rheumatism, but now I am glad to say that B.B.B. has made me as sound as a dollar.

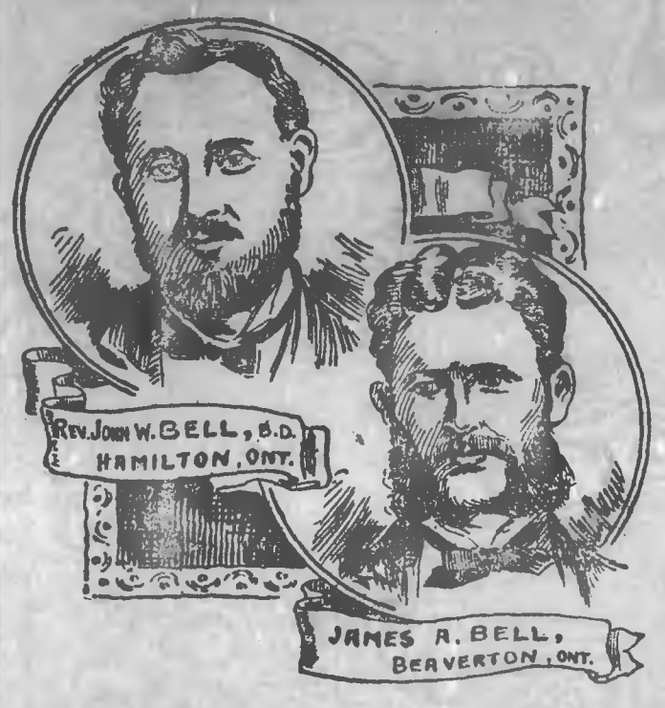
BUILT UP THE SYSTEM IN A WONDERFUL MANNER.

James A. Bell, of Beaverton, Ont., Brother of the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., Prostrated by Nervous Headaches—A Victim of the Trouble for Several Years—South American Nervine Effected a Complete Cure.



In their own particular field few men are better known than the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., and his brother, Mr. James A. Bell. The former will be recognized by his thousands of friends all over the country as the popular and able missionary superintendent of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Among the 20,000 members of this order in Ontario, his counsel is sought on all sorts of occasions. On the public platform he is one of the strong men of the day, battling against the evils of intemperance. Equally well known is Mr. Bell in other provinces of the Dominion, having been for years a member of the Manitoba Methodist Conference, and part of this time was stationed in Winnipeg. His brother, Mr. James A. Bell is a highly respected resident of Beaverton, where his influence, though perhaps more circumscribed than that of his eminent brother, is none the less effective and productive of good. Of recent years, however, the working ability of Mr. James A. Bell has been sadly marred by severe attacks of nervous headaches, accompanied by indigestion. Who can do fit work when this trouble takes hold of them, and especially when it becomes chronic, as was, seemingly, the case with Mr. Bell. The trouble reached such intensity that last June he was completely prostrated. In this condition a friend recommended South American Nervine. Ready to try anything and everything, though he thought he had covered the list of proprietary medicines, he secured a bottle of this great discovery. A second bottle of the medicine was taken and the work was done. Employing his own language: "Two bottles of South American Nervine immediately relieved my headaches and have built up my system in a wonderful manner." Let us not deprecate the good our clergymen and social reformers are doing in the world, but how ill-fitted they would be for their work were it not the relief that South American Nervine brings to them when physical ills overtake them, and when the system as a result of hard, earnest and continuous work, breaks down. Nervine treats the system as the wise reformer treats the evils he is battling against. It strikes at the root of the trouble. All disease comes from disorganization of the nerve centers. This is a scientific fact. Nervine at once works on these nerve centers; gives to them health and vigor; and then there courses through the system strong, healthy, life-maintaining blood, and nervous troubles of every variety are things of the past.

FOOTBALL.

On Saturday evening last the Keene Football club organized for the season. The officers are as follows:
Hon. President—H. English.
President—J. Miller.
Sec.-Treas—J. Quinn.
Captain—Mr. Porter.
Committee—F. Quinn and A. Walsh.

LACROSSE.

The Secretary of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club has received a communication from the crack Crescent Lacrosse Club, of Montreal, asking to come to Peterborough for a game on the 24th. As the local team goes to Campbellford on that date, a game may be arranged for later on in the season.

Arrangements for the transportation of the players has been made with the Street Railway Company, and even more satisfactory terms have been secured for the use of the Driving Park for practise and matches. The men are all eager to get out in the field, and doubtless the first practice will be held at the latter end of the week.

A committee will start out to-day with a subscription list, and doubtless the citizens will subscribe liberally to the support of Peterborough's crack lacrosse team.

A meeting of the executive committee of the junior lacrosse club is called for this evening, at eight o'clock, in the rooms over the Palace Restaurant. Members please take notice.

THE OAR.

Mr. W. W. Paner, manager of Jake Gaudaur, the oarsman, would like to make arrangements to bring the champion to Peterborough for an exhibition race if a demonstration is held here this season. Such an event would prove a strong drawing card without a doubt.

THE WHEEL.

Henceforth no horses will be allowed on the race track at the driving park and already men are at work transforming it into an ideal bicyclist speeding path. The members of the club wishing to use the track for training purposes will be assessed the nominal sum of $2.00. Lockers, shower-bath, dressing rooms, etc., are in course of erection for the wheelmen and lacrossists.

The fixtures in the way of club runs for May are as follows:—

Friday,	May 3rd	Chemong
Tuesday,	" 7th	Lakefield
Friday,	" 10th	Chemong
Tuesday,	" 14th	Lakefield
Friday,	" 17th	Chemong
Tuesday,	" 21st	Lakefield
Friday,	" 24th	Chemong
Tuesday,	" 28th	Lakefield
Friday,	" 31st	Chemong

The wheelmen will meet on those evenings at the Post Office corner, at 6:45 o'clock sharp, and the members are particularly requested to make a good showing the first evening. Every officer of the club should be on the scene and participate in the run.

BATTALION NOTES.

At the meeting of the officers of the 57th last evening a telegram was read from Captain W. N. Ponton, of the 15th Battalion of Belleville, as follows: "Regret exceedingly, battalion under present unsettled circumstances of re-organization, unable to accept your kind invitation for the 24th." This practically puts an end to all idea of holding a demonstration in Peterborough on the Queen's Birthday, so the citizens will probably patronize the Campbellford celebration and go down to that town en masse almost.

There was a good turn out of men last night and over an hour was put in drilling under Sgt. Major Peters and Sgt. Roberts. A very large turnout is expected on Tuesday evening next as the new tunics will be issued, and naturally those having the first pick will get the best fitting uniform.

The members of the non-commissioned officers' mess have decided to excurt to either Jubilee or Idyl Wyld on the Queen's Birthday, and doubtless a jolly party will accompany the non-coms. down the river.

Messrs. F. D. McKay and Vernon McGill are qualifying for lieutenancy's in the Battalion, and will probably be gazetted next week.

AN IMMENSE PROVINCIAL GATHERING.

The Choirs of Ontario will be Formed Into an Immense Mass Gathering.

A number of those known to be interested in music and concerned in its advancement, in town, are in receipt of the following circular from Mr. Charles A. Winter, of Waterloo, regarding the meeting of the choirs of Eastern Ontario, at Peterborough, some time during the summer:—

DEAR SIR AND MADAM,—As you, no doubt, are aware the choirs of Western Ontario celebrated their third annual gathering at Sarnia, on the 19th of July, 1894, and so popular has the idea become that it required 10 large trains to transport the party; the mass choruses were taken part in by 1500 voices, accompanied by over 50 instruments, and 4 mixed choruses of 40 to 64 voices, and 3 male choruses of 12 to 20 voices each, entered the competition.

This season we are arranging to meet in London and expect over 2000 voices to take part.

The aim is to hold an immense Provincial gathering in Toronto, in 1896, and to carry out the idea it is proposed to hold two other gatherings this season, one at Collingwood for the northern district and another at Peterborough for the eastern district.

In order to thoroughly explain the project and enlist the co-operation of its citizens, we propose to call a meeting of all interested at Peterborough, in the council chamber, next Friday, May 3rd, at 8.30 p. m., and would respectfully invite you to meet us and discuss the project.

The object is to have musicians of all denominations, irrespective of class or creed, unite in spending a social time together, and join in rendering a number of mass choruses, the effect of which is inspiring and instructive.

Hoping to have the pleasure of meeting you on the 3rd inst., I am
Respectfully yours,
CHAS. A. WINTER,
Secretary.

P. S.—Please invite any interested friend to come along.

It is hoped that the musical portion of the community will be well represented at the Council Chamber on Friday evening next.

SENT TO THE MERCER FOR SIX MONTHS.

Martha and Mary Middleton, of Peterborough, Sentenced.

The Toronto News says:—

"The two dishonest domestics who gave the names of Edith and Ethel White, convicted of stealing a number of articles from the houses in which they were employed, came up for sentence.

"The magistrate read to them a letter from Chief of Police Reazel, of Peterborough, in which it was stated that their correct names were Mary and Martha Middleton, natives of the township of Dummer, in the county of Peterborough. On July 28th, 1893, Mary had served a term for robbing her mistress, and both sisters, when about to leave for Toronto, had been arrested at the C.P.R. station with a trunkful of stolen property. They had changed their names about as often as they had changed their situations, and the town considered itself lucky to be rid of them.

"Col. Denison gave them each six months in the Mercer Reformatory. Both prisoners laughed at the sentence. 'That's not so bad at all,' said one of them. 'I could stand in a hole that long.'"

DROWNED IN PINE LAKE.

(Lindsay Post.)

A little over a week ago two young men named Robert and David Atcheson, sons of Mrs. Alex. Bell, of Dunsford, went north to engage in river driving for Howry & Sons. Yesterday afternoon while working on Pine Lake, near Gooderham, Robert missed his footing and fell into the water, and being unable to swim he sank before assistance arrived. His body was raised to the surface inside of 20 minutes by his companions, who grappled for it with pike poles, and everything possible was done to restore animation, but without success. The body was brought down by the sorrowing brother this morning and taken to Dunsford.

Marital Trouble. Then Suicide.

Montreal, May 1.—A woman named Mrs. Jean Baptiste Pelletier of Turcotte village, one of the outlying suburbs of Montreal, committed suicide by swallowing a dose of Paris green, because she had some difficulty with her husband. She gave birth to a little girl half an hour after she had taken the poison. Both mother and child are dead.

The Fish Poachers Escape.

Port Colborne, Ont., May 1.—The four Buffalo fishermen who were arrested yesterday by the patrol steamer Dolphin, with their boats, made their escape last night by cutting loose one of the boats and quietly pulling out into the lake unnoticed. The other boat and such tackle as the Dolphin's crew had secured has been taken into the old lock for security.

Britain and the U.S. Controversy

New York, May 1.—The Herald's Manitoba despatch says: In an interview yesterday a leading statesman said: "Our Government has received official advices from Washington, by which we gather that the Americans have turned their back upon us and refuse to succor us in the hour of trial.

"The English have at least pluck in their favor. They have the insolence to defy through us the entire American continent, while the United States can never justify its weakness of action, which will remain a blot upon its history.

"Weak and small as our nation is, we have shown more courage than the United States, who encouraged us, only to desert us at the last moment."

In concluding the interview, he said he would have preferred to see the much-vaunted Monroe doctrine die a more dignified death.

Cuban Rebels Routed.

Guantanamo, Cuba, May 1.—A force of Government troops, under command of Major Tejerino, made an attack today upon a band of insurgents at Ramon De Las. A desperate fight ensued, which resulted in the total rout of the rebels, with a loss of 72 killed and a large number wounded. The Government force lost six killed and three wounded.

Friday, the 10th day of May, 1895,

at 3 o'clock p.m. at Dean's Mill, Bridgenorth, by John Haggart, Auctioneer, the following valuable property, viz:—

PARCEL NO. 1.—

A 50-barrel Roller Mill.

Part of lot No. 15 in the Village of Bridgenorth, more particularly described in registered instrument No 623 for the Township of Smith, save and except the south 100 feet of said part of said lot.

Upon this parcel there is erected a large four-story Flour Mill, 34x54 feet, with a large stone engine room 33x32 feet attached, and also an office 12x18 feet attached to Mill. This Flour Mill is situate on the shore of Chemong Lake on the main travelled road in the district and is most convenient for milling purposes for a large number of farmers in the thickly settled and prosperous Townships of Smith, Ennismore, Emily, Verulam and Harvey.

This mill has been recently equipped with all the most improved and modern machinery. A new pan sifter was put in last summer.

PARCEL NO. 2.—

A Frame House in Bridgenorth.

Part of said lot No. 15 being the south 100 feet of the land more particularly described in registered instrument No. 623 for the Township of Smith.

This parcel is immediately south of the above flour mill and there is erected upon it a frame one-and-a-half storey dwelling house 21x32 feet, with a summer kitchen attached.

PARCEL No. 3.—

Six Acre Lot adjoining Bridgenorth

Part of lot No 12, on the east side of the Communication road, in the Township of Smith, more particularly described in registered instrument No. 7271 for the County of Peterborough, save and except that portion sold to Kelly under registered instrument No. 4226 for the said Township of Smith.

PARCEL No. 4.—

Bridgenorth Village Lots.

Lots Nos. 66 and 69 on Colbourne street and lot 65 on Charles street, all on registered plan No. 4 for the Township of Smith. These lots are nearly opposite the Methodist Church and are excellent building lots.

Also the following Chattels: One Smith Purifier, Two Gray Centrifugals, one run of stones, two set of Platform Scales, Shovels, &c.

TERMS OF SALE:—Ten per cent. of the purchase money at the time of sale and the balance to be paid within thirty days thereafter, without interest. Chattels to be sold for cash. There will be a reserved bid.

Further particulars and conditions of sale may be obtained from Messrs. STRATTON & HALL, Peterborough, or from the undersigned.

HATS
"We are HATTERS, successful in our business. We sell cheap and sell the quantity and the quality.
"We know Clothiers that sell Clothing. Their capital is in their business. Close buyers patronize them. They do a good solid trade."
We are not egotistical enough to suppose that the able writer of the above lines had our store in mind when he wrote them, yet it fits us—fits us like our Hats.
Our Hat department DOES grow every year. As the "Spring time comes, gentle Annie," and the season for renewing Hats draws on apace, the styles we show take precedence with the best dressed men and b'hoys.

COST
Ah, yes! COST is what counts every time. Take our "Stanley," for instance. You can't get over that 'Stanley' Hat of ours. You do not pay anything extra for style with us. Double the price could not improve the quality. Our unequalled facilities for bringing to you the latest shapes have, this season, resulted in one of those surprises to our Hat competitors that never misses the target.
Stylish Hats from $1.50 up. "Derbys" and "Fedoras," if you like, at $3.00.
If you prefer a Soft Hat, the correct thing is the "Tourist." But we carry every CONCEIVABLE shape fit to wear at every CONCEIVABLE price.

LESS
LESS than our price is too low for a Hat. We make price an important item and this we fix so as to get merely a decent profit. Selling Hats along with Clothing helps to make the price less than if we sold Hats alone, We don't put all our eggs in one basket.
"Yes!" we need about as many styles as we have customers. Nobody—except he be a twin—wants a Hat exactly like somebody else. Didn't somebody say "variety is the spice of life." If so, you will find our Hat stock highly seasoned.

AT
GOUGH'S Hats are always Good. Not to have one of GOUGH'S Hats is to miss what most becomes you. Put us to the proof of what we have stated, and we are willing to be "called down," if we can't sell you your favourite Hat in a canter. We can suit you in—
Men's Hats,
Boy's Hats,
Children's Hats,
Tweed Caps,
Soft Hats,
Silk Hats,
And remember—PRICES ARE ALWAYS LESS AT
GOUGH BROS.
The Wonderful Cheap Men.

BOOTS
The value of a Boot depends as everybody knows, upon something altogether outside of the material itself. That something is "Style." The skill of the shoemaker to produce fit and effect goes a long way. The best Shoemaker's come to us and we go to them; and when you come to look at the stylish boot we can give you for your money the prices are hardly worth mentioning.

SHOES
Its the same with SHOES. A trim and handsome foot is what every lady yearns for; and gentlemen who want to please their wives or sweethearts should profit by this knowledge and make their feet shapely and pleasing by wearing GOUGH'S SHOES—which are the acme of style and shoemaking skill. It is an old saying: "worn on the heel spends a good deal;" worn on the ball, spends it all," worn on the toes, spends as he goes;" "worn on the side, will be a rich man's bride."

PRICES
You have two feet and those two feet must have shoes, for the weather was'nt made on a bare-footed plan. To get into a shoe store where you feel at home and where they keep your favourite Shoes, is a treat. That is what Gough Bros. offer you. You have feet and we have shoes to fit them at prices that will win you for a customer. Who's to blame if you have been buying shoes at stores where they don't care whether they fit you or not, so long as they sell you something? Try GOUGH'S.

DOWN
Wonderful reductions are made to promptly remove stock and make room for more Summer Styles. Selling Clothing and Hats alongside of Boots and Shoes lets down the price. Here are some things to remember us by:—
Ladies' Shoes from 90c to $3.00
Misses' Shoes from 75c to $1.50
Men's Shoes from $1.00 to $3.00
Boy's Shoes from 75c. to $1.50
Children's Shoes from 50c to $1.00
Infant's Shoes from 25c to $1.00
Ladies' Spats 35c, 50c, 75c.
Excuse our persistence. Prices will be kept DOWN all summer,—at the same time qualities and styles will be ALWAYS GOOD

WHY FOSTER RUNS IN YORK

Mr. McMullen Exposes a Piece of Outrageous Jobbery.

BAD DAY FOR LEADER OF THE HOUSE

One of the Most Disgraceful Transactions in the History of the Tory Party—Mr. Lister's Pointed Threats Cause Mr. Foster to Lose His Temper.

Ottawa, May 2.—The first of May saw a battle royal on the floor of Parliament that was not equalled during the stirring times of 1891, when the Government, convicted of wholesale corruption, was driven into a corner and forced to fight for its life like a tiger at bay. One of the most disgraceful transactions that have marked the Conservative Administration was exposed by Mr. McMullen and adversely commented upon by members of the Opposition. It was in connection with the loan of $300,000 to the Fredericton and St. Mary's Bridge Company, of which Mr. Temple, the member for York, N.B., was a leading spirit, and who has declined renomination in that constituency to make room for the Minister of Finance.

As explained by Mr. McMullen, the company started out with a capital of $200,000, of which 10 per cent., amounting to $20,000, was paid up. In 1887 the Government gave it a loan of $300,000, with interest at 4 per cent., or $12,000 a year, which was paid for one year only—the year that Sir Charles Tupper was Minister of Finance. In 1888 Mr. Foster became Minister of Finance. The company constructed the bridge and 2 1-10 miles of railway, the alleged cost of which was $419,586. In addition to the paid-up capital and the Government loan the company issued bonds to the amount of $50,000, and the Government gave it a bonus of $80,000, making in all $400,000 that the company received. According to the last report that had been made to the Finance Department the company had a floating debt of $19,975, so that taking into account the cost of the bridge the floating debt and the cash received the company had a balance of $389. The company had not paid a cent of interest to the Government for the last six years, and the indebtedness had been charged to a special account. The company was liable for the loan of $300,000 for accumulated interest amounting to $72,000, bonds to the amount of $50,000, and a floating debt of $19,975, making in all $441,975, and this stood against a work, which, according to the company's report cost $419,586, so that the liability was $822,389 more than the cost of the work.

The Auditor-General drew the attention of the Minister of Finance to the default of the company in 1893, and the Minister stated that it had been charged to a special account. Again the Auditor-General drew attention of the Minister of Finance to it and the Minister said that the company had been written to but no answer had been received. The directors of the company were Alexander Gibson, another Mr. Gibson, Mr. Temple and his son-in-law.

The County of York, Mr. McMullen said, had done the Minister of Finance the honor of nominating him for the next election. This was the county in which the bridge was. It had come to a pretty pass when the money of the people was expended in this way to secure for the Minister of Finance a comfortable seat. When the member for Wellington resumed his seat there was a hurried consultation between Mr. Foster and Mr. Haggart, but neither of them had a word to say to the House.

Mr. Lister then arose and in vigorous terms denounced the transaction which had been disclosed by Mr. McMullen.

"We find," said Mr. Lister, "that the support of the member for the County of York has been purchased by a bridge at Fredericton."

This statement produced a storm of protest from the Government benches; shouts of "Order, order," rang out through the chamber.

Mr. Lister: Rewarded then.

Mr. Foster: Order, order.

Mr. Lister: Recognised then.

Mr. Foster: Order.

Mr. Lister: What is your point of order?

Mr. Foster: My point of order is that the hon. gentleman has got up in this House and made the deliberate assertion that the support of an hon. gentleman on this side of the House was purchased by a loan made to the company for the purpose of building a bridge. He has not taken it back.

Mr. Lister: I won't say purchased; I'll take that back. Will recognised do? To please the Minister of Finance, I will withdraw the word "purchased." We do find, at all events, that the member for York has supported him in all his acts, and there may be a question as to whether all these acts will bear the closest possible scrutiny.

Mr. Temple got up and everybody listened: "In reference to my being purchased," he began, but Mr. Lister interrupted him with the remark, "I withdrew that."

The member for York proceeded: "That will require me still to follow up the same statement. I can tell the honorable gentleman that I never was offered one cent, one dollar or anything else by the Government, and so far as the company is concerned, they have sunk in that bridge $120,000 of their own money. I never was purchased by the Government with one single cent, but I have been asked by one of the leading men on the Opposition side to join them, and I have been told that if I would do so they would buy the bridge and pay the money. (Liberal cries of "Name, name.")

Mr. Temple: I would not expose that man.

At this there was a great uproar and Mr. Temple gesticulated wildly and shouted, but his voice was drowned in the din. The Liberals continued to demand the name or a withdrawal.

Mr. Charlton said that Mr. Temple must give the name, and if he refused to do so the statement must be regarded as being without foundation.

Mr. Temple: I didn't say it was a member of this House, but a member of your party. (Liberal members: "Name, name.")

Mr. Hasen, the junior member for St. John, N.B., came to the assistance of the member from York and the Finance Minister, and endeavored to defend their conduct.

Mr. Foster attacked Mr. McMullen, but declined to enter into a discussion of the case until the papers were brought down.

Sir Richard Cartwright, who treated the matter with characteristic vigor, referred to Mr. Temple as a defaulting debtor of the Government, and as such he declared that it was impossible that he could have been a free agent in supporting them in the House. His conduct had been a violation of the spirit of the Independence of Parliament Act. There never was a clearer case of "Heads I win, and tails you lose," so far as the company was concerned. From a business point of view it was indefensible.

Mr. Mulock took up the subject when Mr. Foster gave no sign of replying to the questions which Sir Richard had asked him. He demanded to know why the Finance Minister had not collected the interest due to the Government that he had not done so was a plain neglect of his duty. Had it come to this, he asked, that the country had to buy seats for ministers of the Crown?

Mr. Foster asked what he meant by this insinuation and there ensued a stormy scene during which, while the leader of the House was taunting Mr. Mulock with being afraid to make a manly charge, Mr. Mulock was declaring his perfect willingness to repeat all that he had said about a seat being purchased at the country's expense.

The arrival of 6 o'clock postponed the conclusion of the debate.

In his argument before the Privy Council on the Manitoba school case Mr. D'Alton McCarthy disclaimed any connection with the P.P.A. organization. The president of that organization is Mr. E. S. Busby of Southampton, Ont., and in an official circular, called 226, dated Feb. 25, 1895, Mr. Busby says: "Your executive have also conferred with Mr. D'Alton McCarthy, M.P. Mr. McCarthy has guaranteed that he will stand by every plank in our platform and fight to the bitter end every measure that we wish to introduce in the House of Commons along these lines, and we, therefore, urge that we bring out our candidates as McCarthy men, wherever practicable, as we believe that 'secrecy as to our nominating candidates is the keystone to our success in the coming election.'" From this it will be seen that Mr. McCarthy's candidates are simply P.P.A. candidates under cover.

The Senate had a very short session to-day. The Colton, Falding and Jarvis divorce bills were introduced and read a first time. Mr. Boldue gave notice of motion that Senate adjourn on Friday until 21st inst. This was all the business transacted.

Mrs. Odell of Quebec, whose husband is asking for a divorce, petitions Parliament not to take any action on the divorce application until the civil suit between her husband and herself, now pending before the courts, is decided.

The County Council of Welland petitions praying for the adoption of an alien labor law.

The saying that there is life in the old man yet is fully exemplified in the case of Mr. Bourassa, M.P. for St. Johns, P.Q. Last week the veteran went home and it was thought that his legislative career had terminated forever. To-day, however, he was back in his place as sprightly as of yore.

Standing committees of the Commons have organised and elected chairmen as follows: Privte Bills, Davison; Public Accounts, Baker (Missisquoi); Banking and Commerce, Wood (Westmoreland); Standing Orders, Mills (Annapolis); Privileges and Elections, Girouard (Jacques Cartier); Expiring Laws, (Henderson); Agriculture, Sproule.

Mr. Featherston will move for correspondence in reference to shipment of sheep from Canadian ports to Great Britain alleged to be diseased.

Mr. Edgar will ask for a return showing the various amounts paid by way of bounty on the production of pig iron.

Mr. Martin gives notice of a bill to amend the Northwest Territories Act. Its object is to permit any member of the Northwest Assembly to resign his seat and become a candidate for the Commons. A doubt exists on this point now, hence Mr. Martin's bill. Messrs. Oliver and Haultain, members of the Assembly, are at present candidates for representation of Alberta in the Commons.

Gen. John Newton Dead.

New York, May 1.—Gen. John Newton died here to-day after a long illness. His death was due to chronic rheumatism. Gen. Newton was born in Norfolk, Va., on Aug. 24, 1823. He was a distinguished engineer and assisted in the construction of various fortifications and national engineering works along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

Wilde's Jury Disagree.

London, May 1.—The trial of Oscar Wilde and Alfred Taylor closed to-day. The jury were out three and a half hours, but failed to agree upon a verdict. They acquitted Wilde of the charges against him in connection with Atkins, and of the charge of conspiracy. Both the prisoners were held for trial at the next session, bail being refused.

MURDERED TO KEEP A SECRET

Mysterious Tragedy Near Rochester, N.Y.

CORPSE THROWN INTO THE RIVER

Roy Culver's Mysterious Disappearance Six Weeks Ago—An Anonymous Letter Stating "I Have Disposed of Him" and Giving as the Reason Culver's Efforts to Secure Property.

Rochester, May 2.—The finding of the body of Roy M. Culver, the missing secretary of the Y.M.C.A. at Newark, N.J., in the Clyde River, to-day is but a chapter in one of the most mysterious murders that has ever taken place in this state.

Roy M. Culver left his home to go to Syracuse on March 27 last, and was never again seen alive by persons knowing him. Three days later, the following letter was received by his uncle:

Syracuse, N.Y.

To Mr. Ammerman:

Dear Sir,—Perhaps by this time you will be somewhat worried about the absence of Roy M. Culver. I have this much to say in regard to the matter. In searching through the genealogical records he discovered my family secret. It is this wholly:

Many years ago a large property was left to Mr. Culver's ancestors. He was never informed of this fact. His father at that time as a lawyer had entire charge of the transaction, and he arranged matters so that Mr. Culver's ancestors were deprived of their rightful inheritance. Mr. Culver has, through the assistance of a lawyer, worked diligently to prove his claim to this property. He had succeeded to a certain extent, and an appointment was made to meet at Syracuse. We met there, and you will soon know the consequence. Mr. Culver's claim to this property was well founded and he proved beyond a doubt that this property belonged to his family. To make a long story short, I will say this much: "I have disposed of him and you will never see him again. I was obliged to do this in order to save myself. He leaves no papers throwing light on this matter. I had everything of this nature brought to Syracuse, and I have every thing in my possession. I must write in this manner to disguise my writing. The fortune referred to was an immense property consisting of lands, houses and money well invested, and to-day is one of the largest estates in existence. He has not spoken to any of his friends intending to surprise them very soon. His last words when I asked him if he wished to say anything to his friends were: "Tell Cooper to pay all outstanding debts and retain for himself everything that was left." He also said: "Tell Leath to take charge of the place at Slab City until sold." He finally said: "Good-bye to all my friends." This is the end of my story, and you will never hear from me again. Yours truly,

(Signed) A STRANGER.

P.S.—He also said to instruct Leath to pay the Y.P.S.C.E. $30.62. She will find $24 in the trunk, and make up the balance and get some back at final settlement. He seemed very particular about these last words.

Culver's relatives paid but little attention to the letter, believing that the boy had become temporarily insane and wandered away. A search of his trunk was made and the money and letters found just as stated in the anonymous communication.

This morning passengers on an eastbound Central Hudson train saw a body floating in the Clyde River, between Newark and Savannah, and the coroner was telegraphed. The body was recovered and proved to be that of Culver. It was found that the man had been strangled to death and weighted down with railroad iron and thrown into the river. The crime has caused an immense sensation. There is no clue to the murderer.

DAKOTA SETTLERS ALARMED.

Turtle Mountain Indians in a Hostile Mood.

Fargo, N.D., May 2.—Settlers near Turtle Mountain reservation are alarmed over the prospect that they may be massacred by Indians angered by the attempt to arrest some of their people for timber stealing.

Deputy Schindler has telegraphed Marshal Crenan that the Indians are preparing breastworks, and will fight if another effort is made to serve warrants. Attorney-General Olney will not authorize the use of troops until the Marshal has made another attempt to arrest with a posse. Marshal Crenan leaves here to-morrow and expects a fight.

MAY DAY IN LONDON.

1000 Socialists March With Red Flags to Hyde Park

London, May 2.—The Socialist May-day demonstration in this city was a miserable failure. About 400 persons, mostly young men carrying red banners and singing songs, marched from Clerkenwell to Hyde Park, where speeches were made by several of the leaders, and Dr. Aveling and his wife, daughter of the Socialist Karl Marsd, and Tom Mann, the labor leader. About 1000 persons were assembled in the park to take part in the meeting.

THE PACIFIC CABLE.

Commissioner Larke Explains the Project in Sydney.

Sydney, N.S.W., May 2.—Mr. Larke of Canada has submitted to the Sydney Chamber of Commerce a scheme for laying a Pacific submarine cable from Great Britain and Canada to Australia. The scheme contemplates an expenditure of £1,600,000 as the cost of the work, which sum the projectors believe can be borrowed at 2 1-2 per cent. It is estimated that half of the present Australian and Canadian business, at two shillings a word, would repay the capital in 25 years, besides paying the annual expenses.

THURSDAY, MAY 2, 1895.

"Uncle" Thomas McGreevy must vote right this session. On his reaching Ottawa, fresh from his count-in triumph at Quebec, he was at once collared by the chief Government whip and never released till he was thus introduced to the House, and marched to his seat. This is base ingratitude. Common, every-day members have the honour of being introduced to the House by two members of the Ministry they support. Not so with Mr. McGreevy, adistinguished member of the Conservative party, who has spent his money (filched from the public treasury), and spent his time (in jail) and in the interests of the Conservative Government and party. He is deserving, if anybody, of special honour at the hands of the government, but instead of securing grateful recognition he is put into the hands of a political policeman, in the shape of the whip, and haled before the House like the malefactor that he is. The Conservatives seem to be ashamed of Mr. McGreevy—the Mail and Empire takes two lines to sneak in the information that Mr. McGreevy was introduced to the House. While Sir Hector Langevin, for whom Mr. McGreevy robbed the public chest, has his place in the House, and while Sir Adolphe Caron, "who would do it again," remains in the Cabinet, no Conservative member is justified in turning a cold shoulder on Uncle Thomas.

It is said that Hon. J. C. Paterson, Minister of Militia, is to be made Lieut.-Governor of Manitoba. Colour is lent this rumour by the fact of the dropping from the estimates of the item for drill of city corps at headquarters, which item disappears along with the item for the drill of rural battalions. A little while ago the Minister of War was going to carry the elections at any cost, if not with "ballots, then with bullets." That idea seems to have been dropped, and the volunteers are neither to have new rifles, nor to be taught how to direct their bullets for the overthrow of those "Grits" who dare to vote against Government candidates. The volunteers who form the bulwark of the country have always been shabbily treated by the Government, but now they are to be shut out altogether. Our local volunteers will have, it is true, new tunics served out to them, but what use will their new jackets be if they are to have no drill? Does the Government expect that the men will perform drill and prepare themselves for the defence of their country at their own expense? Our volunteers are loyal and patriotic, but that would be asking a little to much of them.

Mr. Foster's deficit of five millions odd (for nine months), which will doubtless be increased to six millions by July 1st, is explained. The Mail and Empire includes among the revenue producing public works, the government canals. Now, that great revenue producing work, the Tay canal, last year provided a revenue of $125, while its cost for maintenance was $2,495. This disappointing record of this revenue-producing work, if it be regarded as a type of others, accounts for Mr. Foster's failure to make ends meet.

Another circumstance that may explain to some extent Mr. Foster's deficit is the fact that last session there were distributed among the members of the House of Commons 588 pearl handled pocket-knives, nineteen sample pocket knives and 48 buckhorn knives. Yet with all this assistance—every member armed with two pearl handled knives and the ministers with three each—Mr. Foster was unable to cut down the expenditure to prevent a deficit of nearly six millions.

FOSTER'S FIVE MILLIONS DEFICIT.

His "False and Misleading" Statements—Sir Richard Cartwright's Criticism of His Methods.

In the debate on the Address in the House of Commons, Sir Richard Cartwright dealt in his terse and lucid manner with the finances of the country in respect of the following, amongst other points.

Now, the hon. gentleman's confronted, and he knows he is confronted, with a huge deficit. Let us know the facts. I have observed with some amusement the desperate contortions and evasions made on the part of the hon. gentleman's organs to escape the pressure of this deficit. I have observed something more. Newspaper correspondents and newspaper editors are not supposed to be very well versed in the mysteries of the Finance Department, and, according to the Minister of Justice, they could not always be relied upon even if they were. But, sir, what shall we say when we find in the last copy of The Official Gazette a statement like this: "Revenue and expenditure on account of consolidated fund: expenditure to the end of 31st of March, 1895; revenue at the end of 31st March, 1895; surplus, $708,107." I beg to state to the House that I believe this is the first time since Confederation that the word "surplus" has ever been inserted, or this line ever appeared in the public Gazette. What does it mean? Why was it inserted? There were of course that is a matter of detail—about to come off a few days after this first appeared. But what does the hon. gentleman mean by it? Here is the official statement of the department that on 31st March, 1895, there was a surplus of $708,107. If that means anything, if that has been inserted for a purpose, I am sorry to say I can conceive of no purpose except the purpose of confusing the minds of the people at large, and creating absolutely a false impression as to the real state of the case. It is true, no doubt, that the audited expenditure, certified by the Finance Department, up to 31st March, 1895, may only show what is stated here, a total expenditure of $23,844,000, as against a total receipt of $24,353,000. But every man who knows anything at all of the Department of Finance or of the way in which our national bookkeeping is managed, knows perfectly well that from the nature of the case a very large portion of the expenditure which has actually been incurred, and which is payable at that moment, in the later months of the year is never credited at all or entered in the public accounts until some weeks after the termination of the financial year, and that, therefore, although this may be a correct statement as regards the audited expenditure, yet this statement which I hold in my hand is most unquestionably a very false statement, in the impression which any ordinary reader will take from it on seeing for the first time in twenty-seven years a declaration that there was such and such a surplus in favour of the Government on the 31st of March.

A SHORTAGE OF $5,016,000.

Now, sir, I am going to show the House what the real state of the facts are, and I challenge the Hon. Minister to contradict these facts. I desire the attention of the House, because this is a grave matter. If I am wrong I desire to be corrected, and if I am right I desire that every member of this House could bear in mind what it means: that to-day, after nine months' receipts are in, after nine months' audited expenditure, so-called, is in, so far from having a surplus of $780,000 we have to-day, as I will presently show, an ascertained deficit of $5,016,000 on the transactions of these nine months. I do not think that the honorable gentleman will have any ground to complain of want of plainness with respect to the statement that I have just made. It is well known to every member of this House that we unfortunately closed the last financial year with a deficit of $1,200,000 in round numbers. Now, on the 31st of March, the date on which the surplus of $708,000 is claimed by the Official Gazette, and for which the Minister of Finance is entirely responsible—on that date the revenue from all sources received fell for the nine months of 1894 by the sum of $3,292,747. The expenditure for the same period exceeded the expenditure for the first nine months of 1894 by the sum of $513,236. We started, therefore, with a deficit of one and a quarter millions in round numbers. We have got in these nine months a revenue of three millions and a quarter less, and we have spent half a million dollars more, and if you add these three sums together you will find that if it is the desire of the Department of Finance to enlighten the public as to the real state of the case, instead of putting in a fictitious and imaginary surplus of $708,000, they would state that in these nine months there was an ascertained deficit of $5,016,000. What the remaining three months may have in store for us I do not know, and the hon. gentleman does not know; but I am afraid that it is extremely improbable that any material portion of this $5,000,000 will, under the most favourable circumstances, be reduced; and, on the other haud, if the same expenditure continues in proportion, and the same falling off in the revenue continues, it is extremely probable that in the ensuing three months the figure which was named by my hon. friend is likely to be attained. I make no prediction about it. I simply point out that it is extremely likely to occur.

GALWAY.

(From our own Correspondent.)

On Friday at the residence of Mr. Jas. Allen a most delightful evening was spent by a large number of invited guests assembled for the purpose of partaking of Mr. Allen's unlimited hospitality. As Mr. and Mrs. Allen spared no efforts in preparing for the comfort of their guests, all present enjoyed a pleasant evening. The programme was a good one. The music, excellent in itself, was furnished by Miss Gaffgan and D. Reid, accompanied on the organ by Miss M. A. Allen.

Miss Kate Allen, who has been residing in Kinmount, is now spending holidays with her parents.

Miss Minnie Collins is the guest of Mrs. T. McNamara, of this place.

Miss B. Foley was the welcome guest of Miss B. Hickey Sunday.

Mr. Clate Climmons has retired from the farm and gone north for the summer.

Several young men have recently taken their departure for the west, which is their chief summer resort. Among them are Messrs. Jas. Hickey, J. Coffey, J. Dalton, B. Dalton, H. Cloustin and J. O'Brien.

Mr. Wm. Peacock has has been appointed overseer of a section of the Burnt River, by the Howry Company. This young man's integrity and wide experience in this work will be no small factor in the efficient manner in which all duties placed upon him will be performed.

Dennis Sheehan, the four-year old son of Mr. Daniel Sheehan, met with a sad accident on Monday, when he had his arm fractured while playing by falling from a manger.

As the ice on Swamp Lake has entirely disappeared, Mr. McDonald's energetic foreman, Mr. M. Dineen, with his well chosen men, are busily engaged in clearing the waters of the lake of its countless logs.

THE TIDE TURNS.

Great Improvement in the Health of a Well Known Peterborough Lady.

Peterborough, May 2.—General satisfaction is expressed here at the greatly improved condition of health of Mrs. E. Stephens, the well known music teacher of this town. Her friends have been much exercised over her condition for a long time, and a number of remedies have been tried during the ten years that she has been a martyr to a complication of complaints, which recently became very severe. She suffered frightfully from pain in the back, nervous prostration and swelling of the limbs. She has been taking the new remedy for kidney troubles, Dodd's Kidney Pills, and has already experienced the most beneficial results. Both she and her friends are convinced that a continued use of the remedy will shortly effect a complete cure.

Council meeting next Monday evening.

Miss Lizzie Askey left for Rochester this week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Shield returned this week from a visit to Mount Pleasant.

A lacrosse club was organised last week with a good membership. The boys begin practice immediately.

Next Friday is Arbour Day, and the schools will spend the day in beautifying the school property.

Confirmation services were held in the Church of England last Thursday evening. There was a large number present. The Bishop of Huron officiated, being assisted by the pastor.

Norwood Lodge, I. O. O. F., entertained their friends in their hall, last Friday evening. There were about eighty people present and the evening was spent pleasantly in games, promenading, etc. Refreshments were served during the evening.

The Imperial Trio, consisting of S. W. Farnham, J. Telford and Jas. Cowan, are holding temperance meetings in the town hall, until Friday evening, and are drawing large crowds. The singing of the trio is excellent and the limelight views exhibited are beautiful and instructive. Mr. Farnham preached in the Methodist church Sunday evening.

The Board of Health held their first meeting this year at Dr. Ford's office last week. The following are the members:—J. B. Pearce (reeve), Jas. Calder (clerk), A. R. Anderson, Chas. O'Reilly and Thomas Fraser; S. P. Ford, Medical Health Officer; and Jas. Jotcham, Sanitary Inspector. Mr. Pearce was appointed chairman. The inspector was instructed to procure posters and post the same in the village, requiring all persons to clean up their premises. The board recommended that the Medical Health Officer be paid a fixed salary by the council. On motion of Mr. O'Reilly, the secretary was instructed to notify the township of Asphodel that the driftwood and fallen trees which obstruct the free passage of the waters of the Ouse, south of the corporation limits, must be removed or the board will take the necessary steps to enforce the clearing of the river.

The Salvation Army held a banquet on Tuesday evening, when a large number of Peterborough soldiers were up here, bringing the band with them, which paraded the streets.

A large audience was in attendance at the Presbyterian church on Sabbath evening last to hear the address on the Manitoba School Question by Rev. A. C. Reeves. He gave a very clear and concise exposition of the case from 1870 up to the present time, showing that he had devoted considerable study to the question. A synopsis of his address is given below. He says: This is a public question in which the pulpit is virtually interested. At the bottom the difficulty is therefore a religious one, and therefore the pulpit is a proper place for its discussion. There are are two classes to be found among Protestants, viz: those who say without any study on the subject that the Catholics have no rights to their Separate schools, and those who say without any consideration on the matter, the Roman Catholics have a right to receive what they in conscience claim. Both these claims are to be condemned. The preacher then discussed the facts regarding the matter, among which were the different decisions of the Privy Council, the reason for abolition of Separate Schools, and the system of education that prevailed prior to 1890. He dwelt on the Bill of Rights, proving that in the original bill of rights no mention is made of Separate Schools. The following argument was advanced, viz., the Protestants of Quebec have Separate Schools, therefore the Protestants should grant the same to the minority of Manitoba. In reply he stated it would be better for the Protestants of Ontario to adhere to the principal of Public Schools and to advocate the abolition of Separate Schools in Quebec as well as in Manitoba. Then let the Protestants of other provinces in which there are no Separate Schools combine to help the Protestants of Quebec to support their own schools without the aid of the government grants. If Manitoba be granted separate schools the other provinces when formed will also claim separate schools. He laid down the principle of equal rights for all, viz., one public school system, where children of all creeds and races will attend, or a system which will admit of as many schools as different races or sects may demand. Certainly of the two the former is to be referred, both from a patriotic and a financial standpoint.

He it is a well-established fact that catarrh is a blood-disease, medical men are quite generally prescribing Ayer's Sarsaparilla for this most loathsome and dangerous complaint. Where this treatment is persevered in followed, a thorough cure is invariably the result.

WESTWOOD MURDER TRIAL

No Motive for the Crime Yet Brought Out.

CROWN'S STAR WITNESS A FIZZLE

Continuation of the Trial of Clara Ford for the Killing of Frank Westwood—Detective Slemin Tells of Experiments With the Pistol.

Toronto, May 2.—The trial of Clara Ford for the murder of Frank Westwood was continued yesterday.

Mrs. Mary Crosier was the first witness called. She had known Clara Ford for four years. The prisoner had lived with her for eight months, terminating with April of last year. Mrs. Crosier continued to do washing for the prisoner. On the night of October 6 Clara called at her house at 24 Camden-street about 8 o'clock and paid for her laundry, but did not take it away with her. Clara told witness that she was going to the opera or Muse with Flora McKay, and she was afraid she would be late. Witness' daughter Maggie unbuttoned the coat worn by prisoner and disclosed a revolver in her pocket. They did not think anything of it, however, as they knew Clara was in the habit of carrying a revolver. Prisoner had been drinking.

Mrs. Crosier then told of a visit by Clara to her house two days after the shooting. Discussing the tragedy, Clara said, "It was a good job I was not up there or I might be suspected of the crime." Prisoner also said that she did not think that the bullet was meant for Frank Westwood, and added that whoever did the shooting must have known all about the locality, as the only way to escape would be by the lake side. Clara said she knew the district well as she used to live alongside the Westwood premises.

When questioned as to certain remarks which had passed between herself and Clara, witness said she did not remember them, but that Clara had a better memory than she had, and if Clara said so she would believe it, as she was a girl for whom she had the greatest respect.

Mrs. Crosier was satisfied that Clara did not have men's clothes on under her skirts when she called at 24 Camden-street the night of October 6. "She would not lift her skirts and fasten her garter the way she did if she had men's clothes on," said the witness emphatically.

Sadie Crosier corroborated her mother and sister. A new point was brought out by the witness. She swore that Clara called Flora McKay her daughter when she said she was going to take her to the opera. Sadie also swore Clara had told her on more than one occasion that she had two children.

William McKnight, brother of Mrs. George Crosier, who was at 24 Camden-street when Clara called on October 6, corroborated the other witnesses. On the 8th at 133 Tecumseth-street, Willie heard prisoner say that "She didn't think the tragedy would ever be found out. It would be like the Priestman and Hancock cases."

George Crosier of 133 Tecumseth-street told the same story as his brother-in-law with respect to remarks made by Clara on October 8. Witness heard Clara say that the shot might have been meant for some other member of the family.

Temple Cooper and Edward Lennox left young Westwood at 10.15 p.m. on October 6 at Queen-street and Jameson-avenue; Westwood then started for home. Both witnesses swore that they never knew deceased to have entanglements with women, although they were intimately acquainted with him. They had heard he had, but did not know of their own knowledge.

Florence McKay, the 15-year-old girl who is reported to be the daughter of the prisoner, but which Clara denies, then entered the witness box. The accused, who had hitherto displayed little interest in the testimony, turned her eyes on the child and never removed them. In a clear, distinct voice Flora related her story. She had known prisoner under the name of "Clara" ever since she could remember. She told of having made an engagement with Clara to go to the Toronto Opera House on the night of October 6; of Clara falling to meet her at corner of Queen and Bay-streets, where agreed, and of her return to Mrs. Phyle's, where she was employed.

Witness said when she told the police that she had been to the opera on October 6 she told what was not true, and she said it because she thought they might suspect Clara of the murder. It was not true that she was at the opera that night.

Detective Slemin was proceeding to tell of the arrest of Clara at Samuel Barnett's tailor shop in York-street

Detective Slemin then told how Clara had said without asking what she was wanted for: "Oh! it's the Westwood case you are after." The finding in the girl's room of the revolver produced, and a suit of men's clothes, which Clara acknowledged to be her property, was described, and Clara's statement reiterated that she "could prove where she was on the night of the shooting—that she was at the Black Crook performance at the opera house with a little girl in Jarvis-street."

Then Mrs. Libby Black, the witness whom the Crown has realised upon as a star witness, as showing the motive which inspired Clara Ford to shoot down Frank Westwood, was called. She proved a poor witness for the Crown. In starting out she said that she resided in Russell-avenue, but was at present in custody on a charge of drunkenness. She testified that she knew both Clara Ford and Frank Westwood by sight. Some time before the month of June last, when she left for Weston to visit friends, she met Westwood in Spencer-avenue, where she was going in search of a situation. Westwood asked her to wait for a minute or two while he went across the road to speak to Clara Ford. She did so, and waited until his return. After his return he never spoke to her, but she took a car to the West End. A few days later she descended from a Queen-street car at Massey-street, intending to go to Arthur-street. She walked down to King-street, and just as she reached King-street a man accosted her, who said that he was Frank Westwood, and she recognized him as the man she had met in Spencer-avenue. He left shortly afterwards, and a few moments later Clara Ford came up to her and said, "You hadn't better talk to him any more or I'll go for you."

GRAND TRUNK AFFAIRS.

General Manager Bourgeant on the Directors' Resignation.

New York, May 1.—L. J. Sergeant, general manager of the Grand Trunk of Canada, is at the Windsor Hotel, being in this city on business connected with the road. In speaking of the affairs of the road he said: "I have been officially informed that Sir Henry Tyler, president of the company, and the Board of Directors have in truth resigned. It was a step to be expected. There has long been a question of policy between the owners and the management.

"The affairs of the Grand Trunk Line have suffered only as other roads have suffered. One-quarter of the mileage of the United States is in the hands of the receiver. Roads that are standard dividend earners have gone off a point or two in declaring dividends. It is simply a question of hard times."

Speaking of the questions involved that to a change in the entire management of the road, Mr. Sergeant said: "The question has been one of policy. Last year it was necessary to reduce expenses. Under great stress and by rigid economy the expenses have been reduced among other ways, by cutting the train service. By this means £72,750 was saved and during the year just passed expenses were reduced about £15,000, against a loss of receipts of £418,000. These are the figures quoted by Sir Henry Tyler, and I do not doubt that they are correct. Competition has also had much to do with our losses. Here the question of amalgamating and taking on subsidiary systems came up. This has been a bone of contention and served to widen the breach."

Tyler Denies Concealing Anything.

London, May 2.—The St. James' Gazette publishes an interview with Sir Henry Tyler, the retiring president of the G.T.R., in which he denies the assertion of the committee of shareholders, that the board of directors concealed anything concerning the affairs of the company. The accounts were made up and audited in Canada, and in the same manner and form that the accounts of similar companies are made up in England. He was still a large stockholder in the company, he said, and was in a position to speak hopefully of its future.

Have you ever noticed how your system seems to crave special assistance in the spring? Just the help required is given by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Talking - ABOUT - Clothing.

The most advantageous shop to buy Clothing in leads to one conclusion—to purchase from us. You may twist and turn and argue as you will—admit you must that our Clothing is by far the best ready-made in Canada. If you discuss prices, we say again—our selling figures are lower, because the qualities are so much better.

Fathers and sons grown up, you, to whom a sensible word can be seriously spoken, take a look at our Spring Overcoats or our new Spring Suits and convince yourself whether we are not more stylish and if our goods are not better made and trimmed or fit neater than any goods shown elsewhere.—Mothers, who generally have good judgment and look for novelties for their youngsters, never fail to look in at our establishment, for we surpass any competition in the way of Children's Clothing.

The splendid value we give in a 2-piece suit at $1.50, or a 3 piece at $2.50, should make us many new acquaintances.

Piano Tuning.

Mr. Geo. Gumpricht is tuning twenty-four pianos at the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, this week. Orders may be left at Mr. H. S. Macdonald's drug store, or at the Peterborough Bookstore.

Confirmation Services.

Confirmation services in connection with the Parish of Peterborough will be held in St. John's Church on the evening of May 15th. The candidates will receive Holy Communion in a body on Whitsunday, June 2nd, in St. John's at 8 a.m.

Young Women's Association.

Social in the rooms to-night to which all young women are invited and will be welcomed. Come and bring a friend, also some needlework, and be sociable. Music, (instrumental and vocal) and recitations will add to the evening's enjoyment. Altogether we promise you a pleasant time.

The Presentation.

The handsome gold watch and chain which was presented to Mr. Theodore Ludgate the other evening was procured at the jewelry store of Messrs. Clarke & Gibson, where a beautiful assortment of time-pieces was submitted for the purchasing committee's inspection. The engraving of Mr. Ludgate's initials on the watch was done by Mr. Ingram.

Some Improvements.

Messrs. Grafton & Co. have introduced into their store the new "Auer" light for illuminating their premises at night. The chandeliers were furnished by Mr. John Greer and the new invention by the Peterborough Hardware Company. The "Auer" light is a contrivance through which the illuminating power of gas is greatly increased, equal it is claimed to electric light.

The Non-Com's Excursion.

The non-coms of the Rangers completed arrangements this morning for their excursion on the Queen's Birthday. The objective point of the trip will be Jubilee, on Rice Lake, and the steamer City of Peterborough has already been chartered. Butcher's orchestra will be taken along and with such a genial lot of wholesouled fellows as the non-coms a most pleasant trip will doubtless be enjoyed.

The Houghtons.

The Houghton's presented that thrilling drama, "The Danites," to a large audience at the opera house last evening. The various characters in the play were admirably assumed by the artists to whom they were assigned and the performance gave unqualified satisfaction to those present. To give every lady an opportunity of witnessing the grand production of the English melo-drama, "Lost in London," to-night, one lady's ticket will be issued to-day free for every paid reserved seat ticket purchased.

Furniture.

At A. Clegg's; the new goods are coming in, and nearly every line is complete. Bedroom suites, a very large assortment; sideboards at all prices; good dining room tables from $5.50 up; chairs at all prices, from 33c. each and up; couches, easy chairs, parlour suites, fancy chairs, and floor rockers. Pictures, just see them, at prices you never even dreamed of. Window shades, cornice poles, hall racks. Do not leave your upholstering and repairs until the very last minute; now is the time.—A. Clegg, 127 George street.

Durward Lely.

The sale of tickets for the Lely recital opens to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. The reserved seat plan will be opened at the same time, at Stratton's bookstore. Tickets have been placed on sale at the stores of Messrs. H. S. Macdonald, Clarke & Gibson, Salisbury Bros. and A. H. Stratton & Co. The prices are: Reserved seats, 50c.; unreserved elevated seats, 35c.; gallery, 25c. Mr. Lely has kindly consented to place the gems of his repertoire at the disposal of the management, who have arranged a programme of Scottish, English and Irish songs, which is certain to delight all lovers of music. 1d

Arbour Day.

Arbor Day, to-morrow, should not only be observed by the school children at the schools, but by the public generally. Trees are needed along the highways, on the farms, and in the gardens and lawns, and every person who plants a tree is a public benefactor. Tree planting is profitable whether for shade and beauty, or the fruit which may be gathered. It would be a good piece of legislation to make Arbor Day a public holiday for this purpose. While the school children all over the province will spend a portion of the day in beautifying their grounds, the Peterborough schools, strange to say, will not observe the day.

The Dog Tags.

Last year there were about 750 dog tags issued, and this season only 282 licences have been issued. The police are already sending in the names of dog owners who have neglected procuring tags for their canine pets, and it behooves the citizen who owns a dog to hie him to the clerk's office and take out his license before costs are added to the price.

Pete Simons, the Reliable Cutter

Announces in another column of to-day's Examiner the arrival of a second instalment of the summer goods which seem to have caught the public taste so quickly. It speaks well for Mr. Simons' ability as a cutter and fitter (and Peterborough ought to be proud of it), when he receives orders for garments from such distant places as Hamilton (Montana), Rochester, N. Y., British Columbia and the Northwest. Mr. Simons, we believe, is willing to verify this by producing his books, which seems to us unnecessary, as he is so widely known here as a first-class cutter and fitter.

The Benefit Concert.

The benefit concert which is to be given in aid of the ex employees will be held, as announced, on May 10th and the programme to be presented will be one of the best which has ever been given by purely local talent. Amongst those who have signified their willingness to take part are Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, Miss Hansen, Miss Lola Ostrom, Mrs. Stapleton, Mr. G. W. Mulligan, Mr. Thos. Dunn, Mr. John Miller, Miss Clarke, Miss Boswell, Mrs. G. A. Smith, Mrs. T. Dunn, Mr. John Crane, Miss Vink, W. H. Manning and the Fire Brigade Band.

This is the closing week of the great removal sale which China Hall has so successfully held for the past three weeks. Everything is being sold at cost price to avoid moving large stock, and every one should take advantage of the opportunities offered. 3d

The Winsome Weblings.

The Ladies' Pictorial, of London, Eng., says: "Quite the daintiest fancy seen for many a day is Mr. Arthur T. Weston's "April Jest," written expressly for and played to perfection by the three Misses Webling. Mr. Weston would have us know that April jests were not unknown in the days of powder, patches and high waists. Mr. Weston has woven a fancy light as gossamer around his dainty theme, and the Misses Webling have put the crowning touches to his work. Miss Rosalind Webling was demurely mischievous as Rose, who is divided between her desire for revenge and her dread lest Letty's bright eyes should win her gallant's heart. Miss Lucy Webling as Letty, was deliciously piquant and tricky as a sprite, and Miss Peggy Webling gave capital expression to Charles' petulant annoyance." These three talented sisters will appear in Peterborough on Monday evening next under the auspices of the Hockey Club, and should be greeted by a very large house indeed. 1d

Long Distance Opera.

The wide-awake West—the dwellers on the Pacific slope, are decidedly up to date. The Vancouver (B.C.) Daily News-Advertiser tells how an opera performance was transmitted over the telephone wires for the benefit of distant auditors: "A few privileged persons by invitation of Mr. W. F. Salisbury, Secretary of the New Westminster and Burrard Inlet Telephone Company, of which Mr. H. W. Kent, Vancouver, (formerly of Peterborough) is Superintendent, last night in the city heard the opera, "Pirates of Pensance," which was at that time being produced in the opera house at New Westminster. The privilege was also enjoyed by other persons at the various stations on the line to Seattle and also in that city. The music was transmitted by means of the long distance and Blake transmitters and could be heard at some times with great distinctness.

The rattling choruses and the immediately following thunders of applause were heard with immense satisfaction by well-wishers of the Westminster Operatic Society in this city. The transmitters were adjusted by Mr. G. C. Hodgs, manager of the office in Westminster.

WILL THE WORKS BE CLOSED OR NOT?

ADVERTISEMENTS FOR MEN STILL APPEARING.

How the Outside Public Views the Affair—An "Iniquitous Contract"—Mr Dumble's Letter to Mr. Mackenzie and the Reply.

The Canadian General Electric Works difficulty appears no nearer settlement than ever. Quite a large fund has been raised by subscription towards the support of the ex-employees who are in need and the money is in the hands of the committee for distribution. There has been little or no drain upon the amount as yet, except for the purpose of sending men back to their homes, who have come here seeking work and refused the conditions.

That the sympathy of the general public seems to be with the ex-employees in their trouble is evinced by the following paragraph appearing in the Montreal Saturday Times under the heading,

"AN INIQUITOUS DOCUMENT."

"The strike of the employees of the Canadian General Electric Company, Ltd., of Peterborough, Ont., and the cause thereof, places capitalism in as odious a light as it has ever yet appeared and it shows that, fearful of the aspirations of the people, it is determined to seize every opportunity to rivet the chains that bind the wage slave further than ever. The cause of the trouble at the Peterborough works was the following agreement, the signing of which by every employee was compulsory if he desired to remain in the employment. It speaks for itself thus:

* * * *

No one will be surprised to learn that the employees in a body refused to work under any such conditions as those involved in the above contract. The agreement is designed to degrade the worker to the lowest level and still further enslave him and the man who undertakes to work under such unfair restrictions must be hard pressed indeed. If public opinion had any effect upon corporations the matter would soon be settled, for no company would dare to face the storm of indignation which has arisen over the affair. Sympathy with the employees is not wanting, but sympathy is not all that is needed in a case of this kind and something should be done to support them in resisting such an outrage."

THE LOCAL SITUATION.

Last evening the chairman of the ex-employees committee received the following communication from Mr. D. W. Dumble, concerning the result of the efforts of the Citizens' committee towards effecting a reconciliation:

PETERBOROUGH, April 30.

The Chairman of the Canadian General Electric Company Committee:

DEAR SIR,—I beg to advise you that the Citizens' Committee yesterday waited upon Mr. Stephens and we are sorry to say that we did not succeed to our satisfaction in reference to the difficulty between them and their employees. The committee, after fairly submitting the matter and their views concerning it, were advised by Mr. Stephens that the company had determined to close down the works for one month; that he was not then at liberty to make known the probable action of the company in regard to their employees, but that the company would consider the matter, and make known in writing their conclusion. We were unable to get a promise of an early answer, Mr. Stephens intimating that the company might take a month to make up their minds.

We would advise in the meanwhile that the good conduct which has characterized the employees, and which has done so much to secure for them the sympathy of the town's people should be continued, as the committee are satisfied that better results will follow such conduct than from any injudicious action or words on the part of the employees. Hoping that matters will speedily shape themselves to your satisfaction.

I am your obedient servant,
D. W. DUMBLE,
Chairman Citizens' Committee.

In reply to the above Mr. Dumble, this morning, received the following answer from Mr. MacKenzie:

PETERBOROUGH, May 1st, 1895.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, Chairman Citizens' Committee:

DEAR SIR,—I have received your letter in reference to the action which the citizen's committee have taken, and the result. I wish to thank you for your courtesy and only regret that your visit to Mr. Stephens did not have a more satisfactory termination.

I trust that your committee will still continue their exertions on behalf of the locked out employees and that you will be able to settle matters to the benefit of all.

I would like to call your attention to the fact that notwithstanding Mr. Stephen's statement to your committee that the Works would be closed for 30 days they are still running and engaging men.

Your obedient servant,
J. MACKENZIE.

Mr. MacKenzie's statement to the effect that the company is still advertising for men is doubtless due to the fact that in the Toronto World advertisements are still appearing stating that there are wanting tinsmiths, bench hands, machinists, tool-makers, brass finishers, lathe and planer hands, car builders and cabinet makers.

NEWS NUGGETS

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—There was no police court this morning.

—Everything is quiet around the fire hall.

—The C. P. R. reports that freight is moving more briskly.

—The grass plot in front of the Snowdon House is being re-sodded.

—The sward in Court House Park is beginning to look velvety.

Consumption—Low Condition

Wonderful Results From Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Miss Hannah Wyatt
Toronto, Ont.

"Four years ago while in the old country (England), my daughter Hannah was sent away from the hospital, in a very low condition with consumption of the lungs and bowels, and weak action of the heart. The trip across the water to this country seemed to make her feel better for a while. Then she began to get worse, and for 14 weeks she was unable to get off the bed. She grew worse for five months and lost the use of her limbs and lower part of body, and if she sat up in bed had to be propped up with pillows. Physicians

Said She Was Past All Help

and wanted me to send her to the 'Home for Incurables.' But I said as long as I could hold my hand up she should not go. We then began to give her Hood's Sarsaparilla. She is getting strong, walks around, is out doors every day; has no trouble with her throat and no cough, and her heart seems to be all right again. She has a first class appetite. We regard her cure as nothing short of a miracle." W. Wyatt, 89 Marion Street, Parkdale, Toronto, Ontario.

A WARSAW WEDDING.

Celebration of the Kidd-Payne Nuptials on Wednesday in the Village.

The residence of Mrs. Sidney Payne, Warsaw, was the scene of a quiet through very pretty wedding yesterday, when her daughter, Miss Priscilla Payne, was united in marriage to Mr. Richard Hume Kidd, a prosperous young farmer of Dummer, and a son of Mr. A. R. Kidd, of Warsaw.

The interesting ceremony was performed by Rev. J. E. Robeson, pastor of the Warsaw Methodist church, in the presence of a number of the relatives and intimate friends of the bride and groom, both of whom are most popular amongst their large circle of friends in the vicinity of Warsaw.

The bride, who was becomingly attired, presented a most charming appearance, and was assisted by Miss Bertha L. Kidd, sister of the groom.

The office of groomsman was filled very acceptably by Mr. W. E. Wilson, of Warkworth.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a most inviting repast was served, and Mr. and Mrs. Kidd received the congratulations of those present. The gifts received by the young couple were very handsome and called forth many expressions of pleasure from those who had the privilege of viewing them.

PLANET NOTES FOR MAY.

During May some of the planets will be interestingly situated, especially Jupiter and Venus in the west, and Saturn in the south-east. At the beginning of the month Mercury will be behind the sun, reaching superior conjunction on May 4th, at 7 o'clock in the evening. Twelve hours later he will pass the ascending node of his orbit, crossing the ecliptic from south to north. Perihelion he will reach on May 9th, at 9 p. m.

On the evening of May 19th, at 7 o'clock, he will pass by the planet Neptune, and at about 10.44, on the night of May 25th, he will be in conjunction with the moon, just two degrees 44 minutes south of Luna. Toward the end of May Mercury will be visible as an evening star shortly after sunset, situated in the western sky, between the fixed stars gamma Geminorum and Beta Tauri. Neptune is also in the same region of the heavens, but he cannot be seen because he is so distant at present.

Besides these planets, Luna, Venus, Jupiter and Mars will be in that vicinity of the sky at one portion of the month, so that, if conjunctions of the planets have any effect on terrestrial weather, we had "better look out for squalls" of a severe character.

Mars has lost so much of his brilliance that he now appears as but an average star of the first magnitude, almost resembling in colour and brightness Aldebaran in Taurus or Betelgeux in Orion. Venus and Jupiter are much alike in both colour and brilliance, but the brightness of Venus will surpass that of Jupiter this month. These two planets will be in conjunction on May 18th.

LINES

Affectionately dedicated to the memory of Mrs. S. S. Hutchinson, who died in Peterborough, on New Year's Day, 1895, by her loving niece, Ethel S. Scott:

Weep not for her, dear cousins,
Who has gone away from earth,
She has entered a new and holy life,
Of which death is the birth.

She has gone to live with Jesus,
In Heaven, so bright and fair,
And to meet those gone before her,
Who have waited for her there.

Yet we cannot help but miss her here,
Her tender words and smile,
For she always had a word of cheer
Were her own heart aching the while.

And if from out her heavenly home,
That is far beyond the skies,
She could see your tear-stained faces,
Or hear your heavy sighs;

You would hear a loved voice saying,
In accents low and sweet,
"Bear the cross a little longer,
And in Heaven we all shall meet."

"Where I am you all may come,
All must pass what I have passed,
It's just to do God's holy will,
And meet me here in Heaven at last."

Therefore, if we could,
We would not bring her back again,
To dwell on earth among us,
Where all is false and full of pain.

ADVICE FOR ANGLERS.

"O, gentle angler, you who are fortunate enough to get away from the business treadmill, look to it that you take your sport as an honest angler should. It may be great fun to kill them as fast as you can drag them out; there may be a certain satisfaction in killing more than the other fellow can show, but believe me these feats do not constitute the real pleasures of angling.

One need not forever be staring at an arching rod, or straining silk; one's ears need not always be filled with the click of a staring-spewing, string eating nondescript clock, which measures the life of a captive as our watches measures our days.

An angling outing offers many better things than dead fish. The marvelous life stirring in everything, the merry gossip of the brook, the ceaseless music of joyous birds, the hues of countless flowers, the perfumed lazy breeze, the beauty, healthfulness and purity of it all, will yield to the observing angler more lasting pleasure than ever falls to the lot of the man who fishes for count and estimates his gratification by the amount of life he can destroy within a given time.

No fish should be taken that cannot be properly used, and no man worthy of the name of gentleman angler will kill for count. It is not all—nay, 'tis not half of fishing to kill fish!"—Rod and Gun Department—Outing for May.

LACROSSE.

Secretary Alf. Terrill, of the Peterboroughs, is in receipt of a communication from C. D. McDonald, secretary of the Madoc Lacrosse Club, conveying the club's wish to arrange home and foreign matches with the Peterboroughs. Madoc has always possessed a crack lacrosse team, and if a satisfactory arrangement can be reached doubtless several good games will result.

Hastings intends holding a big celebration on July 1st, and Mr. H. W. Fowlds, secretary of the committee in charge of the affair, writes to ascertain if the Peterborough Lacrosse Club will take part in a tournament there upon that day. The secretary states that every man upon the winning team will receive a valuable prize.

The New York Times:—"The proposed tour to Canada during the early part of the summer by the pick of the Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association is receiving exceptional encouragement from the clubs of Canada, and it now seems almost a certainty that lacrosse will be represented among the great international contests of the year." Peterborough would be pleased to give the Intercollegiates a game.

At the meeting held at Anderson Bros. office, of the Hastings Lacrosse Club, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Hon. Presidents—F. W. Fowlds, Jno. Quigley, P. Kennedy and A. Wilson, jr.
President—R. Coughlin, M.D.
1st Vice-Pres—M. McCarthy.
2nd " —P. Smith.
3rd " —A. B. Spellman.
Secretary—W. S. Anderson.
Treasurer—T. O'Rielly
Captain—R. Morrison.
Committee—J. K. Wilson, P. M. Howard, Dr. Berry and T. A. Fraser.

LACROSSE AND BASEBALL.

The ex-employees of the Canadian General Electric Company and the wine clerks are playing a game of baseball on the P. A.A.A. grounds this afternoon, and to-morrow two teams representing the same aggregation will play a game of lacrosse on the same grounds.

A CONFERENCE.

The executive committee of the Vatican Park Baseball Club desires to meet the executive of the Newspaper A.A.A. on Friday evening next at 8 o'clock in the parlours of the Palace Restaurant for the purpose of arranging for the joint rental of the Riverside Park grounds for the coming season. The executive of the N. A.A.A. will hold a short business meeting at 7 o'clock in the same parlours.

THE TRIGGER.

A meeting was held on Wednesday evening last by the members of the Trent River Gun Club, Campbellford, for the purpose of organizing for the present year and to elect the officers of the club, who are as follows:

Hon. Member—Stuart Cock.
President—E. Nancarrow.
Vice-President—C. B. Burke.
Captain—Jas. Mitchell.
Hon. Sec.-Treas.—Edmund W. Burke.

FOUR MONTHS REPORT.

Night-watchman Gordon's report for the past four months is as follows:—

Number of front doors found open, 14.
Number of back doors found open, 25.
Names of articles:—2 rolls of felt paper, 1 hain, 1 dozen brooms, 2 coal sifters, 1 suit of clothes, 1 basket, 1 suit of clothes, 6 brushes, 3 baskets.

JAPAN'S ARSENALS BUSY

The Warlike Preparations Continue With Greater Vigor Than Ever

London, May 1.—The Central News correspondent in Tokyo says: While the Japanese Government has no reason to doubt that Li Hung Chang's arrival at Chee Foo on May 8 will be followed by the ratification of the treaty, it does not relax its preparations to carry forward the war. The arsenals and dockyards are busier than ever before, working to their full capacity day and night. Special efforts are making to equip the war ships taken from the Chinese. Crews have been allotted to these vessels and are drilled incessantly. Nothing is known here of the alleged detention of the two Englishmen on the Pescadores by Japanese troops. The report that The London Times correspondent was arrested to prevent his describing the massacre of of the Chinese garrison is discredited because, according to the Japanese, no such massacre took place. In any event, the Japanese commander could gain nothing and lose much by the action in question.

MURRAY'S RELIEF PLANS.

Assisting Newfoundland Fishermen to Buy Their Boats and Sell Their Catch.

St. John's, Nfld., May 2.—Sir Herbert Murray, the British Relief Commissioner, has his measures for the assistance of the distressed Newfoundland fishermen fully matured. He will make advances to aid the holders of fishing vessels to buy them from the merchants owning them, and will also arrange for the cash purchase of fish, paying half now and the balance at the completion of the fishery. The customs fishery returns, especially prepared for him, set forth that 999 vessels and 14,872 persons were engaged in the Labrador fishery last year, and that about 50,000 persons were actually dependent upon those actually engaged in the fishery. The corresponding fishery figures for the present year will be scarcely more than half those of last year, owing to the impossibility of obtaining requisite supplies, unless immediate steps are taken to restore Newfoundland's credit.

The Colonial Government expect to receive Canada's confederation terms in full by to-morrow's mail.

THE ELBE DISASTER.

The Jury Find the Collision Due to the Negligence of the Crathie's Men.

London, May 1.—The Elbe enquiry was resumed at Lowestoft this morning. The coroner, in summing up the evidence, said it was clear that the damage sustained by the Crathie in the collision prevented her from proceeding on her voyage. As to the collision itself, it was for the jury to decide whether it was due to gross and culpable negligence, and if so to ascertain who was to blame.

The jury returned a verdict that, in their opinion, the collision was due to gross negligence on the part of the mate and lookout man of the Crathie. Owing to the absence of evidence from any of the crew of the Elbe, the jury were of the opinion that there was not sufficient proof that the Crathie was solely to blame for the disaster to justify a verdict to that effect. The captain of the Crathie was entirely exonerated.

ONE MAN ONE VOTE.

Plural Voting Abolished in Victoria, N.S.W.

Melbourne, Australia, May 2.—The labor delegates, uniting with the Opposition in the Legislative Assembly, have carried by a majority of five a bill to abolish the system of plural voting in municipal elections. The Government opposed the bill, but will not resign because of their defeat.

MAYDAY STRIKES.

Youngstown, O., May 1.—The laborers at the blast furnace in Haisenton, numbering over one hundred, struck to-day, claiming that their demand for an advance in wages had been refused. The company will employ others if they do not return to work at once. A general strike is expected among furnace employes.

Detroit, May 1.—All the bricklayers in the city, 750 in number, quit work to-day to ascertain if all the contractors in town would grant the 50 cents per day increase in wages asked by the union. Most of the contractors have agreed to pay the increase, and it is expected all the men will go back to work to-morrow.

Huntingdon, Va., May 1.—The developments in the mine strike along the Norfolk and Western Pike to-day show that over 30 mines are in practical idleness and fully 210,000 men on strike. The miners in the Kanawah Valley have been working short hours and have not joined the strike, but will do so if an attempt is made to fill orders for the Pocahontas operators.

CATARRH.

The New Remedy

Scores Benefitted by its use.

Belleville, May 20th, 1893.

I was troubled with catarrh of the head and throat for at least 10 years. I have spent hundreds of dollars with doctors and medicines of all kinds; I found plenty to give me temporary relief, but none to cure me. I tried one bottle of LOUTTIT'S CURE, it helped me and I continued its use. Eight bottles cured me, and at present I feel safe in saying that any person suffering with catarrh, that will give this treatment a proper trial and stick to it, will be permanently cured.

Those wishing any further information may write me or consult me and I will be pleased to state my case more fully.

Yours very truly,

"My six-year-old daughter, Bella, was afflicted with eczema for 24 months, the principal seat of eruption being behind her ears. I tried almost every remedy I saw advertised, bought innumerable medicines and soaps, and took the child to medical specialists in skin diseases, but without result. Finally, a week ago, I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and the first application showed the curative effect of the remedy. We have used only one-sixth of the box, but the change is very marked; the eruption has disappeared, and I can confidently say my child is cured. (Signed) MAXWELL JOHNSTON

Clara Ford Arraigned Before Chancellor Boyd.

MR. OSLER'S OPENING ADDRESS

The Crown Alleges That She Shot Young Westwood Through Jealousy Curious Defect in the Revolver Used—The Trial May End To-Day

Toronto, May 1.—The trial of Clara Ford for the murder of Frank Westwood was commenced yesterday before Chancellor Boyd.

Mr. Osler's opening remarks were brief. In part, he said: It is for you to say whether the crown has been able to bring the crime home to the prisoner. There was no one present, except the young man and his assailant. The crown can give you no eye-witness, but will ask you to say upon the evidence that we will submit to you that the prisoner was the person to whose ring the door was opened by the young man and the person who fired the shot the moment he appeared at the open door.

You may have difficulty in assigning a motive. It is seldom a homicidal murder is committed without it being made apparent what the motive was. The crown will give you some evidence as to motive—some evidence which you can accept or reject. But it is competent for you to find the accused guilty though the motive is concealed. If no motive is shown, then it is your duty to more closely scrutinize the evidence.

Equally is it murder if the assailant intended shooting one and another was shot; equally is it murder if there was a desire to kill, and this young man happened to be the victim.

It will appear that the prisoner worked as a tailoress and that she was more or less in the habit of going about in the evening dressed in men's clothes. It will appear that she possessed a revolver of an old-style German make, what is known as bull-dog type. It will appear than on the evening in question she left her boarding house with a revolver in her possession. She had made an appointment to go to the opera, but did not go. At 9 o'clock she called at a friend's house, and at that house the postol was seen. Then, apparently, founded upon what she had stated, she went to Parkdale. Next day she asked the young girl with whom she had made an appointment to go to the opera to say that she was there.

When she is arrested a pistol and certain cartridges are found in her possession. This pistol is of a peculiar make and there is a certain defect in the barrel—a little projection. It has a chamber that does not run quite true with the barrel. The crown will submit the bullet extracted from the body of deceased. The crown will show certain peculiarities that bear the marks of its having been fired through that particular revolver. The crown will also present to you several bullets, the result of experiments of firing from the revolver into the body of a man—that is to say, firing into a body through flesh and through certain thicknesses of clothing corresponding with that worn by deceased. The crown will ask, are the markings on these bullets not identical with the markings found on the bullet found in the body of the dead man?

Beyond this will come what the crown puts before you as a confession on the part of the prisoner. The crown will show that the prisoner after making certain statements not consistent with other statements made by crown witnesses and after being warned that anything she might say might be used in evidence against her gave a free and voluntary confession that she was the one who killed Westwood. If you take the confession as evidence satisfactory to you, then your task is comparatively an easy one. The crown guards, and very properly, the person in custody of police officers and detectives, and certain things have to be complied with before a confession can be accepted. If any inducement is held out to the party in charge of the detectives this is fatal to the acceptance of the confession. Now, in her confession the prisoner gives details as to how the tragedy took place. She states how she started out in woman's clothing and where she changed the clothing; how she hid the clothes, how she went to Jameson-avenue and how she returned to her rooms. There have been cases where persons have given themselves up and voluntarily confessed to crime, and it turned out that their confessions were made for the purpose of gaining some notoriety. Is this confession, under the circumstances in which it was given—told to more than one and after the crime had been denied—is this one of that class of confessions that has a right to be regarded with suspicion? You have to see how the confession harmonizes with such other facts as you choose to believe in the evidence.

There will be evidence of some motive—evidence of a certain relationship of an improper sort existing between deceased and this woman. A witness will testify that deceased was with a certain woman, and the prisoner had said that if deceased and this woman were seen together again there would be shooting. The testimony of such a witness, coming before you confessedly an immoral person, you must scrutinize with care. So far as the crown has been able to ascertain the deceased was a respectable young man. It is for you to say whether jealousy produced this crime. But if you are satisfied the prisoner did the shooting the motive follows. You do not need to search for it.

Mrs. Clara Westwood, mother of the dead boy, then told the story of the tragedy. She related how on Saturday, October 6 last, about 10.45 p.m., the door bell rang and her 18-year-old son Frank, who had a few minutes previously accompanied her upstairs, descended to answer it. A few moments later she heard Frank cry out, "Mother, mother, I'm shot." On running down she found him lying prostrate on the floor, and there was a smell of powder.

Mrs. Westwood testified that Frank was not engaged to be married and that he was a well-behaved boy.

Benjamin Westwood, the father of the dead boy, deposed to hearing his son fall and to running downstairs, returning to the bedroom and obtaining his revolver and then going out onto the lawn and discharging it.

The evidence of Coroner Orr, County Crown Attorney Dewart and Detective Slemin established beyond doubt, however, that the bullet produced was the one cut from the body. Dr. Orr recognized it by his private mark, which still remained on it.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Children's Blood.

How true it is that "the child is father to the man," and how important that the blood of children be kept pure, rich and red in order that they may pass from healthy childhood to strong and vigorous maturity. As a medicine for children, Burdock Blood Bitters is especially precious, and it should always be used to cleanse the blood, regulate digestion and put the whole system in that condition of rosy, bounding health that fits all of us (but particularly young and delicate children), to endure the coming heat of summer. B. B. B. not only makes pure blood, but it cures Bad Blood in any form, from a tiny pimple to an aggressive ulcer.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the varioloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Weber, Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

Ayer's Pills cure Sick Headache.

One Theory.

He—Great Heaven's! I've been talking to you for three hours.

She—Oh, it seems only half that time.

He (insinuatingly)—Why is that, I wonder?

"I suppose it's because one forgets so much faster than you think."

Forecasting the Weather.

He was inclined to be humorous, but sometimes unwise. He had forgotten to go home to supper and he knew what was in store for him when he should finally get there, so just to be pleasant and entertaining he got some miniature flags at a toy store and put them in his pocket.

"John Henry," exclaimed his wife, as he entered the house. "I should think you'd be ashamed of yourself to treat your wife with so little consideration."

He slowly unrolled his little package of flags, took out a square red one with a black square in the center and fastened it to the mantel.

"What's that?" she demanded sharply.

"Storm signal," he replied pleasantly.

She drew herself up haughtily. Once or twice she seemed on the point of speaking, but controlled herself, and finally turned coldly away. He merely took down the red flag and replaced it with a white one with a black center.

"Cold wave," he said.

There was a moment's silence and he saw that her feelings were hurt.

"You're cruel," she said at last. "You stay away from dinner and then you come home just to make fun of me. I—I——"

He put up a blue flag.

"Rain or snow," he said.

"Why do you want to be so mean?" she asked tearfully. "Why can't you be the dear, kind man you used to be? I won't be cross again."

He put up a white flag.

"Fair weather," he said, "and also a flag of truce. I capitulate to tears."

And the white flag floated the entire evening.—Chicago Evening Post.

An Excellent Reason.

The two wives were discussing the pecuniary peculiarities of their respective husbands and they coincided with great unanimity until they reached the point of their own relation to the purse-strings.

"My husband never gives me a cent of money unless he growls about my extravagance," said one.

"Mine does the same thing," attested the other.

"But I get even with him," and her face showed the color of satisfaction.

"How do you ever do it?"

"I go through his trousers' pockets when he's asleep."

"Goodness gracious!" exclaimed the other. "I wouldn't do that for anything."

"Why not? Haven't we a right to the money as well as they have?"

"Yes; but I wouldn't go into my husband's trousers' pockets for it."

"I'd like to know why?" quite indignant at the apparent reproof.

"Because," blushed the other, "he carries his money in his vest."

THE WORLD OF SPORTS.

London, May 1.—The attraction at Newmarket to-day was the running of the Two Thousand Guineas for three-year-olds over the Rowley Mile, which is one mile and eleven yards, and was won by Kirkconnel at 10 to 1 in the fast time of 1.42 2-5. There were eight starters with Raconteur, the favorite, who finished unplaced.

The Two Thousand Guinea Stakes, of 300 sovs. each, h. ft. for 3-year-olds, colts to carry 126 lbs. and fillies 121 lbs., Rowley Mile, 1 mile and 11 yards.

Mr. W. Cooper's b. c. Kirkconnel, by Hampton-Nettle, 126. 1

Mr. Houldsworth's b.c. Laveno, by Bend Or-Napoli, 126. 2

Lord Rosebery's b.c. Sir Visto, by Barcaldine-Viola, 126. 3

The race—Fosticker got away first, leading Sir Visto, Speedwell and Laveno, with The Lombard next in front of Raconteur. Kirkconnel was last and the horses ran in these positions until they reached the top of the hill, when Fosticker was beaten and Sir Visto assumed the lead, followed by Laveno, Raconteur and Kirkconnel. The last named drew ahead of Raconteur and challenged Laveno, who in the burst of speed ensuing was beaten by a length.

The Selling Plate of 100 sovereigns, for two-year-olds, the winner to be sold for 300 sovereigns, over the Rous course, five furlongs, was won by Baron de Hirsch's Pakington, carrying 124 pounds. Mr. Sadler's Gordivan, 124, was second and Mr. Foxhall Keene's Innerdale filly, 121, third. There were eight starters. The betting was 6 to 4 against Pakington, 3 to 1 Gordivan and 10 to 1 Innerdale filly.

Made It Three Straights.

Springfield, May 1.—Springfield made it three straights with Toronto by capturing both games to-day. The first, which was won by a score of 6 to 4, was very exciting, and not till the last man was out was it decided. Gray did fine work in the box for Toronto, and held Springfield down to seven hits. The second game was very one-sided and uninteresting, Springfield walking away with the visitors. Score:

CURIOUS BEDSTEADS.

One Made of Gold and Another of Glass—An Electric Bed.

Although the majority of mankind is content with the conventional bedstead, manufactured either from wood, iron or brass, there exists certain individuals whose tastes, as regards this necessary article of domestic furniture, are by no means so simple.

Such, for instance, was the Parisian gentleman who, a short time ago, ordered from a firm in Paris a golden bedstead, every part of which, even down to the laths, was made of this precious metal. At first sight this certainly looks like a piece of unwarrantable extravagance, yet who knows but that the gentleman looked upon it in the nature of an investment, which he could at any moment realise, if he felt so inclined.

Equally uncommon was the bedstead which an old lady, who certainly had only tasted the Pierian spring of scientific knowledge, order to be constructed for her use. She had read somewhere that glass insulators placed under the casters of a bedstead were conducive to the retention of electricity in the body, and so she argued that a bedstead composed entirely of glass would prove a still better contrivance. Accordingly, she had such a glass bedstead constructed, which on completion proved to be by no means an inartistic piece of furniture.

Apropos of electricity, early in the present century a Dr. Graham, a quack who made and lost a large fortune over the "Temple of Hygiene," was in the habit of selling electric bedsteads at the price of $200 apiece, the property of which beds, he advertised, was to rejuvenate the persons who slept in them, as well as to give them beauty and health.

As a matter of fact, these bedsteads were nothing more than ordinary brass ones, with a battery attached, while all that could be said in their favor was that they were perfectly harmless.

But by far the most curious kinds of bedsteads are to be found in what we may term mechanical bedsteads, which some people of eccentric habits have, from time to time, ordered to be made.

A retired sea captain, who, although not actually mentally deranged, was what one may call "on the borderland," declared to his friends that he could not sleep unless he felt the motion of the sea. Night after night this unfortunate gentleman kept awake, thereby causing considerable damage to his health. At last it occurred to his medical adviser that something might be done in order to produce, by mechanical means, the movement which his patient so much desired. A consultation with a practical engineer resulted in the production of a bedstead which, by means of machinery, moved the mattress upon which the captain was to sleep up and down, producing, in every way, the effect so much desired. The bedstead proved a great success and the captain was no longer troubled with insomnia.

Without wishing to detract from the charms of music, yet for the purpose of inciting sleep we cannot help thinking it to be a failure, for if the music be good one keeps awake to listen to it, while if it be of the contrary nature, anger rather than sleep is apt to be engendered. This, however, was evidently not the opinion of a certain Indian prince who, a short while ago ordered a musical bedstead. Attached to the bottom of the bedstead was an instrument, something between a musical box and a piano organ. This musical Hindu had but to lie in bed, press a knob, and lo! the band struck up. The repertoire of this instrument, we are informed, was decidedly varied, containing all the latest tunes; so that on awakening from a dream the prince had but to press the knob and be lulled to sleep by the strains of "Cavelleria Rusticana," "Knocked 'me in the Old Kent Road," or whatsoever other tune suited his momentary humor.

ALL TO WOMAN'S LIKING.

MANY BRIGHT NEW IDEAS AND NOTIONS OF THE HOUR.

Things Well Worth Knowing—The Latest Way of Wearing One's Watch—Tourists' Club—Parisian Paragraphs.

The watch feminine, says The New York Times, shares the prerogative of caprice with its wearer; it is, like her, free from monotony. Last week it swung from the belt by a chatelaine clasp, yesterday it was tucked in the corsage by a slender fob chain, to-day it perches on the left shoulder, steadying itself by a matching brooch, or tucks itself under a filigree circle of gold or silver, to-morrow, according to the fashionable jeweler, it will do neither nor any of these things, but suspend itself from a short chain, which is strongly attached at each end to a gold pin. When these pins are caught to the bodice of a gown the watch swings between, the length of the chain being sufficient to allow the slight leeway.

It is an idea already developed by one woman that for the moment the useless fob chain can be adapted to this new attachment by a very simple means. Let the catch that snaps to the watch be removed, carefully preserved for future use, and a decorative pin made fast in its place. The tiny ball at the other end is mounted on a pin, and the thing is done.

Furnishing of French Houses.

In their country houses, except in the case of hereditary estates. Frenchwomen observe the utmost simplicity in furnishings. Pine and fir wood, combined with light reeds—in the Vienna style—are generally used in country and seaside places, where the Parisians pass one or two months every year. Unlike the English, who live in the country and come up to town on occasions, the citizens of the French capital can with difficulty tear themselves away from their beloved city, even for the six weeks of intolerably hot weather.

Co-Operative European Trips.

Co-Operative European trips are so common that it is beginning to be the solitary tourist who is conspicuous. A novel woman's club illustrating this tendency to travel on the mutual benefit plan has existed in an interior city since last July. It is composed of eight members, and meet twice a month. The itinerary of travel has been carefully made up and the meetings are for a thorough study of the places which are included in it. They are also for the important purpose of raising the necessary funds. Each member pays an assessment at each meeting and it is expected that the necessary amount will be forthcoming by May, when the party will sail.

Parisian Pins.

The chatelaine who listens to the dictum "big pillows for couches and divans" and straightway piles her furniture with all big pillows makes a mistake that her first guest trying to loll among them will voice if he dare. Pillows should be of several sizes and of varying shapes, at least, one or two long, narrow ones being counted in the collection. Then there should be one of the thin, loosely-packed, slimpsy, if you will, cushions, which are the hallmark of true Oriental comfort and luxury. In this pillow, of barely two inches in depth, the down must be loosely quilted before the last cover is put on to keep it in place.

Points About Pillows.

"At a Paris jeweller's last month," says a New York woman, "I saw pins for the double purpose of securing the belt of the dress and lifting the extra length of the skirt. They were in pairs, one to be attached at the waist, and the other some inches lower down on the skirt; the latter is supplied with a hook that fastens into an eye in its fellow. These pins were made in gold, and were decorated with polished stones."

French Stationary.

A hint for the writing table is from Paris. Tinted note paper is fashionable this year, especially the grayer shades of blue, heliotrope, and delicate pink. The crest is stamped in white picked out with gold, or the monogram is gold on a white medallion. The wax used for sealing the envelope should be of the same color as the paper, but a shade lighter or darker; dead-white wax is often preferred for blue paper. A box of stationary is always of one color only. A fashionable Frenchwoman chooses a tint for the season and uses no other, the wax matching it.

Tissue Paper for the Feet.

Cold feet are a positive affliction which some persons endure throughout the winter season. Many remedies are suggested; one practiced in Russia may be of benefit to somebody. This is to wrap the feet in tissue paper every morning before the shoes and stockings are put on. It is so simple as to be easily worth a trial.

A Fancy From Vienna.

Tiny candlesticks of painted iron, which serve also the purposes of a paper weight, come from Vienna. The taper finds a rest in the heart of a marguerite or an orchid, again in the cup of a hyacinth or a harebell,

The Lemon in Silver Cleaning.

A valuable assistant on silver cleaning day is a lemon. If silver, after it is cleaned, is rubbed with a piece of lemon and then washed and well dried, it gets a white brilliancy which it seldom has otherwise, and will keep clean longer than with the ordinary cleansing.

Catarrh Relieved in 10 to 60 Minutes.

One short puff of the breath through the Blower, supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, diffuses this Powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves instantly, and permanently cures Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds, Headache, Sore Throat, Tonsilitis and Deafness. 50 cents. At H. S. Macdonald.

Japan Has Earned Formosa.

Formosa, which Japan will claim and probably get as part of her war indemnity, lies about one hundred miles off the Chinese coast, between the 20th and 21st degrees of latitude, almost within hailing distance of the cities of Canton, Amoy and Tuchan, and will be surrendered by China with more reluctance than any amount of money she is obliged to pay over. The island is about 400 miles long and 50 wide, inhabited by a mixture of races, some of them not yet emerged from their primal barbarism, and if Japan gets it her first duty will be to give it a civilised administration and bring its wrangling tribes into subjection, which the Chinese have never been able to do. It is in the main a mountainous and rugged territory, not very fertile nor otherwise valuable, but is of great strategic importance, lying between the China and Eastern Seas, and will give important naval advantage to the country that possesses it. France has interests in those regions, and may have something to say about the transfer, and perhaps other countries will be represented in the discussion. But Japan has earned it; it is important to her, and she will probably get it.—New York Tribune.

Keeping Shoes in Order.

A woman hates to get her nice new shoes wet because it spoils them so, but with care the wetting will not hurt them much. As soon as you can remove the wet shoes do so, and rub them well with a soft rag, to get some of the dampness out, and to take off all the mud; then rub them with a cloth saturated with kerosene. Get as much of the oil into them as possible, and then fill them as full of dry oats as you can and set them aside for a few hours, when apply another coating of kerosene. The stiffness will have disappeared and the shoe will be in good shape when you want to don it again. Never try to put on a low shoe unless you have a shoehorn; you will be sure to stretch it out of shape in the back and make it ill-fitting. Keep the buttons sewed on your shoes and good strings in your laced boots, unless you want the men to say you are a "slouch." Have a paste patch put over the first sign of a break in your shoes and they will keep in shape and last twice as long. Cheap shoes and cheap gloves are a snare for the unwary. They get out of shape, are ill-fitting, and do not wear well. It is false economy to buy cheap foot or hand shoes.

British M.P. Journalist Dead.

London, May 1.—William Saunders, M.P. for the Walworth division of Newington, died at 5.30 o'clock this morning. Mr. Saunders was born in 1828. He pursued the profession of journalism for years, and was the founder of The Western Morning News and Eastern Morning News, and the Central News Agency for the collection and distribution of press reports.

Colonizing Canada With Paupers.

London, May 1.—The Daily Chronicle has a leader on an article in The Spectator, touching the colonisation of Canada through the Salvation Army's projects. "We must not ignore the fact," says the writer, "that in Canada there will probably be strong opposition to General Booth's plans to colonise the Dominion with the victims of poverty in England."

Spain Tolerates No Cravens.

Havana, May 1.—Lieut. Valentine Gallego Gonzales of the Government army was shot to death in accordance with the finding of a court-martial because of his having capitulated to the Insurgents at Ramon de Las Yaguas in the Guantanamo district. Gonzales was in command of the fort at Ramon de Las Yaguas and surrendered it to the enemy after a charge by the latter.

The Man of To-day

Who does'nt know that the possibilities for elegance in Clothing have as wide a scope in READY-MADE as in Made-to-Measure is simply not well informed.

The citizen of Peterborough who does'nt know that GOUGH BROS. every season exhaust these possibilities in the very latest creations of fashion of the Clothing world—is also devoid of information, which might be made of great practical value to him from an economical standpoint.

The object of this announcement is to call attention to the two facts above suggested—and to invite a personal investigation of the matter.

There are no Doubts Connected With This Business

We undertake to dress any man from head to heel to his complete satisfaction—including the item of cost, which we guarantee to make SMALLER than any other house in Western Canada.

While we can sell a Man's Suit for $2.90 and a Boy's Suit for 89c, we can just as easily suit the man who insists on having a fashionable Suit worth $12.00 or $14.00, or the Boy whose parents can afford a stylish suit worth $4.50 or $5.00.

Our stock is not limited. We are always prepared for the steady stream of the masses, that finds its way here continually. This means that we have the goods to suit all classes—the medium-price and high-grade Clothing as well. Half assortments drive away trade. Customers won't waste time running where they can't get what they want.

Are you Getting any of our Good Lines we sell so Cheaply

We Have in Clothing
Elegant Black Worsteds, Fine Fancy Cheviots, beautiful Tweeds, durable Cassimeres—made in single and double-breasted, sack and cutaway style—Everyone a true $15.00 Suit, for $12.00. We sell more Clothing and YOU are the cause of it—YOU, because our values win your trade.

We Have in Hats
The very latest. None others. Our Leading Fedoras at $1.25 and $2.00 are not equalled outside our stores. We have the best $1.50 and $1.75 Hats in Canada. Of course you may get just as good by paying $2.00 and $2.50 at other Hat stores, but, well, your choice, not ours.

We Have in Shoes
A range of prices that are down so low they cannot get lower for high-class goods. Leather is going up and the manufacturers are asking more money for Shoes, but we shall continue to sell at present prices. If you would only take the trouble to compare more, our crowds would be larger.

"ALWAYS GOOD AT GOUGH'S."

GOUGH BROS.
The Wonderful Cheap Men,
PETERBOROUGH. LINDSAY.

You buy CLOSE, when you buy your Wall Paper, Window Shades, Cornice Poles, —AT— ROUTLEY'S.
You don't have to argue prices, we mark as we buy—CLOSE.

CAUTION

Owing to the enormous sale of our famous
"Something Good"
CIGAR
Other Manufacturers are putting on the market inferior cods under this name.
A poor article is never imitated, therefore the fact that "Something Good" is being counterfeited is a guarantee to smokers that it is the best 5 cent cigar on the market.
In purchasing see that our trade mark (The Snowshoe) and firm name are on each box, as other is genuine. Our "Something Good" brand is registered and any one selling other cigars under this name will be prosecuted.

Crowd-Bringers

DRESS GOODS here never show the mark of age. They move too fast for that. There's no law against our selling the quantity we do at prices that make them move. The afternoon crowds here are certainly a rebuke to hard times.

PARASOLS much under the weather in a price way. Ladies who are quick to appreciate good value should come early or they will miss what they want most. Bargains like these don't keep.

LACE CURTAINS from 25c. per pair up to $10. Even our 25c kind are bound all round. During House Cleaning time we can help you to decorate and furnish in good taste at moderate cost. There's a golden fringe to everything we have to offer, and we can meet all baits thrown out to catch the unsuspecting.

NEW BUCKLES, NEW BELTS, NEW GLOVES, NEW HOSIERY, NEW UNDERWEAR. To be sure there's not much profit on what we sell, but it beats sitting down and worrying for buyers.

ART MUSLINS, for Wall Decorations, etc. Challies, at 5c a yd. Every day is our bargain days. No floor walkers. If you want anything you will be waited on courteously; if you don't, you won't be nagged at to buy.

THE CARAQUET RAILWAY OUTDONE

The Premier's Letter to Mr. McNeill Regarding the Senatorships—Nearly a Million Spent on the Trent Canal, Which Produced $1,200 Last Year.

Ottawa, May 8.—The Premier is hearing a good deal about the letter which he wrote to Mr. McNeill, re the vacant Senatorships. Yesterday it was twice read to the House. The composition grows upon its audience, for the second reading was received with still greater eclat than the first.

Mr. Flint asked: How many vacancies are there in the Senate at the present date? and to whom have the Senatorships referred to in the following letter been promised?

Privy Council Office,
Ottawa, April 2, 1895.

A. McNeill Esq., M.P.

My Dear McNeill,—I have no doubt you have seen, as I have, notices in the papers that you have been or were to be offered a Senatorship. I know of no man in the Commons whom I would rather see elevated to the honorable and responsible position of a Senator than yourself; but the rumor must have been set afloat by persons having some ulterior object in view, as no such offer has been made, or has it been considered. Certainly a Senatorship was never asked for by you, either directly or indirectly. Moreover, such a step is precluded for the present, by the fact that there are no vacancies that have not long since been promised. Trusting that you may be successful in the contest before you, I remain, etc., yours sincerely,

MACKENZIE BOWELL.

When will the said appointments be made?

Mr. Foster replied to the first: "I believe that ten is the number."

To the second: "I do not know."

To the third "As soon as they conveniently can be."

The answers were received with cries of "Hear, hear," and the third evoked laughter, in which the Ministers joined.

WHEN THE VACANCIES OCCURRED.

Sir R. Cartwright had some questions with reference to the Bowell-McNeill letter. The letter had been read, he said, but it would bear repeating. (Hear, hear.) He accordingly gave it another rendition, in which he brought out the main points with fine elocutionary effect, and to the entertainment of the House.

Mr. Foster replied that the letter was written by Sir Mackenzie Bowell, and gave the dates at which the vacancies in the Senate had become so as follows: Oct. 18, 1890; May 14, 1891; April 15, 1892; Oct. 30, 1893; Dec. 4, 1893; June 15, 1894; July 7, 1894; July 16, 1894; Jan. 17, 1895.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

The following figures with reference to the Trent Valley Canal were given by the Minister of Railways to Dr. Macdonald: The total cost, including the cost of the present contract, since confederation, is $803,252; the depth of water in the completed portion is six feet; the cost of maintenance for the year 1894 was, for staff $3883, and for repairs $4988; total $8821, besides the annual interest charge on the amount expended in the construction. The receipts to the Government in 1894 amounted to $1298.

THE FREDERICTON BRIDGE SCANDAL.

Mr. McMullen's motion calling for a return in connection with the Fredericton and St. Mary's bridge affair, was passed after it had been amended at the instance of Mr. Macdonald so as to include a statement of any mortgage security held by the Government in respect of the loan to the company.

The speech which Sir Richard Cartwright delivered yesterday upon the Fredericton and St. Mary's Bridge scandal was one of the strongest condemnations to which Parliament has listened in connection with any Government transaction for years.

Sir," he said, "I can understand that the Minister of Interior as a Maritime champion, thinks that the time has come when New Brunswick should do something worthy of the high position she occupies in the councils of this country. Has not Ontario got her Tay Canal? has not Quebec got her Carran bridge? and as for New Brunswick, I think she might have been content with her Caraquet railway. But, Sir, I am inclined to think that this bridge when properly looked into will overshadow even the Caraquet Railway. Now this is one of those numerous transactions which have been alluded to in which the Government have allowed themselves to be seduced, or, shall I say, have seduced members of Parliament into equivocal and compromising positions. You will find if we had a commission of inquiry with power to examine into it that the history of the subsidy to the Fredericton and St. Mary's Bridge Company is probably only too true an exemplification of the history of a vast number of railway subsidies which we have been granting for the past nine or ten years. Now, what are the facts about this—facts, mark you, which have not been denied at all or refuted, in reply to my honorable friends? Now, it may be that a considerable sum of money has been dropped in the railway, but there is no doubt whatever that when this bridge was intended to be constructed, we are told, and I have the statement here, that it was to cost $375,000; we are told that $75,000 of it were to be provided by the promoters, and that the Government were to pay $300,000, not after it was completed and the cost ascertained, but as the work went on, to the tune of at least 80 per cent. Those were the terms of the order-in-council, which I have got here. Then, sir, the Government came down and gave $30,000 in one lump to the gentlemen who were only to have expended $75,000.

Sir, what did these gentlemen expect to get? They expected that the road would cost them at the outside $75,000, that the cost of maintenance would be $2000, and they would make $30,000. Now, deducting the $12,000 that they were to pay, they expected to get over 20 per cent. on an expenditure of $75,000, which was afterwards reduced by the $30,000 I alluded to. Sir, if there ever was a case in which gentlemen played heads I win, tails you lose, it was the case of Mr. Gibson and the hon. member for York. Now, there are a great many questions which arise, and which I think, in another place, ought to be made the subject of an investigation. In the first place I should like to know the value of that bridge, valued by a genuine and independent expert, not in the employ of the Government, but some person whom both parties could trust. I have heard—although I do not pretend to say that I will dispute good evidence to the contrary—I have heard that if that bridge was to be built it could be built for less than $375,000, which was stated by Sir Charles Tupper as the estimated cost of it. I am aware that it is a very easy thing to show an expenditure on paper very considerably in excess. We know that in a great many cases little items can be put in so that the actual cost of a bridge may be a very different thing indeed from the reported cost of a bridge. That may or may not be, but we would desire in addition to that to know particularly, and this the Minister of Finance ought to be able to tell us, where these $50,000 bonds come in? Are they ahead of our $300,000, or are they behind this $300,000? If they are ahead of this $300,000, then I do not concede that, even if the hon. member for York and Mr. Gibson have placed any money in this, they have run any appreciable risk. If they come behind, why, sir, they are pretty much at the mercy of the Government of which the Minister of Finance is at present the leader.

Now, there is another thing we want to know. So far as I understand it, 90 per cent. of the capital stock of the company has not been paid in. I do not know in what proportion it is divided between Mr. Gibson, sr., and Mr. Gibson, jr., the hon. member for York and the hon. member for York's son-in-law, but this I do know, that if 90 per cent. have not been paid up, it was the duty of the Government, it was the duty of the Finance Department, it was the duty of the Minister of Justice in particular, if his attention was called to it, to have taken steps, when these bonds accrued, to call in the balance of the 90 per cent., which is apparently uncollected to this date. That appears to me, if it is in the hands of a gentleman of such high standing as Mr Gibson, to have been their clear duty. Before this matter closes, I would like also to know what steps have been taken on the part of the Government to realise the uncollected 90 per cent. Perhaps the hon. member for York, who, I understand, is still a shareholder, can give us this information. But, sir, that is not, perhaps, the most important point connected with it. Now, I called attention, not once, not twice, but many times over, without reflecting on the hon. member for York, to the very inconvenient position in which that hon. gentleman, as largely concerned in a bridge company, of this kind, is placed towards the Government. It is not desirable, it is, in my opinion, wholly contrary to the independence of Parliament act, that any man should hold a seat in this House from whatever province he comes, who is to all intents and purposes a defaulting debtor to the Government; and, so far as appears, and I do not hear the hon. member for York deny the charge, so far as appears, if he has not paid up the balance of his subscription, the hon. member for York clearly stands in that position.

The truth of the matter is, that as a business transaction this thing is fully and utterly indefensible. If the former bridge was only going to cost $375,000, it was worth the while of the Government, first of all, to advance the loan of $300,000, then to give a gratuity of $30,000. Sir, the Government had no business to advance a cent upon it. What sort of security was that? What one of us, as a business man, would advance $330,000, when those who constructed it were only going to spend $40,000 or $50,000 more? Sir, if there ever was any justification at all for the loan, it was the bounden duty of the Government to have built that bridge and to have owned it. For my own part, I will not enter on that side of the question, because I have not the requisite knowledge to say whether this was a railway bridge, which it was really in the interest of the country to some extent. That may or may not be. But I do say that if there ever was any justification for a loan, there was an absolute necessity in that case that the Government should have built and owned the bridge. I say this, that the position in which, whether by his own course, or whether by default of the Government, the hon. member for York was placed, was one that rendered his position in the House fatal to his usefulness from that time. The hon. gentleman was placed in a false position; the hon. gentleman, I repeat, was in the position of a defaulting debtor; the hon. gentleman could not be a free agent; nor can any other hon. member who has been the recipient of large sums from the Government, or who has received favors—because this was a great favor on the showing of the hon. gentleman himself, from the Government—even if those favors have not resulted, as the hon. gentleman tells us they have not resulted, in enabling him to make a very large sum of money at an almost infinitesimal risk to himself. What did the hon. gentleman risk? The hon. gentleman and the friends with whom he was connected, risked, or supposed they risked, $40,000 or $50,000, for the sake of making, as they supposed, a return of $16,000 or $18,000 a year. There are a great many business men who would like to take such a chance, who would consider it a great favor when they were advancing $40,000, or $50,000, or $60,000, to find as generous creditor who would lend them $300,000 at 4 per cent. I repeat, and this is a point, at all events, that cannot be contradicted, that all such transactions to which members of this House are parties are fatal to the independence of the members, and ought, if justice were done, to involve their instant withdrawal from this House."

THE HUDSON BAY RAILWAY.

Sir William Van Horne says the Alleged Subsidy is More Than Would Build the Road.

Montreal, May 8.—"I know nothing positively about the arrangement between the Government and the Hudson Bay Railway Co, if any such exists," said Sir William Van Horne to your correspondent to-day. "I know that the promoters claim to have an arrangement whereby the Government is to give a large annual subsidy for a term of years, and a large grant of land, and is also to lend them $2,500,000 with which to build the road, an amount sufficient not only to build the road, but to afford a profit of some hundreds of thousands of dollars for a season's work, and no doubt this profit can be increased by working off on the public bonds which can be sold at the same price. If it is true that an annual subsidy is to be given, that the railway will be operated by anybody for a week after it is built, I do not believe. There is no traffic and no prospect of any this side of Dauphin Lake, and very little this side. I refuse to believe that any arrangement so absurd has been, or ever will be, seriously thought of by the Government."

U.S. WANT OUR CATTLE.

May Remove the Quarantine to Fight the Beef Combine.

New York, May 2.—The Mail and Express prints the following Washington despatch to-night:

The Secretary of Agriculture has a plan to fight the cattle trust and lower the price of beef. Under the meat inspection law, the Secretary, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, has the power to designate the ports through which animals can enter the United States. Unless he does this no animal can come into this country.

At present, owing to the practically prohibitory quarantine against our cattle by Canada, the secretary has absolutely prohibited the importation of Canadian cattle to the United States by refusing to designate ports of entry where inspection can be made. There are, however, three or four ports in Maine where cattle can be inspected and passed, but only for exportation, for none are allowed entry for consumption. The plan of the secretary is, therefore, to strike a blow at the cattle trust by raising this embargo and designating ports where Canadian cattle can come into the United States for consumption. There has been considerable correspondence between the two countries looking to Canada's removing her 90 days' quarantine regulations, while the United States designates ports for inspection.

Although Secretary Morton to-day positively refused to confirm or deny the rumors of action, it is stated on good authority that in a few days the Secretary of the Treasury will issue instructions to custom officials on the border for inspection of cattle.

As the majority of the Canadian cattle are in the eastern part of the Dominion, the designating of the ports for inspection will be in the eastern part of the United States, and, therefore, nearest New York and the Atlantic coast ports where the cattle are most needed. Of course this does not mean that Canadian cattle are to come in free, for the law distinctly states what the tariff on cattle shall be.

The Department has not been officially advised of any attempt on the part of the Canadian Government to secure a removal of the quarantine restrictions on cattle imported from the Dominion into this country, although the matter has been broached privately by large shippers.

The United States now requires 90 days' quarantine against all Canadian cattle, and with regard to fat cattle for immediate consumption this amounts to a practical prohibition. When the former Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Rusk, found that the Dominion Government had ordered a quarantine, he promptly did the same. The real reason is said to have been retaliation, but the cause assigned was the alleged existence in Canada of pleuro-pneumonia. Unless Canada at first remove the restriction the United States will not do so, and it is doubtful if this Government would agree to do so anyhow in view of the fact that Great Britain has publicly announced as the reason why she will not raise her quarantine against her own colony the existence there of pleuro-pneumonia.

OVERCROWDED PROFESSIONS.

A Toronto law journal recently made the statement that the average income of lawyers in Ontario is only $600 a year. To this the Hamilton Herald adds that there are doctors in the Ambitious City who are not making $1 a day. This is considered, as doubtless it is, an evidence of the "overcrowding" of the professions. Pray, mention anything, except the vacant collectorship of Montreal, that, in these days, is not overcrowded. Business men of all kinds feel that there are more in trade than are needed to make business ventures profitable. Apart from making a living, even the farming profession is overcrowded—so much so, that agricultural products of all kinds are brought to price figures that mean no profit. Even the profession of labour is over-crowded; there are in every land hundreds of thousands who are without employment. Some journals call upon lawyers and doctors to go to raising hogs and poultry. Suppose all the unsuccessful lawyers and doctors should take this advice; that would mean a further addition to the present congestion in these callings and would besides withdraw so many consumers of the products of those already in the business. Almost everything is overcrowded these days, and the man to prescribe a cure for the condition of general congestion is yet to arise. We shall, it seems, have to worry along as best we can, and make the most of the existing conditions. All in any calling or profession cannot expect to become rich, but all can do their duty in the "station in life in which they are placed." We cannot hope to change the conditions which the Great Teacher said would evermore continue—"the poor ye have with ye alway."

A RESURRECTIONIST.

The Mail and Empire naturally doesn't like the references made to the wholesale corruption—jobbing in railway subsidies, etc—in the interests of Conservative election funds, and it weakly retorts by straying over the Mercier-Pacaud transaction in the matter of the Baie des Chaleurs railway subsidies. Whatever wrong Mr. Mercier did he sorely atoned for it. At the first opportunity the people condemned him and his methods in this regard and drove him from public life—a circumstance which is credited with hastening his death. The Mail and Empire does not follow the spirit of the old saying, "de mortuis nil nisi bonum." Mr. Mercier is dead and has fully expiated his political crimes before the popular judgment seat, and, it is to be hoped, has satisfied the demands of justice before a higher tribunal. Nevertheless the Mail and Empire resurrects his bones and props them up in the dock and gravely reads the indictment as though the matter in question were a living issue. But every one will recognise that this is done to blind the public eye to the living, existing evidences of corruption in its own party—evidences that still maintain their places unblushingly upon the floor of the House—the unrepentant Caron, the calcimined Langevin, McGreevy, the political ticket-of leave man, et hoc genus omne. The "amalgamated, purified, sanctified senior organ," as Mr. Edgar dubs it, will be kept fully occupied with defending the living scandals of its own party without playing the role of political resurrectionist.

In Germany, according to J. B. Hurlbert, M. A., the quantity of sugar produced from an acre of beet roots averages from 2,800 to 3,000 pounds and the refuse pulp remaining is equal for cattle food to two tons of the best hay. If anything like the results can be obtained in Canada, the production of beet roots should form one of the most profitable industries to which our farmers could give their attention.

There are now 9,000 miles of electric railways in the States with a capital of $40,000,000, and practically all this development has occurred since 1887. But what has already been attained is but a promise of greater things to come both in the Dominion and Republic. Electrical railways will soon be a greater interest than steam railways are now.

Hon. Mr. Foster is inclined to speak favourably of the Fredericton, N. B. bridge which is built on "piles" of the public money. It is all right enough to speak well of the "bridge that carries one safely over," but Mr. Foster is not by any means across the bridge yet.

HUDSON BAY RAILWAY BONUS

Senator Miller Draws Information From the Premier.

WHAT THE NEW DEAL MEANS.

Sir Mackenzie's Explanation is That the Bonus is a Loan of $10,000 Per Mile, the Company Surrendering the 20-Year $80,000 Subsidy and the 6,400 Acres Per Mile.

Ottawa, May 2.—The question of Government aid to the Hudson Bay Railway was discussed in the Senate, when the Premier made an important statement as to the agreement entered into between the railway company and the Government a few months ago.

Senator Miller moved for a return of all orders in council, letters or other papers, relating to any subsidy, loan or guarantee, in connection with the Hudson Bay Railway within the last two years. Speaking to his motion, he urged the importance of full and accurate information on this subject being placed before Parliament at the earliest possible moment. During the session of 1891, he said, a bill had been passed by Parliament granting a subsidy of $80,000 a year for twenty years to the Hudson Bay Railway. The subsidy was of a special character, as the aid was granted for services which the company undertook to perform in the carrying of mails and in other ways. He thought that measure a wise and proper one and voted for it, but in view of the condition of the finances of the country at present time, and the fact that the Government was face to face with a deficit, he thought great care should be taken in assuming new liabilities. He was not aware whether it was intended to grant an additional subsidy to the Hudson Bay Railway, but he sincerely trusted it was. He warned the Administration that if it was proposed to add this $2,500,000 subsidy to the liabilities of the country at the present time the measure would meet the same fate as the short line railway bill.

He read a newspaper paragraph stating that contractors were about to begin work on the line at Gladstone, Man., under the terms of the Order-in-Council passed a few months ago. If this was the case the contractors should be advised that no expenditure of public money could be made under the Order-in-Council until it receives the assent of Parliament. Otherwise in a year's time these contractors would be coming to Parliament claiming damages for work done under an Order-in-Council. In any event he thought the proposed subsidy of $2,500,000 was quite too large for a colonisation road, and for himself he could say that, taking into account the financial condition of the country at the present time, he would not even vote for the bill of 1891 granting the $80,000 a year subsidy for twenty years were it now before the House.

Senator Boulton thought the opposition to the Hudson Bay Railway was due to largeness of the subsidy and the fear that its construction would divert trade from eastern channels. He was not in favor of an additional grant to the company, which he thought excessive, and advocated a new policy of aiding railway enterprises in the Northwest. His idea was that the Government should retain all land grants, and hold them as security for a Government guarantee of the company's bonds.

Senator McCallum was in favor of opening up the Northwest, but could not support any such wild-cat scheme as this. He ridiculed the idea of subsidising a line of railways through icebergs. (Laughter.)

Senator Kaulbach was prepared to support a measure granting further aid to the Hudson Bay road, as he considered the route a natural outlet for the products of the Northwest.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell said the manner in which the subject had been introduced was indicative of the feeling that was held by many upon this important question. No one could complain of the tone or manner in which Mr. Miller had brought the matter to the atenion of the House. He had, however, been misled by newspaper reports which had appeared at various times. A discussion of the merits or demarits of the action of the Government would more properly come when the papers in the case were before the Senate. He desired to call attention to one or two statements made by Senator Miller from information derived by him from newspaper reports, and not from any official source. There has been, he said, no subsidy of $10,000 per mile agreed upon or offered or even suggested, in addition to the $80,000 per annum which the Government and the Parliament of Canada is now pledged to in consideration of certain services which are to be rendered, nor is there any consideration or additional grant offered or proposed. It is a rearrangement of the liabilities of Canada in consideration of the surrender of all the liabilities we are now under in order to assist the road.

The House is aware that the Government is now pledged to 6400 acres per mile and a payment of $80,000 per annum for 20 years in aid of construction of the road. The $80,000, I have already intimated, is in consideration of services which are to be rendered in the way of postal services, etc. The present proposition, or order in council, which will be better understood when it is laid before the House, is simply a re-arrangement, or in other words a loan of $10,000 per mile for a certain length of time, for which the company surrenders, or rather gives in security, the $80,000 per annum and the 6400 acres per mile. I know that the House or the people will say, what is true, that this is taking back the land which belongs to us, and it is giving security upon $80,000 per annum to which we are now pledged, and which we need not give if the road is not built. That is quite true, but these are liabilities into which the country has entered, and which we are bound to pay in case they construct the road. They have represented to the Government that they could not, with those securities, float the bonds and obtain the money, and they asked for a re-arrangement or re-adjustment of the aid which was given. Now, this is as fair an explanation probably as is necessary at the present moment.

As to the merits of that re-arrangement that is a question for the House to discuss, and to approve or disapprove, when it is submitted to it, and as the Minister of Agriculture says it is subject to the approval of Parliament.

The constitutional procedure referred to by Senator Miller is the correct one. No government has the power to bind itself to pay any public money, to make any readjustment of a bargain, arrangement or contract into which they have entered with any company or individual without the consent of parliament. Parliament having given its approval and concurred in the last proposition it will be necessary to come before Parliament to ascertain whether they will vary, alter or amend it. This is really the whole position.

I am sure Senator Miller will be glad to know that the Government was not so regardless of the interests of the country or so lavish in its promises in aid of the construction of the road as to pledge itself to a grant of $10,000 per mile, in addition to the 6400 acres of land, which it had agreed to give, as well as the $80,000 per annum. Such is not the case. I may say thus far, that the Government has shown a disposition and has laid before Parliament repeatedly propositions to aid in the development of the Northwest, and I think I am not boasting when I say that few governments would have gone further, and it is a very grave question whether we have not gone as far at the present moment as intimated by my hon. friend from Richmond, considering the finances of the country. That is a question we may possibly discuss more intelligently when the papers are laid before the House.

Senator Scott: Before the rearrangement is carried out I should like to ask whether this is to be made the subject of an act of Parliament. There have been occasions when a resolution passed by the Privy Council has been approved by the other chamber and has sometimes been acted upon. What I desire to know is whether this proposed arrangement will be the subject of legislation and whether both Houses will be asked to pronounce upon it.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell: I was under the impression that I had made that statement. The arrangement is subject to approval of Parliament and occupies the same position as the Short Line bill.

Senator Loughead: Is the subsidy conditional upon the road being constructed as a through road or simply as a colonisation road and has any assurance or financial guarantee been lodged with the Government as to the ability of the present company to build the road?

Sir Mackenzie Bowell: The change in the contract or agreement with the company is only as to the extension of the road as far as Saskatchewan. There have been no securities lodged with the Government, as the Government was not in a position to enter into any agreement or contract with the company until the approval of Parliament had been obtained.

Senator Angers introduced a bill to amend the Civil Service Act so as to provide that witnesses examined by the Civil Service examiners be compelled to answer questions and be committed in default of not answering.

Senate then adjourned.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS.

Four Straights For Toronto.

Providence, May 2.—Providence and Toronto played a close and steady game today. In the first innings Dement failed to stop a grounder and allowed the champions to score two runs. Smith of Toronto made both runs for his club by taking first and second base on loose pitching each time, and scoring on hits which followed. His run in the eighth tied the score and two men were out on the Providence side in the ninth, with Toronto to have a turn at the bat, when Murray scored through poor fielding and wild throwing, winning the game. Attendance 250. Score:

C. W. A. Official Bulletin.

The C.W.A. Racing Board's official headquarters, 88 Church-street, contains letin, given out yesterday at the headmany important decisions, judgments and awards, as follows:

The 25-mile Class B championship has been awarded to the Sarnia Bicycle Club. Race to be run at their fall meet in August.

The 10-mile Class B championship and the 2-mile district No. 5 Class A championship race has been awarded to the Peterboro Club, to be run off at their final August meet.

For competing at an unsanctioned half-mile bicycle race at Georgetown, on April 24, Messrs. C. Parker and Alexander Cameron, Toronto, and Standish, address at present unknown, are suspended till June 1. Riders are cautioned not to compete against any suspended rider, under liability of their own suspension.

The racing rules will first appear in the official organ, The Canadian Wheelman, on May 6, and will come into force that date. A rider's actions or conditions after that date will determine his classification. Those in doubt as to their eligibility want to communicate with the racing board and get posted before racing. Competing in a class in which you are not eligible renders sure suspension.

The following chairmen of district racing boards have been appointed: Maritime district, Clifford J. Shand, Windsor, N.S.; Northwest, P. F. Godsmrath, Calgary; British Columbia, W. S. Keay, New Westminster, B.C.; Manitoba, J. J. Beckett, Winnipeg, Man.

The following sanctions for races have been issued:

May 24, Brantford, T. J. Barton, secretary, 5 races for A and 5 for B.

May 24, Woodstock, W. McWhinnie, secretary, 6 races for A and 6 for B.

May 24, Strathroy, J. A. Smith, secretary, 2 races for A and 3 for B.

May 24, Ottawa, G. A. Blais, secretary, 8 races for class A only.

May 25, Island Park, L. Fetcher, promoter, 4 class A and 4 class B.

May 24, St. Thomas, H. M. Allison, secretary, 5 class A and 5 class B.

June 1 and Aug. 19, Toronto Bicycle Club, James Milne, secretary, program not announced.

NICARAGUAN TROUBLE ENDED.

Britain Agrees to Withdraw, San Salvador Guaranteeing Payment By Nicaragua of the Indemnity

Washington, May 3.—The Nicaraguan incident, growing out of the British occupation of Corinto, was happily settled to-day through the good offices of the Salvadorean Minister to Great Britain and France, who had an interview with Lord Kimberley, the British Foreign Secretary. The conference resulted in a definite arrangement of terms for the settlement of the trouble at Corinto, the substance of which was immediately cabled to Secretary Gresham. The despatch said that Great Britain had accepted the guarantee made by Salvador of the payment of the indemnity of $77,500 demanded by Great Britain, the payment to be made by Nicaragua in London within a fortnight, the British Government agreeing that as soon as Nicaragua confirmed this promise to pay, and informed the British Admiral in charge of the naval forces at Corinto of that fact, the Admiral would be instructed to withdraw not only the forces of marines, which, under the command of Captain French, now hold possession of the custom house and other Government buildings at Corinto, but also to remove his warships from the harbor.

A BIBLE AND A SHOTGUN.

He Carried Both, Although He Was a Preacher, and Had Faith.

The panther scare has spread over the entire country, and is especially intense among the colored people, who not only believe all the wild stories they hear about the beast carrying women and children away in his cruel jaws, but will not be persuaded that there is no such cruel animal lurking around Jacksonville.

A reporter while riding in the settlement south of Panama, was hailed through the woods by an old-time darkey preacher. He was an interesting type—short and bow-legged, and these bow-legs were encased in trousers so long they wrinkled at the heel. He had on a jim-swinger, the tails of which wiped the dew from the huckleberry bushes along the trail he was pursuing. He had on a high standing collar, to spit over which he'd have to get on a stump. The collar was encircled by a clerical tie. Surmounting the very black face with its wrinkles and fringe of snowy beard was a silk hat that looked as if it had been brushed by a cyclone. The hat was several sizes too large, and had it not been tilted backward the ears upon which it rested would have been unable to support the burden.

As he hailed, the reporter stopped and waited. The old man came up out of breath. The strangest part of his outfit was a double-barreled, muzzle-loading shotgun, loaded and capped. This was under one arm. Under the other was a Bible.

"Boss," said he, wiping his brow, "you hearn anything 'bout a wild critter in dese yer woods?"

"Yes, I have heard of it but I take no stock in it."

"Dey say hit's a panther?"

"So they do, but they are wrong. It's only a big dog that hangs out by the sub-tropical."

"I'm powerful glad to hab you say dat. Dese people 'round here an' me, too, been gwine to church armed."

"So that's what you have the shotgun for?"

"Yesser. Ober at de church you'll most likely find a stack o' guns."

"But I see you have a Bible. Isn't faith better than a shotgun?"

The old fellow scratched his head. He was puzzled. "Yes, boss, faith is better'n a shotgun, but a shotgun is a handy thing to carry 'roun' to take care o' youself and not gin de Lord no unnecessary trouble." — Jacksonville Time-Union.

She Was Color Blind.

He came into the smoking car and sat down opposite and lighted his pipe. I took notice that he was a man of at least 60, and that he had had his hair and whiskers dyed and made other efforts to disguise his age. He looked so serious and solemn as he smoked that I ventured to ask him if he had received bad news.

"No, not so very bad," he answered. "I was kinder thinkin' how a man kin make a fool of hisself."

"We are all liable to make mistakes."

"Yes, I guess we ar'. How old a man would you take me to be?"

"Oh, about 60."

"Do I look perfectly natural?"

"No, sir. A man of your age should have gray hair and whiskers."

"Then you could tell that they was dyed?"

"At the first glance."

"Yes, I guess ye could," he reluctantly admitted as he filled up for another smoke. "That's whar I made a fool of myself. Did ye see the bride when we got on at Jackson?"

"I didn't notice. Have you been getting married?"

"Got spliced yisterday. She's in the next car back."

"A girl or widow?"

"Reg'lar widder—40 years of age, owns 180 acres of land and is gol durned good lookin'."

"Then you are to be complimented, and I hope you will be very happy."

"Thanks. I should feel better if I hadn't made a fool of myself."

"How was that?"

"You hit my age purty clus. Yes, I'm 60 and a leetle over, and if I hadn't this dye on my hair and whiskers would be as white as snow. When I begun to court the widder a year ago I thought I'd spruce up and look as young as I could. I went to the barbor and got fixed up, and it cost me fifty cents a week right along to her the dye put on."

"You wanted to deceive the widow as to your age?"

"Waal, yes. I kinder wanted to be about 48 or 50, you see. Fust and last this 'ere dyein' has cost me about $25."

"But it accomplished the object?"

"That's what I thought all along till we got married yisterday. Then what d'ye s'pose I found out?"

"She suspected the dye, perhaps?"

"Nary time. Say, stranger, that widder is nigh-sighted and color blind to boot. She never even knowed that I had any hair on my head, and as fur whiskers, she thought they was white and was tickled to death about it."

"Then—then——"

"Then the dyein' was all blamed nonsense, and I'm $26 out o' pocket, and the widder would hav bin glad 'nuff to marry me even if I'd been cross-eyed, bald-headed, bow-legged and had lost one lung in the cornfield."—Philadelphia Press.

Clothing.
The most advantageous shop to buy Clothing in leads to one conclusion—to purchase from us. You may twist and turn and argue as you will—admit you must that our Clothing is by far the best ready-made in Canada. If you discuss prices, we say again—our selling figures are lower, because the qualities are so much better.
Fathers and sons grown up, you, to whom a sensible word can be seriously spoken, take a look at our Spring Overcoats or our new Spring Suits and convince yourself whether we are not more stylish and if our goods are not better made and trimmed or fit neater than any goods shown elsewhere.—Mothers, who generally have good judgment and look for novelties for their youngsters, never fail to look in at our establishment, for we surpass any competition in the way of Children's Clothing.
The splendid value we give in a 2-piece suit at $1.50, or a 3 piece at $2.50, should make us many new acquaintances.

An Episcopal Visit.

Next week His Lordship Bishop O'Connor will make an episcopal visit to the western part of his diocese—old Fort William. It will be remembered that on April 11th the orphanage and church at that place was destroyed by fire, incurring a loss of $7,000, with an insurance of $5,000. His Lordship's visit is in connection with the erection of new buildings, for which plans have been prepared by Mr. J. E. Belcher, C. E.

Opening a Stock Book.

There was not a large attendance of dairymen at the adjourned meeting on Saturday last, to make the preliminary move in the establishment of a creamery in Campbellford or somewhere in that vicinity, but the few interested ones who are pushing the matter along are quite hopeful of success. The committee appointed at the last meeting to canvass the farmers of the section, brought in their reports, which were favourable to opening up a stock book. This will be done at once.

The Demand for Dairy Supplies.

A very marked increase in the demand for dairy supplies by cheese makers has sprung up this season, which would indicate that the patronage of the factories must be increasing. Messrs. J. W. Moore & Co., grocers and general dealers in cheese factory supplies, 351 George street, report sales very much in advance of previous years. During the last two weeks especially, the demand has been so great as to tax the utmost capacity of the salesmen every day.

Big Bargains for May.

Mr. D. O. Legendre, who has occupied a portion of Miss Delaney's old stand, finding his premises too limited for the large business he is securing, has leased the premises formerly occupied by Mr. Joseph McClelland, jeweller, George street, opposite C.P.R. up-town offices, which he will occupy about June 1st, with a splendid new stock of goods. In the meantime, to clear present stock and save trouble of removal, it will be offered at the most emphatic reductions to clear. Great bargains will be given in summer dress goods and hosiery, underwear and corsets. Give Mr. LeGendre a call.

After the Law breakers.

Mr. David Breese, Fishery Inspector, had quite an experience down the river on Wednesday. He came across a party of young men engaged in spearing lunge. He gave chase, but as the law-breakers showed fight, and as he was greatly outnumbered Mr. Breese contented himself with seizing two of the boats used. One was destroyed on the spot and the other he brought up to town. A number of spears and nets were also seized. The case will not rest here by any means, as Mr. Breese will have summons served on the fishermen who defied his authority.

Children's Aid Society.

Yesterday at noon the Children's Aid Society sent cook by G.T.R. to Brighton from whence they came, a mother and four children. The woman has been about town for some time and has given a good deal of trouble to the Society, which by its action in sending the family home, has been instrumental in saving the town a considerable sum in charity expenditure; if the Society had not acted as it has done, the family returned to would have been a burden on the charitable funds of the town. A Society which does such practical work should receive the hearty practical encouragement of the citizens.

Enlarging the Premises.

Mr. Thos. Brady's old Post Office Grocery is going to be considerably beautified within the next few weeks by the substitution of large plate glass windows for these at present in use. A number of other repairs will also be made, considerably enlarging the premises. When completed, Mr. Brady will have one of the best equipped grocery stores in town.

Distinguished Visitors.

Sanford Fleming, Esq. C.B., Ottawa, Justice McLellan, Toronto, and Principal Grant, of Kingston, all stopped off in Peterborough yesterday afternoon on their way to Toronto after attending Convocation at Queen's University. The distinguished visitors called upon Mr. C. McGill, and were driven by him around the town to the different parks and to the Nicholls Hospital, where Mr. Richard Hall was in waiting. All expressed themselves as being much pleased with the town and its evident progressiveness. The Nicholls Hospital and its environs particularly delighted them. The real object of the visit was to urge upon the executors of the Nicholls estate the claims of Queen's University upon any possible balance remaining after the will is carried out.

Under New Management.

A change in the management of the Brennan House took place last week. The new manager is J. Armstrong, late of Peterborough, who has secured an able assistant in the person of M. J. Dunn, also of that town. Everything about the premises has been put in good order, and the management is prepared to receive the public in first class style. The culinary department will be given the very best attention, and the bar will be restocked with A.1. brands of liquors and cigars. A free 'bus will convey the travelling public to and from all trains.—Norwood Register.

Gone to Victoria.

The Globe of to-day contains the following: "Rev. R. W. Trotter, B.Th., formerly pastor of the Lindsay Baptist church, and one of the recent graduates of the theological department of McMaster University, left the city yesterday to assume the pastorate of the Victoria, B.C., Baptist church, to which he has lately been called. Mr. Trotter was also for three years the pastor of the Barrie Baptist church, and his work as a minister there was eminently successful, and was the means of building up a strong church. The large congregations to which Mr. Trotter usually preaches, speak highly of his pulpit gifts, and his career in Victoria is predicted to be bright and successful." Rev. R. W. Trotter is a younger brother the Rev. J. E. Trotter of the Peterborough Baptist church.

Confirmation.

The apostolic rite of confirmation or "laying on of hands" was administered in St. Michael's church, Westwood, and in Christ church, Norwood, last Thursday. At Westwood five persons were confirmed and at Norwood, sixteen. Both churches were tastefully decorated with flowers and evergreens. The Bishop's addresses were eloquent and impressive. He divided them into two parts. The first part was addressed to the candidates. In it he impressed upon them the solemn nature of the profession they were about to make. The second part which followed the "Laying on of Hands," was devoted to the Christian character and life. The service concluded with the Holy Communion of which a large number partook, including the newly confirmed.

Young Women's Association.

About fifty young women met in a very informal way and spent a social time together last evening. Games were participated in, and all enjoyed the good programme rendered, which was as follows: Instrumental music by the Misses Sutton, Schneider, Richardson, Gibson, Thompson; vocal solos by Misses Montgomery and Richardson; recitation by Miss Lillie Pascoe, which called forth an encore, and was responded to very acceptably. After tea and coffee were served the evening's enjoyment was closed by singing "God be with you till we meet again."

The Y.W.C.A. wish to thank those who so cheerfully assisted in the programme, and all who tried to make the evening a pleasant one.

Regular meeting of the Board will be held on Monday afternoon at 3.30.

A Sign of Canal Activity.

Yesterday a weary wayfarer, who had come from Lindsay, called at the EXAMINER office to inquire into the prospects of getting a job on the Lakefield-Peterborough section of the Trent Valley Canal. He had been informed that work was in progress, and he wished to be directed to the point where operations were going on. The gentleman was promptly turned over to our back-door contemporary which has taken the Trent Valley Canal and all connected with it, under its protection. The gentleman also included as an object of his visit a request for an addition to the subscriptions given to enable him to return home. Mr. Haggart must certainly be asked to put a sum in the estimates to provide return passes for such gentlemen. One naturally gets tired of "putting up" to send back home deluded searchers for a job on the Lakefield-Peterborough section.

The Electric Works to be Re-Opened

THE MEN AND COMPANY AGREE

A SETTLEMENT ARRIVED AT THIS MORNING.

A Compromise "Agreement" Satisfactory to Both—Text of the new "Card"—The Letter of the Superintendent—The Employees to Return To-morrow.

The EXAMINER is pleased to announce that in accordance with the letter of Mr. Frederick Nicholls, General Manager of the Canadian General Electric Works, to Mr. Acting Mayor Cahill, on April 19th, the Company has prepared a new agreement on the lines of that letter and has forwarded it to Mr. D. W. Dumble, the chairman of the citizens' committee, as will be seen by the following correspondence:

PETERBOROUGH, May 3rd, 1895.

D. W. Dumble, Esq., Chairman Citizens' Committee, Peterborough:

DEAR SIR,—I have now pleasure in handing you herewith a copy of the agreement which has been adopted by the company and which embodies the amendments referred to by the General Manager in his letter of 19th April, addressed to acting Mayor Cahill.

As the company has made other arrangements to complete the contracts for which we had not apparatus in stock, we shall not be able to fully re-open the works till about June next, but will in the meantime take on such hands as we can find work for, giving our late employees the preference.

Yours truly,
CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC CO.
GEORGE STEPHENS,
General Superintendent.

THE MODIFIED AGREEMENT.

C. G. Form 103.

Peterborough, ——, 189—.

I, the undersigned, agree with the Canadian General Electric Company (Limited) that if I am at any time employed by them on task or piece work, that I will undertake and complete such work, in every respect, in a proper, skilful and workmanlike manner, to the satisfaction of the foreman of the department to which such work belongs, and at the prices fixed therefor by the schedule of prices, in the Company's office at Peterborough at the time I enter upon such work.

And I further agree that if any work done by me is imperfect or defective through my negligence or default or want of skill or care, excepting, however, unavoidable accident, the proof of which shall be on me, that I shall not be entitled to be paid therefor, and will also make good to the Company out of any future moneys or wages earned by me while in the Company's employment, the value, less scrap value, of all goods and material so wasted or destroyed and the damage to all goods and material injured by such work, together with the value of the work of all other workmen previously done thereon, whose work is thereby rendered useless or is injured. And I agree that such amount shall be deducted from any money or wages then due me by the company, and thereafter earned by me while I remain in the company's employment, until the same is satisfied; such deduction of future money or wages not to exceed 25 per cent. of the amount due me on each pay day.

And I further agree that the decision of the inspector appointed to examine such work, shall, if approved of by the General Superintendent, be binding on me, provided, however, that such inspection is made and such defects or imperfections are discovered and I am notified thereof before the work leaves the factory.

On receipt of the above the citizens committee at once communicated with the executive committee of the ex-employees, and a meeting of the latter was called for this afternoon, at three o'clock, when the men agreed to the conditions of the card. It is understood that work will be resumed immediately and that all the old employees possible will be re-engaged as they present themselves, with probably one or two exceptions, as they have been replaced or have left the town.

Thus practically ends the difficulty that has kept the company and their employees apart since the 11th of April.

Whilst every one will rejoice that the solution of the trouble has been reached, due credit should not be withheld from the parties concerned. The company, while maintaining a position which they felt their business interests required, in respect of an agreement with the men, have made important concessions to the men, who, on their part, have maintained their position with a moderation and temperate use of language which has done them great credit, while the citizens' committee are deserving of their due meed of praise for the tact with which they have discharged the duty of mediators.

FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL ORCHESTRA.

A Most Delightful Entertainment Last Evening in the Charlotte Street Church.

A large audience assembled last evening in the lecture room of the Charlotte street church, where a concert was held for the benefit of the Sunday school orchestra. The chair was occupied by Mr. R. J. Kidd, superintendent of the Sunday school, and the entertainment passed off very enjoyably.

As will be seen the programme was a most varied one and of unusual excellence

Its Cost Since Confederation—Cost of Maintenance and Revenue.

In the House of Commons, on Thursday, Mr. Haggart, in answer to Mr. McDonald (Huron), said the cost of the Trent Valley canal since Confederation was $808,252. The amount of the present contracts was $403,059. There had been a permanent survey of the canal made as to location. The depth of water obtained in the completed portions of the canal was six feet. The cost of maintenance for the year ended June 30th, 1894, was:—Staff $3,823, and repairs $4,988; total, $8,821. The receipts for the same period were $1,286.

The Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army authorities yesterday declined to make any statements as to the friction in the management of the army, which led to Major Fry's resignation. Commandant Booth could be found neither at his house or at headquarters, and Col. Holland, his A.D.C., declined to make any statement upon the trouble. Major Fry, when seen, also declined to speak; the difference was a personal one between the Commandant and himself, he said, and he would make no statement about it. Brigadier de Barritt was equally uncommunicative; he stated, however, that two of the Commadant's aides had called upon him, and assured him from the Commandant that that officer had no charges against him, while later the Commandant sent him a present of $100. Further, the ex-brigadier would not speak.

BASEBALL.

The baseball season was opened yesterday in the P.A.A.A. grounds, when a nine from the ranks of the ex-employees of the Canadian General Electric Works met a team of wine clerks and defeated them by a score of 22 runs to 17.

Although many ludicrous incidents occurred during the game, yet there were some brilliant play made on the field. The two teams were composed as follows:—

WINE CLERKS.		EX-EMPLOYEES.
LeBar	First Base	Thorne
Doris	Right Field	Adams
Burdick	Second Base	McMullin
Carroll	Short Stop	Mahoney
Simons	Centre Field	Rubidge
Blaine	Left Field	Metherall
McCabe	Third Base	Elliott
Holland	Pitcher	Gordon
Paxman	Catcher	Pomphret

The wine clerks went to the bat first and were retired without run. Elliott made an error by missing an easy one, but amply retrieved himself a minute later by clever double play which retired two men and was loudly applauded.

When the electric men went to the bat Gordon fanned the air three times in succession, being cleverly struck out by Holland who played a star game. His pitching should have won the game for the wine clerks easily, but costly errors at times by his support and the hard hitting of the Electrics won the game for the ex-employees, who in this innings made four runs.

The wine clerks were again shut out and in their next innings the Electrics increased their lead to eleven. The wine clerks then pulled themselves together and made six runs, but the Works men made two more when they came to the bat. The wine clerks made four, and the score stood 10-13. The Edisons then increased their lead by three, and changed their pitcher by putting Mahoney in the box. He struck out three men consecutively as they came to the plate. The works made one more run as they came to the bat, making the score 10-17.

The wine clerks made three runs and the excitement ran high when they made two more, and the score stood only 15-17 against them. In the next innings, however, the cup of victory was hopelessly dashed from the lips of the wine clerks, when their opponents made five runs. In a valiant effort to pull up, the wine clerks made two more runs, but were then retired, leaving the Canadian General men the victors, as stated, by the score of 17-22.

LeBar's base running was the wonder of the day. He also did some good work on first base.

Gordon and Mahoney both did well in the box for the Electric men.

When Paxman went to the bat he generally cleared the bases. Pomphret also did some hard hitting.

Jimmy Blaine was jubilant when he made a two bagger and chased two men home. Carroll, too, made a safe hit for two bases.

McMullen made the longest hit of the day and scored a home run off it. Elliott was generally sure to make a long safe drive when he picked up the bat.

Pomphret's throwing to bases was quick and accurate and his work behind the bat was well up to the mark.

This afternoon two teams representing the wine clerks and the ex-employees are playing lacrosse. All the best stick handlers in town have been taken on either one side or the other.

SPRINTING.

The matched race between Messrs. LeBar and Heffernan for $25.00 a side, in which LeBar gives three yards in 200, will be run off Monday afternoon next, at three o'clock, on the Central Park.

WILL PETERBOROUGH HAVE TWO BAPTIST CHURCHES?

The Project Discussed at the Quarterly Meeting Last Year.

At the regular quarterly meeting of the members of the Baptist church, last evening, the subject of the formation of a new Baptist congregation in connection with the Park street mission was broached. All present seemed in favour of the project, as the residents of the western and southern portions of the town find the distance to Murray street church too great to walk in inclement weather.

Although the quarterly meeting was a fairly large one, those present thought that before the subject was finally settled, it would be well to ascertain the views of the entire congregation on the matter, so the meeting was adjourned until next week, when a congregational assemblage will discuss the details.

Canadians generally "get there."

THE ADVENT OF SPRING.

Now draweth soothly near that 'witching mystery,
Whereby the rigid ice-king's grasp is loosed;
As rapturous nephyrs charm away his chill sore breath,
And earth smiles broadly 'neath the genial suasion
Of the ruler of the day.

Alternate with his mellow beams,
The melody of softly plashing amorous showers
Lures us along the vista of the coming days—
To see the greenlet spear uprising from beneath
Last year's sad leaves; each bare shorn shrub and tree
Nestle anew in tender green, and orchards clothe
Their naked boughs, artistic with the tinted promise
Of rich fruits.

To picture woodland glades and marshy brooks,
Where fair, frail wildflowers blow; and hear,
The feather'd clans wake riotous in choral harmony
With wand'ring kin returned to nest again.

To watch,
Where rising from their erstwhile ice-roof'd depths,
The finny elves dart there and here again along
The sunlit surface of the stream, as if to dally
With the shadow of the spinning bronze-blue fly.

Fain would we
That this gracious genr'ous change should loiter not,
But with its subtle lurements haste to fill
Those flooding wellsprings of recurrent life,
That feed all nature's rich enthusiasm.

CATARRH.

The New Remedy

Scores Benefitted by its use.

Belleville, May 20th, 1893.

I was troubled with catarrh of the head and throat for at least 10 years. I have spent hundreds of dollars with doctors and medicines of all kinds; I found plenty to give me temporary relief, but none to cure me. I tried one bottle of LOUTTIT'S CURE, it helped me and I continued its use. Eight bottles cured me, and at present I feel safe in saying that any person suffering with catarrh, that will give this treatment a proper trial and stick to it, will be permanently cured.

Those wishing any further information may write me or consult me and I will be pleased to state my case more fully.

Yours very truly,
C. H. VERMILYEA,

HETEROPHEMY.

Use of Wrong Words and Misplaced Syllables.

Heterophemy, the curious disease which consists in using one word when meaning to use an entirely different one, gives rise to many amusing combinations. An old lady living in a town on the Hudson River is thus afflicted. She is tall and stately in appearance, courtly and gracious in manner, and this makes her incongruous sentences all the more ridiculous. Strange to say, she herself is totally unconscious of her infirmity, for the family, friends and even the servants endeavor to save her from the mortification she would feel.

Not long ago, when she was recovering from a serious illness, the bishop of the diocese chanced to be making his annual visitation, and at the suggestion of the rector they went together to call upon Mrs. Drew.

She was delighted to see them, and entertained them with her usual grace and cordiality. The conversation naturally touched upon her illness, and her thankfulness at her recovery, which for a time had been despaired of.

Presently she turned to the bishop, saying earnestly: "My dear bishop, let us have a little drop."

The startled prelate, glanced at the rector. He, knowing his old friend's infirmity, cast about in his mind for her probable meaning.

"Bishop," repeated the old lady, seriously, "let's have a little drop."

"Certainly, Mrs. Drew," interposed the rector, waiting for her to make some move which might disclose her meaning. But Mrs. Drew waited expectantly also.

"If you have not your Vade Mecum with you, there is a prayer book," she said, after a moment.

The rector, with a sigh of relief, turned to the bishop. "Mrs. Drew will be glad to have you read prayers with her," he said quietly.

Prayers were read and then the gentleman prepared to take leave.

"Your visit has been a pleasure," Mrs. Drew said warmly. "Now, Mr. Belknap, won't you take this little boy home to your dear wife, with my best love?"

For a moment Mr. Belknap wondered if she could mean the bishop, but she relieved his mind by lifting a magnificent bunch of roses from a vase on the table.

Allied to this is another form of misspeech, to which most of us are occasionally subject—the exchange of syllables. A certain young lady, who, to her intense mortification, often reverses her vowels thus, says she is entirely unconscious of it, even after speaking.

One summer evening she was sauntering with a friend toward the village postoffice of the little town where they were staying. On the way they encountered an acquaintance, with a handful of letters.

"Ah, good evening," she said, in her peculiarly gracious, suave manner. "Are you strailing out for your mole?"

The mystified young woman made some inarticulate reply and passed on. As soon as the friend could recover her gravity, she gasped: "I suppose you intended to ask Miss May if she was strolling out for her mail?"

The same young lady was relating a sad story of various misfortunes which had overwhelmed a dear friend.

"Think," she concluded, pathetically, "of losing husband, children, property and home at one swell foop!" And a howl of laughter rent the roof.—Atlantic Monthly.

A PENSION FOR LIFE.

"I cannot understand" said a capitalist to a friend, "why men are so imprudent as to allow themselves to sink into money embarrassments. There is a simple rule that I follow myself, and that I have always found a great safeguard—it is never to let one's balance at the bankers fall below five thousand. By strictly adhering to this rule, one is sure to be able to meet any unexpected and immediate necessity."

The rich man's rule is golden, but his prescription not only lacks practicability but common sense. It reminds one of the advice given poor Joe, whom Dickens has immortalized; but underneath it there lies this thought: Live within your income. The difficulty of having a balance at one's bankers has increased during the last few years, for competion is greater, the margin of profit has lessened and the chances of retiring upon a fortune are not so numerous as they were. Under these circumstances, it becomes necessary to adopt other means of providing for the inevitable rainy day which comes to most men, whether professional or commercial

The only available method of providing a pension for life is that of life assurance, the original object of which was to indemnify the family for the loss of its bread-winner; but the endowment plan has now become the most popular form of insurance. Under this system, a man may receive his money at a given time, the age being fixed when effecting the insurance. "But I want to retire before I am an old man," remarks an objector. Very well, if you can afford to retire when you reach middle age, nobody will object. Your determination is praiseworthy. May you be able to carry it out! Most business men remain in harness until the end. The anxiety to become rich is one of the curses of civilization. It robs a man of all the pleasures of life; it prevents him enjoying the good things placed before him by a bountiful Providence, and from acting the part of the good Samaritan. It is not to such a man that we appeal, but rather to the man who wants to live on the sunny side of the hedge.

"Gather ye rose-buds as ye may," was the advice of the Poet Herrick, and no better advice could be given. We knew a man who was afraid of having a holiday, for fear his family would need the money if anything happened to himself. Now, if he had insured his life, he could have gone away with an easy mind; for a policy-holder, though not justified in living up to his income, may indulge himself with more comforts than the man whose life is not protected by insurance. While an insurance policy tends to alleviate the wants of the future, it also enables the holder to accept more fully the advantages to be enjoyed while he is yet living. He can secure to himself and family many little luxuries that otherwise he would feel called upon to deny, in order to leave something behind to provide for them. The policy is the protecting shield, which, while guarding his loved ones, gives confidence meanwhile to its possessor in fighting the battle of life.

A pension for life is something to look forward to, even if it does not become payable until middle life has been passed. The sweets of life are not monopolized by youth. There are a few, green sunny spots in the desert of life even in old age. "Life is so very pleasant," declared Crabb Robinson, when he had turned three score years and ten, "that I do not like to think how old I am." Some men never do grow old. They seem to have discovered the secret of perpetual youth; they retain both vigor of body and strength of mind. But whether a man be strong or weak there comes a time in his life when he would like to relax, to sever his connection with business pursuits and to follow his own inclinations. With the aid of the money derived from his insurance policy, this laudable desire may easily be carried into effect, and the afternoon and evening of life spent in comfort and peace. In short, an endowment policy in the Confederation Life Association gives absolute protection to your family during the existence of the policy and secures to yourself a sum of money at a given age, which may, if desired, be applied in any of the following ways:—

First.—The policy may be surrendered and the entire value taken in (1) cash, (2) paid-up policy, payable at death; (3) life annuity, an annual payment to the insured till death.

Second.—Or, the policy may be exchanged for a paid-up policy of assurance, payable at death, without profits, for an equal amount of insurance, and, in addition, there will be paid an annuity for life of $45 per $1.000, applying the accumulated surplus either in (4) cash, (5) bonus addition to the sum assured, (6) life annuity.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says:

"A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the varioloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Weber, Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

CHAT ABOUT THE FOLKS WHO LEND LIFE ITS CHARM.

The Mistress of the Elysee—Appearance and Home Life of President Faure's Consort.

A correspondent of The Gentlewoman writes: We may say of the wife of the new President of the French Republic, "like a fortunate country, she has no history." Mme. Felix Faure was Mlle. Marie Mathilde Belluot, daughter of a solicitor, and niece of Senator Guinot, of Amboise, in the department of Indre-et Loire. On July 10, 1865, at the age of 23 years, Mr. Belluot became Mme. Felix Faure. She was a beautiful brunette, with jet black hair and sparkling eyes.

Two daughters have blessed this union, and Antoinette, the younger, is wife of a mining engineer, M. René Berge, Conseiller General of the Seine-Inferieure.

Although, as I have said, Mme. Felix Faure is but little known, that does not mean that she has not sympathized with her husband in his eventful life. Certainly, the larger share of M. Faure's success is due to the helpful influence of his wife.

The home life of M. and Mme. Faure has always been charming. Mme. Faure is a very intelligent woman, and her wit and humor are proverbial. She does not care for the gay world, as she dearly loves her home, but she knows how to entertain with perfect grace. The naval officers who attended her receptions in the Ministry of Marine were charmed with Mme. Faure's manner as a hostess, and all who know her say that she will be an ornament to the Elysee Palace. Mme. Faure always remains in her own apartments until noon, the hour for dejeuner a la fourchette; but the President rises at 5 o'clock, and at 6 he is in his study. He then reads the documents left over from the previous evening, and while perusing them he smokes a curved pipe, called a pipe de chase. Regularly, at 10 minutes before 8, the president returns to his dressing room, changes his clothes and at 8 o'clock he is ready to give audience or to work with his secretaries. Mme. Felix Faure is being greatly assisted in her duties as "first lady of the land," by her eldest daughter, Mlle. Lucie Faure, a very beautiful girl, 25 years old. Mlle. Lucie is, like her mother, intelligent, witty, talented and very literary. She is fond of poetry, writes poems with great facility and willingly recites them to her friends. Mlle. Faure is often her father's secretary and last year she accompanied him to Egypt, where both were very well received. Her engagement to M. Paul Deschanel, member of the Chamber of Deputies, gives occasion for the following gossip in the European edition of The New York Herald: Mlle Lucie Faure, said to be dubbed by her intimate friends, "Lucifer," as a playful adaptation of her Christian and surname, is described by M. Gaston Stolger, in an article in Echo de Paris, as a young lady of great natural ability, cultivated, right-minded, fond of poetry, but by no means an enthusiast or a mystic, fond of philosophy, less naive than disabused in her view of mankind, never vulgar and quite superior in character.

Besides all the above qualifications, or, perhaps, owing to these qualifications, she has entered the field as an authoress, having published, for private circulation, a narrative of her excursion in Algeria, in company with MM. Millaud, Berthelot and Granet.

The incidents of the tour are related in interesting style; the narrative is well kept up, and diversified by bright word pictures of places and persons. There is a vein of poetry throughout, and certain observations display a serious contemplative spirit. That the young lady has a keen sense of the humorous is evident from a little incident at Sidi-Ben-Abbes, where she was seized with an immoderate fit of laughing at a solemn speech delivered by the Mayor of the town to the accompaniment of a band playing selections from "La Mascotte," her mirth being increased by the efforts of M. Etienne to restrain it.

Many incidents that occurred during the tour serve to throw a light on her character. Her remark when she saw some good-looking murderers in prison is cynical—"Nothing is so much like an honest man as a scoundrel," and not less cynical is her observation when discourteously treated at a railway refreshment room—"Civilization is a poor varnish; you only have to scratch it to turn up the same old egotism that has prevailed for six thousand years."

Troubles of a Porter.

The porter of a palace car is envied and cordially disliked, by a good many people, but all is not joy and tips even for the porter. I saw one the other day whom I actually felt sorry for—the only one who ever came within the category of my sympathy. The car was nearly full, it was a cold day, and, of course, the ventilation was bad.

"Porter!" yelled a stout old gentleman near me: and the porter came.

"Open some of these ventilators—we'll smother here."

"All right, sah!"

And the porter got his stick and went along throwing open the little oblong windows above, while the ladies looked about nervously. In five minutes the temperature fell ten degrees.

"Porter!" exclaimed a little bald-headed man at the other end of the car, "are you going to freeze us to death?"

The porter got his stick and began to close some of the ventilators. He knew he had lost one tip and was a half dollar out.

"Now you're going to roast us again!" cried a third gentleman. The porter was now a dollar out.

"I can't stand this draft, porter," said a lady, as he tried to get away. This was probably a quarter more gone.

"Shut that door!" yelled a man down the aisle. "Porter!"

The porter went down the aisle with a cold perspiration on his sable forehead. He explained that there was no door open.

"Then it's the ventilators, porter—shut 'em up! This lady is chilled through!"

The porter hustled along with his stick making a mental calculation as to which ventilator would lose him the least money. He chose the one immediately over the head of the man who started the row.

"You shut that ventilator and I'll report you to the company," said that individual.

But the porter was angry himself now and he closed it with a snap. Then the other people quietly settled themselves back with a feeling of satisfaction—and not another voice was raised during the trip.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

What Are They Saying, Sister?

It was St. Patrick's Day, and they were walking down Fifth avenue together. He—To—was her brother—not a real brother, you know, but the other kind—so she was dressed in her very best gown.

The avenue was crowded; everybody was out for a good time, and intended to have it, so Kate thought the smiling attention she caught as she walked briskly along was merely a reflection of her own jollity. But when Tom, who is not a particularly observant fellow, grumbled:

"Confound those people, how they stare!" she began to feel a bit uncomfortable.

A minute afterward two sturdy young men, each with a green rosette in his buttonhole, passed.

"Look at her, Bill. She's the go!" nudged one to the other.

"Tom, what can be the matter? Is my hat on straight?" Tom looked at her a minute.

"Why, Kate! Good Lord! It's green!"

Kate and Tom went the rest of the way home in a Madison avenue car.

A child was cured of croup by a dose or two of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. A neighbor's child died of the same dread disease, while the father was getting ready to call the doctor. This shows the necessity of having Ayer's Cherry Pectoral always at hand.

The Coming Coiffure.

A rumor comes from Paris that parted hair is not to be the fashion much longer; that even more trying still, the pompadour roll surrounding the face is to be the thing. If this be so, then for a return of the rats, those curious abominations of our mothers' time, over which the hair is brushed, will once more be used. With the hair brushed back in this fashion it is to be arranged in the shape of a figure eight, quite high at the back of the head, and the Psyche knot, which has been with us long enough to become modified into quite a graceful arrangement, will have to go.

Formosa Appeals to Britain.

London, May 1.—The Morning Post has this adespatch from Shanghai: The Chinese of Formosa recently sent a delegation to the British officials, to request that Great Britain prevent Japan's annexing the Island. The delegates offered in return for Great Britain's interference a large share of the profits from the Formosa mines. It is understood that the offer was referred to Great Britain who replied that she was unable to interfere.

A Well Known Gentlemen in the District of Algoma Writes About His Sufferings.

Gentlemen,—About three months ago I was all used up with Rheumatism, suffering more than torture from it frequently. I took three bottles of your valuable medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, and now feel all O. K. again. Some six years ago I took a few bottles of B. B. B. and found it the best medicine I had ever used. I had the best of health until this attack of rheumatism, but now I am glad to say that B.B.B. has made me as sound as a dollar.

A BOOK TO ALL SICK ONES

Cures When Other Medicines and Doctors Have Failed

RESTORES THE SICK TO HEALTH.

"I Can Attribute My Restoration to Health Solely to South American Nervine." Says C. J. Curtis, of Windsor.

C. J. CURTIS, WINDSOR, ONT.

When one has climbed a high mountain it is not difficult to mount the ordinary hill. A medicine that will cure when the case is a desperate one, may be safely taken as a good all round medicine in ordinary cases, and it is not alone the very sick who need medicine.

The statement is borne out by a multitude of facts, thousands of testimonials from reputable citizens, that South American Nervine cures, after what are considered the best medicines in the country have failed, and where the skill of the ablest physicians has come to naught.

The acknowledged scientific principle of disease is weakness and disorganization at the nerve centers. These nerve centers are the main spring of the whole system. When the stomach is out of order the certain remedy is to set the nerve centers in right condition again, so with every other trouble. Thus it is that it may be liver complaint, nervousness, indigestion, heartburn, sour stomach, loss of appetite, impoverished blood, consumption of the lungs, catarrh of the stomach, sick or nervous headache, sleeplessness, pains in the kidneys, or other ailments from which a person is suffering South American Nervine will cure, and cure quickly, and best of all cure effectively and lastingly in every such case.

Much as we were disposed to laugh at La Grippe as a trifling complaint when it first made itself known in this country, later developments have proved that it is a serious malady. The after effects are such that very thorough measures need to be taken to ensure perfect restoration to health. South American Nervine has proven wonderfully efficacious in giving back health to the victims of La Grippe. Mr. C. J. Curtis, a wealthy and well known farmer near Windsor, Ont., suffered from a severe attack of this malady, leaving him exceedingly weak and with no appetite. No medicine seemed to do him any good until he was influenced to try South American Nervine and his testimony is this: "After taking one bottle I found very great benefit from it, my appetite improved wonderfully, and I felt my strength returning very fast." Mr. Curtis then purchased five bottles, but after taking only three out of the five, to use his own words: "I am feeling as nearly well to-day as I ever did, and I can attribute my restoration to health and strength solely to South American Nervine."

Good Showing of Sir William Harcourt's Budget.

OUR CATTLE EMBARGO TO STAY.

British People Prosperous As Evidenced By the Savings Banks Deposits—Possible Deficit This Year To Be Met By Retention of the Beer Tax.

London, May 3.—In the House of Commons to-day William P. Byles, Liberal, asked the Government if Nicaragua had offered to refer all questions regarding indemnity for alleged injuries to British subjects, including the expulsion of British Agent Hatch to an Arbitration Commission, and, if so, why the Government had declined to accept the proposal. He also asked if the Government of the United States had tendered their good offices or suggested the terms of an amicable arrangement of the difficulty, and whether there was a prospect of such terms being accepted.

Sir Edward Grey, Under Foreign Secretary, in reply, said Nicaragua on April 11 sent to the British Government a proposal that the trouble be settled by arbitration. He believed that when the papers in the case should be laid upon the table it would be seen that the matter was not a proper subject for arbitration. The United States had not tendered their good offices for the settlement of the dispute. Her Majesty's Government had reason to believe that the difficulty would be arranged shortly.

In reply to a further interrogation on the subject by Mr. A. C. Morton, Liberal, Sir Edward Grey said it was not a proper case for arbitration.

Sir William Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was loudly cheered as he arose to announce the Budget, and the cheering was repeated and prolonged as he concluded the announcement.

The revenue for the past year, he said, was estimated at £94,188,000. The actual revenue had been £94,684,000. The expenditures, which had been estimated at £93,884,000 had been £93,918,000. The surplus had been £776,000, against an estimated surplus of £291,000.

Sir William Harcourt announced that the estimated expenditures for the coming year would be £95,891,000 and the estimated revenue £95,662,000. The increase in the expenditures over last year was due to the additions to the navy. The deficit of £319,000, as shown by the Budget, must be met by the imposition of a duty upon spirits or upon beer. The strong objections raised by the Irish and Scotch manufacturers of spirits led him to propose the continuation of the duty of sixpence a barrel upon beer, which would yield a revenue of £500,000 and cover the estimated deficit.

Sir William Harcourt, continuing, said that the imports and exports for the past year had shown that though low prices ruled, much benefit had been derived by workingmen. Agricultural distress had been keen and labor troubles numerous, yet the general condition was better than during the previous year. The most gratifying sign of prosperity, he said, was the deposits in savings banks, which in 1890 amounted to a little over £30,000,000. In 1891 they were £31,000,000, in 1892 £33,000,000, in 1893 £35,000,000 and in 1894 £45,500,000. Nothing, he said, better proved the sound financial condition of the country.

The Budget passed the first reading without a division.

Sir Ellis Ashmead Bartlett asked if the Government would make a statement in regard to the situation of the Chino-Japanese peace treaty.

Sir Edward Grey said that communications were now passing between the powers concerning the conditions of peace between the two eastern countries, and it would be impossible at this time to make a statement. He could not say when an official statement of the conditions of peace would be received.

Mr. H. Gardner, President of the Board of Agriculture, replying to questions by Sir John Kinloch and Mr. Robert Farquharson, said there was no chance whatever of Canadian cattle being unrestrictedly admitted into Great Britain this season. Since the last report of the Board of Agriculture he said the Government of Belgium had also discovered cases of pleuro-pneumonia among Canadian cattle landed at Belgian ports, and the Government of Great Britain was trying to obtain details in regard to these cases. When these details were received the Government would consider whether or not a detailed communication in regard to the matter should be made to the Dominion.

PAYING FOR THEIR PRIVILEGE.

The Canadian Niagara Power Company Are Model Tenants

Niagara Falls, N.Y., May 2.—In the agreement existing between the commissioners of Victoria Park and the Canadian Niagara Power Company it is provided in section 4 that "the license hereby granted is for the term of 20 years, commencing with the first day of May, 1892, the company paying therefor at the clear yearly rental of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) during the first 10 years."

In accordance with the agreement, Secretary Rankin of the Canadian Niagara Power Company yesterday forwarded to the Canadian park commissioners a draft on Toronto for $12,500, the semi-annual payment due. Ever since May 1, 1892, the Canadian Niagara Power Company have been prompt in payment, and all told they have so far paid the sum of $87,500 for the exclusive privilege of developing power in Victoria Park, a privilege they have not yet taken advantage of, except to prepare their plans, etc., in readiness for the work, which must of necessity soon commence. It is this steady and prompt payment of rental that leads all to expect the Canadian Niagara Power Company to commence work soon.

AN EXCEPTIONAL SALE.

St. John is much Interested in the Recent Medical Discovery.

St. John, N. B., May 3.—The many cases of marvellous restoration to health from various forms of kidney trouble which have been constantly appearing in the daily press of the Dominion have for some time awakened the liveliest interest here, and the remedy by which the cures were effected, namely Dodd's Kidney Pills, are obtaining great celebrity throughout the province. The appearance of the testimonials of Drs. Rose and McCormick stating the benefits which they had personally derived from their use was considered a sufficient sign of the merits of the remedy, and the other interesting and wonderful cures which have since been chronicled has caused the specific to have an exceptional sale.

Jones—How was that?

Smith—You see it was for injuries received by being thrown from a horse I was riding by the doctor's advice.

Two newsboys were fighting. Billy having got the worst of it went away crying, when a benevolent gentleman came forward and gave him sixpence, comforted him, and told him not to cry. When the gentleman left, Jimmy ran up to him and said: "Here, Billy, give me half of that, for if I hadn't thumped yer, yer wouldn't ha' got it at all."

A gentleman who had been allured by the announcement of a quiet country hotel in the north came down the morning after his arrival complaining that his boots had been outside his door all night and until 8 o'clock that morning, and nobody had touched them.

The landlord, who, in his shirt sleeves, was tipped back in his chair, beamingly remarked:

"Law, bless ye, sir, ye might have left yer purse out there all night; nobody would have touched it. Honest folk down here, I tell ye."

The Man of To-day

Who does'nt know that the possibilities for elegance in Clothing have as wide a scope in READY-MADE as in Made-to-Measure is simply not well informed.

The citizen of Peterborough who does'nt know that GOUGH BROS. every season exhaust these possibilities in the very latest creations of fashion of the Clothing world—is also devoid of information, which might be made of great practical value to him from an economical standpoint.

The object of this announcement is to call attention to the two facts above suggested—and to invite a personal investigation of the matter.

There are no Doubts Connected With This Business

We undertake to dress any man from head to heel to his complete satisfaction—including the item of cost, which we guarantee to make SMALLER than any other house in Western Canada.

While we can sell a Man's Suit for $2.00 and a Boy's Suit for 80c, we can just as easily suit the man who insists on having a fashionable Suit worth $12.00 or $14.00, or the Boy whose parents can afford a stylish suit worth $4.50 or $5.00.

Our stock is not limited. We are always prepared for the steady stream of the masses, that finds its way here continually. This means that we have the goods to suit all classes—the medium-price and high-grade Clothing as well. Half assortments drive away trade. Customers won't waste time running where they can't get what they want.

Are you Getting any of our Good Lines we sell so Cheaply

We Have in Clothing

Elegant Black Worsteds, Fine Fancy Cheviots, beautiful Tweeds, durable Cassimeres—made in single and double-breasted, sack and cutaway style—Everyone a true $15.00 Suit, for $12.00. We sell more Clothing and YOU are the cause of it—YOU, because our values win your trade.

We Have in Hats

The very latest. None others Our Leading Fedoras at $1.25 and $2.00 are not equalled outside our stores. We have the best $1.50 and $1.75 Hats in Canada. Of course you may get just as good by paying $2.00 and $2.50 at other Hat stores, but, well, your choice, not o rs.

We Have in Shoes

A range of prices that are down so low they cannot get lower for high-class goods. Leather is going up and the manufacturers are asking more money for Shoes, but we shall continue to sell at present prices. If you would only take the trouble to compare more, our crowds would be larger.

PUT A TAX ON SUGAR

And Increased the Excise Duty on Spirits.

THE BUDGET SPEECH YESTERDAY

Sir Richard Cartwright's Reply Not Concluded—The Deficit, $4,000,000, to Be Met by Increased Taxation—A Bungled Statement of Liabilities.

Ottawa, May 4.—Hon. G. E. Foster was cheered as he rose to make his Budget Speech yesterday. He plunged at once into business, giving the following comparative statement of the past fiscal year's finances:

Revenue for '93-94: Customs, $19,198,114; excise, $381,088; miscellaneous, $795,489. For 1892-93: Customs, $20,954,062; excise, $367,363; miscellaneous, $847,241, making a difference of $1,793,915.

The expenditure for 1893-94 was $37,585,025, and for 1892-93 it was $36,814,052, a difference of $709,972. The expenditure in 1893-4, $37,585,025, a deficit of $1,210,832, and in 1892-93, $36,814,052, or a surplus of $1,354,555.

Dealing with the expenditure which was three-quarters of a million in excess of the previous year, he said it might be considered a lack of foresight on the part of the Government in a year of financial stringency to increase the expenditure. That view would not hold when the figures were looked at, as out of this three quarter million $712,442 had gone in interest on the debt and subsidies to the provinces, an increase which could not be avoided. Of an increased expenditure, there were three items which would furnish revenue to the Government eventually. For the manufacture of methylated spirits an item of expenditure of $88,654 appeared, for dairy advances $36,000 and for binder-twine factory $74,219. These amounts would in due time come back to the Government, and it was expected that $40,000 would be returned from the binder-twine factory alone. In addition to these expenditures there was an increase in postoffice work of $96,058 and $13,428 in premium, discount and exchange.

The revenue for the year had failed to meet the expenditure by $1,210,832, which measured the size of that unwelcome visitor, the deficit. It must be remembered that, included on the expenditure side, was the sum of $2,181,360 for the sinking fund. So that really the revenue met all requirements of the country outside of the capital laid up against the debt, a sum of $1,100,000. (Loud cheers.) It must not be forgotten, however, that from 1878 to 1894 the total net surplus was $7,476,842. This farther fact should not be overlooked. In 1893-94 303,793,677 pounds of sugar were imported for home consumption, on which no duty was paid. If the rate of duty prevalent in 1890-91 had been imposed on the sugar imported last year, it would have left a surplus of $4,821,205, which would have swept away the deficit and left $3,610,373 to go towards diminution of the debt. (Cheers.) The net result to the people of Canada was that, while it cost them $38,324 as an interest burden to carry the deficit, they had saved in taxes $4,821,000. (Cheers and counter-cheers.)

Dr. Landerkin: We must thank the McKinley bill for the reduction of the sugar duties.

Mr. Foster, continuing, said: "Last year's capital expenditure was shown to be $3,864,118, an increase of $830,423 over the previous year. This was explained in detail by the Minister, who gave the following figures:

1893-4, Railways and Canals, $3,612,312; Public Works, $102,658; Dominion lands, $149,146; total, $3,864,118. Adding $1,229,885 for railway subsidies, it is $5,094,003.

For 1892-93, the figures were: Railways and Canals, $2,782,480; Public Works, $183,877; Dominion Lands, $115,082; total, $3,079,405, and with $11,894 for railway subsidies a grand total of $3,890,800.

The statement of the debt was given by Mr. Foster with much detail, after which he took up the revenue and expenditures of 1894-95, giving the following figures: Total revenue for 1893-94, $36,374,000, and total expenditure $37,585,025; but the revenue up to April 20, 1894, was $29,261,171, and the expenditure $25,025,570. The revenue to April 20, 1895, was $29,261,171, and the expenditure $25,085,570; the revenue to April 20, 1895, was $26,266,757, and the expenditure $25,964,658, and the revenue to June 30, 1894, was $7,113,581 and the expenditure $12,492,454.

These figures were significant, but the Government had good reason to look for a far brighter showing in the balance of the year. There were certain signs of betterment, by which he estimated the revenue for the year would reach $33,800,000. The total expenditure would, he figured, be $38,484,113, but he estimated on a conservative basis $184,113 could be saved on this, making the actual expenditure $38,300,000, making the total expected deficit $4,500,000, on a basis of total actual and estimated revenue of $33,800,000. He had tried to be as conservative as possible in his figures, and to give the House the plain facts of the situation without garniture. The Finance Minister enlarged on this showing, going quite freely into details.

As for the volume and bulk of imports this year, he said they were just as high as in past years. The chief reason for the reduction in customs duties was the decreased value of goods. The London Economist estimated the fall in prices since last year as 7 1-2 per cent. (Hear, hear.) Another reason for the falling off in revenue from customs was due to the changes and reductions in the duties last year, the change from ad valorem to specific duties and the increased importation of free goods. The quantity of sugar which will come in this year would produce $4,900,000, if the old rates of duty prevailed, so that the people of the country had that amount in their pockets.

The capital expenditure this year would amount to $5,000,000; add to that the estimated deficit, $4,500,000, making a total of $9,500,000. Deduct from this the sinking fund and it left an addition to the debt this year of $7,300,000. The addition to the debt from 1890 to 1895 amounted to $15,952,987. In 1890 glass, anthracite coal and sugar were dutiable; to-day they were free. On the basis of the duties imposed in 1890, these articles would have produced in five years a sum of $23,660,902. (Cheers.) Had the duties been retained, not only would there have been no increase in the debt in these years, but seven and three-quarter millions would have been available for decrease of the public debt. (Cheers.) No modern country could show such a large reduction of taxation in five years as the Dominion. (Loud cheers, and Opposition oh, oh's.)

Some considerations were here presented briefly as to the general condition of the country in the years in which it had passed through the recent depression. His chief object was to set the facts of the case against the dolorous charges the Opposition had scattered broadcast. A country's credit in the central money markets of the world was the best test of its standing. In October, 1894, Canada put a big loan on the London market, when money would not leave its hiding place except for the best security, and when colonial securities were at their lowest, when also Canada's revenue was falling off. A loan was put for two and a quarter million at 3 per cent., at a minimum of 95. What happened? The tenders were most widely distributed, and nearly 12 millions were tendered for. The result was it floated at 31-6 per cent. net. The mere recital of that fact would go farther than all the loud talk of Canada's detractors at home or abroad.

Mr. Foster, amid the cheers of the Conservative benches, went on to show that another evidence of the good condition of Canada is to be found in its savings.

Mr. Mills: Hear, hear.

Mr. Foster: The member for Bothwell does not believe that? (Cheers.) But the figures establish it beyond all cavil. The figures of failures were also another fair indication, there being a yearly average from 1874 to 1878 of 22 millions, but from 1890 to 1894 of only 15 millions.

He might summarise the trade situation in this way: Imports increased in value by $3,500,000, and they had increased in volume by a large amount of course, owing to the decrease in value. The exports had increased in value by $28,000,000, and in volume, of course, much more, and were in 1894 the highest in value since Confederation, with the exception of 1892, and the highest in volume of any year in our history. We had a net surplus during that period from 1890 to 1894-95 of $7,476,843. We have taken off taxation on sugar alone $14,000,000; we have taken off taxation on two other articles to the amount of three and three quarter million dollars ($3,750,000), and we have taken off a large amount on items generally in the tariff, the revision of which took place last year. We have increased the debt by $8,500,000. The net interest on the public debt, however, had been increased by only $100,000, while the per capita net interest had fallen from $1.86 to $1.79. No banks had fallen in that period in Canada through the stress of hard times, not one. Our industries have been well maintained. Want and poverty have been practically unknown in Canada and comparatively the Canadian people have outridden the storm with vessels less battered and sails less tattered than any other country in the world. (Cheers.) And in the very midst of the financial and business tempest Canada ran her flag of credit in the very centre of London up to the very highest notch on which it has been unfurled from the time the Canadian provinces united. (Renewed cheers.)

The tide, he believed, had now turned. Prices were recovering, confidence is growing, trade is increasing, the demand of the consumer strengthening, revenue is beginning to mend, and, working on her well-laid basis of resources, rich as they are, the wide facilities for transport with which Canada is splendidly equipped, a sound fiscal policy—(cheers)—and good financial management—(renewed cheers, and interruption from Mr. McMullen, "Good boy")—Canada, said the Minister, was to-day emerging from her period of trial into an era of brightness and prosperity which would surely surpass any in her previous history. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. Foster briefly compared Canada's condition with that of other countries, showing that while England's exports and imports had steadily fallen off since 1890, that those of France, Germany, the United States and Australia had dropped in like manner, Canada's imports have increased 22 per cent. and her exports had held their own. Then, comparing Canada with herself, the Finance Minister took up the records to prove that our condition to-day was far better than that it was during the period of depression from 1874 to 1878, while in the matter of the management of Canada's finances the comparison was greatly in favor of the present administration. "We have passed through the period of depression," said Mr. Foster, amid loud cheers. That was not his opinion alone. It was the unanimous utterance of every responsible newspaper in Canada, of every competent financial authority. The Minister then gave a tabulated statement to show that relatively the recent depression was light in its effects on Canada. Passing on he gave the figures of the debt of the country, its origin, etc., to show how it was made up, and that the assets more than justified its creation and maintenance.

Looking to the future, he said that there were obligations amounting to $6,543,400 which had been incurred, subsidies already voted. Then there were subsidies voted, but not under contract, bringing up the total current liabilities to $9,700,000. In view of existing circumstances, his object would be to make the revenue meet current expenses, so that the capital expenditure of two and a half millions required for current liabilities would not increase the debt by a single dollar. That, he thought, might be considered a sound, clean and healthy position of affairs. The revenue for 1895-96 he estimated at $35,000,000. It was the desire of the Government, a desire shared unitedly, that the expenditures should be cut down to as low a point as possible for the coming year. Ten to twelve millions were controllable in the estimates, and, with the exception of one department alone—viz., Trade and Commerce, there had not been an increase, but, on the contrary, large decreases.

The estimates show cuts in the Dominion police, penitentiaries, civil government, legislation, arts and agriculture, quarantine, immigration, mounted police, pensions, militia, railways and canals, public works, etc. Yet the grants as a whole show a broad-minded policy, consistent with the financial situation. The total reduction was $2,387,648 in the estimates, as compared with last year, or a net decrease of $1,600,000 in the expenditures, statutory and controllable. In some services still further reductions were possible, civil government, for instance, into which the Government intended to look carefully. He reaffirmed his statement that there would be no supplementary estimates for 1895-96, and emphasized the fact that a policy of rigid economy had been determined on, and that the Government purposed establishing an equilibrium between income and expenditure and do it for the sake of benefiting the finances of the country in future, as the maintenance of its credit is of far-reaching importance.

The Minister continued: When the revenues were buoyant and we had large surpluses, this Government dealt with the services of the country generously, many say lavishly, but that they went on with the services of the country generously nobody can deny. They had surpluses of revenue, and they said, we will carry on the services of the country, but at the same time out of those buoyant revenues we will relieve the people from a portion of the taxation and they did it. (Cheers.) In 1890 and 1891 the tax on raw sugar, as we in this House well know, was taken off and benefit was conferred on the country, a benefit which will appear when the figures of the imports since that time are read and a calculation is made of what would have accrued from that rate of duty. In 1891, under the new tariff, there were imported 14,000,000 odd pounds of sugar, the duty on which, taking an average of the old rate, would be $227,447. In 1892 the quantity was 327,000,000 pounds, the duty on which would have been $5,200,000. In 1893 the quantity was 252,500,000 pounds, the duty on which would have been $4,000,000; in 1894 the quantity was 303,000,000 pounds, the duty on which would have been $4,821,000; in 1895 the actual import and the estimated receipts on the same basis would have shown imports of 310,000,000 pounds, the duty on which at the old rates would have been $4,919,700. That is on the article of sugar alone. The tax on raw sugar was paid certainly out of the consumers' pockets, it being a tax not on an article grown in the country, but on a raw product brought in, which must pay the tax at the cost of the consumer of the article. If hon. members would add these items together they will find that the remission of sugar taxation in those years up to the current year aggregated $19,175,333. (Cheers.) Some one may fairly say. But if the duty had remained at the old rate there would not have been so large an importation. Cutting off whatever proportion you please, you will still have an amount of from $15,000,000 to $19,000,000 removed from the people's shoulders. That was not during the time when we had surpluses, it was during the time when the people especially during the past two years, have been passing through a period of depression and what have been called hard times in Canada.

Now, Mr. Speaker, the country, I think, will not quarrel with the Government when we say we think it best for the credit of the country and its general good to secure an equilibrium between expenditure and revenue, when we show our bona fides by cutting down the expenses of the country to the extent of $2,500,000, and we have just done our duty in that regard. I think the country will not complain and this House will not complain if we ask the people in the year that is to come not to pay back to us an equivalent of the old rate of duty on sugar, but to give us one-third of the amount of duty placed on it in 1890 and 1891, thus securing to the people a remission of two-thirds the taxation on sugar in the year to come, and ask them simply for a return equivalent to one-third of the old duty imposed. (Hear, hear.) So it is proposed to place one-half cent per pound on raw sugar, and to increase the protection upon refined sugar and the articles into which sugar largely enters proportionately, and only proportionately, to the increased tax of one half cent on raw sugar. On the import which will probably come into the country this year that will give $1,200,000 or $1,250,000.

That is not quite all we want. We must be careful, if we are going to place taxes on the people for the avowed purpose of filling up the gap between revenue and expense, not to make the mistake which Sir Richard Cartwright

SATURDAY, MAY 4, 1895.

It will take more than the Finance Minister's celebrated Fredericton structure to bridge the gap between income and outgo.

The brilliant government proposal to give two and a half millions to the Hudson Bay Railway, and to take its own gift as security, suggests an explanation of Hon. Mr. Foster's extraordinary success in achieving a deficit of five millions.

It would not be surprising if Sir Charles Tupper, the elder, who has a pull of some $25,000 a year out of the public purse of Canada, should, like Jeshurun, "wax fat and kick," but surely Sir Charles Tupper, Jr., with only $7,000 a year, had no such Plutonic inducement for kicking.

In 1890 Canada sent two million dollars worth of horses to the United States. Last year the export was reduced to $475,000 worth. The noble horse has to take a back street with the bike and the electric railway, and the bicycle seems to make a big bid for first place—it makes a big hole in street railway earnings.

Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson is in luck in regard to the time he assumes the presidency of the Grand Trunk Railway. He begins operations on a rising market, as it were. A depressed business season is ending, things have been about as bad as they can be, an improvement is inevitable, and Sir Charles will come in for some credit without, perhaps, having contributed very much personally to it. No matter how capable the new president is, it seems that a resident Canadian management is what would be best for the grand old Grand Trunk.

There seems to be a great deal of fuss made over the insult by Nicaragua to the representative of Great Britain. It is remarked that he was only one man and not a very great man at that. But it's not the man but the policy—a policy that has made Britain's power respected in every part of the world. There is no corner of the earth so remote that British citizenship does not carry with it the right to fair treatment; or, in its absence, the power of invoking the might of the Empire in defence or punishment of the aggressors. It is a great thing to be a British citizen.

If the Canadian consumers pay over 100 per cent. duty on coal oil to encourage the native industry, one would think that the consumer would be considered when a chance for consideration came. Last year Canada imported $420,575 worth of coal oil from the United States. Upon that our people paid $466,163 in duty. In other words the protective duty doubled the price of imported oil to Canadians for the sole benefit of the Petrolea oil dealers. When the Standard Oil Company in the United States made a determined effort to run up the price of coal oil, our patriotic fellow citizens instead of maintaining the same price, and endeavouring to give the people of Canada some recognition of the protection that had been afforded, promptly followed the example of their fellow-monopolists in the United States in advancing prices. That's gratitude for you!

Poor, benighted free trade England, as the Conservative organs regard her, makes almost as good a financial showing as protection-blessed Canada. The British Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir William Vernon Harcourt, announced in the House of Commons on Wednesday a surplus of £776,000—nearly four millions of dollars—instead of an estimated surplus of £291,000. The revenue for the past year was estimated at £98,138,000, the actual revenue is £94,684,000. The expenditures, which had been estimated at £98,684,000, was £93,918,000. The surplus is £776,000, against an estimated surplus of £291,000. And Sir William did not begin with a grist of good resolutions as to economy, like our own Finance Minister, Mr. Foster. If Mr. Foster would take a leaf out of Sir William's book he would not have to squirm so uncomfortably over his five million dollar deficit.

He it is a well-established fact that catarrh is a blood-disease, medical men are quite generally prescribing Ayer's Sarsaparilla for this most loathsome and dangerous complaint. Where this treatment is perseveringly followed, a thorough cure is invariably the result.

XI.

A NOTABLE BOOK.

During the first fifty years of this century the great question that agitated the minds of men was that of political reform, with a view to the gradual extension of the franchise until every honest man, regardless of wealth or station, should have a voice in the affairs of his country. This great movement was viewed with the utmost alarm by one part of the community, and with the highest hopes by the other. The wisest men, although in its favour, warned the workingmen not to expect too much from the mere redistribution of political power, and to-day it is clear that the alarmists exaggerated the dangers and the reformers exaggerated the blessings that would follow in the train of a universal suffrage. Yet the reform was needed, the time was ripe for it, and a marked progress in the education, in the cultivation, in the ideas and in the general well-being of the people is clearly discernible.

This movement having worked itself out we are now in the midst of another which has for its object the amelioration of the social relations existing between the different sections of the community, and especially of those between capital and labour, between master and man. The conflicting interests of capital and labour have been exploited partly by political economists, but more particularly by writers on social reform, whose works at first received with contempt are gradually winning their way into general approval. As contrasted with the political movement of the first half of the century, this movement of the latter half may be styled the social movement and the "notable book" to which reference is made in the heading of this letter is Mr. Benjamin Kidd's "Social Evolution," which was discussed at the last meeting of the Fortnightly Club by Messrs. D. W. Dumble, (who had the paper) Mr. Schofield, Rev. H. Symonds, Mr. J. Hampden Burnham and Sheriff Hall.

What now is the cause of the social movement? Is there any justification for the discontent of the socialists, labour parties, trade unions and other organizations existing in every part of the civilized world? Mr. Kidd's answer to the first of these questions is as follows:—The old school of political economists (often called the Manchester School) were liberals in politics and favoured universal suffrage, given which they held that the State should in no way interfere with the inevitable laws of supply and demand. "Laissey Faire" was their motto—"Let things alone" and they will arrange themselves without any assistance from the State. But it is being gradually forced upon the notice of the public that "Laissey Faire" is a doctrine that works in a too one-sided way and the result of the free and unrestricted play of forces within the community is producing results against which the public conscience has been slowly but surely rising in revolt. This, in the briefest possible form, is the cause of the social movement.

The justification of the movement for state interference, with the object of ameliorating the general lot is to be found in such passages as the following: "In England within the last decade descriptions of how the poor live in our great cities and the revelations made through enquiries like that conducted by the Sweating Commission, or more recently through that instituted on so extensive a scale by Mr. Charles Booth into the condition of the London poor, have deeply stirred the public mind. It is being gradually realized that there are great masses of the people, who amid the unrestricted operation of social and economic forces, and under a regime of political liberty, have never had any fair opportunity in life at all, and who have been from the beginning inevitably condemned to the conditions of a degraded existence. It seems to be already generally felt that something more than mere political liberty is needed here."—(Kidd, chap. viii.)

It is further maintained that some of those old feudal privileges and monopolies which have with general approval been abolished, have been to a large extent inherited by that new class of society entitled the Capitalist. "By the combination of the capitalist classes into rings, trusts, syndicates and the like, associations for the universal control of production and the artificial keeping up of prices, the community finds the general welfare threatened by a complication which the reformers of the past can scarcely be said to have counted upon."

The cause of the social movement and its justification according to Mr. Kidd, (with whom we are on these points in entire accord) having been noted, the next question is, What is it we aim at? or ought to aim at? It is easy to talk of reform, but just what is the nature of the reform aimed at is the question of difficulty. It is here that Mr. Kidd parts company with the professed Socialist, with Proudhon's definition of socialism, as "all aspirations towards the improvement of society," few will quarrel; but Mr. Kidd asserts that "true socialism has one invariable characteristic and one definite object in view, up to which all its proposals directly or indirectly lead.

"This is the final suspension of that personal struggle for existence which has been waged, not only from the beginning of society, but in one form or another from the beginning of life." Now, Mr. Kidd believes that the "struggle for existence" is a law of progress that it ever has been and ever will be, and that its cessation would be followed, not by progress, but by deterioration, and hence he is not a socialist.

His own view of the matter is that the true aim of all social reform is to bring men into the rivalry of life upon a footing of equal opportunity. This tendency is already at work, as seen in the supply of universal education, and provided sufficiently large numbers of the community unite for the promotion of this object there will be no revelation, but as we are moving so we shall continue to move, "by orderly stages to the goal towards which the face of society has, in reality, been set from the beginning of civilization."

Mr. Kidd, whose book is written in a severely scientific spirit, takes great exception to the failure on the part of scientific writers to assign due importance to religion and religious motives in the development of society. We think Mr. Kidd goes too far when he asserts that reason is an entirely individualistic and disintegrating factor in human society, but we all together agree with him that religion is the central feature of human history, and that men of science and philosophy have too often depreciated the power and influence of the HEART in favour of that of the HEAD. Still, we hold with the poet when he cries:

"Let knowledge grow from more to more,
But more of reverence in us dwell,
That mind and heart according well,
May make one music as before,
But vaster."

What changes are necessary to bring all into the rivalry of life on a footing of equality? This is a question no one can answer. It is clear, however that the tendency in modern legislation is "to raise the position of the lower classes at the expense of the wealthier." All future progressive legislation must apparently have this tendency. It is almost a CONDITIO SINE QUA NON of any measure that carries us a step forward in our social developments. It is probable that co-operation between all engaged in great manufacturing concerns will more and more replace the old relation of master and servant. With all interests common the work accomplished would reach a high degree of quality and without equality of remuneration (which seems impossible for many reasons) there would be a general levelling up, although the opportunity to make vast fortunes would be gone. But the political history of some modern States would seem to show that millionaires are a danger rather than bulwark to society. Almost the entire system of political jobbery and wholesale corruption has been employed in the interests of men who have possessed the necessary means to degrade the national sense of honour by wholesale bribery. Those who suppose the "wage" system to be of necessity eternal should remember that it is, comparatively speaking, modern, having replaced that of serfdom, itself a modification of slavery. Slavery, serfdom, wages and co-operation would seem to be the natural evolution of the relations between employers and employed.

The history of the past may teach us all one or two valuable lessons. The Conservative alarmists of the thirties and forties who anticipated the ruin of the country from the adoption of the Reform Bill, and the Radical Reformers who predicted the millenium were both wrong. Acts of parliament may do something, improved relations of society may do much, but individual effort, individual character, and individual pluck will accomplish more. The greatest sermon ever preached, the Sermon on the Mount, ascribed blessedness to character. Seek, fellow citizens, to improve yourselves in love, in purity, in temperance, in wisdom; strive; "to do unto others as you would they should do unto you." Hunger and thirst after righteousness, and the highest of blessing, the blessing of heaven, will descend upon your heads and abide in your hearts.

A NATIONAL BLESSING.

Paine's Celery Compound is Used in Thousands of Canadian Homes.

WHEREVER PHYSICIANS PRACTICE IT IS FREELY ORDERED.

It is Generally Used All Over Three Continents of the World.

The greatest national blessing of the present day is Paine's Celery Compound, now so generally used in thousands of Canadian homes. The reputation and popularity of this wonderful medicine is now fully established over three entire continents, and noble physicians freely prescribe it from day to day. A noted physician recently wrote to the proprietors of Paine's Celery Compound as follows:

"In torpidity of the liver and nervous debility and kidney disorders, Paine's Celery Compound acts like a charm, restoring the general nervous system and these organs to their normal activity very speedily. It is of inestimable value, and possesses a wider range of action by far than any of its kindred remedies."

It should be carefully noted that all testimonials published in favour of Paine's Compound come from men and women who are well-known in their respective localities. When a testimonial comes from anyone outside of Canada, it comes from some individual of national reputation. No doubtful or manufactured testimonials are ever submitted to the public; every letter is vouched for before it is used.

Mrs. Alex. Allen, of Ramsay, Ont., who was cured after ten years of sufferings from nervousness and neuralgia, writes as follows:—

"It gives me great pleasure to testify to the fact that Paine's Celery Compound has caused a remarkable change in my condition. For ten years I have suffered from nervousness and without finding relief. Your Paine's Celery Compound was recommended to me; and after using seven bottles I find myself well and strong, and can rest and sleep with ease and comfort. I believe it to be the best medicine in the world and I always recommend it with pleasure.

NEWFOUNDLAND AND UNION.

The Question to Be Submitted to the Popular Vote.

St. John's, Nfld., May 3.—Despatches regarding Confederation have been received from Ottawa, but from what can be learned they are not satisfactory. It is reported that the Dominion declines to assume the municipal debt of St. John's. The Government is now awaiting a reply from England respecting the proposed settlement of the French shore question.

It has been practically decided to submit the question to the people on the issue of Confederation versus Crown colony, the Government hoping that the electors will vote in favor of the former as the lesser of the two evils. Premier Whiteway desires the question to be settled by the Legislature.

EXPEDITION AGAINST HAWAII.

Clarence Ashford Says Armed Vessels Are Now En Route to Honolulu.

New York, May 3.—There is no doubt a storm is rapidly approaching the Hawaiian republic. Despatches from Port TTownsend yesterday announced that mysterious individuals had purchased a large number of rifles and and stores of ammunition from the gun stores in nearly all the cities and towns on Puget Sound, and that even Portland had been drawn upon. Mysterious schooners were reported to have been seen seaward-bound.

Clarence W. Ashford, who is one of the most bitter enemies of Dole and his Government, in speaking last night of the reported purchase and shipment of arms and ammunition, said: It is probably true that the guns have been purchased and shipped as stated, but it is not true that the vessels are under surveillance or will be stopped before they pass the Straits. In all probability they are now out on the sea safely, lost in the broad latitudes of the Pacific."

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

Providence, May 3.—The Providence champions again defeated Toronto to-day in a dashing game. Aside from the two muffs by Lake the Torontos played ball in magnificent style. In the 4th and 6th innings the champions had great batting streaks and hammered the ball all over the lot. Rudderham pitched well for Providence and only in the 3rd inning could the Canadians get more than one hit in an inning. Then Casey and Congalton rapped out doubles, and Gray followed with a single, making two earned runs. Attendance 1000. Score:

Victory for A. W. Cox's Galeottia.

London, May 1.—The principal attraction at Newmarket to-day was the race for the One Thousand Guineas for three-year-old fillies. It had 15 starters and was won easily by Galeottia, with odds of 12 to 1 against.

It is said that Messrs. Croker and Dwyer lost 6000 pounds on their horses yesterday. They twice paid 3000 pounds to 2000 on Montauk and afterwards made several bets at even money.

The One Thousand Guinea Stakes, of 100 sovs. each, h. ft., for 3-year-old fillies, 8st each; 134 lbs. each; Rowley Mile.

A cablegram from London states that Bubear, the ex-champion sculler of England, is anxious to come to America to regain Gaudaur for the championship. Bubear announces that he would sail at once on receipt of $250 for expenses.

Five Years for Embezzlement.

Alexander G. Wilkie, W. D. Matthews' ex-confidential clerk, appeared in the Police Court yesterday, and pleading guilty to the charge of embezzling the sum of $900, was sent to Kingston Penitentiary for five years.

Wilde Admitted to Bail.

London, May 3.—Baron Pollock, one of the judges of the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice, heard in his private chambers in the High Court this afternoon the application of counsel to admit Wilde to bail. Judge Pollick agreed to accept bail.

Rev. G. W. Wye's Appeal Dismissed.

Kingston, May 3.—The metropolitan court to-day discussed the appeal of Rev. G. W. Wye of Amherstburg, taken against the sentence of removal, on the grounds of loss of usefulness, issued by the Bishop of Huron. The appeal was dismissed without costs, the bishops holding that the diocesan canons were unfair and unchristian towards clergymen. The conduct of the church people of Amherstburg towards Mr. Wye was scathingly condemned as unchristian and ungodly.

Listowel Man Missing

Listowel, May 3.—Anxiety is felt as to the whereabouts of Mr. William Wilson, who left town last fall, after drawing his balance of $700 from the bank. It is known he was in questionable company in Detroit, from whence he was to go to Regina to visit a married daughter. He has not yet reached Regina, and no trace of his whereabouts can be ascertained.

THERE IS DANGER.

Advices From Brantford with Regard to the Prevalence of Spring Sickness.

Brantford, May 4th.—Spring in spite of its many attractions has always been rather dreaded in this town owing to the great amount of sickness which usually accompanies, and which they have learned to trace to affections of the kidneys which have a great tendency to become deranged at this time. People here remember the condition of Mr. Archibald Rymal and the way in which he suffered from paralysis, blood poisoning brought on by kidney disease, and was cured by using Dodd's Kidney Pills, the only valuable remedy for such complaints. It is not surprising that they are careful in their habits, and diligent in their use of the remedy, which has become very popular.

The Saturday Market.

The market to-day was a large one indeed and produce sold readily at fair prices. Butter brought from 15 to 16 cents per pound, and eggs were sold at 8 and 10 cents a dozen. Chickens realized 50 and 60 cents, and turkeys remained at 75c to $1.25. Rhubarb, lettuce, radishes and other garden produce found a ready sale.

For Stony Lake Cottages.

On the arrival of the Monday morning train at Lakefield, the Mary Ellen will leave her wharf for Stony Lake, returning the same evening, though not in time to make connections with the afternoon train from Lakefield to Peterborough. The trip will be made again on Tuesday and Thursday and on these latter days prompt connection will be made with the trains arriving at and leaving Lakefield. A great many of the cottagers are going back on these days to the Lake.

"Illumined Historical Travel Talk."

Miss Ada Maria Crowe, from Nova Scotia will give her famous travel talk, entitled "A Vacation Tour through Europe with the Camera," to the members and friends of the Young Women's Christian Association in their rooms this evening at 8 o'clock. All are cordially invited to attend, and travel in imagination through, England, Scotland, France and Belgium. It will be interspersed with quotations from poets and authors, and enlivened with familiar Scottish ballads.

Caution to Fruit Packers

It will be well for all who are interested to study the following clause of a bill entitled "An Act for the Prevention of Fraud in the Sale of Fruit." "Every person who shall knowingly and with the intent to defraud or place or arrange apples, pears, plums, cherries, grapes, apricots or berries of any description whatever in any box, crate, barrel, basket, or other article, for delivery to any other person in such a manner as to conceal defects in size or quality in any portion of such fruit by covering the same with fruit larger size or better quality or otherwise, shall be liable on summary conviction therefor, to a penalty of not less than $1 nor more than $5 and costs.

The Tramp Nuisance.

The country is swarming with tramps at present. People living close to the railroads are pestered with them, and it is not unusual for residents to have half a dozen applicants for food not only one day, but every day in the week. Last night a gentleman counted fourteen specimens in one empty cattle car on a west-bound train. The majority of these fellows are big strong men, who are perfectly capable of work. The town should make some provision for their entertainment. The police find them to be a nuisance. They crowd the cells and are continually an annoyance to the force. If a nice large pile of hard-heads and some good hammers were provided and those gentlemen made to pay for their lodging by breaking a quantity of stones, they would soon find Peterborough rather an unhealthy place for them to stop over.

The Advance in Wheat.

The markets for wheat in the west, after a small reaction, started off again and recovered the advance, and prices even went higher than before the reaction. Rains in the west caused a slightly easier feeling in wheat, but the prairie reports a decided decrease in the spring wheat area, and if this is borne out by subsequent facts it will be a strong factor in the market. In Ontario the market is stronger than it was last week and prices are about five cents a bushel higher for Ontario and three cents higher for Manitoba wheat. Millers are bidding freely, but sellers are very firm. Holders of Manitoba wheat are asking more money than millers are willing to pay and bids for large lots in store at Fort William have been refused this week. Flour is also dearer and higher prices are expected to prevail shortly for both Manitoba and Ontario flours.

Mr. Hoover's Pianoforte School.

Mr. A. F. Hoover has removed to 223 McDonel street, two doors east of Aylmer street, being residence formerly occupied by Mr. W. H. Manning, dentist. Mr. Hoover has been living in Peterborough for nine years, and during that time has established a well-earned reputation as teacher of pianoforte. It is a great advantage to be able to obtain tuition in Peterborough on the same system as taught at the Royal Conservatory of Music, Leipsig, Germany, and at a trifling cost compared with the expense of studying abroad. Mr. Hoover's pianoforte school consists of five classes, viz., Junior I and II, Senior I and II, and Graduating Class for diploma. Several ladies have creditably passed out of the latter class and have received diplomas; have reached a satisfactory stage of development, being conscientious players and able to teach the pianoforte systematically.

A Good Thing is Always Desirable

So it is with the visits of Prof. Dorenwend to Peterborough. On his last visit he was so busy that many ladies and gentlemen were unable to be attended to, he is therefore returning to give all who desire it another opportunity of procuring his art goods for the head. Prof. Dorenwend is undoubtedly one of the leaders of his profession on this continent, his skill in arranging the coverings for the head of either lady or gentleman is well known. His goods are acknowledged to be perfect, and in every way true to nature. They are the best protection to the head, besides giving a refined and youthful expression to the face. Call and examine those marvels of art and have them fitted in order to judge of the effect. Consult him about your hair, he will (free of charge) give you advice as to the preservation of it. He will be at the Grand Central Hotel on Thursday, 16th of May.

Councillors Cahill, Mills and Phelan returned home this morning where, together with a deputation from South Monaghan, they interviewed Hon. John Haggart in reference to the securing of a grant towards defraying the cost of the erection of Rose's Bridge. The deputation was introduced to the Minister of Railways and Canals by Messrs. Jas. Stevenson, M.P., and John Burnham, M.P., and upon explaining the object of their visit to Ottawa, received the assurance that their request would receive favourable consideration and that the Government would at least try to give a grant as large as that made by the Ontario Legislature.

THE TOWN OF PETERBOROUGH.

Proposed Birds-eye View Map of the Town and Ashburnham.

Mr. T. G. Rakestraw, representing the Howe Lithographic Company, is in town for the purpose of preparing a birds-eye-view map of the town of Peterborough and village of Ashburnham. It is about 20 years since a map of this description was issued for Peterborough, and a new one would be a good thing for the town as the proposed map shows all the streets and buildings, and gives at a glance an excellent idea of the extent, situation, facilities, etc., of the town. These map-views are sometimes sold at 25 cents each, but when sufficient civic encouragement is extended they are given gratis. Such a map would be a splendid accompaniment to the little booklet "Fifty Facts," now distributed by the Board of Trade, and it seems that the town would be warranted in liberally encouraging a proposal looking to the wider and more effective advertisement of the manufacturing, traffic and general industrial, capabilities of Peterborough. The EXAMINER has been favoured with a view of a splendid map, of the kind referred to, of the City of London, which is an excellent one, and if the proposed map of Peterborough is as good a one (and no doubt the company, with its reputation to maintain, will do as well or better) such a map of Peterborough distributed in connection with "Fifty Facts," would be a splendid means of making known our resources and attracting capital and population. What does the Board of Trade say about the matter?

ORGANIZATION OF THE CANADIAN HOME CIRCLE.

A Peterborough Lodge Instituted—Election of Officers Last Evening.

For the past few weeks, Past Supreme Leader D. Dunlop, of Toronto, has been in town in the interests of the above Order, and has been very successful in securing many members. Mr. Dunlop deserves much praise for the manner in which he has succeeded in getting so many names, which is a guarantee that the Canadian Home Circle has come to stay permanently. The opening meeting was held in the Sons of Canada hall, last evening, and the regular routine of business gone through, with, together with the selection of the following officers:

W H Meldrum	Past Leader
J W Bristin	"

MARKET FOR HOG PRODUCTS.

There is an increasing demand for hog products. The pack the past season has been insufficient to meet the demand, and the position of some lines is daily getting stronger. Two large lots of hams were purchased in Toronto this week, the Globe says, by a leading firm in Hamilton at good prices, to be repacked and shipped to the Liverpool and Glasgow markets. They amounted to 120,000 pounds and full prices were paid for the goods, and the same was bid for more. The stocks of ham in Canada are now very light. The increased demand for shipment to the mother country is a feature of the trade in hog products. This trade has been carefully and well worked up till this season it has shown a considerable development. The choice quality of the Canadian goods shipped to the British markets in this line have secured for them an excellent reputation there, and Canadian packers are now in a position to command a premium for their goods over there. This is a satisfactory showing considering the fact that the United States packers were catering to the British markets long before our export trade in hog products amounted to anything, and that the Canadian firms have worked up the important and steadily growing export trade they now enjoy by the superiority of their produce. The hog-raising industry is doubtless destined to become an important one in Canada.

The Wabash Railway Trains

Grand Lodge Good Templars.

The Grand Lodge of Ontario Good Templars will commence its 42nd annual session in Toronto on June 20, and the local subordinate and district lodges are busy making extensive preparations for the event. The day prior to the opening of the Grand Lodge the Ontario Institute of Juvenile Temple workers will hold its annual session, at which it is expected a number of carefully prepared papers on various phases of temperance work among the children will be read and discussed.

Opera House Attraction.

What an exchange says of "The Pride of Mayo," the play which will be produced here next Tuesday:—"The Pride of Mayo," Dan McCarthy's new comedy-drama, which was produced at the Third Avenue, last night, proved to be an Irish play of the good old sort. In "Dick Fitzgerald" Mr. McCarthy has provided himself with a character which gives him ample opportunities to dance jigs and make love. Mr. Felix Driscol was an effective villain.—New York Evening Sun, Tuesday, March 13th, 1894. This company appears at Bradburn's opera house, Tuesday, May 7th. Prices 25, 35 and 50c. 1d

Anglican Missions.

The ninth and most successful convention of the Woman's Auxiliary to Anglican Missions was brought to a close yesterday afternoon in Toronto, and the majority of the Peterborough deputation returned home to day. During the day several excellent five-minute papers were read on "What the Girls can do for Missions." One feature of the last day's proceedings has always been the reception of thank offerings, and those of yesterday were the largest in the history of the society, amounting to $179.15, three foreign coins of unknown value, and a solid silver flagon, which will be donated to some church for the communion service. The collections taken up during the three days' meetings amount to $311.95.

This is the closing week of the great removal sale which China Hall has so successfully held for the past three weeks. You can always get a bargain there, but rarely such bargains as are now being offered in all lines of China, Glassware and Lamp Goods. Everything is being sold at cost price to avoid moving large stock, and every one should take advantage of the opportunities offered. 3d

The address was listened to with pleasure and profit by all present.

A MASS CHORUS OF OVER 1,500 VOICES.

The Great Re-union of the Choirs to be Held in Peterborough.

A number of the principal musical educators of the town met Mr. Winter, of Waterloo, in the town council chamber, and with him discussed the scheme of making Peterborough the central point for the assembling of the choirs of Eastern Ontario, on or about August the first, for the purpose of forming a mass chorus and conducting what might be termed a musical festival for a couple of days.

Last year a meeting of the choirs of the Province was held in Sarnia, and the results far exceeded the anticipations, and in view of the fact that such success attended the Sarnia re-union, those conferring were greatly in favour of holding a similar affair in town.

The Driving Park will be taken and the grand stand extended and the grand choruses take place there. It is expected that not less than 1,500 voices will take part in these choruses, as invitations to be present will be issued to choirs, aggregating over 2,000 members in all.

The bringing of so many visitors to Peterborough will doubtless be a good thing for the town in more ways than one. From a musical standpoint local singers should derive no inconsiderable benefit from association and interchange of ideas with the visiting vocalists, and again it was estimated that over $8,000 was left in Sarnia last year by the choristers.

The expense of holding the great gathering in town will only amount to about $250 and it is thought that by charging a fee of 25c. to the grounds that this sum can easily be realized.

Mr. G. W. Mulligan, choirmaster of St. Andrew's church, has been appointed to take charge of the affair locally, and will summon a meeting of those interested early next week to arrange the preliminaries and draft committees to look after the various departments of the work.

THE BUDGET AND THE BURDENS.

Hon. Mr. Foster, Minister of Finance, on Friday made the most important deliverance of a session—the Budget Speech. He was compelled to acknowledge a deficit of $4,500,000, which other equally capable financiers say should be $6,000,000. To meet this Mr. Foster adopts the easy expedient of piling on more taxes. He imposes increased taxes on spirits, raw and refined sugars and a dozen or more articles of every day use. The deficit is not due to too low taxation, for that is high enough in all conscience, but is due to extravagant expenditure. If Mr. Foster had carried out in good faith the promise he made last session there would have been no necessity for increasing the burdens of the people with increased taxes. Then he said that the Government had come to the conclusion to "RESOLUTELY KEEP DOWN THE EXPENDITURE SO THAT IN THE END WE SHALL NOT HAVE * * * AN ILL VISAGED DEFICIT"—of five millions. There has been no retrenchment; on the other hand, in the face of a falling revenue and in the face of the biggest deficit the country has ever known, we find the Government giving a subsidy of two and a half millions to an impossible railway, which if ever built will tend to make valueless the expenditure of millions and millions laid out on our canal system; we find money loaned to a bridge which has not traffic enough to pay for its paint and arrears of interest of $75,000 uncollected. We could recall scores of cases of criminally extravagant expenditure of public funds, representing wholesale bribery to constituencies, but we find no attempt at retrenchment worth mentioning. True, the current estimates are slightly cut and necessary services are crippled, but the chief reliance is upon the oppressive remedy that has always come so pat to Conservatives ministers—increased taxation, applied without hesitation. The country groans for reduced taxation—the country calls for a halt in extravagant expenditure, and the only answer is, "pile on the taxes."

LACROSSE.

The ex-employees of the Canadian General electric works and wine clerks were billed to play a game of lacrosse yesterday. First one side and then the others introduced "ringers" and by the time the two teams paired off in the field, neither the wine clerks or electric men had very many representatives amongst the players. The teams on the contrary were composed of the following crack players, and a most excellent game was witnessed:

Can. Gen. Electric.		Wine Clerks.
Crossley	goal	Le Brun
Mein	point	Jack McDonough
Adams	cover point	Joe McDonough
Lynch	1st defence	Logan
Hughes	2nd "	LaBar
McNamara	3rd "	T McDonough
Tanner	centre	B Guy
Wasson	2nd home	McCabe
McMahon	1st "	Butler
Rubidge	outsid home	Carrol
Lipsett	inside home	Clancy
Elliott	goal umpire	Deris

Referee—Mr. Harry LeBrun.

From the face-off the ball went down on the wine clerks' goal, but one of LeBrun's powerful throws from the goal sent the rubber sphere far into the Electrics' territory. Lynch on the Edison defence played a star game, his relieving being done in the most brilliant manner. Hughes, too, although he has not played for several years, did some splendid work, and if he remained here for the summer would probably have a place offered him on the Senior Peterboroughs. McNamara made some good, though ineffectual, shots on the wine clerks' posts during the game which was finally scored for the Edisons by Geordie Lipsett with a whirlwind of a shot.

In the next game McCabe made a very good shot on the Edison goal, which was cleverly stopped by Crossley. Guy also made an ineffectual effort to score. A general scrimmage ensued in front of the Edison flags and the ball was forced between the posts, evening the score.

In the next game McMahon scored for the Edisons in six minutes after some sharp playing, in which Jack McDonough showed up well as did his brother Tom. Both these men will play a great game this year.

After the face-off it just took Lou Lebar one half minute to score for the wine clerks, after a pretty run down the field.

Wasson made the score 4—2 in favour of the electric men by a lightning shot between the wine clerks' flags. Lipsett also did some good work in this game. He will probably play better than ever this season, judging by appearances.

Tanner, at centre, played well for the Edisons, being exceptionally fast on his feet. Wasson scored the fourth and last game for the electric men after some pretty combination play around the flags, the score thus standing 4—2 in favour of the Canadian General men.

Throughout the afternoon, McCabe played his usual hard and fast game and Paddy Carroll also did some good work for the wine clerks.

Lacrosse will doubtless boom from this out, as yesterday's game was but the match to ignite the fire of enthusiasm, which always exists concerning lacrosse in Peterborough. The juniors will probably start regular practices on Tuesday next.

The Peterborough Lacrosse Club will journey to Orillia on June 6th, on the Peterborough and Lindsay joint E. B. A. excursion to that town. The players turn out for their first regular practice at the Driving Park on Monday evening next.

THE N. A. A. A.

The Newspaper Amateur Athletic Association, yesterday, submitted a proposition to Mr. H. Calcutt, whereby they have secured Riverside Park for the season. Mr. Calcutt has consented to repair the fences and grand stand, and also to erect a dressing room and refreshment stand, and the baseball and lacrosse teams will turn out for practice immediately.

Baseball will be played on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and lacrosse on the alternate evenings. The Vatican Park Baseball Club has decided to practice on these grounds, and the Junior Peterboroughs, it is understood, as well as the Granite Lacrosse Club, may also use Riverside Park this season.

DENIES CONFESSING.

Clara Ford Swears That She Did Not Shoot Westwood.

DID NOT KNOW THE DEAD BOY.

The Accused Goes Into the Witness Box and Makes a Straight Denial of the Crime or of Ever Having Spoken to Westwood.

Toronto, May 4.—The trial of Clara Ford for the murder of Frank Westwood, was continued yesterday.

Then Samuel Barnett, the York-street tailor with whom Clara was employed, was called to the stand. He said the prisoner came to work the Monday following the Westwood tragedy as usual. She spoke of the murder, but said nothing particular about it.

With regard to truthfulness and steadiness Clara "couldn't be beat."

Then the crown proceeded to prove that the bullet found in Westwood's body must have been fired from the revolver owned by the prisoner. Foreman William Elliott of John Stark & Co.'s, a gunmaker all his life, pointed out a defect in the barrel of the revolver in the shape of a "burr" near the muzzle. This "burr" was caused by part of the steel being raised. Neither the barrel nor the "rifling" was true. The effect would be that the bullet would strike the projection in passing through and receive an indentation. The bullet was too small for the barrel and would oscillate and assume a crooked shape. The bullet found in Westwood's body bore grooves corresponding to the indentation in the barrel of the prisoner's revolver and to grooves made upon other bullets which had been discharged from the revolver. Owing to the defect the carrying power of the revolver would be weak.

With this testimony the crown rested its case.

Mr. Johnston asked that the testimony of Sergeant Reburn and Inspector Stark be ruled out on the ground that it was not admissible.

Subsequently His Lordship stated that he would grant a reserve case, and in summing up he would ask the jury to find on the case, accepting the confession, and also to find, if they could, upon the evidence with the confession eliminated.

When the court resumed at 2 o'clock after recess, the prisoner took the stand and for over three hours was under examination. She boldly faced the court room, and though two or three times asked if she did not wish to sit down preferred to remain standing.

Clara testified that she had lived in Toronto about 33 years, having been born here. Her parents both died when she was a child. Since she was between 12 and 13 she had earned her own living either at tailoring or in service.

Then Clara swore that the revolver had never left her trunk since August of last year (Westwood was shot in October). She testified that she purchased the revolver and cartridges three years ago at a second-hand store in York-street.

Returning to the day of her arrest, Clara testified that after she had handed the revolver to Strain the latter said: "Inspector Stark wants to see you," and she accompanied Porter to the police station.

Then the girl proceeded to describe what occurred at the police station. Shortly after she had taken a seat in the office Detective Reburn, holding in his hands the men's pants, found in the rooms of the prisoner, entered, and giving her a look as if he would snatch her head off, said, "Where were you the night of the 6th of October?"

Clara continued: I told him I was at the Toronto Opera House that night. He said, What were you doing up at Parkdale? I repeated that I was at the opera house with Flora McKay. I then went with Flora McKay to Mrs. Watson's house in Richmond-street, left her at the door, and arrived home in York-street at a quarter to 11 o'clock.

Prisoner continued: Then Reburn said: "When did you wear those men's clothes last?" I replied that it was over a year ago that I wore them at Mrs. Crozier's house when she lived at Brockton. Then he asked me where the black felt hat that I used to wear was, and I said it was at Mrs. Crozier's, 34 Camden-street, where I left it in September (exhibition week). I told them that I did not want to throw the hat away, and I thought her boy could wear it around. Reburn, who had gone out, returned, and said, "Are you sure you were at the Opera House?" I said "Yes, I was." Said Reburn, "The little girl said that you told her to say that you and she were at the opera house." "I replied, 'My God, she is telling a lie.' Reburn then asked me if I knew Frank Westwood, and I said I didn't." Then he asked, "Didn't you meet Frank Westwood at Clark's?" and I said "No."

Clara then described the arrival of Mrs. Crozier and her daughter, and flippantly spoke of the appearance of the women, who, she said, looked around as if they were half scared to death. "Finally," continued the witness, "Mrs. Crozier straightened her back up and talked right along. Clara laughed immoderately as the scene recurred to her and rolled her eyes and struck attitudes illustrative of them, alleged to have been assumed by the Croziers. She repeatedly grinned during this recital.

Clara then described her removal to the commissioners' office. Almost as soon as she got into the room Reburn said to her, "Clara, if you don't tell the truth it will be worse for you."

Clara then swore positively that she never saw Frank Westwood and never spoke to him in her life, and he never spoke to her to her knowledge.

With equal positiveness she testified that she was at the Toronto Opera House on the night of Oct. 6 with Flora McKay, that the play was the "Balck Crook," and that the story she told the detectives the night of her arrest, other than the alleged confession, was true. She met Flora McKay at Queen-Bay streets and the two went to the theatre. She described the clothing she had on and the turban-shaped straw hat with pearl button and band. Flora McKay made an arrangement with her to go to the Academy of Music the second Saturday after the tragedy, but Flora did not keep the appointment.

Clara admitted that she carried a revolver, but it was empty on every occasion. She had often dressed in men's clothes when she lived in Parkdale and once at Crozier's, but had not worn them for a year. She had never before seen Libby Black, who gave evidence the other day.

She reiterated her statement that she was at the Toronto Opera House on Oct. 6, that she did not know Frank Westwood, that she was not at Crozier's the night of the tragedy and that she had not carried a revolver since August last.

THE BATTLE OF FLOWERS.

A Picturesque Sight at the Carnival of Nice—A Parisian Costume.

The "Battle of Flowers" is far and away the most picturesque sight connected with the carnival. It takes place on the Promenade des Anglais—the Marine Parade of Nice. Each side of the road is crowded with spectators, the many headed standing on the footpath, while the well-to do look down from the covered stands or tribunes which the local Council erects at short intervals along all the principal streets. The battle is fought on primitive but effective lines. Each carriage is filled with flowers—roses, hyacinths, violets and carnations chiefly—and the moment another vehicle ventures within shooting distance its occupants are pelted with a shower of floral ammunition.

COSTUME FOR THE BATTLE OF CONFETTI.

Of generalship there is none; each man is a leader unto himself; when he sees a face he throws flowers at it. In and out among the carriages run scores of boys employed by the flower merchants to gather up the fallen nosegays and make fresh basketfuls of them.

"The "Battle of Confetti" is of a somewhat rougher character. The confetti are small balls of plaster—they used to be sugar plums—thrown indiscriminately against anyone who happens to be standing near. The fighters are well masked to prevent the white dust getting into their eyes and mouths, but the battle sometimes becomes so fast and furious that this precaution is of little use.

Children's Blood.

How true it is that "the child is father to the man," and how important that the blood of children be kept pure, rich and red in order that they may pass from healthy childhood to strong and vigorous maturity. As a medicine for children, Burdock Blood Bitters is especially precious, and it should always be used to cleanse the blood, regulate digestion and put the whole system in that condition of rosy, bounding health that fits all of us (but particularly young and delicate children), to endure the coming heat of summer. B. B. B. not only makes pure blood, but it cures Bad Blood in any form, from a tiny pimple to an aggressive ulcer.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says: "A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the varioloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Weber, Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

THE ONLY WOMAN DRUMMER.

A Sketch of Miss Ellis, Whom the Londoners are Applauding.

A writer for St. Paul's, London, recently called upon Miss Ellis, the kettle drummer.

"How many instruments do you play?" was the first question I asked, after settling down for my chat with Miss Ellis. "Only ten," was the modest reply of this young musical genius, who is of Irish descent, and comes of a family of soldiers, Three of her ancestors fought at Waterloo, one of whom was the brave Sir Henry Ellis, who was aide-de-camp to the Duke of

MISS ELLIS, THE DRUMMER.

Wellington at Waterloo and fell toward the close of the day, when leading the Twenty-Third from the rear of Hongoumont against the attack of the old Guard.

Two of Miss Ellis' uncles—her father's brothers—were killed in the Sikh campaign.

She inherits her musical and other gifts from her father, who took his degrees at Oxford, and is an authority on the science of music, besides possessing great constructive powers.

Miss Ellis plays five instruments in public, and is the only lady performer on the kettle-drums in England. She plays the violin and the side drums. To attain proficiency on the latter instrument—which experts say cannot be learned after the age of 10—she practiced seven hours a day.

"Do you not find the drums very difficult to manage?" I asked.

"Yes, they are; for though they need no practice when you have once acquired the roll, a good deal of presence of mind is necessary, being unsupported and alone, if you are called upon, as I have been frequently, to play before 2,000 people, under a strange conductor, with strange music, often in manuscript, and a pair of drums possibly out of repair, for the last things a conductor attends to are the drums."

"Are you never nervous?"

"Not very often, although as an old trumpeter once said to me, 'You've got to keep your eye on three things at once—the conductor's baton, the music and the drums, and you've only got two eyes to do it with.'"

In addition to being a multitarious instrumentalist, Miss Ellis has a fine contralto voice. She is, moreover, a clever sculptor.

In appearance Miss Ellis is very delicate and fragile-looking, and her looks do not belie her; but she manages to get through a good deal of hard and steady work.

WOMAN'S SALVATION.

HOW SHE MAY SAVE HERSELF FROM UNTOLD AGONY.

One Who Has Passed Through the Ordeal Speaks for the Benefit of Her Suffering Sisters.

Not the least among the many valuable services Dr. Williams Pink Pills have rendered to suffering women, is that of tiding them over the critical period commencing at middle age, commonly known as the change of life. It so often happens that at this climacteric women relapse into a stage of chronic invalidism, and the actual danger to life which attends the change is so great that a medicine which can be relied upon to carry the system over this dangerous time, is nothing less than a life-saving invention. What Dr. Williams Pink Pills will do for women at this change of life is shown in a case reported in the Dewsbury, (Eng.) Chronicle. It is that of Mrs. Benjamin Smith, who lives at Hanover street, Dewsbury. The change of life has left her weak and miserable; with constant pains, dizziness and shortness of breath on the least exertion, together with chronic rheumatism in the head and eyes. The pain in her head was too acute for words. She got no sleep either by day or night, and her agony was at times so great that it took two people to hold her in bed. A skillful doctor was called in but did no good. "My cheeks would swell up as big as saucers," said Mrs. Smith, "My eyes were as red as fire, and there was no getting rid of the pains in the head. I suffered also from a sluggish liver and a weak heart, and at times my eyesight was so bad that objects before me seemed but dim shadows, and there was none of my friends who looked for my restoration to health. I saw an account in a newspaper of a cure similar to mine through the use of Dr. William's Pink Pills, and my husband urged me to try them. Before two boxes were used the pains disappeared as if by magic, and the continued use of the pills for a little more than a month, has left me enjoying as good health as ever I had in my life. I consider Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a blessing, and as I know there are thousands of women who suffer silently from troubles having the same origin as mine, I am grateful enough for what they have done for me to tell my story in the hope that some suffering sister may be similary helped, and you have full permission to publish what I have told you, which statements can be verified by any of my neighbours." The statements made by Mrs. Smith prove the unequalled merit of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as there are thousands of women throughout the country similarly troubled, her story of renewed health will point to them the remedy which will prove equally efficacious in their cases. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are especially valuable to women. They build up the blood, restore the nerves, and eradicate those troubles which makes the lives of so many women, old and young, a burden. Dizziness, palpitation of the heart, nervous headache and nervous prostration speedily yield to this wonderful medicine. They are sold only in boxes, the trade mark and wrapper printed in red ink, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Toronto Markets

Flour—Demand is fair and prices very strong. Straight rollers sold at $3.75 to $3.85, Toronto freights.

Bran—Car lots of bran sold at $14, Toronto freights, and shorts are quoted at $17 to $18.

Wheat—The market is very strong on limited offerings. Sales of Ontario white was made to-day at 86c. No. 1 Manitoba hard sold at 89c, lake and rail, and at 96c, grinding in transit, Sarnia.

Barley—Trade is quiet, with sales of feeding qualities at 44c to 45c,

Oats—The market is strong, with good demand. A car of white sold at 33 1-2c west, and at 37c on track.

Peas—The market is steady at 59c to 60c, north and west.

Rye—Very scarce and prices nominal at about 58c.

Buckwheat—Business very dull and prices nominal.

EVERLASTING BLACKNESS.

There is a fast and everlasting Black that all women desire to secure when home dyeing is done. This fast, imperishable and non-staining Black is only secured through the use of the Fast Black Diamond Dyes.

There are three Fast Black Diamond Dyes—Fast Black for Wool, Fast Black for Silk and Feathers and Fast Black for Cotton, all sold at ten cents per package. The directions for use are so simple that even a child can get better results than the experienced dyer of a few years ago.

The peculiar way in which the Diamond Dye Fast Blacks are made gives them a vast superiority over all other methods of home dyeing.

When buying Black dyes see that you get the Fast Black Diamond Dyes: remember there are poor imitation dyes sold in many places.

Press Proverbs.

Prayer is to many people a sort of last resort.

A woman will often trust a man with her heart whom she wouldn't trust with her pocketbook.

Truth would prevail much oftener than it does if it didn't have so much trouble in getting a hearing.

Some people lose a good deal of sleep for fear their unrighteous neighbor will not get his just deserts.

The man who believes that the means are always justified by the end is in danger of coming to a mean end.

People may fervently pray, "Good Lord, deliver us," and yet continue to place their chief reliance on good luck.

The preacher who objects to Sunday newspapers is usually the most anxious to have his sermon appear in a prominent position in Monday's issue.

A child was cured of croup by a dose or two of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. A neighbor's child died of the same dread disease, while the father was getting ready to call the doctor. This shows the necessity of having Ayer's Cherry Pectoral always at hand.

A Well Known Gentlemen in the District of Algoma Writes About His Sufferings.

Gentlemen,—About three months ago I was all used up with Rheumatism, suffering more than torture from it frequently. I took three bottles of your valuable medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, and now feel all O. K. again. Some six years ago I took a few bottles of B. B. B. and found it the best medicine I had ever used. I had the best of health until this attack of rheumatism, but now I am glad to say that B.B.B. has made me as sound as a dollar.

PUT A TAX ON SUGAR.

made, and put on a large taxation, but yet not fill up the gap. We must add enough to restore the equilibrium. We must be sure that to take a little more it will be enough, in order to be certain that what we propose to do shall be fully and thoroughly done. (Hear, hear.)

So that a little more is necessary, and I propose to impose a slight additional tax on distilled spirits. The excise duty on spirits is now $1.50 per gallon, and we propose to add 20 cents per gallon and make the excise duty $1.70. The customs duty on spirits is now $2.12 1-2 per gallon, and we propose to make that $2.25, an increase of 12 1-2 cents. That, we think, will bring in a revenue of about $500,000 or $600,000, which will give us $1,700,000 or $1,800,000 of taxation. This will, under the estimate I have prepared and submitted to the House, fill up the gap, restore the equilibrium, and bring us out at the end of next year with a clean sheet, and if times improve fairly well, may bring us out a little to the good, which certainly will not be deplored by the country, and not be a bad thing for it.

To show the bona fides of the Government in doing their share, and of this House in submitting to its share for the betterment, not only have two and a half millions of dollars been taken from the controllable voted estimates of the country for the year, but we propose as well to intermit for the succeeding year what we have been in the habit of doing with a generous hand, namely, the giving of aid by way of mileage subsidies to railways to be constructed. From 1882, when the policy was first adopted, until the present time, we have expended over $12,000,000 in payments for these railway subsidies, that is an average of about $1,200,000 per year. There are those running and current, which I have spoken of, which we will gradually wipe off the slate; but for the coming year it is felt that it would be imprudent to add to the list of our liabilities by bringing down any Railway Subsidies bill granting mileage subsidies for the construction of railways in the country.

These points then briefly sum up the position which the Government assumes, the action which it recommends to this House, an action which it believes is dictated by prudence and by a desire not to over-burden the country, but while keeping its service fairly well supplied, not at the same time to go to the verge of imprudence or extravagance in public works and public services, which in a time like this, with our first-rate equipment and first-rate facilities, we may fairly dispense with increasing for a year or two, while times are as they are. I desire, Mr. Speaker, to thank you and the House very heartily for the forbearance with which you have listened to my rather long expositions.

Sir Richard Cartwright's Reply.

Sir Richard Cartwright rose to reply shortly after 6 o'clock. This was, he said, the first time in 16 years that a Budget Speech had been delivered which did not contain laudatory references to the National Policy. The Government had climbed to power on the old policy, and now laid it away on the shelf. Another innovation in this year's budget was that it was contended that the people were enriched by the removal of taxes, when, as in former years, it was claimed that they were enriched by putting on additional taxations. He congratulated the Government on this more sensible theory.

Speaking of the present trade depression, he claimed that the Reform Administration from 1873 to 1878 weathered a much more severe period of trade depression, and yet the total deficits of that period were only $4,500,000, while the present deficit for a single year was admitted to be exactly that amount. The deficits of the former period came out of the pockets of the people of the United States in the Halifax fisheries award, while the present deficit would come out of the pockets of the people of Canada. Nor was this all, he said, for from 1873 to 1878 only $30,000,000 came out of the pockets of the people of the country in taxation, while at present $60,000,000 was the amount of taxation levied yearly on the people of the country.

The result of the proposed duty on sugar would be to tax the country to the extent of $3,000,000, only $1,500,000 of which would find its way into the public treasury. The increased savings in the banks, he contended, was no evidence of prosperity, but simply showed that there was a lack of profitable investments, and the people were compelled to allow their savings to accumulate in the banks, earning only three per cent. interest. This state of affairs, he contended, was largely due to the immense depreciation in the value of farm and town lands, which in Ontario alone amounted to $200,000,000.

Referring to the deficit he adduced figures to show that the actual ascertained deficit was $4,700,000. He was willing, however, to take the Finance Minister's statement that the deficit at the end of the year would be $4,500,000. The last loan made by the Government he thought a good one, but he found fault because it was not large enough. Every cent of that loan was pledged, and the Government was under the necessity of negotiating a new loan at a period when it could not be obtained advantageously, to meet current expenditure.

Touching the question of the country's liabilities, he claimed that they were much larger than admitted in the statement of the Finance Minister. According to the statement made by the Minister of Railways the other day, there would be required for railway subsidies $8,729,000, for completion of the St. Lawrence River Canals $6,000,000, for capital expenditure on Intercolonial Railway $1,000,000; in all $15,729,000, not including what would be required to complete the Trent Valley Canal. But this was not all, for there were other contingent liabilities such as the Chignecto Road, $170,500; subsidy to the fast Atlantic service $750,000. Would the Minister of Finance say that these were not liabilities to which the Government was pledged?

Mr. Foster: The Government is not yet pledged.

Sir Richard Cartwright: Then there is the proposed subsidy to the Hudson Bay Railway. He thought the Government ought to inform the House what other measures involving expenditures would be brought down.

Mr. Foster said the Budget should not be made the excuse for demands for information as to the policy of the Government.

Sir Richard Cartwright: I am quite within my right in demanding the information.

The Minister of Finance arose to retort, but was called to order.

Continuing, Sir Richard proceeded to show that the cash on hand was scarcely sufficient to meet present liabilities.

It was quite clear, he maintained, that instead of the ascertained liabilities being $9,000,000 thry really were $20,000,000, not including statutory liabilities of $1,000,000 more. He questioned the real value of the promises of retrenchment made by the Finance Minister. The actual expenditure last year, he claimed, was $1,000,000 more than the main estimates, though less than the total estimated expenditure. This, he thought, was an indication of what would occur during the coming year. The country had had a better experience with the Intercolonial Railway in swallowing money on capital account, and he was informed on good authority that a very large expenditure on capital account would be required to place the road in the condition it was a few years ago.

Turning again to the question of deficits, he claimed that the deficits of 1874, 1876 and 1877 were caused by the administration having to provide $4,000,000 annually to pay the interest on a public debt of $6,000,000 incurred under the previous Conservative administrations. During the past 15 years he claimed we had been living on capital and borrowed money. The surpluses were obtained by taxation, which took $10 out of the pockets of the people for every one which went into the public treasury. The Finance Minister, he said, had laid much stress upon the prospects of an improvement of trade in the United States and the price of grain, which depended entirely upon competition.

During the past 12 years he claimed two processes were going on in Canada. First there was large expenditure of borrowed money. He did not mean Government loans, but loans which were poured into Canada, amounting in that time to $30,000,000. This caused large importations of dutiable goods, which brought in much revenue. To-day we are being called on to pay the interest on these loans. The $10,000,000 which the country was called on to pay as interest on Government loans was only a small part of the money which was going out of Canada to pay interest on loans. If this money had been well invested the present calls for interest would not be burdensome, but millions of the borrowed money had been wasted in wild cat schemes which had injured the credit of the country on the British market. He quoted from The London Economist to prove his assertions. There was scarcely a town in Canada, he said, which did not contain monumental tomb stones of the National Policy. The fiscal policy of the Government, he claimed, was largely responsible for the shrinkage in prices of agricultural products, which in a few years, he said, fell $20,000,000. He contended that ever since 1878, when the Government were piling up fictitious surpluses, the national debt had been increased by $90,000,000. He warned the Finance Minister not to count too much on the future, but to make preparations for a continuance of existing conditions. He quoted the figures of the deficits from 1858 to 1873 to show that periods of depression were in the habit of lasting a considerable time.

In conclusion, he maintained that the Opposition had a full right to know and the country would expect the Government to announce all the liabilities the country was pledged to, or was likely to be pledged to, during the coming year. The Opposition were to blame, he said, for allowing the Government in the past to rush through late in the session measures involving large expenditures of public money, of which no mention was made in the Budget Speech. The Government was bound to inform the House of all the financial liabilities the country was pledged to, and what measures, if any, it was intended to ask involving an expenditure of public money. He moved the adjournment of the debate, as he had not had an opportunity of examining the tariff resolutions, and as he had still considerable to say before concluding his remarks.

A discussion took place relative to resumption of the debate next week. The Government wanted Sir Richard Cartwright to continue his speech on Monday, but Mr. Laurier urged that it should be Tuesday, and on this understanding the House adjourned at 10 o'clock.

Minard's Liniment the best Hair Restorer

DR. MORRISON'S NEW DENTAL OFFICES.

They are situated in the new Bank of Commerce Building.

Dr. Morrison, dentist, has secured and just moved into a suite of apartments just at the head of the stairs, in the second flat of the Bank of Commerce building The offices are composed of three connecting rooms and without doubt can be ranked amongst the best and most suitable in the province in point of airiness and general convenience.

Plate glass windows of large dimensions admit plenty of the light, which is so essential to good workmanship and the new offices have been fitted up by the doctor with the most modern appliances of the dental profession.

One very tasty piece of furniture and most handy contrivance is a Clarke dental cabinet. Its position is just beside the operating chair and the shelves in it, instead of being stationary, are all so arranged that they swing outward on pivots at a touch of the hand and all the appliances required to meet the most intricate cases are thus placed within reach, obviating the harrowing delay which usually ensues when an instrument has to be changed.

The cabinet, as well as all the furniture in the office, is of polished oak. The walls and ceiling are covered with a handsomely designed and prettily tinted pattern of paper, and the woodwork being finished in light polished ash, enhances the effect of these handsome apartments not a little.

The operating room is divided off from the large parlour by a partition of prettily grained wood and ground glass, and is particulary well lighted, one entire side being composed of a large plate glass window.

Dr. Morrison has made a particularly happy choice in the selection of a location for his new offices, and may well be pleased with the exceedingly handsome manner in which he has fitted them up.

The Man of To-day

Who does'nt know that the possibilities for elegance in Clothing have as wide a scope in READY-MADE as in Made-to-Measure is simply not well informed.

The citizen of Peterborough who does'nt know that GOUGH BROS. every season exhaust these possibilities in the very latest fashion creations of the Clothing world—is also devoid of information, which might be made of great practical value to him from an economical standpoint.

The object of this announcement is to call attention to the two facts above suggested—and to invite a personal investigation of the matter.

There are no Doubts Connected With This Business

We undertake to dress any man from head to heel to his complete satisfaction—including the item of cost, which we guarantee to make SMALLER than any other house in Western Canada.

While we can sell a Man's Suit for $2.90 and a Boy's Suit for 89c, we can just as easily suit the man who insists on having a fashionable Suit worth $12.00 or $14.00, or the Boy whose parents can afford a stylish suit worth $4.50 or $5.00.

Our stock is not limited. We are always prepared for the steady stream of the masses, that finds its way here continually. This means that we have the goods to suit all classes—the medium-price and high-grade Clothing as well. Half assortments drive away trade. Customers won't waste time running where they can't get what they want.

Are you Getting any of our Good Lines we sell so Cheaply

We Have in Clothing
Elegant Black Worsteds, Fine Fancy Cheviots, beautiful Tweeds, durable Cassimeres—made in single and double-breasted, sack and cutaway style—Everyone a true $15.00 Suit, for $12.00. We sell more Clothing and YOU are the cause of it—YOU, because our values win your trade.

We Have in Hats
The very latest. None others Our Leading Fedoras at $1.25 and $2.00 are not equalled outside our stores. We have the best $1.50 and $1.75 Hats in Canada. Of course you may get just as good by paying $2.00 and $2.50 at other Hat stores, but, well, your choice, not ours.

We Have in Shoes
A range of prices that are down so low they cannot get lower for high-class goods. Leather is going up and the manufacturers are asking more money for Shoes, but we shall continue to sell at present prices. If you would only take the trouble to compare more, our crowds would be larger.

"ALWAYS GOOD AT GOUGH'S."

BUDGET FALLACIES.

Mr. Foster Fails to Tell a Complete Story.

LIBERALS TO FILL IN THE BLANKS

Sir Richard Cartwright Has Done This in Part and Will Complete It To-Morrow—The Fredericton Bridge Affair and How It Was Engineered.

Ottawa, May 5.—The Budget speech of the Minister of Finance, according to parliamentary tradition, is a plain statement of the financial position of the country, but since it has fallen to the lot of Hon. George Eulas Foster to deliver it it has taken on an altogether different character. He has converted it into a campaign oration, a special plea for the Government to be printed and distributed for the guidance of Tory stumpers in the constituencies. It will benefit the Government little as a campaign document, for with all the specious argument and graceful rhetoric that the Minister of Finance could bring to bear, his efforts to justify the administration of himself and his colleagues was a most lamentable failure. The speech was not so remarkable for what the Minister said as for the things he omitted to say. He had not the courage in the presence of a financial and commercial stress, the like of which Canada has never experienced before, to attempt a defence of the National Policy, that universal panacea which was to cure all the ills of the body politic. He neglected, and wilfully neglected, to give anything like an adequate statement of the liabilities of this country, but he was forced to confess a deficit of $4,500,000 for a single year.

It is interesting, in view of this, to recall the taunts of Mr. Foster and his ministerial colleagues from every hustings in the country, but when Sir Richard Cartwright was Minister of Finance he was confronted with an ugly and illvisaged deficit, and the assumption of incompetence based upon that statement. It is a fact that during the Liberal Administration there were deficits, but, as Sir Richard Cartwright pointed out in his able criticism of the Budget Speech Friday night, during three years of financial crisis their total shortage amounted to scarcely the sum of money that the Government of to-day is behind for one year. Another consideration is that the deficit of the Liberal Government was offset by the collection of an equivalent amount from the people of the United States, under the Halifax award, whereas under the negotiations that the present Government carried on with the United States recently Canada had the privilege of paying her own costs.

Sir Richard Cartwright delivered but a portion of his speech in reply to the Budget of Mr. Foster, but he went far enough to demonstrate the unreliability of many of the Minister's essential statements, to controvert his arguments and to destroy his conclusions. Alluding to the Minister's confessed default of $4,500,000, Sir Richard admitted the possibility of the shortage exceeding that amount at the end of the financial year. In the face of Mr. Foster's boasted retrenchment, the member for Oxford stated that the fact that the estimates, not taking into account supplementary votes that may be asked, exceed by $922,000 the sum actually expended in 1893-4. The financial year was wound up with a deficit of $1,210,000; the failure of revenue to May 1 of this year, which Mr. Foster neglected to give the House, amounts to $2,898,788, while the expenditure up to that date exceeded the expenditure for last year by $705,473. Upon these figures Sir Richard stated the actual ascertained deficit to be $4,754,520.

Sir Richard submitted the Minister to a cross-examination that disturbed his serene equanimity and made it plain to the House that in his statement of the liabilities of the country he had omitted several important items.

Mr. Foster had no information to give in response to the interpellations of the Liberal financial critic concerning the intentions of the Government in reference to the Trent Valley Canal, the Chignecto Ship Railway, the Fast Atlantic Service and the Hudson Bay Railway, despite the fact that he had undertaken to give a full, free and frank statement of the position of the country. With good warrant Sir Richard demanded to know, what liabilities had been incurred, but the Minister remained unmoved in his determination not to give the House any information upon these important subjects. Sir Richard summarized the general result in these words: "The general result is that we have a deficit ranging from $4,500,000 to $5,000,000; that our cash in hand is barely adequate to meet our current needs, and hardly that, remembering, as I pointed out the other night, that over and above further bills payable, we have in addition some $40,000,000 borrowed from the people of Canada, for which we ought to keep a respectable reserve. It is very clear that, instead of having $9,000,000 of ascertained liabilities, and a number of items scattered here and there which are to be paid the next half-dozen years our ascertained liabilities are something like $20,000,000, not including those statutory charges to which I have alluded and which would amount to very nearly a million dollars a year more added to our fixed charges for many years.

"To all appearances the funds are out, to all appearances the hon. gentleman must borrow again, to all appearances the hon. gentleman's loan must be repeated, either in the shape of a temporary loan, which I suppose he could make, of a few millions in England, or in the shape of a permanent loan, and that before he is twelve months older."

Sir Richard will on Tuesday return to the attack. He will discuss the increased duties which the Government has imposed, and deal generally with its fiscal policy.

To the long list of jobs which have disgraced the Dominion Government since it assumed office in 1878 must be added the transaction exposed this week by Mr. McMullen and other members of the Opposition, whereby $330,000 of the public money was expended in an enterprise promoted by a Conservative member of Parliament, and upon which amount $72,000 of interest is unpaid. The facts of the case are these: In 1885 five well-known men in New Brunswick, Thomas Temple, the member for York; Alexander Gibson, the Cotton King; Egerton Burpee, Alexander Gibson, jr., and Fred S. Hillyard, were chartered as a company to construct the Fredericton and St. Mary's bridge across the St John's River.

The capital stock of the company was named in the charter at $400,000, with power to increase to $500,000. The charter authorised the company to go into operation when $200,000 was subscribed and 10 per cent. was paid up. The board was formed with a capital paid up of $20,000. In 1887 the Government gave the company a loan of $300,000, with interest at four per cent. It appears the company paid interest the first year. The company went on and constructed the bridge, together with 2 1-10 miles of railway as part of the work. The cost of the whole structure, bridge and railway, was $419,586. Now, the money that was contributed for the purpose of the work ,was as follows: The capital stock subscribed was $200,000, 10 per cent. paid up on which made $20,000. The Government loan was $300,000; the company issued bonds—under the authority of the Dominion—for $50,000. These bonds were placed on the market and, no doubt, realised the full amount. The Dominion gave it a free grant of $30,000 in the year 1889. These amounts make a total of $400,000 raised by the company to construct the work, the total cost of which was alleged to have been $419,580. The position of the company,as shown by the last report,is this:

It owes the following sums: Government loan, $300,000; accumulated interest on that loan, $72,000; bonded debt, $50,000; floating debt, $19,975; in all, $441,975—against a work that the company, in its own report to the Government, says cost $419,586. So that the work stands with a debt against it, including what the Dominion holds and the bonded debt, but without counting anything on account of stock, of $22,389 more than the entire cost.

What security the Government has for the $300,000 loan, if any, will not be known until the papers are brought down, but the fact is established that for six years not one cent of the interest upon this money has been paid, though the attention of the Minister of Finance has been twice directed to the matter by the Auditor-General A circumstance to be remembered in regard to transaction is that Mr. Temple, the member for York, the county in which the bridge is situated, has declined re-nomination there in order to make room for Mr. Foster, who knows that he would be defeated if he went back to King's for re-election. Whether Mr. Temple has consented to stand aside in gratitude for the favors he has received at the hands of the Government or whether he will insist upon a soft place in the retreat at the east end of the Parliament buildings is a question that will be answered in the very near future.

RUSSIA MAY CAUSE TROUBLE

Japan's Reply Received—Russian Warships Leave Chinese Treaty Ports.

St. Petersburg, May 6.—The Russian Foreign Office has received the reply of the Japanese Government to the protest made by Russia against the occupation of the Liao-Tung Peninsula, which would prevent Russia from securing an open port for the terminus of its Trans-Siberian Railroad.

The reply, while friendly in tone, is firm, and indicates no intention on the part of Japan to abandon any of the concessions made by China; it is indicated that Russia's wishes in this matter can be submitted as a matter of subsequent treaty negotiation between Russia and Japan directly.

Oscar May Skip the Country.

New York, May 6.—Ballard Smith cables from London to The World: Granting bail to Oscar Wilde means that the British authorities desire to give him all facilities for clearing out of the country. Otherwise the Crown lawyers would certainly have opposed the application, in which case no judge would grant it.

Fire Inquest at Clinton.

Clinton, May 6.—An inquest was held by Coroner Shaw Saturday afternoon respecting the burning of the Mason House stables, May 2, and on the evidence presented Isaac Brownlee was committed for trial. Joseph Townsend, who was asleep in the loft and was badly burned, is lying in a critical state, which may result fatally.

Geese Blaze at Norwood.

New York, May 6.—A Corinto, Nicaraguan, tile and sawmills of James Richardson were completely destroyed by fire early Sunday. Loss $6000; no insurance; incendiary origin.

A CABLE CONFERENCE

Imperial Government Questioned Concerning It.

BELGIUM MAY REMOVE ITS EMBARGO

The Government Secures Information Concerning the Proposed Fast Atlantic Mail Service—Canadian Dairy Produce Flooding the London Market.

London, May 5.—Sir William Harcourt's speech in the House, presenting the annual Budget, is being utilised as a Conservative growl in the absence of anything with more solidity as a basis of innumerable stories to the effect that a dissolution of Parliament is imminent. The same stories were told a year ago, but the ground for their repetition is fortified by the fact that the Chancellor of the Exchequer defended his Budget proposals by intimating that it was improbable that he would have an opportunity to propose another Budget a year hence. It must be borne in mind, however, that this is a typical Harcourt method. He is wont to show his feelings publicly and then allow his anger to evaporate, never in the meantime surrendering any of the advantages he assumes to treat so lightly.

The troubles in the Cabinet have their origin in the old custom, dating from the incumbency of Mr. Gladstone in the Premiership, of allowing the Chancellor of the Exchequer great latitude in the matter of making Budget proposals, and permitting him to observe strict secrecy in regard to them. This practice of withholding such information from his Ministerial colleagues has engendered a good deal of bad feeling. Until immediately before the Budget was presented to the House of Commons, not a single member of the Ministry, with the exception of the Chancellor of the Exchequer himself, was aware of the nature and scope of the proposals for which the entire Cabinet saw the draft of the Budget Thursday morning; it was exceedingly simple, and seemed to preclude the necessity of a protracted debate, but when it was presented to the House it had a vastly different aspect. The Ministerial inspection of the measure gave the idea that it was a bill which every member could subscribe to. Some Ministers were unanimous in favor of putting it through without delay. Some Ministers, however, were disposed to push the Irish Land bill and the Welsh Church Disestablishment bill ahead of the Budget or any other measure for party purposes. This procedure was opposed by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who declared that the most of the time of the session until Whit-Sunday, all of it, in fact, was properly his. Before this, however, Sir William wished to have the Local Veto bill passed through its second reading, although it is well known that several Liberal members will vote against it. This probably means its defeat.

The Speaker describes the Local Veto bill as the only uncertain element in the life or fate of the Ministry, and it continues by declaring that every Liberal has tried to insist that no headstrong action be taken thereon. The Minister who was responsible for the catastrophe to the Government through the action on the License bill has never been forgiven.

The Premier and many of his colleagues in the Ministry have stated that the House of Lords question is the one upon which the country would be asked to pronounce at the next election and it would be a distinct breach of faith to substitute another for it. This undoubtedly represents the intention of Lord Rosebery and a majority of the Cabinet, whose troubles are chiefly personal and not political. It is generally remarked that Mr. H. Campbell-Bannerman, Secretary of State for War, is the only one of the Ministers who seem to be on good terms with all of his colleagues.

Sir George Baden-Powell has given notice that in the House of Commons on Monday he will ask Mr. Sydney Buxton, Parliamentary Secretary for the Colonial Office, whether the Government has received a request from Canada to call a conference of the colonies interested in the matter with a view of arranging the details of laying and maintaining a submarine Pacific cable between Canada and Australia, and what decision, if any, the Government had reached in regard to the subject.

Notice has also been given by Sir George Baden-Powell that he will move a resolution in the House of Commons calling attention to the necessity for strategic and commercial reasons of establishing a Pacific cable without delay.

The announcement is made that an arrangement has been made between the Guatemalan committee, and the British agent sent to conclude a settlement, that the Guatemalan debt shall be paid as follows: The external bondholders shall receive £75 bond at 4 per cent in each £100 and the internal bondholders shall receive a similar bond in each £80. The Pall Mall Gazette in commenting on this says: Guatemala could pay the sum demanded if she cared to be honest, but a few more lessons to South Americans such as have been taught at Corinto are obviously required.

GUARDING THE BOUNDARY.

Winnipeg Dragoons Ordered to Protect Manitoba From the Dakota Halfbreeds.

Winnipeg, May 6.—The troop of Royal Canadian Dragoons located here have received orders from Ottawa to hold themselves in readiness to at once proceed to Killarney and guard the Manitoba boundary against invasions of halfbreeds and Indians located in North Dakota, who are giving trouble. It is not thought there will be any serious trouble, as the Indians and half-breeds all told do not number over 200.

THE HUDSON BAY RAILWAY.

Sir William Van Horne, in an interview in respect to the Hudson's Bay Railway, says:

"I know nothing positively about the arrangement between the Government and the Hudson's Bay Railway Company, if such exists. I only know that the promoters of the enterprise, if it may be called an enterprise, claim to have an arrangement whereby the government is to give a large annual subsidy for a term of years and a large grant of lands, and is also to lend the company $2,500,000 with which to build the road—an amount sufficient not only to build the road, but to afford a profit of some hundreds of thousands of dollars for a season's work; and, no doubt, this profit can be increased by working off on the public a lot of bonds, which can be done at some price if it is true that an annual subsidy is to be given. That the railway will be operated by anybody for a week after it is built I do not for a moment believe. There is no traffic and no prospect of any beyond Dauphin lake, and very little this side. I refuse to believe that any arrangement so utterly absurd has been or ever will be seriously thought of by any government."

Mr. Van Horne doubtless knows what he is talking about. But besides the objections he suggests; besides the abominable waste of public money, to purchase en bloc the support of Manitoba in the next general elections, there is a view of the matter which is of local interest. On the canals of Canada, which are at present the chief outlet of the grain products of the great Northwest, and which the building of the Hudson Bay Railway is intended to divert to that route, there has been expended a gross total of about seventy-one million dollars, besides the eight or ten millions that is to be devoted to the deepening of canals and the construction of the Trent Valley Canal. Upon this latter water way which is estimated to cost five millions there has been expended already according to the statistical year book, $1,088,484. Now, one great argument that has been properly advanced for the completion of the Trent Valley Canal, has been its great utility in moving to the sea board the products of the wheat fields of the great Northwest. This is the one circumstance that justifies the undertaking as a national work. Apart from this it would be to a great extent a sectional work, and in this sense would not have so strong a claim upon the national funds. The Dominion Government has made the Trent Valley Canal scheme a machine for electing supporters for the past fifteen years, and though now they have made, on the eve of a general election, a great spurt of pretended activity, there comes the Hudson Bay Railway scheme, absorbing not only the money that would have been better devoted to Trent Valley Canal construction, but in the event of its construction, practically diverting the trade, that excuses the construction of the canal, into another channel. This is what we are asked to regard as statesmanship and wise administration.

DEATH BED REPENTANCE.

Saturday Night, which is decidedly Conservative in its sympathies, thus scores the Dominion Government: "The Dominion Government has been very recently tormented by a spasm of economy. The estimates as submitted to Parliament show a decrease of two million dollars as compared with last year's expenditure. If it can be decreased this year, it could have been decreased ten years ago. A deathbed repentance is said to have but little influence with the Almighty Maker of the man who has devoted his life to the devil and gives the dregs of his existence to God. The deathbed repentance of the Conservative Government in the matter of extravagance has not proven that it has had a change of heart, and I fear it will have little influence with the thoughtful reader of what happens at Ottawa. Had these people been sincere the reduction in the departments that could properly be reduced would have occurred long ago; as it is, the larger amounts show the reductions to have been made in the Militia and other departments in which the whole nation is interested. Superannuation, the most unrighteous of all votes, has been increased, and while the Mounted Police have been properly cut down to the extent of about a hundred and fifty thousand dollars, the fund placed at the disposal of the Immigration Department has been decreased, and there is every sign that the estimates have been carved by desperate men who at the last moment have determined to make a reputation which they do not deserve of administering the great affairs of their departments for a nation instead of for a party."

"A railway bridge was built in New Brunswick a few years ago," says the Toronto News, "at an estimated cost of $275,000. Of this sum the Dominion Government contributed $30,000 direct, loaned $200,000 more, and on the amount lent not even the interest has been paid since the first year." This shows a reckless disregard for the first principles of economy in public business, and is made worse by the fact that a member of Parliament supporting the Government is personally interested in the bridge enterprise, and that the constituency in which the bridge is situated is the one that Hon. Mr. Foster considers safe for the next election. Has he made it so by letting the interest on the $200,000 run uncollected for six years, and by donating $30,000 of the people's hard earned cash?

It is the earnest desire of the manufacturers of Lactated Food that every mother in Canada should have an opportunity of testing its many good qualities. Thousands of loving mothers have strongly testified that Lactated Food has no equal for the nourishment and strengthening of babies. This strong proof should be sufficient evidence for all mothers who have not yet used the great food. The manufacturers of Lactated Food, in order to prove that their food is the best in the world, will send to the mother of any child a full sized can free, if application is made for it.

Mothers, give Lactated Food a fair and honest trial if your baby is weak, puny and delicate. Use the food for a couple of weeks and your heart will rejoice at baby's improvement.

Earl Selborne Dead.

London, May 6.—Earl Selborne died at his country seat, Blackmoor, Petersfield, yesterday, aged 82. He entered Parliament in 1852 and held many high offices in his long public career, having been made Solicitor-General in 1861. Attorney-General in 1865 and Lord Chancellor of England in 1872, and again in 1880. He represented Great Britain as counsel before the Arbitration Court at Geneva in 1871. In 1886 he refused to join the Gladstone Cabinet, owing to his disapproval of the Premier's Home Rule policy, and since that year he had ranked among the Liberal-Unionists. Lord Salisbury's daughter now becomes Marchioness Selborne.

Going Back on Patron Brown.

Weston, May 4.—There is a gathering of Patrons of West York at the Eagle House here this afternoon, and it is said the object is to lay before Mr. John Brown the view that his appearance on the McCarthyite platform, and participation in a sectarian contest in Haldimand, has destroyed his usefulness as a candidate of the Patron order in West York. It is said that if Mr. Brown does not voluntarily see the point and resign he will be repudiated by the Patrons.

CLARA NOT GUILTY

The Westwood Murder Trial Ended.

THE JURY WAS NOT OUT AN HOUR

His Lordship Summed Up Strongly Against the Prisoner—Remarkable Scene in the Courtroom When the Verdict Was Rendered.

Toronto, May 6.—Clara Ford, the young mulatto tailoress, was late on Saturday night acquitted by a jury at the York Assize Court of the murder of Frank Westwood, who was called to the door of his father's house in Parkdale on Oct. 6 last and ruthlessly shot down. The crime, which has created such widespread interest, will be forgotten in the lapse of years, but it will be bared again by the recording angel and justice such as only God can give will be meted out to the guilty and to the innocent.

The jurors stood nine to three for acquittal when they retired to their room. It took the majority but twenty minutes to bring over two of them, but the twelfth juror held out for conviction for 48 minutes, when he, too, succumbed.

From the opening of the trial on Tuesday last until the jury rendered their verdict the prisoner displayed not the slightest sign of fear.

When the jurors filed into court and the foreman announced the verdict of "Not guilty," not a muscle of the prisoner's face moved. She received the announcement that gave her life and liberty with the same nonchalance that she had exhibited throughout the trial. Not so the spectators, however. The storm of applause which greeted the verdict showed that the girl had numerous sympathisers present. No attempt was made to suppress the clapping of hands and stamping of feet by the constables.

When the tumult ceased Mr. Murdoch moved for the discharge of Clara. The prisoner stood up in the dock and His Lordship said: "Clara Ford, your case has been full of strangeness, and I am not surprised at the result For your sake I am glad that the jury have cleared, not only your good name, but the good name of the young man who was shot. Let me say to you, be kind to the child Flora McKay. She showed her affection for you when the evidence against you was strong, and she attempted to shield you from suspicion. You are discharged."

"Thank you," said the prisoner, in a firm, clear voice.

Then ensued a scene the like of which has never heretofore been witnessed in a court of justice in this city. The dock was speedily surrounded. Clara's counsel shook hands with her and congratulated her on the outcome. Elisa Reid, the young mulatto waitress at Mrs. Dorsay's, who swore to the alibi for the prisoner, kissed her affectionately, and the spectators, many of whom had never seen the girl before, crowded each other in an effort to be first to shake her hand. Leaning on the arm of Elisa Reid, and, escorted by two of her most enthusiastic champions, she left the court room, followed by an immense throng. When she reached the street she was given an ovation by the crowd, which, apprised of the verdict, had collected. The four walked arm-in-arm along Adelaide-street to Sister Dorsay's restaurant in York-street. The girl was followed by an immense mob, which swelled in numbers every moment. When Mrs. Dorsay's was reached the throng filled the roadway from curb to curb.

"I told her I would bring her back to you," said Elisa, as Sister Dorsay clasped Clara in a warm embrace.

As many as could squeeze into the shop did so, and with these Clara shook hands. Then she came to the doorway and the mob cheered again. "Keep cool, don't get excited," she called out. Then she made a little speech. Here it is:

"I thank you for the way you stood by me. This does the boys of Toronto credit. I thank you all."

At 8 o'clock His Lordship commenced his address to the jury. While a fair presentation of the facts adduced, the charge was probably the strongest ever delivered against a prisoner in a court of justice. This case is one that has two sides, said the Chancellor, but determining upon it you must not be actuated by sympathy or compassion. A good deal has been said about detectives and police officers. If we had no crime in this country we would not need these officials, but so long as we have crime we must have detectives. It is part of the government of this country. Just as jurors are entrusted with the enforcement of the law of this country, so are police officers. No one disputes that a crime was committed. Has the crime been brought home to the prisoner? The evidence shows to a demonstration that the shooting took place at 10 minutes to 11 o'clock. You will not, therefore, have to enquire further as to the time. There are many peculiar circumstances in this case. Both the deceased and the prisoner had good characters so far as we have heard. Certain matters have been referred to with regard to her which you will have to consider. There is the writing of the letters. She says she did not know young Westwood. There is evidence that she did know him. There is evidence that she spoke to him, and there is testimony that she told Miss Crozier that she knew him ever since she was so high, indicating the height of her waist. Another strange circumstance is the ante-mortem statement of the dead boy, describing the party who shot him as a man of medium height with a moustache. He also said that he was not implicated with any girls. You have to judge whether this statement clears Clara Ford. You will have to judge whether Westwood could see the person who shot him. The night was dark and the light in the hall, I should guess, would not illuminate the face of the assassin. Then you must remember that the person who shot him, if it was Clara Ford, was disguised. His ante-mortem shows that he did not place much reliance upon the supposition he entertained that it was Gus Clark's dress. As for Westwood, we don't know whether he committed the assault on the girl or not. A great many young men are very good at home and different away. It may be that Westwood did not remember the assault or did not place much importance upon the fact, and consequently did not associate her with the tragedy, or he may have suspected her and did not wish to grieve his parents by associating her name with the deed.

A great deal has been said about her heroic conduct in the witness box. You are not to pay any attention to this. She was entering the box to try to get away from facts sworn against her.

Now you are to exercise a good deal of caution in the case of a woman coming into the box, knowing that her life is at stake, you are to remember the saying of Job long ago: "Skin for skin, yea, all that a man hath will he give for his life." You are not to sweep away all the other evidence without due consideration. The detectives are men of long experience on the force. Is this prisoner a woman to be awed by the questions of detectives, or is she on the other hand, not a woman who could make up a story of this kind?

Prisoner claims in the witness box that she went to the theatre with her daughter. On the other hand, in her confession she says she was at Parkdale. In this connection, the evidence of the Crosiers is very important. All the family say she was at their place for more than an hour on that Saturday night. All of them say that she was very much excited. Of course all this is very inconsistent with her being at the theatre. So is the story of Flora McKay, who gave her evidence with apparent truthfulness and candor. This girl, whom the prisoner referred to as the one who would clear her of being at the Westwood's, admitted that she had in the first place told the detectives that she was in the opera house, because she wished to clear her mother.

This was the evidence that the prisoner was not at the opera house.

To support Clara Ford that she was at the opera house, Mrs. Dorsay, her daughter and Elisa Reid were called, but neither of the last-mentioned corroborated Mrs. Dorsay's statement that Clara returned at 11 o'clock the night of Oct. 6. Against this evidence you have the admission of Miss Reid that the hall door was generally locked at 12 o'clock. This would allow a full hour from the time of the shooting for the girl to return. The officers say it took them 1 hour and 55 minutes to traverse the ground. Of course, a person, having committed a crime of this kind, would be in great haste to get away from the scene. Something had been said about water along the waterfront presenting a person traversing the ground easily. Of course a person such as the slayer of Westwood would not hesitate about rushing through water or even taking off her shoes. As for Lily Black's evidence, no person believes that she spoke to Frank Westwood. She did not know Westwood. It is possible some person passed himself off as the dead boy.

His Lordship then referred to the experiments with the revolver, and pointed out the fact that markings on the Westwood bullet were also found on other bullets discharged from the prisoner's revolver.

Again adverting to Clara's testimony, he pointed out that she contradicted the stories of many other witnesses. In contravention of this is the dying deposition of Westwood that a young man with a mustache shot him. There is nothing to prove that Clara had a mustache.

Coming back to the evidence of the Crosiers again, he called attention to the friendly terms which existed between the family and the prisoner, and asked the jury to judge whether the Crosiers could have any object in testifying falsely against the accused.

Then there is the absence of motive. The only motive that has been shown is the one given by prisoner herself.

In conclusion, His Lordship told the jury that if they found the prisoner guilty it was advisable that they should find also whether they would be disposed to find her guilty if the evidence as to the confession had not been admitted. This might assist the court in arriving at a conclusion in the reserved case as to the admissibility of the confession.

His Lordship's charge occupied 35 minutes.

The jury retired at 8.35. Mr. Johnston called attention to several matters which His Lordship had overlooked in his charge, and requested that the jury be recalled and the evidence of Elisa Reid, that she saw Clara retiring at 11 o'clock the night of the tragedy, and that of George Crosier, that he was at his mother's house at 8 o'clock of Oct. 6, and did not see prisoner there, be pointed out to them. He also asked that the jury be told that if a reasonable doubt existed, that if they thought the testimony was equally divided as to Clara's guilt or innocence, it was their duty to acquit.

The jury were again brought back and so directed, and again retired. In 48 minutes they returned with their verdict of not guilty, and it was so recorded.

CORINTO EVACUATED.

Nicaragua Will Pay the Indemnity in London in Two Weeks.

Washington, May 6.—According to advices received here the evacuation of Corinto by the British fleet was quietly accomplished to-day, and the port was restored to Nicaraguan authority. Shortly after midnight Saturday Minister Guzman received a cable message stating that all the preliminaries had been satisfactorily arranged with the British admiral, through the intermediation of Senor Fiallos of Honduras. In this manner Nicaragua was spared any appearance of humiliation, and friction was avoided. Nicaragua will pay the indemnity in London within the two weeks stipulated, and the remaining terms of the ultimatum will be satisfactorily arranged.

Soda Propelled Engines.

A fireless locomotive engine was recently used on the Aix-la-Chapelle Julich Railway. The motor power is derived from soda. The invention is based on the principle that solutions of caustic soda, which have high boiling points, liberate heat while absorbing steam. These engines eject neither smoke nor steam and work noiselessly. Compared with coal-burning locomotives, soda engines show a capacity equal to the former, while they are worked with greater ease and simplicity.

That Report.

Mr. Jerry Loucks came down from Dorset last Friday to take charge of Gilmour's Galway drive of logs. Mr. Loucks had heard nothing of any accident at the Gilmour operations, and the report of a number of men having been killed was evidently a hoax. Many persons throughout the district were given the greatest anxiety regarding their relatives. Out in the rough and ready but common sense west, if the thing who originated the report was discovered, an accident would occur in which that person and a rope would take a prominent part.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

Fish and Fishing.

The Port Hope Guide says:—"Never perhaps in the history of Rice Lake has there been so much illicit fishing, as in the present season. It is an open secret that jack lights can be seen flitting to and fro, every night, and even in the broad daylight fish are successfully killed and carried off. The Government, in removing Mr. Gilchrist, made a grave mistake, if their intention was to preserve the fish in Rice Lake, and the waters tributary thereto, as the present fishery Inspector is a conspicuous failure.

A Warning for Fast Riders.

Peterborough this season is turning out each evening quite a number of young men who enjoy the sport and exercise of horseback riding, which is said to be one of the most healthful of all exercises. Sometimes while cantering the horses gallop off at a more rapid rate, and to prevent this the Chief of Police had three young men in the police court this morning. The magistrate warned them to be more careful, and when they wanted to have "a trial of speed," go where they would not be likely to injure any one or do harm.

A Complimentary Outing.

The members of the Young Ladies Guild in connection with St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, have been invited by Commodore H. Calcutt to a moonlight excursion down the river per steamer Daisy with palace scow attached on the evening of May 16th. Prof. Butcher has kindly offered to furnish music free also. Refreshments, tea, coffee and such like, will be served to guests by the Guild. Commodore Calcutt being so delighted with the success of those taking part in the concerts given in aid of the rectory fund of St. Luke's lately, he thought fitting to give them this outing. No doubt they will spend an enjoyable evening on the water.

To-Morrow Night's Attraction.

Read what the Toronto Globe, of April 30th, says of Dan McCarthy's "Pride of Mayo" Company:—Dan McCarthy, supported by an excellent company, presented the "Pride of Mayo" at the Toronto Opera House, last evening. Mr. McCarthy is so well known to the theatre-goers of this city that there is no need of criticising the performance. Suffice it to say that the interest was maintained throughout the entertainment, and the audience cheered and applauded as in former productions. "The Pride of Mayo" will be presented this afternoon, to-night and to-morrow night." This company appears at Bradburn's Opera House, Tuesday evening, May 7th. Prices 25, 35 and 50c.

The Militia Grant.

The action of the Dominion Government in omitting from the estimates the grant for the annual drill of the militia has caused deep dissatisfaction among militiamen. The feeling has taken a tangible form; an informal meeting of prominent officers was held on Saturday afternoon at the military Institute, Toronto, and as a result a special meeting of militia officers for the consideration of the matter has been called for Monday evening, May 13th, at 8 o'clock, at the Military Institute. A similar meeting will be held in Montreal. Next Thursday the annual meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association will be held at Ottawa, and a large number of provincial officers intend to attend it, and seize the occasion to make up a strong deputation to call upon the Ministers and protest against the step which has been taken.

Badly Injured.

Friday morning while working on the Gilmour drive which has just gone through Campbellford, and is now in the rapids above Percy Beom, Mr. Jas. Crawford met with a serious and almost fatal accident. While rolling logs in about two feet of water, he had relieved one long when a 22 inch timber came upon him so quickly that he was crushed to the ground the log rolling over his body. Its course was such that it dislocated the sternal end of the clavicle, or breast bone end of the collar bone, downward and backward into the chest and behind the sternum or breast bone. Fortunately there was a hole in the rock just where Mr. Crawford's head lay, or or the accident would have ended fatally. This kind of dislocation is very rare, only a few such cases being on record. Usually the clavicle or collar bone takes a course in front of the sternum or breast bone. The fracture was most successfully set, and Mr. Crawford is improving.

—Mr. J. W. Brisbin drove as far south as Garden Hill yesterday. He reports that the bountiful rain of Saturday that made vegetation advance by leaps and bounds, did not extend further south than Fraserville. The country south of this point, having a somewhat sandy soil, is in great need of moisture.

—Attention is directed to the bargain in a splendid town property offered for sale in another column, being the house and lot, No. 423 Downie street, in one of the most desirable situations in town. The house is nearly new, commodious and very complete. The lot is improved, with lawn and shade trees. Will be sold for two-thirds its value.

—Mr. R. P. Bradburn has just completed the work of changing the illuminating system in Mr. H. S. Macdonald's drug store from gas to that of incandescent light. The wiring is all concealed and the workmanship on the job is more than satisfactory. Twenty-five lights were placed in position, and on Saturday evening the store was brilliantly illuminated.

—The steamer City of Peterborough made her first trip down the river this morning to Plum Point, Rice Lake, with scow attached, which latter will be loaded with wood in order to be in readiness to hitch on to Gilmour & Co.'s drive at the Forks, Rice Lake, and tow it to Hastings. At present the drive is in Little Lake, but will be out loose this afternoon. The logs will pass through the eastern gap. After finishing this job the City will start on her regular trips.

DROWNING OF LITTLE OLIVER VINNETTE SATURDAY.

He Slips From the Dam is Hurried Into Eternity.

Coincident with the opening up of navigation and the fishing season the occurrence of numerous fatalities on the Otonabee river appears inevitable. Every year as the summer advances the awful list of deaths by drowning grows, not through the treachery of the river, but all resulting apparently from pure accident.

The first drowning fatality of the year occurred Saturday afternoon at the Auburn Waterworks dam. The two Vinnette brothers, sons of Mr. Edward Vinnette, of Auburn, and some other boys were fishing off the west end pier of the dam, and in changing their position to the east side of the river the two boys had to cross the slide over which the logs are passed. The elder brother crossed the slide in safety, walking on the gravel, but little Oliver, endeavouring to cross on the outside board edge, which was very slippery, lost his balance when only half way over, and with a cry of terror fell headlonge into the rushing torrent and was carried away out of sight before his companions realized the awful death to which the little fellow was doomed.

The alarm was instantly given, but the unfortunate lad was seen no more after his disappearance under the logs below the dam. It is surmised that the little fellow was stunned on coming into contact with the logs, and consequently could make no effort to save himself from the terrible fate which overtook him.

Search for the body was immediately instituted and continued on Sunday and to-day, but with no result.

Mrs. Vinnette is seriously ill from the effects of the shock consequent upon having the news of her son's death broken to her.

REPORTED DROWNING ACCIDENT

One of the Dickson Company's Men Reported to be Missing.

A rumour to the effect that his brother had been drowned at Stony Lake, while engaged in lumbering operations for the Dickson Company, has reached the ears of Mr. William Collins, of Ashburnham.

Just where the statement originated it is impossible to ascertain, as neither Mr. T. G. Hazlitt or any of the foremen have heard anything of the matter, and as the Dickson Co.'s drive is only four or five hours' drive from town, it is thought strange that if any fatality occurred no accurate statements of the fact have as yet been received.

Mr. Collins drove back to Stony Lake himself this afternoon to either confirm or disprove the rumour.

It is also stated that Mr. Alex. Long, also of Ashburnham, was also drowned on Saturday last at the same time as Mr. Jas. Collins. The friends and relatives of both men are in a state of fearful suspense over the matter.

Hood's Cured After Others Failed

Scrofula in the Neck—Bunches All Gone Now.

Sangerville, Maine.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen:—I feel that I cannot say enough in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. For five years I have been troubled with scrofula in my neck and throat. Several kinds of medicines which I tried did not do me any good, and when I commenced to take Hood's Sarsaparilla there were large bunches on my neck so sore that I could not bear the slightest touch. When I had taken one bottle of this medicine, the soreness had gone, and before I had finished the second the bunches had entirely disappeared." BLANCHE ATWOOD, Sangerville, Maine.

A WEDDING IN MOOSEJAW.

Nuptials of a Young Lady and Gentleman Both Formerly of This County.

A pretty and interesting event took place in St. John's church, Moosejaw, on Wednesday afternoon, April 17th, being the wedding of Mr. John W. Fletcher, formerly of Peterborough, and Miss Sussie J. Saunders, of Buffalo Lake, formerly of Lakefield.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. W. Cunliffe. The bride was handsomely attired in cream crepon, trimmed with old Irish lace. Her sister, Miss Nellie, acted as bridesmaid, and looked charming in pink crepon.

The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Alex. Fletcher. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. S. Saunders. As the bridal party passed up the aisle the choir sang the Royal wedding hymn.

At the conclusion of the ceremony Mendelssohn's wedding march was played in brilliant style. The happy couple repaired to the home of the groom, where breakfast was prepared and where they will now reside. Among the numerous presents received by the bride were several from Ontario.

PENSIONERS IN THE NORTH-WEST REBELLION.

Healthy and Robust Men Pensioners on the Public Bounty.

It is a time-honoured policy of the British Government that the defenders of the country and the fighters of the battles of the Empire, who have served long terms, should be rewarded with pensions; so there was no objection to the Canadian Government giving a pension to those who were injured in body or in general health, in the campaign in the Northwest in 1885, so long as they were suffering from the consequences of those services, but it does seem a waste of the public funds, that pension allowances should be continued after the subjects are restored to vigorous health. In the public accounts for 1894 there appears a pension grant of $200.75 a year to M. Weir, of Keene, and of $91.25 to Chas. Guy, of Peterborough. It is well known that both of these men have completely recovered, one of them being noted locally for his unusual physical strength and vigour. There are hundreds who, in that campaign, served longer,

AND ENDURED MORE HARDSHIP

who had no such recognition of their services. The Government can't afford a few thousands to drill the volunteers whose services may be needed at any time, but they can devote large sums to bonusing ex-volunteers, who are in perfectly good health and able to earn their own living. It is such wastes of public funds, repeated in a thousand different forms, that account for a deficit of nearly five millions of dollars, and the Government, instead of cutting off the source of waste, are crippling necessary public services to make up the leak and putting on extra taxes. That 200 dollars a year should be paid to Mr. Weir, of Keene, is simply indefensible. The information is given that he is in normal health, and the only trouble that appears to afflict him is that he waiting for the date of his quarterly instalments to come around. It is time that this and other numerous instances of the abuse of the pension and superannuation system should cease. One or two big leaks from the public chest would be promptly noticed and could be promptly stopped, but the money oozing out in thousands of places, most insidiously, but not the less effectively, drains the public coffers and necessitates periodical trips to England for loans to replenish them. Mr. Foster's last loan of 10 millions has already melted away and dropped into the grave of gigantic deficits. The individuals above referred to should in decency notify the government that they have long ago recovered, and not wait for investigation which will only result in their further humiliation.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Mr. Martin's talk in the Saturday night meeting on "Character Building," was excellent, and throughout the meeting was very interesting. Next Saturday night will be "Special." A talk will be given by one who is very popular with young men on a practical topic, and special music will add to the interest of the meeting.

The Committee on Religious Work met on Saturday evening to discuss plans for summer work.

The last talk in the purity course was given yesterday afternoon. Mr. J. Miller sang in fine voice that touching song "Somebody's Boy." The aim of the committee is to make this Sunday afternoon well worth attending and next Sunday a crowd of men will hear Rev. Rae on "Women's Rights." In special music, Mr. J. C. Miller has promised a sacred cornet solo and Messrs. Squires and Steers will sing a duett that is a favourite with the fellows.

Quite a number of workers turned out for Bible study yesterday morning. The class would prove helpful to many fellows and if they attend they will be made welcome.

To-morrow night, at eight o'clock, Sheriff Hall will meet with the "beginners' class."

Monthly meeting of the Board of Directors to-morrow evening, at seven o'clock. The meeting is important.

RARE AND VALUABLE BOOKS AND PAMPHLETS.

Dr. Bell Presents a Collection of Valuable Old Books to the Queens.

Dr. Bell is in receipt of the following communication from Mr. J. B. Molver, Secretary of the Board of Trustees of Queen's University, Kingston:

Kingston, May 2, 1895.

My Dear Sir,—At the annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of Queen's University held last evening the following resolution was unanimously passed—"That the Trustees gratefully acknowledge the gift of books and pamphlets, many of them rare and valuable, sent by Mr. J. J. Bell, of Toronto, and Dr. Robert Bell, of Peterborough, from the library of their late father, Robert Bell, Esq. They are aware that the late Mr. Bell's collection was made with great care, and they are sure that they will be found serviceable in the prosecution by the students, of various branches of study. The trustees will gladly comply with the request that the said books and pamphlets may be kept together and known as the Robert Bell collection, and they instructed their secretary to forward to Mr. J. J. Bell and Dr. Robert Bell a copy of this resolution."

The above resolution refers to a choice and rare collection of old books and pamphlets of an historical nature, which belonged to the late Robert Bell, M. P., father of Dr. Bell, of Peterborough, which were presented to Queen's University about a year ago, shortly after the death of Mr. Bell. The books in question are almost priceless in value, duplicates of many of them being impossible to secure. As works of references and for purposes of historical research the gift will prove a valuable one indeed to the library of Queen's, some of the professors of which have already expressed personally to Dr. Bell their gratification at being able to examine these old documents and pamphlets, to the collecting of which the late Mr. Bell spent a large portion of the latter years of his life.

SUCCESS OF A PETERBOROUGH BOY.

Trevor Kincaid Attains Success Across the Border.

The EXAMINER has been handed the following paragraph from the Daily Olympian, of Olympia, Washington state, concerning the son of Dr. Kincaid, formerly of Peterborough:

"Dr. Kincaid received a letter yesterday from his son Trevor, who has been for the past year attending the State University at Seattle, stating that he has received official notification of his appointment as assistant professor of botany and zoology for that institution. This is a very important position for a young man of his age to hold, but though only twenty-one years of age, it is safe to say that no better man for the position could be found in the United States, and certainly not in the State of Washington. Trevor Kincaid has established a reputation all over the United States for his scientific researches in the lines of botany and entomology. He is especially fitted for the position in this state on account of his familiarity with every form of plant and animal life within its boundaries. There is no modern work on botany or entomology that does not contain accounts of numerous new species described by him, and his word on anything relating to those branches of natural science with regard to anything in this state has been proved so often to be correct that it now goes without question. Not only Olympia but the whole state should feel proud in possessing a scientist of his reputation, and the members of the board of regents of the State University are to be congratulated on their sound judgment in selecting him for the position."

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Cox were in town over Sunday.

Mr. Wm. Battisby and family, Hope street, have removed to Peterborough.—Port Hope Guide.

Master Jack Wand, of Brampton, is on a visit east for the benefit of his health. He is the guest of his aunt, Mrs. Harry Nell, of Ashburnham.

Mrs. John Hoar, Port Britain, who has been out to Peterborough visiting her daughter, who is ill in that town, came home this morning.—Port Hope Guide.

The Campbellford Gazette says: Mrs. Fred Routh, Peterborough, is visiting friends in Campbellford. She was suddenly called to town by the death of her niece, Miss Lily Routh, last week.

Capt. Thurtle, of Winnipeg, Man., passed through town en route for Lindsay on a visit to friends and relatives, Thursday last. His many Peterborough friends were pleased to see the Captain looking so well.

Mr. Rice, traveller, for R. H. Howard & Co., of Toronto, is registered at the Morgan House, town. Mr. Rice's last visit to the town was some several years ago. He is astonished to see the growth of the town and thinks it should don a city garb.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says:—"Mr. H. C. Cluxton and Mr. A. V. White, of the Edison Works, Peterborough, having no work to do, where here for a holiday.—Mrs. St. George and Miss St. George, who have been spending the winter in Peterborough, are now making their residence on the hill, for a short time."

THREE FAIR ENGLISH GIRLS.

Some Notes Concerning Them and Their Actions When Off the Stage.

The Misses Webling arrived in town on Saturday last and during the afternoon received an EXAMINER reporter, who found three sisters to be interesting conversationalists and charming entertainers.

The Canadian press has given these young English women most complimentary notices wherever they have appeared, and it is evident that these flattering references were very fully deserved, as an interview of very short duration is quite confirmatory of the fact that the young ladies are the possessors of talent quite above the ordinary.

All three are very English indeed in their mode of expression, this being their first season in Canada. If reports, however, are to be believed, one, at least, of the trio will take up her residence permanently in the west.

A recital of the rather ludicrous adventures incidental to the great winter blizzard, in which the young ladies were caught, proved very amusing, as the occurrence was an entirely new experience to these fair strangers from England, who never realized the terrors of a Canadian winter until its awfulness suddenly burst upon them, when snowed in on one of the back lines of the Midland.

Having just finished reading Trilby, the various characters in the book furnished the topic for a little further conversation, as did the fact that Trilby has been dramatized and is shortly to be produced in Toronto. Naturally the three sisters are most anxious to see the play.

The youngest of the three, Miss Lucy, was the original Little Lord Fauntleroy, when that work was first dramatized and is indeed a clever and bright little lady. Miss Webling and Miss Peggy are the counterparts of their little medallion pictures, which are to be seen in almost every gentleman's hat in town, and are the possessors of a personality and versatality which is sure to make them as interesting on the stage as off it. Miss Kenrick, the pianist, who has appeared here with Miss Stevenson, accompanies the young ladies. Her admirable pianoforte playing is too well known to need comment.

The Opera House this evening should be crowded to the doors, as besides the interesting entertainment which will be provided the Webling's are appearing under the auspices of the Hockey Club, which fact alone should ensure the occupancy of every seat.

CHURCH CHIMES.

The evening anthem in the Charlotte street church was entitled, "Praise ye the King."

Mr. A. L. Davis sang the baritone solo, "Beautiful City," most effectively last evening in the Charlotte street church.

In St. John's church, yesterday, thanks were offered for the settlement of the Canadian General Electric Works difficulty.

Miss Montgomery took the contralto solo in particularly pleasing manner in the anthem "Now the Day is Over," in St. Paul's church last evening.

The regular monthly meeting of St. Paul's branch of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society will be held at three o'clock on Friday afternoon next.

In the Charlotte street church yesterday morning, the choir sang as an anthem, "Praise the Lord," Miss Florence Hall and Miss Martha Stevens taking the duet, and Miss W. J. Squires the tenor solo, with good effect.

Quarterly services were held in George street church yesterday, and at the communion service afterwards fifty-five candidates were admitted to church membership. The Sacrament was partaken of by the largest number in the history of the church.

Miss Hansen, of Oshawa, rendered a solo during the offertory in St. Paul's church, yesterday morning. It was entitled "Oh! Happy Day," by Satze, and her rendition of this beautiful selection was all that could be desired. Miss Hansen's singing is characterized by the most artistic phrasing and the sweetest tones.

Rev. Mr. Pady conducted both the morning and evening services in the Park street Baptist Mission yesterday, preaching to large congregations. In the evening he took as the subject of his evening sermon the text "The Wages of Sin is Death," Phillippans, iii chap. 23rd verse. As an anthem the choir sang "Come, Wanderer Come" most harmoniously.

Rev. Dr. Torrance delivered a most practical sermon last evening in St. Paul's on the humility and meekness of woman, which two attributes, he thought, were their most shining virtues. He depreciated the fact that the woman of the present day was prone to deteriorate and lapse into living in ease and idleness. The sphere of the wife was clearly outlined, the speaker pointing out that it was her duty to live in quiet obedience to her husband, gracefully yielding and bending her will to that of the stronger nature. The women of to-day, he thought, were too much given to allowing themselves to be governed by circumstances and not exerting themselves sufficiently to live a life which had for its object something more sublime than the attainment of ease.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH NOTES.

The work on the erection of the addition to the Rectory was commenced this morning.

The rite of confirmation will be administered in St. Luke's Church on Tuesday, May 14th, at 8 p.m., by the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Niagara.

The Rector preached a special sermon to confirmation candidates last evening from the text "Fight the good fight of faith."

Mr. Chappell of Trinity College has arrived to take charge of Mr. Hedley's work at St. Mark's and Allandale during the next few months.

At the late meeting of the Women's Auxiliary in Toronto, a letter was read from Miss Symonds working in the home for Indian children at Gleichen, Alta.

Fergus, April 6,1894
To Robert Phillips,
Druggist, Fergus.

This is to certify that I have suffered from piles for a long time and tried several articles recommended for this complaint, but none of them benefitted me till I tried Chase's Ointment, which has completely cured me.

MRS. JOHN GERRIE.
R. Phillips, Jr., Druggist Witness.

"My six-year-old daughter, Bella, was afflicted with eczema for 24 months, the principal seat of eruption being behind her ears. I tried almost every remedy I saw advertised, bought innumerable medicines and soaps, and took the child to medical specialists in skin diseases, but without result. Finally, a week ago, I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and the first application showed the curative effect of the Remedy. We have used only one-sixth of the box, but the change is very marked; the eruption has all disappeared, and I can confidently say my child is cured. (Signed) MAXWELL JOHNSTON

ACETYLENE APPARATUS.

Experiments Showing How the New Gas Can be Generated for Practical Use.

Few chemical discoveries have attracted more interest than the recent one of the method of manufacturing acetylene on a large scale. The production of the calcium carbide from which the acetylene gas is made by simple treatment with water bids fair to become a commercial process, and we have every reason to hope that the material will soon be produced by the ton. There is something fascinating in the idea of being able to evolve a gas of about 300 candle power by so simple a process. While the crudest possible apparatus, such as a tumbler of water, is sufficient to illustrate the production of the gas, the object of the present article is to show how a better demonstration can be produced with very simple appliances.

To show the gas with a tumbler of water, it is sufficient to drop into it a piece of the calcium carbide as large as a pea; the gas is at once evolved in large quantity, and a match can be applied repeatedly to the accumulation of bubbles on the surface of the water, giving a number of successive lightings. The apparatus, which gives more satisfactory results, is constructed from a battery jar and lamp chimney as the principal elements, and is made on the lines of the old hydrogen evolution apparatus.

To the top of the lamp chimney, which should be of a large size, a cork should be tightly fitted. Unless the cork is better than the majority, it should be waxed or paraffined, which is very easily done by placing some fragments of wax or paraffine on it and melting the material with a hot soldering iron or poker. Through a central perforation a tube is inserted fitted with a stop cock and as a gas burner; the latter must be of the smallest size made, the Bray fish-tail burner answering about the best of any yet tried. Merely to exhibit the gas, a simple jet may be made by drawing a glass tube almost to a point or by drilling a very small hole in a cap fitted to the pipe leading from the stop cock. Through a hole a little to one side of the evolution pipe a wire passes which moves up and down with some friction through the whole. Its lower end is formed into a hook, to which is suspended a little basket made by bending up a little bit of coarse wire gauze. A piece with one-quarter inch meshes will be about right. The suspending wire is bent at the top to give it a better handle.

To operate it, the lamp chimney is placed in the jar, the water is poured in until within an inch or two of the top, and a piece of calcium carbide half the size of a walnut is placed in the basket, which is drawn up until pretty close to the cork. The cork is now placed in the lamp chimney and pressed down so as to make it fit tightly, and the wire slowly worked down until the basket becomes partially immersed in the water. The level of the water is at once depressed as the gas is evolved, and if the cock is open the air and gas within the chimney begin to escape. As soon as the odor of the escaping gas is strong, it can be lighted and will burn for five or ten minutes with great steadiness. If the pressure decreases and the water rises, it comes in contact with the calcium carbide, more gas is evolved, and it falls again.

The appratus may be further simplified by omitting the stop cock, which is unnecessary, and a bucket may be substituted for a battery jar. It may also be necessary to secure the chimney against floating upward.

It is well before lighting the gas to hold a test tube over the outlet for a few seconds until filled with the gas, and to light it with a match or at a gas burner. If the contents do not explode, it is safe to light the jet on the chimney; if it does explode, the light should be deferred until purer gas is evolved. Two or three minutes are sufficient to get it in working order. it must also be remembered that it is essential to have a very small burner, as otherwise the gas will smoke and the supply will be insufficient to obtain a satisfactory flame. The suspending wire must fit tightly, as if it slips down the apparatus will blow out or overflow. A very slight immersion of the carbide starts it.—Scientific American.

London, May 6.—The despatch from Detroit with reference to the cure from Bright's disease and blood poisoning of Mr. Langley, of this city, by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, has recalled the wonderful facts of the case to the citizens, among whom Mr. Langley is well known. It has also reminded them that Mrs. Langley among others also made an equally wonderful recovery. The use of the pills however, has become so universal here, and there have been so many instances in which they have been used with beneficial results that a similar case would hardly excite as much interest now as it did then when the medicine is less known.

AYER'S Hair VIGOR

Restores natural color to the hair, and also prevents it falling out. Mrs. H. W. Fenwick, of Digby, N. S., says: "A little more than two years ago my hair began to turn gray and fall out. After the use of one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs. H. F. Fenwick, Digby, N. S.

Growth of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the varioloid, and lost my hair, which previously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but without beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."—Mrs. A. Weber, Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

RAINY LAKE GOLD.

THE RECENT DISCOVERIES IN NORTH-WESTERN ONTARIO.

The Richest Finds About 20 Miles North of the Minnesota Line—The Country Described—The Inrush of Miners and Prospectors.

The interest that has been awakened by the recent discovery of gold in the Rainy Lake District, so-called, Province of Ontario and the continued inquiries for information, lead me to present the following description in relation to the new fields:

The Rainy Lake District is located just north of the State of Minnesota, the boundary line between the United States and Canada running through the center of Rainy Lake. Gold in paying quantities has been discovered on both sides of the line. There are several paying mines in operation adjoining the Rainy Lake city in American territory, but the richest portions of the field yet discovered is a locality from 15 to 20 miles north from the boundary line, in the Province of Ontario, and lies between Bad Vermillion and Shoal Lakes.

Shoal Lake is a portion of the Seine River, which is a succession of river and lakes, originating near the height of land on the Canadian Pacific about 100 miles west of Port Arthur; the waters of the Seine flowing west and emptying into Rainy Lake.

The present maps of that locality do not show properly the division of the country, which is broken up by a succession of lakes. The country is a beautiful one. In the hilly parts, where the gold fields lie, there is but little soil; the lakes and rivers are set in banks of granite and slate, torn and tumbled by the gigantic storms and eruptions of the Archean age, and although in places a slight deposit of soil covers the underlying rock, the most of the country is bare, broken molten stone, and every step gives evidence of the awful disturbance which occurred thousands of years ago.

The topography of the country is divided into two distinct parts; that along the Rainy River, at the west of the gold fields, a sort of a plain, extending down into Minnesota, and that among the lakes adjacent to the gold fields, an extremely rough, rocky and hummocky section. The highest altitudes, however, do not exceed 200 feet above the water level. Rainy Lake is the receiving basin for a large section of country. The lake is about 50 miles in length and contains somewhere near 250 miles of square surface. The height above the sea of Rainy Lake is estimated at 1,100 feet, and 450 feet above Lake Superior.

The discovery of gold in Rainy Lake and surrounding regions is not a new one, as one might think. It has been spoken of for years, and the Indians often brought nuggets of gold into the trading posts to barter for the necessaries of life. In September, 1893, Thomas Weigand, a Canadian explorer, who listened to the tales of the Indians, started from Port Arthur to look over the Rainy Lake region, with a view of ascertaining the amount of truth there might be in the report that gold was to be found there. At this time work had been done on some mines on the Minnesota side of the lake, and which had already given promise of being the paying vein that it is. Proceeding up the Seine with Alexander Lockhart, a Canadian surveyor, Weigand was driven ashore on Seine Lake. After looking around the woods for a time, Weigand ascended the slope which lies back from the lake, and climbed a tree to gain a vantage point from which to take a look at the country. As he came within his eye caught a curious gleam of rock where the glancing blow of an ax had swept away the moss. With thoughts of the tales which brought him there, he dropped on his hands and knees and examined the rock. It was gold: and gold in quantities beyond his wildest dreams. With a little more investigation, which developed three large veins or ledges of gold-bearing quartz, he became satisfied that his search was ended, and returned to Port Arthur to report his discovery.

The lateness of the season prevented anything being done that year, but early the following spring prospectors came pouring into the region. The forest fires that raged last year through Northern Minnesota crossed the line and assisted in clearing away the undergrowth of brush and vegetable deposit, baring the hillsides and assisting to a great degree the work of the prospectors.

In the territory embraced between the lakes mentioned—an irregular neck of land from five to seven miles in width and possibly 15 miles in length—with the exception of the Indians residing in that locality there was scarcely a man to be found a year ago. To-day there are possibly 2,500 men in the district and new arrivals are reaching the new fields daily. Men from all over this country are seeking the new field for opportunities of bettering their fortunes; even far-off Australia having already yielded several contributions to the mining camps.

The developments now made on the different properties consist of the sinking of many shafts, the deepest at present being between 70 and 80 feet; the vein on which they have been sunk holding their richness to the full depth and slightly increasing width as depth is gained; also the building of five stamp mills; three of five-stamp capacity, and two of 10. There are two mills now in operation and the other three will be in operation during the present month. As to the result to be obtained, the workings of the mills in operation are a fair guide, and from the best information obtainable, although the machinery in use is extremely crude and cannot possibly save a high percentage of the gold present in the quartz, the result obtained runs from $17 to $80 per ton for every ton of quartz reduced. Assays made on the quartz taken from veins on different properties and at varying depths in the shafts that are being sunk show immensely rich, running from $15 to $1,800 per ton.

The unusual features of the new field are the magnitude of the veins, the number of them and their size, veins 8½ to seven feet in width being classed as small ones, and in many places solid quartz veins are seen carrying gold from wall to wall from 15 to 25 feet in width. Experienced miners who have worked in mining districts all over the western country say that they never have seen anything that compares in magnitude or in richness with the new field. The accessibility of water and the abundance of timber for fuel and mining operations are exceptional features in favor of this district, comparing it with the Black Hills, which during the past eight years have yielded millions, according to a report made by Prof. H. Hofman, Dakota School of Mines, who says: "The amount of free gold in the ores varies with the depth at which they are mined; it is difficult to give a correct average figure of its value, but $4 per ton will be near it.

"The cost of water in the Black Hills is 50 cents to 75 cents per day per stamp; water and fuel being 50 per cent. of the cost of milling; fuel alone being 33 per cent. of the cost, the wood used being brought from 25 to 30 miles, and costing an average of $6 per cord."

If mining in the Black Hills on an average of $4 per ton has been so profitable, the results obtained from mining operations in the new field must yield a profit so stupendous as to be the wonder of this century and attract thousands of persons and millions of capital in the near future.

At the present time the means of reaching the Seine River district are not first-class. The best route at present is from Duluth by rail to Tower, Minn., and from there by team over the ice on the lakes in the winter months, or by small steamers in the summer time. The trip from Tower can be made by team in two days, the distance in a straight line being about 110 miles to the center of the district. The Canadian Pacific Railroad is within 70 miles, but to the north of the gold fields. There is a range of mountains very rough and broken, making the building of a branch in from that direction very expensive. Provisions and machinery and all supplies are at present drawn from Duluth and Tower, and they must continue for some time to be the natural supply centers.

The locality above described will be a miners' paradise for years to come. Large and small game is abundant; the waters are densely populated with every variety of the finest fish; to the west along Rainy River is a productive farming country 500 square miles in extent, growing the choicest products of the soil in abundance. Food supplies of every kind must continue cheap, thereby assisting greatly the development, and the volume of business will soon spur the railway companies nearest to extend their lines. No doubt this will be done during the present summer.—Buffalo Express.

PROFIT IN POULTRY.

HOW TO MAKE MONEY FROM THIS INDUSTRY.

A Warm House Necessary and Good Feed With Plenty of Water—What Accommodation is Required for 25 Fowls.

In the first place, build the poultry house where cold winds of winter will not strike it. Select the sunniest place possible, high and dry, where barns and other outbuildings will protect it. Have it as convenient as practicable to the dwelling, for fowls need more attention than any kind of stock during bad weather, especially in winter. They then need a warm house, good feed and plenty of fresh water.

In order to keep the house warm batten every crack and bank up about the bottom. For banking, drive stakes about eight inches from the outside of the wall. Place old boards inside these. Some distance from the stakes dig a trench and throw the earth between the boards and the wall until a solid bank of soil two feet high and eight inches thick is formed all around the chicken house except at the door. This will keep the floor warm and prevent all draughts. This is an important item as the fowls are on the floor most of the time during the day.

Every farmer should have at least 25 chickens—24 hens and a rooster. For these, a house 10x14 ft. and 7 ft. high under the eaves, is sufficient for both summer and winter. For the frame use 2x4 scantling, cover these on the outside with matched board or ordinary smooth boards and battens. For the roof use good shingles. All the lumber should be smooth on both sides. You can then paint the outside of the house and whitewash the inside.

Some professionals heat their poultry houses with a stove during the coldest days but this is expensive and requires careful manipulation. If the fire gets low or goes out the fowls are apt to take cold and have the roup. If the climate is very cold, sheathe the inside of the house and pack the space between the outer and inner walls with sawdust. Here the hardier breeds such as Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Brahmas, etc., will do well without artificial heat. They will lay all winter. Where the thermometer seldom goes lower than 8° or 10° below zero, a lining of tarred paper is usually sufficient. Never choose a tender large-combed variety of chickens if you live in a cold climate.

Provide large windows for the south side of the house. For 25 fowls place three roost poles across one end. Let them rest on a strip of board nailed to the wall two feet from the floor. A piece of one inch board two inches wide with rounded edges will answer. Place the first one foot from the wall and the other two 1½ ft. apart. These can be removed when the house is being cleaned.

Six nests 10 inches square, two feet from the floor and on the end opposite the roosts, will provide sufficient room for laying. Never place them on the floor of the house. Have a solid partition between each, so that the hens cannot fight. Line with soft straw, never hay. Clean out four times a year and burn the old material. Nests used for setting hens must be cleaned before putting in the eggs and after the chickens are hatched. It is a good plan to sprinkle a little sulphur in the bottom of each nest as there is where lice usually start.

Clean out from under the roosts at least once a week, sweeping the whole house clean. A little land plaster sprinkled about prevents bad odors, adds to the value of the manure and keeps the floor from rotting. The floor should be six inches above the ground, made of dressed and matched lumber. The ground beneath it must be well drained so no water will stand near the house. Make a box 3x4 ft. and one foot high with sides sloping outward. Into this put about three inches of fine gravel. This will take the place of oyster shells and is much better for the fowls. A flock of chickens treated as directed above will be a source of pleasure and one of the most profitable kinds of live stock.

BUILT UP THE SYSTEM IN A WONDERFUL MANNER.

James A. Bell, of Beaverton, Ont., Brother of the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., Prostrated by Nervous Headaches--A Victim of the Trouble for Several Years --South American Nervine Effected a Complete Cure.

In their own particular field few men are better known than the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., and his brother, Mr. James A. Bell. The former will be recognized by his thousands of friends all over the country as the popular and able missionary superintendent of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Among the 20,000 members of this order in Ontario, his counsel is sought on all sorts of occasions. On the public platform he is one of the strong men of the day, battling against the evils of intemperance. Equally well known is Mr. Bell in other provinces of the Dominion, having been for years a member of the Manitoba Methodist Conference, and part of this time was stationed in Winnipeg. His brother, Mr. James A. Bell is a highly respected resident of Beaverton, where his influence, though perhaps more circumscribed than that of his eminent brother, is none the less effective and productive of good. Of recent years, however, the working ability of Mr. James A. Bell has been sadly marred by severe attacks of nervous headaches, accompanied by indigestion. Who can do fit work when this trouble takes hold of them, and especially when it becomes chronic, as was, seemingly, the case with Mr. Bell. The trouble reached such intensity that last June he was completely prostrated. In this condition a friend recommended South American Nervine. Ready to try anything and everything, though he thought he had covered the list of proprietary medicines, he secured a bottle of this great discovery. A second bottle of the medicine was taken and the work was done. Employing his own language: "Two bottles of South American Nervine immediately relieved my headaches and have built up my system in a wonderful manner." Let us not deprecate the good our clergymen and social reformers are doing in the world, but how ill-fitted they would be for their work were it not the relief that South American Nervine brings to them when physical ills overtake them, and when the system as a result of hard, earnest and continuous work, breaks down. Nervine treats the system as the wise reformer treats the evils he is battling against. It strikes at the root of the trouble. All disease comes from disorganization of the nerve centers. This is a scientific fact. Nervine at once works on these nerve centers; gives to them health and vigor; and then there courses through the system strong, healthy, life-maintaining blood, and nervous troubles of every variety are things of the past.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

Items of Interest to Local Sportsmen Aquatic and Field Sports.

SPRINTING.

The 200-yard dash between Heffernan and LeBar this afternoon, in which LeBar gave the former a start of three yards, was easily won by Heffernan, LeBar not gaining on him to any perceptible extent. An even race between these two men would prove interesting. A large number of sports congregated at Central Park to witness the race, which was for $25.00 a side.

CRICKET.

The cricketing materials have all been taken over to the P.A.A.A. grounds, and regular practice will commence immediately. If the grounds are well rolled, while soft from the recent rain, a great deal of work later on in the season will be avoided.

THE WHEEL.

Cyclists with a liking for mathematical deductions will be interested in the following: With a sixty-three inch gear each revolution of the pedals of a bicycle will send the wheel forward 16½ feet. Number of revolutions required to drive this bicycle one mile is 320. If a person in walking should take three feet at one step, the number of steps necessary to travel would be 1,700. Walking requires the expenditure of a greater amount of energy and strength as compared to riding the bicycle a like distance.

Although the time of the circuit of the crack American wheelsmen through Canada has been cut down from two weeks to four days, still there is every probability that Peterborough will secure the fast riders from across the border for one day of the four. It is thought that Toronto, Woodstock, Peterborough and Montreal will be the four favoured tracks on which these record-breakers will speed, and a big contingent of wheelmen from all parts of the province will doubtless accompany the touring Americans on their trip through Canada. The local track will be put into such shape that there will be every possibility of some world's records being broken on it, thus proving that there is no strength in the statement that Peterborough's track is only fit for horses to speed upon, which statement was a strong factor in securing the town's defeat in connection with having the big C. W. A. meet here.

Fourteen or fifteen events will be run off during the afternoon and several thousand visitors are expected to excurt to Peterborough on August 30th, to witness the racing of the Grand Circuit wheelsmen, of whom so much has been heard.

LACROSSE.

The lacrosse boys will turn out for their first regular practice, weather permitting, this evening at the Driving Park. If the big town roller was secured and used on the grounds to-day or to-morrow it would put them in splendid condition for the season. The management should see to this at once and lose no time in putting the grounds in proper shape.

A meeting of the old Shamrocks is summoned for Tuesday evening next at the Palace Restaurant club rooms.

A meeting of the Junior Peterboroughs is summoned for Wednesday evening, at the Palace Restaurant, to finally decide as to where practices will be held this season. A number of the players, this morning, applied for reduced fares on the street railway, such as had been promised, but were unable to procure them, consequently the idea of practising at the Driving Park this year will have to be abandoned. The matter of arranging the question of fares, etc., should have been settled long ago by the Managing Committee of the Peterboroughs and if lacrosse dies a natural death in Peterborough this year, the public will have the members of the Managing Committee to thank for the catastrophe. The players are asking what the members of this committee have done since their appointment? The question of the rates upon which the Driving Park was to be secured is not settled. The matter of transportation is not settled. The club doesn't know whether it is in the C. L. A., this year or not, and no subscription list has been taken around yet. It is small wonder indeed that the Peterboroughs talk of disbanding and forming a new club to be known as the Independents. Some decisive step will have to be taken this week in the matter, and the eyes of the public are on the Managing Committee.

DEATH RODE ON THE WIND

One Hundred Victims of a Cyclone in Sioux County, Ohio

Sioux City, Iowa, May 6.—Over 100 persons were killed by the cyclone that passed through Sioux County Friday. Half a score of prosperous little hamlets were touched by the flying storm, and hundreds of farms were laid waste. Four school houses near Sioux Centre were destroyed while school was in progress, and at each one from three to ten children were killed or injured.

Many of the children were carried from a quarter to half a mile before they were dropped. Two little daughters of John Koster, a farmer near Sioux Centre, were picked up as they were leaving the school house and dashed into a wire fence and both killed. Two sons of C. H. Haggie at the same school house had their legs broken and received other injuries from which they will die.

The towns of Sioux Centre, Ireton, Orange City, Perkins, Doon Hull, Sheldon, Alton, Ashton, Sibley and Lemars were almost directly in the path of the cyclone.

The fatalities in the different towns were estimated as follows: Sioux Centre, 50 dead; Perkins, 40 dead; Doon, 10 dead; Sibley, 5 dead.

It is feared returns from the remote points and from the farms in the country will double the death list. The damage will be millions.

Numerous victims were found lodged in the trees, where they had been hurled by the storm. Horses, cattle and vehicles were hurled through the air like chaff.

Toronto Wins a Game.

Providence, May 4.—A home run by Lutenburg, with Sippi on first base in the ninth inning, won the game for Toronto to-day. It was a magnificent contest from start to finish, with lots of batting and dashing fielding. Crane displayed fine judgment in keeping the batting of the champions down, and deliberately gave bases on balls to Strong and the batsmen at critical times. The home team had the lead in the score of 5 to 4 when the Torontos took last turn at bat. Sippi banged an ugly grounder at Bassett, who fumbled it, and Sippi reached first by a slide. Lutenburg followed with a fly over the fence in extreme left field.

AUCTION SALE —OF THE—
M. S. Dean Estate.

THERE WILL BE OFFERED FOR SALE by Public Auction on

Friday, the 10th day of May, 1895,

at 3 o'clock p.m. at Dean's Mill, Bridgenorth, by John Haggart, Auctioneer, the following valuable property, viz:—

PARCEL NO. 1.—

A 50-barrel Roller Mill.

Part of lot No. 15 in the Village of Bridgenorth, more particularly described in registered instrument No 623 for the Township of Smith, save and except the south 100 feet of said part of said lot.

Upon this parcel there is erected a large four-story Flour Mill, 34x34 feet, with a large stone engine room 36x52 feet attached, and also an office 12x13 feet attached to Mill. This Flour Mill is situate on the shore of Chemong Lake on the main travelled road in the district and is most convenient for milling purposes for a large number of farmers in the thickly settled and prosperous Townships of Smith, Ennismore, Emily, Verulam and Harvey.

This mill has been recently equipped with all the most improved and modern machinery. A new pan sifter was put in last summer.

PARCEL NO. 2.—

A Frame House in Bridgenorth.

Part of said lot No. 15 being the south 100 feet of the land more particularly described in registered instrument No. 623 for the Township of Smith.

This parcel is immediately south of the above flour mill and there is erected upon it a frame one-and-a-half storey dwelling house 21x32 feet, with a summer kitchen attached.

PARCEL No. 3.—

Six Acre Lot adjoining Bridgenorth

Part of lot No 19, on the east side of the Communication road, in the Township of Smith, more particularly described in registered instrument No. 7971 for the County of Peterborough, save and except that portion sold to Kelly under registered instrument No. 4238 for the said Township of Smith.

PARCEL No. 4.—

Bridgenorth Village Lots.

Lots Nos. 65 and 69 on Colbourne street and lot 65 on Charles street, all on registered plan No. 4 for the Township of Smith. These lots are nearly opposite the Methodist Church and are excellent building lots.

Also the following Chattels: One Smith Purifier, Two Gray Centrifugals, one run of stones, two set of Platform Scales, Shovels, &c.

TERMS OF SALE:—Ten per cent. of the purchase money at the time of sale and the balance to be paid within thirty days thereafter, without interest. Chattels to be sold for cash. There will be a reserved bid.

Further particulars and conditions of sale may be obtained from Messrs. STRATTON & HALL, Peterborough, or from the undersigned.

The Man of To-day

Who does'nt know that the possibilities for elegance in Clothing have as wide a scope in READY-MADE as in Made-to-Measure is simply not well informed.

The citizen of Peterborough who does'nt know that GOUGH BROS. every season exhaust these possibilities in the very latest fashion creations of the Clothing world—is also devoid of information, which might be made of great practical value to him from an economical standpoint.

The object of this announcement is to call attention to the two facts above suggested—and to invite a personal investigation of the matter.

There are no Doubts Connected With This Business

We undertake to dress any man from head to heel to his complete satisfaction—including the item of cost, which we guarantee to make SMALLER than any other house in Western Canada.

While we can sell a Man's Suit for $2.90 and a Boy's Suit for 89c, we can just as easily suit the man who insists on having a fashionable Suit worth $12.00 or $14.00, or the Boy whose parents can afford a stylish suit worth $4.50 or $5.00.

Our stock is not limited. We are always prepared for the steady stream of the masses, that finds its way here continually. This means that we have the goods to suit all classes—the medium-price and high-grade Clothing as well. Half assortments drive away trade. Customers won't waste time running where they can't get what they want.

Are you Getting any of our Good Lines we sell so Cheaply

We Have in Clothing

Elegant Black Worsteds, Fine Fancy Cheviots, beautiful Tweeds, durable Cassimeres—made in single and double-breasted, sack and cutaway style—Everyone a true $15.00 Suit, for $12.00. We sell more Clothing and YOU are the cause of it—YOU, because our values win your trade.

We Have in Hats

The very latest. None others Our Leading Fedoras at $1.25 and $2.00 are not equalled outside our stores. We have the best $1.50 and $1.75 Hats in Canada. Of course you may get just as good by paying $2.00 and $2.50 at other Hat stores, but, well, your choice, not ours.

We Have in Shoes

A range of prices that are down so low they cannot get lower for high-class goods. Leather is going up and the manufacturers are asking more money for Shoes, but we shall continue to sell at present prices. If you would only take the trouble to compare more, our crowds would be larger.

THE HEALTH OF CANADIAN CATTLE

Mr. Dickey Introduced—Mr. McCarthy Inquires Regarding the School Question. Receives Evasive Replies—Short Sketch of How Canadian Cattle Came to Be Scheduled.

Ottawa, May 7.—The introduction of the new Minister of Militia, Mr. E. Dickey, who has been re-elected by the electors of Cumberland on the occasion of his taking office, was the prelude of yesterday's proceedings in the Commons. Mr. Dickey got a warm reception from his friends and he is well liked on both sides of the House.

There is considerable anxiety throughout the country as to the annual drill of the militia this year, which is intensified by the fact that the estimates contain no provision for it as respects both the city corps and the rural battalions. The rural battalions were not drilled last year, a fact which is deplored by the General in Command in his annual report, and the House listened eagerly for the answer of the Minister of Militia to a question put by Mr. Lister. Mr. Dickey said it was the present intention of the Government to hold the militia camps this year, but as Mr. Foster has given a pledge that no supplementary estimates will be brought down, and as the main estimates contain no vote for this purpose, it is difficult to understand Mr. Dickey's reply.

Mr. Haggart stated that the complaint of the Pontiac & Pacific Junction Railway had been received and a thorough examination of the road ordered by the Department, and a report has been received that though some renewals of the timbers and culverts would be necessary, the road was not in an unsafe condition for traffic.

Dr. Montague told Mr. Fraser that there would be no revision of the voters' lists during the present year.

Mr. McCarthy put his question as to whether the published reports of the utterances of the Minister of Public Works at Vercheres, upon the Manitoba school question were correct, and Mr. Ouimet gave an evasive answer, which did not mean anything, but he acknowledged having sent the telegram published in La Presse on April 5, denying the rumor that Sir C. H. Tupper had demanded th epostponement of remedial legislation until after the general election, and stating that if Manitoba gave a refusal remedial legislation would be presented "with the shortest possible delay." Mr. McCarthy also enquired whether, if the Remedial Order was not executed, Parliament would be invested with jurisdiction to pass remedial laws. The Minister of Justice gave to the question the construction that it was a legal point upon which Mr. McCarthy desired information, and in reply read an extract from Mr. McCarthy's speech in arguing the question before the Cabinet, where Mr. McCarthy construed the respective powers of the Legislatures and of Parliament. This raised a laugh at Mr. McCarthy's expense, in which the member for North Simcoe joined.

Mr. Smith of South Ontario moved a resolution declaring it to be desirable to engage the services of British veterinary surgeons to examine and report upon the health of Canadian cattle herds with a view of convincing Great Britain that no infectious disease existed. The Secretary of State replied that the Government was certain of the healthiness of Canadian herds, and it had expressed its anxiety to have the condition of Canadian cattle investigated by the British Board of Agriculture. Upon his motion to adjourn the debate, the subject was dropped.

This cattle question is an important one to the farmers of Ontario. Up to a recent date Canada was permitted to export cattle into Great Britain, a privilege denied to the United States, because of the existence of pleuro-pneumonia. In July, 1883, the privilege was withdrawn, because of the bad faith and negligence of the Canadians. The plain facts are Pleuro-pneumonia was prevalent in the Western States. Great Britain then shadowed the United States, and notified Canada that if American cattle were allowed to come into Canada, Canada also would be scheduled. The Canadian Government requested the English Government to allow American cattle to be shipped from Detroit through Canada to the Eastern States in bond, stipulating that the animals would be examined by a veterinary surgeon as to their health before entering Canada, and if all right would then be secured in cars so constructed that no droppings should escape during the journey; that the conductors should move the trains without delay, not allowing the cattle trains to stand on sidings near Canadian cattle trains, and when the cattle were unloaded in the United States all the cars would be cleaned and disinfected before being allowed to return to Canada. To secure the due performance of all these precautions the Canadian Government undertook that an independent Dominion officer would accompany every train the whole journey through Canada, and then see that the railway men did their duty in observing these precautions. The Dominion Government further undertook that, with the exception of allowing cattle to go through in this way, not one single American beast was to be admitted into Canada. On the strength of these proposals the English Government agreed for the time being not to schedule Canada.

Now, why did the British Government schedule Canada? The reasons appear from the documents. Instead of an independent officer being appointed to see that the trainmen did their duty the Government sent out blank appointments to the railways to be filled up with the names of the conductors in charge of the trains, thus in bad faith violating the one stipulation which alone could secure a proper observance of all the details in question. As a result of this all the promised precautions were abandoned. The railways asked to have the inspection take place at night. The veterinary asked to have lights so that this could be done effectively. The request was refused and the farce began. Then the veterinary fell into loose ways, and began issuing to the railways blank certificates of inspection without ever having seen the cattle trains. For months the form of inspection was performed by a shoemaker. Then, too, cattle were admitted into the Canadian Northwest without quarantine from the Western States, where pleuro-pneumonia was known to exist. Between the years 1881 and 1887 a total of 49,850 cattle were imported into Manitoba and the Territories from the Western States in violation of the express stipulation entered into with the British Government. In December, 1886, and January, 1887, the English Government warned the Canadian Government of the risk they ran by allowing this importation of American cattle from the pleuro-pneumonia districts. That same year, after the warnings were received, 13,558 head of cattle were allowed into Canada, and nine months were allowed to elapse before the Canadian Government even answered these English warnings. Then the only answer was a letter from Sir John Carling, saying that he was satisfied with what the Canadian Government was doing. The result was that certain cattle from Manitoba were said to have pleuro-pneumonia, and immediately the English Government scheduled Canada. This schedule is still in force and has been brought about by the negligence and breach of contract on the part of the Canadian Government.

A discussion on the course of various provincial governments prohibiting Dominion employes from voting at provincial elections was introduced by Mr. Mills of Annapolis, offering a resolution to disfranchise the employes of such provincial governments in Federal elections. He attacked the Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island Legislatures for enacting legislation of this kind, and condemned it as an outrage. He admitted that his resolution was asking for legislation of the kind he described as outrageous, but the excuse he offered was that the Legislatures could only be brought to see their iniquity by giving them some of their own medicine. Mr. Davies, Mr. Northrup, Col. Tisdale, Mr. McIsaac, Mr. Curran and others took part in the debate.

Mr. McIsaac made his maiden speech in the House, and a very able one it was, and listened to attentively by the whole House. When he resumed his seat he was congratulated by Mr. Laurier and other members of the Opposition. The debating strength of the Liberals in Parliament has been much strengthened by Mr. McIsaac's entrance. On motion of Mr. Fraser, the debate was adjourned.

Whether it was that Mr. Davin's resolution in favor of woman suffrage came next, or because of the heat, or because it was private members' day, Mr. Foster moved the adjournment of the House at 6 o'clock. The Budget debate will be resumed to-morrow by Sir Richard Cartwright.

The annual meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association on Wednesday promises to be an interesting one. There are matters arising out of the last annual matches which will be ventilated. There has been a falling off in the attendance at the matches for the last few years, and this means a loss of revenue, for each competitor is figured as being worth $14 to the association. To account for this shrinkage many reasons have been advanced. The use of two rifles, for instance, was said to have caused it one year, but that objection is now removed. It is said, also, that the league shooting gives some of those who would attend the Dominion Rifle Association all the sport they want without the expense of traveling. Probably the strongest reason is the fact that rifle shooting has become an art, and prospective competitors weigh well the chances of glory before they start out. To reduce the running expenses and increase the prize lists by extending them, two-thirds of the gross receipts being used up in expenses, including the Bisley team, and to send more men on the Bisley team are suggestions which have been talked of as likely to induce more marksmen to come here. The Ottawa range has been a very expensive affair for the Dominion Rifle Association—a constant source of outlay, and it will want more money yet. Allowing non-commissioned officers to take part in the matches is looked upon by some as a very good way of bringing out more competitors. Changes in the detail of one or two of the regular matches and the extra series may go to the executive in the form of recommendations from the annual meeting.

Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, Messrs. Davies, Fraser, Choquette, Geoffrion and Brosseau will deliver addresses in the Reform Club rooms on Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Young Liberals.

MILITIA FORCE 30,000

General Herbert's Praise of Canadian Volunteers.

19,000 MEN DRILLED LAST YEAR

The General's Tone Has Altered—He Praises the Men's Loyalty and Discipline But Urges Systematic Organization—The New Method Rifle.

Ottawa, Ont., May 7.—The annual report of the Department of Militia and Defence was presented to Parliament yesterday. The report of the Major-General commanding says the permanent force made a steady progress towards increased efficiency. This progress is ascribed mainly to improved organisation, which allots to every grade its definite sphere of action and corresponding responsibility. There is, however, much yet to be done in this direction, which can only be accomplished by the more thorough education of officers in their professional duties.

The practice initiated last year of sending some officers and non-commissioned officers of these regiments to England for instruction has been productive of excellent results.

He notes an increase of recruits and a dimunition of military crime in the permanent force, and adds, "it is especially gratifying to note a dimunition of drunkenness, and of the offences which are the invariable result of such excess." The number of active militia trained in the year was about 19,000 out of a total estimated strength on paper of over 30,000. The quality of the drill by the rural militia in camps has, he said, improved.

The General says that during the past year 1000 rifles on the Martini-Metford principle have been received, of which 730 have been issued on trial. The reports received show it to be an admirable weapon. It differs, however, in many points from any weapon which has been hitherto used by the militia force, and it will only be after some practice and experience that the full advantage of it will be realised. The ammunition issued with the rifle has not been satisfactory. This defect, however, will be remedied by the decision which has been arrived at, to adopt the cordite ammunition in use in the Imperial service, and to manufacture the same at the Dominion cartridge factory at Quebec.

Two hundred Martini-Metford carbines have been issued to the cavalry, with cordite ammunition, the results proving fully satisfactory. The absence of recoil, of smoke and of fouling are all that could be desired.

The general adoption of a modern rifle will undoubtedly necessitate the closing of many rifle ranges. The ranges at London, Ont., and Fredericton, N. B., have been altered to meet the new conditions. The necessity for rifle ranges throughout the country will be felt more and more, and must undoubtedly render necessary special appropriations to meet this requirement. Musketry practice of the militia in Canada must, for a long time to come, be almost entirely voluntary, and for this purpose a range should be readily available for every company in rural districts.

The General concludes his report as follows: From knowledge I have acquired in the course of four years of intimate acquaintance with the Canadian militia, I will venture to assert that no body exists in which there is a stronger feeling of patriotism and loyalty than in that which I have the honor to command. The sacrifices made annually by all ranks should be a sufficient proof of this fact, even for those who have not had the advantage that I have enjoyed of an intimate personal acquaintance with all ranks. It is in view of the endeavors, so generously made, to safeguard this important part of the Empire that I again venture to urge the adoption of a systematic organization by which alone can the security of any country be assured.

The total expenditure of the Department for the past year was $1,284,517, and the revenue $42,610. During the year clothing was issued as follows: Cloth, serge and tweed tunics, 9602; trousers, 8651 pairs; cloth riding breeches, 735 pairs; forage caps, 5686; great coats, 3906.

Great satisfaction is expressed by military members of the House at the announcement of the Minister of Militia to-day that annual drill camps are to be held this year.

HOW CORINTO WAS EVACUATED.

Britain Salutes the Nicaraguan Flag When Rebuked.

New York, May 7.—The Herald's special from Corinto says: The British occupation of Corinto came to an end on the evening of the 4th. At 6 o'clock the commander of the port, General Roberto Gonsales, arrived by special train with his forces, and peacefully resumed possession of the town. The Nicaraguan flag was hoisted at 6 o'clock yesterday morning. Subsequently it was saluted by the Royal Arthur with twenty-one guns, and the salute was replied to from the shore. The Satelle left here for Panama the evening of the 4th. The Royal Arthur and the Wild Swan were to sail at noon yesterday. Gratification is expressed universally at this ending of the trouble.

Train Wreckers Fail.

Waterbury, Conn., May 6.—An unsuccessful attempt was made last night to wreck the westbound United States Express on the New York and New England Railway, just east of Thrrville. There is no clue to the would-be wreckers.

Armenia Worse Than Bulgaria.

London, May 7.—Mr. Gladstone has written a letter to the Anglo-Armenian Association, in which he says: "Apart from local facts, of which I will not speak, the conduct of the Sultan and the Porte in connection with this question has been in my mind worse than their conduct in regard to Bulgaria in 1876."

ASHES AND APPLES.

Canadian agricultural products, broadly speaking, have a place on the top shelf, in that commercial Mecca the British market, especially in competition with similar United States products. We all know that we beat the United States and the little remainder of "all creation" outside that wonderful country, in the matter of cheese. We beat them in bacon and now one of their own officials bears testimony to another triumph. Mr. Patrick A. Collins, United States Consul-General in England, reporting on the apple crop of Great Britain, says that the English apple crop is disposed of about the middle of September and about the same time the United States fruit crop begins to arrive to supply the early market. The fruit then sent is called in the trade "summer fruit." It is tender and requires quick sale. It has not much competition until the middle of October, when shipments from Canada begin. The Canadian fruit, he says, is firm, hard and well-coloured, and is distinctly the favourite in the market. The United States fruit brings from $2.20 to $3.26 per barrel of 112 pounds, while the Canadian fruit brings from $2.00 to $3.00 per barrel of about 140 pounds. The freight from Canada by way of Portland or New York averages from 78 to 97 cents per barrel. And yet Canadian farmers and orchardists do not do the best they might. The output and export of Canadian apples might be greatly increased. Last year there were shipped from Canada pot and leached ashes to the value of $57,654 and leached ashes to the value of $52,110 a total of $109,764. This represents about a million bushels of ashes. Now, ashes is one of the very best orchard fertilizers, and farmers are not doing themselves, their orchards nor their country justice in shipping abroad at a paltry price what could be used to better advantage under their apple trees.

It is difficult, so military men say, to keep up rural volunteer battalions even when drill in camp is held regularly every year, but with drill every three years, as the government in its spasm of economy proposes, the rural battalion exists merely on paper. The government does not neglect the permanent force, nor does the shortened appropriations in any way affect the fuse and feathers department of our military system. The militia has not been in camp since 1893, and then only part of the force was called out, and it is said that there will be no money appropriated for the drill of city corps, such as the Peterborough Rangers. The government pleads economy as the cause of its neglect of the volunteers. A gift of $80,000 a year, and a loan of two and a half millions to a wild-cat railway scheme, and neglecting the volunteers entirely, looks as though economy began at the wrong place.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell says that the Senate vacancies are preempted—promised, doubtless to candidates who expect to be bowled over at the next general elections. Is one of the plums promised to any of the Peterborough aspirants for a slab in the grand national morgue?

The fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla, once fairly tried, becomes the favorite spring medicine, speaks volumes for its excellence and merit.

Judgment in the Provincial Accounts Dispute.

A VICTORY FOR THE PROVINCES.

Decision of the Arbitrators That the Interest on the Old Provincial Debts is Not Payable in Advance As Was Contended.

Ottawa, May 7.—The Supreme Court met yesterday and gave a large number of judgments. All the judges were on the bench except Judge Fournier, who has leave of absence.

One of the most important judgments was in connection with the arbitration now going on between the Dominion and the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec in regard to certain disputed accounts. One of the points which was disposed of by the arbitration was that of interest. It was decided in favor of the provinces. To-day the Supreme Court confirmed the decision of the arbitrators, Justice Gwynne alone dissenting in favor of the Dominion.

The interest question is involved and not easily explained. It goes as far back as Confederation. The question submitted to the court was as to whether the interest on the excess of debt of the old Provinces of Canada from 1868 to 1873 was to be paid half-yearly in advance by the Dominion, or only at the end of the six months. The arbitrators decided that it was not due in advance, and the Supreme Court upheld that decision to-day. The point involved a large sum of money, the interest between July 1, 1867, and January, 1868, six months, and interest thereon, and besides a sum of $269,875 and interest for same period, another item of $23,614, making in all a saving to the provinces of $600,000.

THE DEFICIT.

Mr. Foster will add the four and a half millions deficit of this year, as he did that of last year, to the public debt; and will meet next year's threatened deficit by taxing sugar and spirits. Spirits will come off lighter than sugar, but then Mr. Foster has probably learned of late years that it is the habit of some to take sugar in their spirits. Still the effect is to tax the housewife much more heavily than the toper for the deficiency to be made up. We cannot help thinking that it would have been better to have taxed the contributions of the public contractor to the party campaign fund rather than the sugar bowl—that is, to have cut down the estimates.—Montreal Star.

BULL AGAINST LION.

2000 People Wildly Enthusiastic Over a Thoroughly Brutal Affair.

Monterey, Mexico, May 7.—Parnell, the man-eating lion, was killed here yesterday in the bull ring by a Mexican bull. The contest between the bull and the lion was witnessed by 2000 persons, who were wildly enthusiastic over the situations offered by the combat. It was a thoroughly brutal affair.

$40,000 Machine Shop in St. Kitts.

St. Catharines, May 7.—The George McOille machine shop and foundry, owned by Hogan Leggatt of Montreal and operated by Wright & Cunningham, was destroyed by fire yesterday. Loss $10,000; insurance $4000.

A Store at Gelert.

Gelert, Ont., May 7.—The store of W. F. Ritchie and the dwelling of Stewart Barron, above, were burned Sunday with all contents. The Grand Trunk station caught fire, but the people, who left church and formed a pail brigade, saved the building.

Children—Matches—Barn Burned.

Brighton, Ont., May 7.—The two grand children of Luman Taylor, farmer at Presque Isle Point, played with matches and burned his barn, a horse, calf, hay and implements.

Eleven Millions Loss in April.

New York, May 7.—The Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin says: The fire loss of the United States and Canada during April, as estimated from its daily records, amounts to $11,018,150.

$300,000 Blaze in Buffalo.

Buffalo, May 6.—Strauss & Sons' tannery, Grobens' coal yard and adjoining buildings in Walden-avenue, were burned this morning, causing a loss of $300,000.

Incendiarism in Exeter.

Exeter, Ont., May 7.—This morning fire was discovered in the office and storehouse of J. P. Ross, general store. The inside of the building was much damaged, but the stock was badly scorched. The loss will be heavy, which was pretty well covered by insurance. The place was set on fire, as there was a lot of rags and brooms saturated with oil spread all around the store.

Close Call for Hotel Guests.

Newark, N.J., May 6.—Fire started in the second story of Ashworth's Hotel, East Orange, this morning. The staircase was burned away before the guests were aroused. Fourteen persons crawled out of windows in their nightclothes upon a balcony and were rescued by lowering themselves to the ground with ropes. Loss $3500.

DESTROYED BY THE ELEMENTS.

Windstorms and Waterspouts Wreck Buildings and Ruin Crops.

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 7.—Waterspouts caused much damage in Southern Ohio, Southeastern Indiana and Northeastern Kentucky last night.

Birmingham, Ala., May 6.—A wind and rain storm of extraordinary severity passed over the southern part of Cullman County last evening. Many buildings were destroyed and crops ruined. Two miles west of Hanneville the house of James Ellis was blown down, and Ellis and his family of six persons were badly injured. A boy aged 11 years has since died.

Point, Ill., May 6.—Thousand of dollars damage was done by a wind and hailstorm, which was general in this section last night.

Over fifty pianos, organs, melodeons, violins, guitars, banjos, etc., bankrupt stock. Must be sold during the next 30 days, regardless of cost. JACKSON & Co's., 378 Aylmer street.

AMENDMENT IN THE GAME LAWS.

The following amendments were made to the game law at the last session of the Legislature:

The limit as to number of ducks that one person may kill in a season has been abolished.

The open season for deer has been changed. It is limited to the first fifteen days of November.

The prohibition against killing or taking moose, elk, reindeer or caribou has been extended five years longer, namely, until November 1st, 1900.

Sportsmen from the United States who pay the $25 license will be, so far as the power of the legislature extends, allowed to take home with them the two deer each which they are allowed by law to kill. The Dominion authorities, however, control the export of game, and the law at present forbids it.

The deputy game wardens have been given power to act as constables.

A PARALLEL CASE.

People in Detroit are Interested in a Great Resemblance in Two Cases.

Detroit, Mich., May 7—Much interest has been manifested here over the recovery of Mr. G. H. Kent, of Ottawa, from Bright's disease by using Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which is now in universal use, and many people have a clear recollection of the similar case which occurred in London, Ontario, not long ago, namely that of Mr. Wm. Langley, who for some time was an inmate of Harper's Hospital here, and was operated upon without effect by several Detroit physicians. It was owing to this connection with Detroit and the long accounts published in the press that so much interest was taken in the case, and led to such an enormously increased sale of the medicine.

WILDE'S STRANGE CAREER

CHARACTERISTIC INCIDENTS IN A PECULIAR LIFE.

Born of Talented and Distinguished Parents—His Course a Compound of Wisdom and Vice—A Many-Sided Member of Society.

Oscar Wilde, whose downfall is the talk of two continents, first achieved notoriety as a prostrate apostle, and then as the leader of the then infantile æsthetic craze. He carried his æsthetic peculiarities so far that he became the subject of Du Maurier's caricaturing pencil and Gilbert's satirizing fun. That may have been what he was trying for. Neither the caricaturist nor the satirist diminished the ardor with which Wilde pursued what he vaguely called æstheticism. The Bunthornes of "Patience" made up in exact imitation of Wilde, and he posed in the lobbies of the same theatres and composed phrases which outdid, in lily-like language, the phrases Gilbert had thought to be satires. One of the songs of "Patience," which seemed to contain a more or less pointed allusion to Wilde, ran:

Then a sentimental passion of a vegetable fashion
Should excite your languid spleen;
An attachment, à la Plato, for a bashful young potato,
Or a not too French French bean;
Though the Philistines may jostle, you will rank as an apostle
In the sentimental band.
If you walk down Piccadilly with a poppy or a lily
In your mediæval hand;
And every one will say
As you walk your mystic way,
"If he's content with vegetable love that would certainly not suit me, Why, what a most peculiarly pure young man this pure young man must be."

The more limp Du Maurier drew his caricature the limper was Oscar when he confronted the next assemblage; the longer Du Maurier made his people's hair the longer Wilde stayed away from the barber's.

The ridicule of the playwright frightened many of his disciples into everyday garb and an attempt at commonsense conversation. The undaunted Oscar would not yield. He found it to his profit not to do so. Even at a supper party, graced by the presence of the Prince of Wales, he appeared in his characteristic costume.

It happened that Grossmith, the original Bunthorne, was also present. He yielded to the general importunity to sing the famous Bunthorne solo. The presence of the original of the "Pure Young Man," gave additional zest to the verses. At their close the admirer of "a bashful young potato, or a not too French French bean," was dragged bodily up before His Royal Highness, with the words, "This is the man." But Oscar imperturbably preserved his placid smile amid the general merriment.

Perhaps Oscar found it to his interest not to resent the stage caricatures. At the very height of the "Patience" fever came the announcement of Oscar Wilde's poems. Then it was seen that the young man was only pretending to be an idiot. His verses on "England" his "Ave Imperatrix," though too Tennysonian and his "Garden of Eros," though too Swinburnian, his neo-Catholic poems gathered under the general head of "Rosa Mystica," had the right ring. They convinced that a true poet had been born.

But the most sincere and genuine of all was the introductory sonnet, full of sad, vain longing and regret. Here it is It casts a curious light upon a curious personality:

HELAS!

To drift with every passion till my soul
Is a stringed lute, on which all winds can play,
Is it for this that I have given away
Mine ancient wisdom, and austere control?—
Methinks my life is a twice-told tale, scroll
Sparingly over on some boyish holiday,
With idle songs for pipe and virelay,
Which do but mar the secret of the whole.
Surely there was a time I might have trod
The sunlit heights, and from life's dissonance
Struck one clear chord to reach the ears of God;
Is that time dead? Lo! with a Rhodian red
I do but touch the honey of romance—
And must I lose a soul's inheritance?

LONDON'S GREATEST WIT.

Wilde is no longer young, nor very romantic, nor has he anything of the outward æsthete of former days. He is fat, heavy-eyed and prosperous, married, a father and a snug householder. There is no denying that he is sagacious, for he not only makes himself a social position with his fads, but makes money as well.

There are other curious things about him. For example, he pays his debts. For another thing, while everlastingly posing as a trifler, an idler and a blase man of the world, he is a hard worker and one of the most industrious men in London. There are plenty of men in England and in this country with a great reputation for industry who do not work half as hard as he does.

Ever since he was rusticated from Oxford Wilde has been a good money-maker. What is odder still, he lives within his income. As to his marriage, in "The Green Carnation" there is a report of his own version of it. It is very funny, but it does not happen to be true. As a matter of fact, Wilde has a charming wife, who adores him, all his present notoriety to the contrary notwithstanding. He has two fine, manly boys, Vivian and Clarence, eleven and thirteen years old, and to the rearing of these boys and to devotion to her husband, Mrs. Wilde has given her life. She has educated the youngsters herself; they have never been to school.

Mrs. Wilde was an Irish girl, Miss Constance Lloyd, daughter of an eminent barrister, and is counted among the most beautiful women in London. She inherited a fortune of several hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Wilde's plays bring large royalties, and he and his family live in luxurious style.

Wilde declares that between them these boys have ruined him as a poet, and as a last resort he has been compelled to become a dramatic author, "A dramatic author," he says, "he can endure a tumult, a poet cannot. Hoise has not, as I once fancied it would, robbed me of life—it has simply stiffled the soul of poetry that was once within me."

Wilde is not only a model husband—he even attends his wife's receptions with unflagging regularity, and he is a devoted son as well. There is a touch of Irish gallantry in his attitude towards his mother, who is one of the most interesting women in London.

WILDE WAS PLUCKY.

"Wilde is no coward," writes one correspondent, "I remember when a certain editor said of him in print that he was so conceited that he ought to be kicked. Mr. Wilde rose early the next morning, went down to the editor's office and told him that he would break his head then and there unless he printed a retraction. It is needless to say that the retraction was duly published."

A year and a half ago Mr. Wilde managed to contrive and have ventilated in The Pall Mall Budget a quarrel with T. P. O'Connor, founder of The Star and now proprietor of The Sun, in which he expressed his opinion of the "ordinary journalist" in a manner intended to increase the scope of the quarrel, but it did not. This is his first letter in the series published in The Budget:

Sir,—Will you allow me to draw your attention to a very interesting example of the ethics of modern journalism, a quality of which we have all heard so much and seen so little?

About a month ago Mr. T. P. O'Connor published in The Weekly Sun some doggerel verses entitled "The Shamrock," and had the amusing impertinence to append my name to them as their author. As for some years past all kinds of scurrilous personal attacks had been made on me in Mr. O'Connor's newspapers, I determined to take no notice at all of the incident.

Enraged, however, by my courteous silence, Mr. O'Connor returns to the charge this week. He now solemnly accuses me of plagiarising the poem he had the vulgarity to attribute to me.

This seems to me to pass beyond even those bounds of coarse humor and coarser malice that are, by the contempt of all, conceded to the ordinary journalist, and it is really very distressing to find so low a standard of ethics in a Sunday newspaper. I remain, sir, your obedient servant, OSCAR WILDE.

The reply to this was signed, "The Assistant Editor," which gave Mr. Wilde an opportunity to say this:

SIR—The assistant editor of The Weekly Sun, on whom seems to develop the arduous duty of writing Mr. T. P. O'Connor's apologies for him, does not, I observe with regret, place that gentleman's conduct in any more attractive or more honorable light by the attempted explanation that appears in the letter published in your issue of to day. For the future it would be much better if Mr. O'Connor would always write his own apologies. That he can do so exceeding well no one is more ready to admit than myself. I happen to possess one from him.

Wilde came to America about twelve years ago, frankly advertised as a freak lecturing on "Aestheticism." He wore knee breeches, silk hose, lace cuffs and was otherwise variously freakish in his dress. At Boston a half hundred Harvard boys marched into his lecture hall dressed as he was, each carrying a lily. Wilde's noted imperturbability did not desert him. He merely lisped, "How tenderly drell," and went on with his lecture.

In a western city he was the guest of a club, among whose members were a number of stout drinkers. They undertook to "tank up the æsthete," as they expressed it. The process was long. As the sun was breaking into the club windows, Wilde looked about over a room strewn with fallen braves, and said to the one man still able to comprehend speech:

"We've had a charmingly quiet little evening. Don't you feel like a bit of a run about town before breakfast?"

Up to the time of his American lecturing tour Wilde had done little else to attract attention to himself. He was known to be the son of exceptionally clever parents, and winner of the Newdigate at Oxford; but, besides cleverly advertising himself and writing a few verses, he had done no clever original work, and was not seriously considered. His reputation as lecturer, man of fashion, wit, poet, novelist, essayist, playwright has been made, in most particulars, in the last half dozen years.

WILDE'S TALENTED PARENTS.

Oscar Wilde comes of parentage distinguished alike in social and in intellectual life. His father was Sir William Wilde, the late eminent surgeon, who for many years was surgeon oculist to Queen Victoria, who was the founder and lifelong chief of staff of St. Mark's Opthalmic and Aural Hospital, of Dublin; who had a European reputation in his profession, who wielded an immense personal influence in Ireland through his magnetic qualities and wide information, and who was known to antiquarians and historians by his passionate devotion to the study of archæology.

Twice he was elected president of the Royal Irish Academy in Dublin. His published works, "The Shores of Lough Corrib and Lough Mask," are everywhere recognized as scholarly contributions to the early history of Ireland. He was knighted in 1853 in recognition both of his professional and of his arduous and successful labors in producing the first elaborate and reliable census of his native land.

Oscar Wilde's mother, who is now seventy-seven, is perhaps the most famous woman poet in Ireland. Her patriotic poems and lyrics, produced under the pseudonym of "Speranza," endeared her to the hearts of her countrymen. One especially, "The Famine in Ireland," is still remembered, and may be found in almost any anthology of poetry. It is a grim and masterly description of the desolation produced by the famine of 1849.

In Dublin she built up the literary salon which existed there. Her receptions were always crowded by literary and political celebrities and especially by those who had the cause of young Ireland at heart.

IS HE REALLY IN EARNEST?

If this is the Oscar Wilde of to-day? how does it happen that such a really clever, gifted, successful, industrious man has brought upon himself the scandal of the Queensbury trial, with all its unspeakable details? This question was put to Mrs. Langtry, who is probably more intimately acquainted with Wilde than any one else in New York, says The World of that city, Mrs. Langtry said:

"Dear me! All these fads and doings of Mr. Wilde's are not to be taken seriously, I don't think that people in London take them seriously any more than he does himself. I have known Oscar ever since he was rusticated from Oxford, and he was always full of these things, you know. He writes a play upon 'The Importance of being Earnest,' without having the slightest notion of what it means to be serious or in earnest himself.

"I don't think he takes himself seriously or intends that other people shall. He is so clever, so jolly and his wit so deliciously Irish that people put up with his fads, admire them immensely, in fact, and when he begins to reel off his epigrams and paradoxes all one can do is to laugh at him and understand that he hardly means a word he says. He moves in the very best of society, and I don't think there is a man in London who is better liked."

Obituary.

The death of Mary Frith, wife of Wm. J. Johnston, of Hastings, occurred on Sunday last. The funeral took place from the residence of the father of the deceased, corner of Stewart and Clifton streets, Ashburnham, this afternoon at 3 o'clock, interment being in the Little Lake cemetery. Mrs. Johnston was in her 27th year when death overtook her. She had many friends in Ashburnham and Peterborough where she lived prior to her marriage.

To-Night's Attraction.

Read what the Toronto Globe, of April 30th, says of Dan McCarthy's "Pride of Mayo" Company:—Dan McCarthy, supported by an excellent company, presented the "Pride of Mayo" at the Toronto Opera House, last evening. Mr. McCarthy is so well known to the theatre-goers of this city that there is no need of criticising the performance. Suffice it to say that the interest was maintained throughout the entertainment, and the audience cheered and applauded as in former productions. "The Pride of Mayo" will be presented this afternoon, to-night and to-morrow night." This company appears at Bradburn's Opera House, Tuesday evening, May 7th. Prices 25, 35 and 50c.

NOTICE.

All persons having current accounts against the EXAMINER PRINTING COMPANY, or J. R. STRATTON, will please send them in for settlement promptly, first of each month. Carrier Pigeons.

Half a dozen carrier pigeons belonging to the York Messenger Pigeon Club, of Toronto, were released yesterday morning from the local C.P.R. telegraph office at 11.35 o'clock, and another half dozen let loose at twelve o'clock. The first lot reached their loft in Toronto at 1.30, o'clock and the latter flock at 2 o'clock. On Saturday a large number of pigeons belonging to the same Association will be loosed at the same time with the object of determining which are the best birds in the loft.

Our lawn mowers have solid tool steel cutter bars, tempered in oil, micrometer adjustment for reel knives. Reel shaft works in a straight box of high grade phosphor bronze, regulated by lock-nut-set screw. It is easy running, the ratchet is protected and is noiseless. It will cut thick and heavy grass better than any other lawn mower made in the United States. Use of these mowers will insure what is so much sought for, but seldom found, A VELVET LAWN. We have grass catchers to fit them and the best kinds of lawn rakes.—GEORGE STETHEM & SON.

Pharmaceutical Exams.

The annual examinations at the College of Pharmacy, Toronto, commenced yesterday and will not be concluded until next Monday. There are 104 candidates writing for diplomas on the different subjects; the examiners being: chemistry, Mr. B. Jackes; botany, C. R. Seath; dispensing, A. R. Fraser; pharmacy, F. T. Harrison; practical chemistry, W. H. Ellis; prescriptions, W. Murchison; materia medica, J. T. Pepper. The highest number of marks is 600, the lowest 400. A great many students are in attendance from this county.

Young Women's Association.

The Association enjoyed a treat on Saturday evening in listening to Miss Ada Marie Crowe, Nova Scotia, deliver her famous illuminated historical travel-talk on England, Scotland, France and Belgium. It was interesting and instructive to all present. We were only sorry that we had not longer time to advertise Miss Crowe's coming.

Remember the Bible class this evening. Teacher, Miss Code. Young women welcomed.

A meeting of the Entertainment and Reception Committee will be held on Thursday evening at 7.30. Let there be a full attendance.

New Uniforms for the Rangers.

The new tunics for the Peterborough Rangers arrived this morning and during the afternoon were taken to the drill shed, where the officers are busily engaged, this afternoon, in sorting and making them ready for immediate distribution amongst the men. The more prominent in military circles in Peterborough are of the opinion that the item for the drilling of the Canadian volunteer forces will be replaced in the estimates, as the disbanding of the volunteer force would practically mean the abolition of the system forever, as the rural battalions would be completely demoralized by the carrying out of the contemplated move.

Condolence.

The following letter of condolence has been forwarded to the family of the late Mrs. Miles Froats by the secretary of the Young People's Association of St. John's:

Moved by Miss S. Comstock, seconded by Miss J.C.M.Fawcett, and resolved that the Young People's Association of St. John's note with deep regret the death of the beloved mother of a much respected and active member of this Association, and that the Association in the person of Mrs. M. Froates, begs to tender to the bereaved family of deceased its most hearty condolence and sympathy with them in their great affliction, with the earnest prayer that Almighty God will comfort them in their sore trial, and give them grace so to follow the good example of the one that has gone before, that the family may be re-united in the Paradise of God.

Durward Lely.

It was in Arbroath, Forfarshire, Scotland, that one whose name is known wherever the Temple of Art exists, first saw the light of day. The writer has heard Mr. Lely in all kinds of work: oratorio, opera, ballad-singing, etc. In all he does he impresses you with the fact that he is a virtuoso and an artist. It may interest you to know that Mr. Lely is Madame Patti's favourite tenor. Madame Patti presented Mr. Lely with a sapphire and diamond pin, which he is very proud of and always wears as a token of her esteem. He has been Madame Patti's tenor in three or four concert tours in Great Britain and accompanied her to America. The citizens of Peterborough will enjoy a rare treat on Thursday evening, May 9th. The reserved seat plan has never been known to fill up so rapidly. There are not many available reserved seats now left. Those unable to secure reserved seats should procure their tickets for the elevated unreserved seats, and gallery early. The doors open at 7.15 and close promptly at 8.15, after which no tickets will be sold.

DID YOU LIKE THE WINSOME WEBLINGS?

Yes, They Gave a Delightful Entertainment—A Trio of Lively Lovable Girls.

The Hockey club doesn't draw so well by proxy as it does direct. However, there was a fairly decent house at the match with the Winsome Weblings last night and the club met its first defeat. The charming English trio captured the house hands down. They gave a most varied and excellent entertainment. For two hours there was not a dull moment; on the contrary, clever and artistic, dainty and sprightly dramatic work, sweet singing, delightful dancing, made the minutes fly. The Puck, that is Miss Lucy, always bright and sparkling, was as elusively omnipresent as the caoutchouc ellipse that does duty on the ice in a hockey game. The programme was varied; little snatches of drama from that sterling old comedy, Sheridan Knowles' "Hunchback", and from the "Taming of the Shrew" and the "April Jest," were brimful of genuine humour, and the fresh girlish figures, sweet English voices and life-like acting were something that has never been surpassed on the local boards. The skirt dancing of Misses Rosalind and Lucy was a gracefully gyrating vision of two of the graces. Miss Lucy's song, "May I Have the Pleasure?" was quaintly graceful and chic. Miss Peggy gave a fine reading, of "The Jackdaw of Rheims. The closing patriotic sketch, "Britannia," was a charming bit of national life, in which the Irish jig of Miss Rosalind, and the Highland sword dance of Miss Lucy were irresistible features. A word of praise is due to the beautiful pianoforte playing of Miss Kenrick, which though, to some extent incidental, was not the least pleasing part of the programme, and was like other parts of it, rewarded with hearty encores. Altogether the Webling girls gave a neat, clean, diversified, refined and fetching entertainment, and they will have a warm welcome should they ever return to Peterborough, either in a personal or a professional capacity. The select audience assembled last night has reason to be grateful to the Hockey club for so decided a treat, which, it is to be regretted was not more liberally patronized.

A STABBING AFFAIR ON HUNTER STREET.

An Italian Draws a Knife on a Citizen and is Arrested.

Mr. John McNaughton became involved in an argument on Hunter street, this afternoon, with an Italian possessing an unpronouncable name.

The stranger from the sunny south was a man of deeds, apparently, as he invited Mr. McNaughton into an adjoining yard to settle the matter. No sooner had the two entered the yard than the Italian drew a knife and is alleged to have made a pass with it at Mr. McNaughton.

An onlooker interfered at this juncture and received a nasty cut in the hand from the Italian. The spectators then interfered and the Chief of Police appearing on the scene a few minutes later placed the Italian under arrest. The difficulty will come before the magistrate in the morning to be settled.

MISCELLANEOUS BUSINESS.

The question of securing better fire protection was broached by Councillor Smith, who had not a very high opinion of the capabilities of the town fire engine. Although the discussion was a long and animated one, no definite action was taken in regard to the matter.

Councillor Smith moved, seconded by Councillor Calcutt,—That the balance of the Ludgate Estate taxes, amounting to $74.86, be credited on the purchase money of gravel lot to T. Ludgate.—Carried.

STREET WATERING TENDERS.

Tenders were received for watering the streets of Ashburnham for the year 1895. The lowest tender, that of Mr. G. A. Craig for the season, of $198, the tenderer to furnish the wagon, was accepted, providing satisfactory security is given.

THE CHEESE BOARD.

Only Seven Cents Bid and No Sales Made—An Adjournment for Two Weeks.

The initial meeting of the Cheese Board was held this morning at eleven o'clock in the Council Chamber, but as the buyers were not all aware of the fact that the hour of meeting had been changed from one to eleven o'clock, they were not all in attendance.

Five hundred boxes were boarded, and Mr. Hodgson offered seven cents. There were no other bids and the salesman would not entertain the offer.

A prolonged discussion on the up-beam weight, which was dealt with at the annual meeting when no buyers were present, followed. Some of the buyers went as far as to say that if the objectionable legislation in this respect was not rescinded that they would cease to patronize the Board.

No decision was reached in the matter, and the Board adjourned to meet again in two weeks.

DISTRIBUTION OF FURNITURE ON THE STREET.

A Runaway Team Scatters Chairs and Tables Broadcast.

Water street, from Sherbrooke to Hunter, was strewn with odd pieces of furniture, yesterday afternoon, in consequence of the running away, at about five o'clock, of a team of horses which were drawing a load of furniture from the residence of Mr. Fred Adams, Sherbrooke street.

The van, it appears, was leaving the yard when a projecting piece of furniture caught in the gateway and unsettled the load to such an extent as to cause the driver to lose his balance and fall from his seat. The horses instantly became affrighted and dashed off down Sherbrooke street to Water, where they turned up and ran as far as the Post Office, where coming into contact with a telegraph pole they came to a standstill.

The furniture was all more less broken by being thrown from the wagon, and the street presented an odd appearance indeed before the remnants were picked up.

A FACT FOR FARMERS.

Ages ago, says the Rural New Yorker, a great ice glacier slowly ground its way south from Canada. As it came it carried with it rock and soil from that part of the country. When at last it melted and ran into the Atlantic this soil was deposited, and now, doubtless, grows crops to sustain some American's family. To-day another glacier is working south, depositing the best of Canadian soil on Yankee farms—in the great loads of Canada wood ashes sold to our farmers. Why in the world Canada permits this wholesale drain is something that baffles the wisest ?

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

The Members Assemble and Receive the Yearly Reports.

The twenty-seventh annual meeting of the Peterborough Mechanics' Institute convened last evening, with the President, Dr. Burnham, in the chair, and a large attendance of members present.

The directors presented the following report, which was received and adopted :

Twenty seventh Annual Report of the Peterborough Mechanics' Institute :

Your directors have again the pleasure of being able to report that the Institute has during the past year advanced all along the line, and as shown by the Government reports, is second to none in the Province ; in fact, in number of volumes in the library, and periodicals and papers in the reading room, it surpasses several of the free libraries which are supported by the municipalites in which they are situated.

The membership, though not as numerous as might be desired, or as the Institute deserves, has made a large increase since last report, and now numbers 394.

The reading rooms are becoming yearly more popular as they become better known, and are more frequently used by the members. Some changes have been made in the periodicals taken, but all the old favourites are still retained and a number of new ones added.

As will be seen by the report of the Library Committee, due care and attention have been given in keeping up its reputation, and nearly 600 volumes of the newest and most popular books in all departments of literature have been added to the large collection on the shelves, and the increased numbers issued show that they have been appreciated. The large additions to the library have almost filled up the room available at present, and we shall ere long have to re-arrange our rooms so as to get increased space for our books.

Two classes in connection with the Institute were held during the winter. One taught by Mr. A. V. White, and very largely attended, was on the subject of Engineering. The other conducted by Mr. D. McEvoy was on Machine Drawing. We believe the young Mechanics of this town will benefit greatly in the future from the instructions received in these classes.

By virtue of an Act passed at the late Session of the Ontario Legislature, the name of our library has been changed, so that hereafter it will be known not as the Mechanics' Institute, but as the Peterborough Public Library.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
GEO. BURNHAM, President,
JOHN CORKERY, Secy.-Treas.

ARBOUR DAY ACROSS THE RIVER.

It is Fittingly Celebrated by the Ashburnham School Children.

Arbour Day was most fittingly observed by the Ashburnham schools.

In the morning teachers and scholars were busy in the school grounds. The yards were cleaned and the whole surroundings given an air of tidiness and order. Last year trees were planted on the grounds and these have flourished most satisfactorily. This year more trees were planted outside the grounds. This work of the school merits the thanks of the community for the school property is given a beautified and attractive appearance as a result of the Arbour Day labours of the teachers and scholars.

At noon the children assembled in a group in front of the school and with the teachers and Messrs. F. Adams and Fowler, members of the School Board, and Rev. Mr. Symonds, of St. Luke's, and Rev. Mr. Beer, of the Mark street church, were photographed by Mr. G. B. Sproule.

In the afternoon a picnic was held in Hazlitt's grove, at which the scholars enjoyed themselves with sports and games. Tea was served at the grove and a delightful afternoon spent. Principal Matchett and his staff were in charge of the day's proceedings and managed them most successfully.

List of winners in the sports :

Race, girls under 8—Mamie Dinnie, Rossie Bennet, Bella Long.

Boys under 8—Clifford Cox, Wesley Beck, Leslie Russell.

Girls under 10—Violet Chambers, Jennie Anderson, Greta Symonds and Phoebe Eynon.

THE NORMAL INSTITUTE WORK.

It is Exemplified by the Provincial Secretary, Last Night.

The Normal Sunday School Institute of the county is now in session in the George street Methodist church, under the supervision of Rev. John McEwan, Provincial Normal Secretary.

Last evening, Mr. McEwan very fully exemplified the meaning of Normal work and delivered an instructive address on the subject under the following heads :

It gives—
A better grasp of the Book.
A better knowledge of the pupil.
A better knowledge of the principles of teaching as to language and form.
The application of the principles.

They should, the speaker held, have a thorough knowledge of the Bible. He strongly denounced what he termed "hand to mouth" teaching, viz : the preparation by the teacher of the class work just as the lessons came up Sunday after Sunday. In order to be a successful teacher no special preparation was necessary, the teacher should be pretty well posted on the subject of the lesson long before it came before the class.

The pupil should be well known as should his parents. The teacher should know the character of the literature which the pupil reads, as well as being intimately acquainted with his habits of life. It was then easy to adapt himself to the circumstances and win the confidence of the pupils.

The teacher should have something to teach and know how to teach it. He should be able to secure and hold the scholars' attention. If necessary illustrations could be used in making the lesson more interesting. He himself illustrated his teachings by drawings and paintings.

This afternoon Mr. McEwan is delivering what is known as his "Bird's-eye View of the Bible." The sessions will be continued this evening and to-morrow afternoon and evening.

The attendance last night was only fair, as the meeting of various societies of Christian Endeavour in town prevented many interested Sunday School workers from being present, but it is expected that a large assemblage will gather this evening.

YOUR OWN PRICES NOW.

China Hall has to be vacated by end of this week and as the stock is still far too large to move, we must either sell it at some price or run the chance of having it destroyed. We will, therefore, offer the entire stock at Auction, for four days only, beginning Wednesday afternoon, May 8th, and afternoon and evening, for balance of this week. This is a chance of a life time, as nothing is reserved, and the stock is one of the finest in Ontario. Sales begin at 2 30 and 7.30 p. m. Remember sale is only for 4 days and there will be no reserve.

DR CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS CURE BACK-ACHE
ONE PILL A DOSE · 25c A BOX

A WOMAN'S ADVICE.

WHICH IS WORTHY OF THE MOST EARNEST ATTENTION.

A Lady in Lunenburg, N.S., Tells How She Was Relieved From a Distressing Malady After Many Efforts to Find a Cure had Proved Unavailing.

The Argus, Lunenburg, N.S.

Among the residents of our quiet little town none is more highly esteemed among her circle of acquaintances than is Mrs. C. Albert Smith. Our attention was some time ago called to the fact that Mrs. Smith was one of those who could bear witness to the sterling merit of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and feeling interested, knowing what good results had been derived from the use of the medicine in other cases, we were led to investigate the matter, with the most gratifying results. Mrs. Smith stated that she had been a sufferer for years from that most distressing of maladies—asthma. This was further aggravated by a bad cough. The result was that she became very weak, and could walk but a short distance without having to sit down and rest. Many medicines recommended as cures were tried, but none helped her, and what was apparently a last ray of hope was the urgent advice of a friend to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. Mrs. Smith says as she was willing to try anything that held out any inducement of relief she procured a supply of Pink Pills. "The first box was hardly gone," said Mrs. Smith, "when I felt an improvement, and continuing until I had used some six boxes I found myself feeling better than I had in years, cured in fact. You may rest assured that if there is anything I can do or say to make known the marvellous healing powers of Dr. William's Pink Pills, I will cheerfully do it. If others will only follow my example, and give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial I feel assured that under Providence they will find themselves restored to health and strength.

These Pills are a positive cure for all troubles arising from a vitiated condition of the blood, or a shattered nervous condition. Sold by all dealers, or by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y., at 50c. a box, or six boxes for $2.50. There are numerous imitations and substitutes against which the public is cautioned.

Remarkable Poker Hands.

It happened less than a fortnight ago, and five gentlemen of Gotham, all moneyed men, with a penchant for poker, were the principals. To go to the theatre or have a little game of draw was debated at the supper table, and the latter proposition carried by a unanimous vote. The limit was fixed at $60, and play went on without any special incident for about two hours. At length one of the gentlemen opened a jack pot for the limit, a brief inspection of his hand revealing the fact that a trio of kings and a pair of jacks had been given him in the deal. The gentleman next to him was pleased to note that his hand contained three sixes, and he very promptly shoved up $120 worth of yellow chips, thereby raising the opener of the pot for the limit. The next two players threw down their hands, but the dealer, who possessed a pair of aces, and who was a good bit ahead of the game, concluded to press his luck, and with very slight hesitation counted in the $180, which entitled him to draw.

As soon as he had done so, No. 1, feeling very secure behind his "pat full," immediately tilted the pot with another $60; whereupon the others simply stayed. Of course the opener took no cards. The second man drew two, and the dealer took three. Incredible as it may sound, both men filled. No. 2 made his fourth six, and the dealer caught two aces. There was already the snug sum of $225 piled up in the center of the table.

Then the fun began. The gentleman who had broken the pot led off with the limit bet, which was followed by a raise, and that by a second raise. Another all round raise, an other, and still another did not satisfy these players, and there was over $6,000 on the table when it came to a show-down. The man who started in with the poorest hand took the boodle.—Chicago Times.

Cost of Reaching the Stars.

Sir Robert Ball tells us what it would cost to reach one of the most distant stars, supposing a railway were constructed to it from London, and that the low rate of 1d. per 100 miles prevailed. If the intending passenger could present to the booking clerk the whole of the national debt of the United Kingdom, a sum exceeding $670,000,000, he would require 5,000 huge carts to convey it in sovereigns to the ticket office. Even when the poor clerk had accomplished the lengthy task of counting the "fare," he would want another $168,000,000 before he would feel justified in issuing even a third-class ticket, and that could not be a return one for the money.—London Tit-Bits.

WILDE AT LIBERTY.

Possibility That He May Not Be Arraigned Again.

London, May 7.—Oscar Wilde succeeded in finding the sureties required of him by Justice Pollock, and was released today. The names of his bondsmen are not made known. He will probably leave London at once for the seaside. It has not been decided whether the Government will take steps to have Wilde again placed on trial. They are willing that he should be again arraigned, but it is understood that the heads of the church and many other eminent persons urge upon the Government the fact that much harm would be done to the public morals by the adoption of such a course, referring to the reprinting of all of the pernicious details of the case. In the meantime the police are ordered not to maintain too close a watch upon Wilde's movements and not to prevent him from going to the Continent if he wishes to go there.

JABEZ BALFOUR LANDS.

The Absconder Arraigned in Bow-street Police Court.

London, May 7.—Jabez Spencer Balfour, the absconding ex-member of Parliament, who is responsible for the collapse of the Liberator Building Association and other companies, whereby thousands of investors were ruined, was landed at Southampton dock this morning.

Arriving in London, the train was stopped at Vauxhall Station and Balfour, instead of being taken to the Waterloo Station, where an immense crowd was awaiting his arrival, was transferred to a cab and driven to the Bow-street police station. He was immediately put into the prisoner's dock and charges were formally lodged against him. He appeared to be in good health, but was downcast and taciturn.

Balfour, upon being arraigned, was remanded until May 9.

NO CABLE CONFERENCE.

No Request for Such Made to the Imperial Government.

London, May 7.—Mr. Sydney Buxton, Parliamentary Secretary of the Colonial Office, replied in the House of Commons to-day to the question of Sir George Baden-Powell, whether the Government had received a request from Canada to call a conference of the colonies interested with a view of arranging the details for the laying and maintaining of a sub-marine Pacific cable between Canada and Australia. Mr. Buxton said that no such request had been received and that the Government was in possession of no such information on the subject.

Hon. George O. Trevelyan, Secretary for Scotland, replying to a question by Mr. Donald McGregor, said that the sum of £150,000, which had once been voted by Parliament to further the emigration of Highland Crofters to British Columbia, had not had the desired effect, and the Government would now assist in the furtherance of a scheme of internal migration in Scotland.

GRAND TRUNK REORGANIZATION.

Found Murdered in the Street.

Minneapolis, May 7.—H. W. Thomas, a telegraph operator, employed at the Union Depot, was robbed and murdered here last night. His body was found in the street this morning.

An Old Man Killed for His Money.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 7.—Isaac Jope, aged 70 years, night clerk at the First Avenue Hotel, was brutally murdered this morning at the hotel. Jope's body was found at the foot of the stairs leading from the hotel office to the cellar. Frank Ross, a colored porter, is locked up on suspicion. Robbery was the motive.

Joy Brought to Another Home!

SUFFERING AND PAIN BANISHED.

Paine's Celery Compound Saves the Life of a Toronto Lady.

Mrs. J. Wicket says: "After Usimg Two Bottles of the Compound I Feel Like a New Woman."

A FIRMLY ESTABLISHED FACT:

When Doctors Fail and Ordinary Medicines are Useless, Paine's Celery Compound Always Cures.

Results! honest results! ! marvellous results! ! ! convincing and satisfactory to all fair-minded men and women. Even the skeptics and scoffers are brought to a knowledge of the truth by unassailable, rock-bottom facts and proofs.

In the vast field of medicines and medical preparations, time, experience and results have amply demonstrated the truth of the of the oft-repeated statement, that Paine's Celery Compound is the only true and honest life-saving medicine ever offered to suffering humanity.

The strong and vigorous testimony of Mrs. J. Wickett, of 160 Oak street, Toronto, should fill the fainting and despairing hearts of all sufferers with fresh hope and confidence, and should at once lead every sickly person to the only medicine that makes people well.

Mrs. Wickett's letter read as follows:

"Last year, in the month of November, I was suddenly taken very ill with pleurisy and neuralgia. The pains in my shoulders and back were most intense and caused me extreme suffering. For several weeks I was under the doctor's care, and gradually recovered from the attack of pleurisy, but none of the medicines prescribed for me seemed to have any effect on the neuralgia which had, by this time, spread all over my body.

I gradually became worse; my appetite was poor, and the pain never seemed to leave me for an instant. My life was becoming a burden to me, and I began to think I would never recover. I grew discouraged with the medicines I was taking, and happening to see a testimonial in the newspaper about Paine's Celery Compound I concluded to get a bottle, although I had very little faith in patent medicines.

Before I had finished my first bottle, I began to feel better, the pains and soreness greatly decreased, and gaining hope by my improved health, I finished the first bottle and bought a second.

After using two bottles of your Compound, I feel like a new woman; my appetite has returned, the neuralgia has left me and I am as well as ever. I feel very thankful for the benefit I have derived from your medicine, and take pleasure in recommending it to my friends. Should any one desire fuller particulars, if they will communicate with me, I will be happy to oblige them."

FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

Trial of Station Agent Weighill Arising Out of the Wreck Near Agincourt.

Toronto, Ont., May 7.—The great blizzard of Friday, February 8, which blocked almost every line of railway on the continent and caused many wrecks and much loss of life, was vividly recalled by the trial at the Assize Court yesterday of Albert Weighill on a charge of manslaughter. It will be remembered that passenger train No. 1 on the Midland division of the G. T. R. pitched into a storm-bound snow plow between the Agincourt and Unionville stations. In the wreck Engineer Riggs of the snow plow engine met death. At the coroner's inquest subsequently held a verdict of manslaughter was returned against Weighill, who as station agent at Unionville, it was claimed, was criminally negligent in allowing the passenger train to leave Unionville before learning that the plow had reached the next station. The prisoner was represented by T. C. Robinette, John Barron, Q. C., acting as crown prosecutor.

Engineer George Mimms of No. 1 passenger train told of the journey through the storm from Port Hope to the scene of the accident.

At Unionville, the signal board was down, indicating that the track was clear ahead. Witness saw the prisoner and Conductor Boundy in conversation at Unionville. The pitch-in occurred about three miles from Agincourt.

James Webster, assistant passenger superintendent, testified that the signal board was under the agent's charge.

Richard Boundy, conductor of passenger train No. 1, corroborated the statement of his engineer, that no prohibitory signals were displayed when they reached Unionville, or during their stay there. When witness alighted from his train he met Agent Weighill at the rear end of the baggage car. Witness asked Weighill: "Albert, where is the plow?" "At Agincourt, all right," was the reply. This he communicated to his engineer.

Through a long cross-examination Boundy held to his statement in regard to receiving orders from Weighill. He denied having admitted to anyone that he might have mistaken what Weighill said to him at Unionville.

Philip McCabe, fireman on the engine of No. 1, and James Topley, brakeman, agreed that the signal board at Unionville was drawn. Topley swore to seeing Conductor Boundy and Agent Weighill in conversation, and heard Weighill tell Boundy that the snow plow was at Agincourt and the way was clear.

The defence called six of their fifteen witnesses to disprove the story of the conversation between Boundy and Weighill, and throw the responsibility for the accident upon Conductor Boundy.

Here the case rested, to be taken up again this morning. Weighill will testify on his own behalf.

A VANDERBILT RAILWAY.

Proposed Amalgamation of the Canada Southern and T., H. & B.

Toronto, Ont., May 7. — Arrangements are now in progress and nearing completion for the amalgamation of the interests of the Canada Southern Railway and the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway. The effect of this arrangement will be the identification of the latter enterprise with the interests of the Vanderbilt combination, which, with Chauncey M. Depew at its head, controls the New York Central and Michigan Central Railways.

The Canada Southern Railway is now controlled by the Vanderbilt combination by virtue of a 99-year lease.

JAPAN CEDES MANCHURIA.

She Will Ask a Largely Increased Indemnity.

Tokyo, May 5.—Japan's reply to the protest of Russia, France and Germany, against taking from China the Leaotong Peninsula is, in substance this: When China ratifies the treaty of peace signed at Shimonoseki, Japan will renounce possession of the Province of Manchuria, except the part of the Leaotong Peninsula extending from Port Arthur to Talien. In recompense for the giving back of this Chinese territory, Japan will ask a largely increased indemnity. The response of the three European powers is awaited. All reports of Japan's reply inconsistent with the foregoing are false.

Serious Situation in Formosa.

London, May 5.—Despatches from Hong Kong say that the situation in Formosa is most serious. British and German marines have been landed at Anping to protect the foreigners, and British sailors and armed launches are patrolling Takan Harbor. The Black Flags cause much anxiety. They seldom have been more threatening in recent years. Considerable apprehension is felt in Hong Kong as regards the differences between Russia and Japan.

AFTER THE INSURANCE.

Suits Arising Out of the Hendershott Murder.

St. Thomas, May 6. — Barrister A. McCrimmon of St. Thomas, acting for David Hendershott of Walsingham, father of William Henry Hendershott, murdered in Wardell's woods at Middlemarch by his uncle, John Hendershott and William Welter, will enter an action against the Covenant Mutual Insurance Company, to recover the $6000 insurance on his son's life, and against the New York Mutual Reserve Association to recover the policy for $5000. Both policies were made payable to John A. Hendershott, one of the murderers. An interesting legal fight will result from this action, as the amount of the policies will be claimed for the heirs of John A. Hendershott, and the companies will also resist payment of the policies.

THE INCREASED TAX ON WHISKEY.

The Subject of an Incensed Indignation Meeting.

When taxation touches the necessities of life, it touches a tender spot, and Hon. Mr. Foster has revealed a very sore place by his imposition of an increased duty on spirits.

Last night a meeting of the local Licensed Victuallers was held to consider the situation. The meeting not being an open one the reporter had to depend on button holing for information, and was not informed who occupied the chair.

A lively discussion of the iniquitous act of the Finance Minister in disturbing the serene stream of the flowing bowl by placing additional taxes on spirits to compensate for his wasteful extravagance of the public funds, and to fill a hole in his deficit, took place.

One speaker who had just received a license thought it very unjust that the Government should handicap him in the beginning of his bonifacial career with high priced liquor.

Another speaker who had been some time in the trade thought it was the duty of the local dealers to unite, and as a deputation to see if some readjustment of the obnoxious duty could not be secured. The government had always been quite willing to listen to the complaints of the parlour (Red) and there was no reason why it should not listen to the bar. In view of a failure in this direction, something would have to be done to keep up the profit of the trade.

The next speaker agreed and suggested that since the price of whisky was advanced by the government, it should be the duty of the government to pass an order-in-council making it a criminal offence for any person to encircle his glass with his hand when helping himself—he thought that two fingers should be the limit under the new conditions.

Another said this was an important point, and there was another feature that had not been referred to. He had several customers who were partial to toddy. Now these gentlemen in view of the fact that the increased duty bore still more heavily on sugar than spirits, would be compelled to forego the luxury of sugar, but the spirits were a necessity, and his customers would be forced to take their whiskey straight, and being accustomed to large glasses, they with "straight goods," and where would the profit be? (Hear, hear.)

The next speaker thought that it was only just that the housewife should be taxed higher on her sugar. The women were always kicking because their husbands took a nibble of drink, and now in judgment on their interference their sugar had been taxed higher than than their husband's grog.

Another speaker rebuked the irrelevance of this matter, and said business should be stuck to. He called attention to the fact that another result of this unjust increased tax would be the cutting off of profits in another direction. With an increased cost of spirits there would be a greater consumption of beer, and with the "schooners", that some too liberal dealers were launching so liberally, there was no profit in that. The tendency would be to greater rivalry, till at last a glass beer keg would be tapped for a retail customer. Then, where would the profit be? Beer drinkers would be rolling around like bonded warehouses—full of our beer and our profits. This —— meddling with the legitimate trade by taxes was driving the business to the devil—where the old women—and he began to think they were right—said it belonged.

Still another speaker pointed out that the increased tax

GAVE THE WHOLESALERS THE BULGE.

They had the chance, and they took it, of watering the whisky so much before it was shipped that the retailer couldn't find a place for another pint of water, and with the river flowing past our doors and the waterworks service in every house, the day was past when water veneered with whiskey could be sold over the bar.

A previous speaker wished to ask why that coon Foster, if he wanted to raise more boodle did not put a tax on some luxury of life like bread or soap instead of jumping on a necessary of life like whisky? If things went on this way with the summer camping season coming on, spirits would be so dear that a party would actually lay in as much bread as whisky, and what would the trade be then?

The general consensus of opinion seemed to be that the times were so hard that it was impracticable to double the price of a glass of grog—especially when beer was so cheap. A man wouldn't pay ten cents for a glass of whisky when he could get the same quantity of alcohol in a lawn vase full of beer, which some "fresh" dealers were serving over the bar.

After some arrangements looking to sending a deputation to Ottawa were attended to, the meeting adjourned.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

Items of Interest to Local Sportsmen Aquatic and Field Sports.

THE WHEEL.

So many of the wheelmen have expressed a desire for the formation of a permanent organization and the establishment of headquarters for the present large membership of the club, that there is a strong probability that, like the Toronto clubs, rooms will be secured and fitted up as a resort for the bicyclists and their friends. The apartments over the Bodega Restaurant on Hunter street have been spoken of and as they are most commodious, arrangements for securing them may be made in the near future. Peterborough is in need of a high class club, where the young men may pass a pleasant hour or two in the evenings, and the quarters indicated, if nicely furnished, should meet the bill.

A number of the western clubs have adopted the appended formula, which Peterborough might do well to consider:

Riding Rules; No member while riding with the Club shall be allowed to pass the Pace Maker without the permission of the captain. At each run of the club an experienced rider shall be appointed by the officer in command to act as pace maker. All road officers shall be provided with whistles, but only the officer in command and pace maker shall use them when out with the club. When riding in single file, riders should be at least one wheel's length apart, double file, twice that distance, four abreast, four times, etc.

Road Rules: In meeting pass to the "right." In passing ride to the "left." At no time shall the column be divided, all passing on the same side. Sidewalks should not be used except where roadway is unridable, to confirm with city ordinance. The courtesies of the road should be observed at all times and especial care exercised about surprising foot passengers, frightening horses, and fast or reckless riding.

Members are requested to be in uniform if possible when attending these runs.

One whistle—Mount and ride in single file.

FROM PACE MAKER.

One whistle—Single file.
Two whistles—Two abreast.
Three whistles—Dismount.
Four whistles—Four abreast.

FROM CAPTAIN.

One whistle—Stop.
Two whistles—Increase speed.
Three whistles—Slack up.

N. A. A. A.

A meeting of the members of the Newspaper Amateur Athletic Association is called for seven o'clock sharp in the rooms over the Palace Restaurant, this evening. Every member should be present.

THE VATICANS.

The Vatican Park baseball club will hold a meeting at eight o'clock in Palace Restaurant parlours.

LACROSSE.

Every lacrosse player in town is urged be present at a mass meeting of stick wielders to be held at the Oriental hotel this evening. An amalgamation, it is said, will be affected between the Junior and Senior Peterborough's, and the officers as well as the players are urged to be in attendance.

CRICKET.

The first regular cricket practice of the season was held on the P.A.A.A. grounds, yesterday, when a dozen or so of the members of the club put in several hours on the grease, which is in good shape this year. As is usual at the first of the season the batting was not by any means strong, but the bowling was well on to the wickets, and the club this year will possess a number of expert manipulators of the pig skin.

M'GILL MINING EXCURSION.

Students Visit a Mine Near Sherbrooke.

(Montreal Star.)

Recently a visit was made to the Eustis copper mine near Sherbrooke, by Mr. Carlyle, Mining Engineer, McGill College, accompanied by ten of the senior students in mining engineering. On their arrival they were most cordially greeted by Mr. John Blue, managing director, president of the Quebec Mining Association, whose unremitting efforts made the visit one of success and interest to the young men eager to have some practical experience in the many details connected with mining. In the future this excursion to some good mining centre will be annual, but for five or six weeks when the students will be actively engaged in many ways such as drilling by hand or even machine drills, blasting, timbering, etc., each one doing this work himself under the guidance and instruction of good miners, while also surveys, plans and models of the underground workings and a study of the geology of its ore bodies, will receive attention, along with its ore-dressing or smelting plants on the surface. It is believed that this actual work at the mines, together with the course at the college made as thorough and practical as possible under present most favourable conditions, although the need of a well-equipped metallurgical laboratory is much felt, will give these men a good training and a firm foundation upon which they can build a good engineering career after they have acquired the practical knowledge.

Newfoundland and Confederation.

St. John's, Nfld., May 6.—The chances for Confederation are regarded as less favorable to-day, owing to the delay in receiving an answer from the Imperial Government. The Whiteway Government is preparing to submit a budget which will increase taxation and reduce expenditures.

GENTLEMEN,—About three months ago I was all used up with Rheumatism, suffering more than torture from it frequently. I took three bottles of your valuable medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, and now feel all O. K. again. Some six years ago I took a few bottles of B. B. B. and found it the best medicine I had ever used. I had the best of health until this attack of rheumatism, but now I am glad to say that B.B.B. has made me as sound as a dollar.

The Man of To-day

Who does'nt know that the possibilities for elegance in Clothing have as wide a scope in READY-MADE as in Made-to-Measure is simply not well informed.

The citizen of Peterborough who does'nt know that GOUGH BROS. every season exhaust these possibilities in the very latest fashion creations of the Clothing world—is also devoid of information, which might be made of great practical value to him from an economical standpoint.

The object of this announcement is to call attention to the two facts above suggested—and to invite a personal investigation of the matter.

There are no Doubts Connected With This Business

We undertake to dress any man from head to heel to his complete satisfaction—including the item of cost, which we guarantee to make SMALLER than any other house in Western Canada.

While we can sell a Man's Suit for $2.90 and a Boy's Suit for 890, we can just as easily suit the man who insists on having a fashionable Suit worth $12.00 or $14.00, or the Boy whose parents can afford a stylish suit worth $4.50 or $5.00.

Our stock is not limited. We are always prepared for the steady stream of the masses, that finds its way here continually. This means that we have the goods to suit all classes—the medium-price and high-grade Clothing as well. Half assortments drive away trade. Customers won't waste time running where they can't get what they want.

Are you Getting any of our Good Lines we sell so Cheaply

We Have in Clothing
Elegant Black Worsteds, Fine Fancy Cheviots, beautiful Tweeds, durable Cassimeres—made in single and double-breasted, sack and cutaway style—Everyone a true $15.00 Suit, for $12.00. We sell more Clothing and YOU are the cause of it—YOU, because our values win your trade.

We Have in Hats
The very latest. None others Our Leading Fedoras at $1.25 and $2.00 are not equalled outside our stores. We have the best $1.50 and $1.75 Hats in Canada. Of course you may get just as good by paying $2.00 and $2.50 at other Hat stores, but, well, your choice, not ours.

We Have in Shoes
A range of prices that are down so low they cannot get lower for high-class goods. Leather is going up and the manufacturers are asking more money for Shoes, but we shall continue to sell at present prices. If you would only take the trouble to compare more, our crowds would be larger.

"ALWAYS GOOD AT GOUGH'S."

Sir Richard Cartwright's Budget Amendment.

EFFECTS OF PROTECTION ON CANADA

The Census Figures Regarding Industries Declared Misleading—Mr. Paterson (Brant) Makes a Good Address—Mr. Haggart Upholds the Government Side.

Ottawa, May 8.—The second day's debate upon the budget shows the disadvantage at which the Government is placed in the discussion, and the advantage which is the Opposition's. Sir Richard Cartwright's speech was a masterly exposition of the fiscal issue. On Friday he dealt with the finances and yesterday with the general state of the country and the effects of the protective policy. His exposure of the census figures with reference to the industries was particularly effective. He was followed by Mr. Haggart, and late in the evening Mr. Paterson of Brant spoke in reply, with splendid vigor and effect.

Sir Richard Cartwright asked when the supplementary estimates for the present year would be down.

Hon. George E. Foster said he hoped to be able to lay them on the table to-morrow.

Mr. Costigan, answering Col. Prior, said that no reply had yet been received from the Imperial Government to the request of March 6, asking them to advance $425,000 for British Columbian sealers, nor to the petition which was at a later date forwarded through the usual channels.

Mr. Foster said he would like to ask the leader of the Opposition if he had made up his mind with reference to continuance of the budget debate from day to day until finished.

Mr. Laurier said the private business of the House was not far advanced. He thought possibly the debate might go on from day to day after Friday.

Mr. Foster said before Sir Richard Cartwright resumed his speech he desired to answer one or two questions which that gentleman had put to him on Friday in reference to charges for loan management, which were mentioned in the Budget. He explained that in 1892 a loan was placed on the British market to a lesser amount than was asked in the prospectus, and after that as money was wanted stock was sold through Canadian agents at London at the current market price. The amount sold last year was £1,200,000, and charges of management are usual charges on that amount.

Sir R. Cartwright: Do they amount to $332,000?

Mr. Foster: About $300,000. With reference to the obligations of Canada he supposed he had included one or two matters which Sir Richard Cartwright had referred to. He had them in his notes, but had not included them in his statement. One was with reference to the Kingston and Smith's Falls Railway, to which a subsidy of $250,680 was voted. That was one of the contingent liabilities for railway subsidies. Then there was the Winnipeg and Hudson Bay Railway, the old subvention made three or four years ago, and with reference to which the contract was entered into some time ago, under the transport subsidy of $80,000 a year for 20 years. That in the gross would amount to $1,600,000. The third item was the last Atlantic service, amounting to $750,000, for which sum pecuniary arrangements had been made. That came out of the consolidated revenue, and would have to be provided for annually, partly by economy.

Sir R. Cartwright: What do you intend to do about the proposed loan of $2,500,000 to the Hudson Bay Railway?

Mr. Foster: I must ask my honorable friend not to pry into the future. (Laughter.)

Sir R. Cartwright arose amid Opposition cheers and resumed his speech, in reply to Mr. Foster's Budget address. He said the Minister of Finance had mistaken his position on Friday; instead of delivering the Budget, he had gone out of his way to make a campaign speech. Hence it might be that the debate would extend over a longer period than would have otherwise been the case. Clearly Mr. Foster had only a superficial knowledge of occurrences which had happened before he entered Parliament. Deducting the padding, three-fourths of Mr. Foster's speech was made up of a series of garbled and misleading assertions touching deficits which occurred nearly 20 years ago. He wanted to know if Mr. Foster or his friends contended that the Opposition was responsible for the depression in trade in the States from 1873 to 1878? Were the Opposition responsible for the bad harvests of 1876-7 and 1878; were they accountable for the bad harvest and shrinkage in values at that time? He held that Mr. Foster had admitted that the depression of 1875-79 was infinitely worse than the depression of the present, and inferentially that the Government at that time were not responsible for it.

He was glad to learn from the Secretary of State the true source of the National Policy. He apologised to Conservatives for accusing them of plagiarising Nova Scotia politics, as Dr. Montague had told them the true progenitor of the N.P. was an Englist statute passed in 1463. Sir Richard read extracts from the statute of Edward IV., prohibiting importation of manufactured goods, and said the prohibitive list corresponded almost exactly with that of the N.P. He did not know whether Mr. Foster had plagiarised Edward IV., or in some mysterious way Edward IV. had plagiarised Mr. Foster, but the resemblance was certainly most extraordinary. There was another curious circumstance, that 400 years ago King Edward IV. had a certain counsellor named Montague. (Laughter.)

Dr. Montague: He was a distinguished ancestor of mine, no doubt.

Sir Richard Cartwright: He was a distinguished counsellor, and, according to court gossip, a mighty close fish, too. (Renewed laughter.)

Continuing his criticism of the National Policy, Sir Richard said that in the matter of cottons, while $1,140,000 had gone into the treasury, $5,600,000 had gone into the pockets of the manufacturers, and so on throughout the whole list of protected industries. He took up the British free trade system as pressing lightly upon the poorer classes and heavier upon the wealthy classes.

He proceeded to describe the English method of taxation to show that the English artisan was taxed only to one twentieth the extent that the Canadian wage-earner had to pay. Every family in Canada averaged $60 a year taxation, and it was easy to compute that in Britain the taxation was only one-twentieth. The speaker then dealt with the exodus question. He claimed that our growth was only half that of Great Britain, which supplied immigrants to all parts of the world. During the last 10 years absolute growth of our native population amounted to barely 225,000 souls, or 5 1-2 per cent., as compared with an increase of 11.65 per cent. in England and Wales.

During the past 16 years the people of Canada had been fleeced of taxes to the tune of one thousand million dollars, while four hundred millions would have been quite enough for all the purposes of government, leaving enough to have paid off all the federal, provincial and municipal debt in the country and something to meet private debts as well.

He denounced the industrial census, which showed an increase of 25,000 establishments in 10 years, as a disgraceful fraud. Of the new factories 223 were knitting factories, 99 of which were in Nova Scotia and 98 of them in Shelburne County. These latter employed 126 hands, earning $822 a year.

Dealing with the tariff changes, he could not find fault with the increase on spirits, although it was a question how far it was safe to go without encouraging smuggling and illicit distillation. The sugar duties were again framed on the principle of putting $2 in the manufacturers' pockets for $1 placed in the treasury. The protection of the refiners was too high, and it was hinted too that the refiners had been given the tip and were prepared for the change, and had imported largely of raw sugars, the Acadia Sugar Refinery making $335,000 by the operation.

Sir Richard denounced the iron duties and establishment of a permanent corruption fund under protection generally. As to subsidizing railways and making canals free, what was the use, he said, of cheapening transport and taxing things transported? Why adopt a policy that drove Canadians out of the country and pay paupers to come in and take their places? He had been accused of being too rough in his denunciation of protection, but it was because he knew too much of certain members of the party and their principles. He stood to his tariff speech of 1874, and his criticism of the budget in 1879. He would admit that he had not allowed enough for clap-trap, for inordinate greed of certain parties and for influence of the example of the United States. Instancing the case of one town, he argued that farmers who spent on an average $600 a year were now only spending $200 a year. The one thing that might immediately and largely benefit the farmers of Canada was access to the United States, but he feared the chance of getting it had been about destroyed by the dishonesty of the honorable gentlemen opposite. (Opposition cheers.)

In conclusion he would apply this test: The debt interest in 1878 could have been paid off with 15 million bushels of wheat; to pay off the debt of 1895, at existing prices, would take 60 million bushels of wheat, which would take 4,000,000 acres of land to produce. He would advise the Government to make ample provision for the deficit and let the country understand what its liabilities are. Let us be content with the territory we have and not stretch forth one hand for territory we cannot provide for; abandon railway subsidies, the fast Atlantic service, drop protection and substitute a revenue tariff.

The Liberal party had no ill-will to manufacturers as a class, but they did not care to favor one class at the expense of another. He concluded by moving the following amendment:

That the estimates for the fiscal year 1894-5 amount to the sum of $38,517,152, independantly of any further supplementary estimates which may be brought down. That the said sum of $38,517,152 is in excess of the amount expended in 1893-4 by the sum of $322,127. That the deficit for the year 1893-4 amounted to $1,210,822. That the deficit for the present year is estimated by the Minister of Finance at $4,500,000.

That from the statements made by Ministers of the Crown in this House it appears that our existing obligations for railway subsidies and for public works now in progress will involve a further outlay of $20,000,000, computed as follows: For railway subsidies now voted, $8,729,000; for the St. Lawrence Canals, $6,000,000; for the Trent Valley Canals, $5,000,000; for the Intercolonial Railway and minor works, $1,000,000. Total, $20,729,000. The interest, on which sum, together with the subsidy provided by statute to be paid on account of a fast Atlantic service, will entail an addition to our already very heavy annual fixed charges of $1,400,000. That, inasmuch as enormous sums of money exacted from the people of Canada, which are not paid into the Treasury, and inasmuch as the burthens of the people are thereby greater and unnecessarily increased, and it is of the utmost importance to the well-being of the community that not only should the present extravagant expenditure be diminished, but that the said burthens should be reduced as largely and speedily as possible, it is expedient that in making provision to restore the equilibrium between revenue and expenditure, as recommended in the Speech from the Throne, the existing tariff be so modified that it may be made a tariff for revenue only.

After recess Mr. Haggart was loudly cheered when he rose at 8.15 to reply to Sir Richard Cartwright. He alluded at the outset to the Knights autobiography, wherein his financial abilities were expatiated upon. At last, however, the Opposition had been nailed to a policy of a tariff for revenue only, and when fully set forth to the people he had no doubt it would soon occupy the graveyard where lie the dead Grit policies of Unrestricted Reciprocity and Commercial Union. Sir Richard had claimed that the country was worse off now than in 1878, declining to accept the increase in the people's savings as evidence of prosperity of the country. In that he was contradicted by Sir William Harcourt in his recent financial statement in England. The deposits at present amounted to the immense sum of $297,000,000. The raw material imported had also increased enormously, which was another evidence of national prosperity. (Cheers.)

The industrial census showed also to what extent the country had progressed under protection during the past 10 years. The United States census shows that there were thousands of factories set down as such with only one employe. (Hear, hear.) If Sir Richard Cartwright had really wanted to be fair he would have quoted the great increase in the larger industries, those having over $10,000 capital.

Notwithstanding the decreases in values at the present time, compared with the year 1878, our total trade had grown from $152,000,000 in the latter year to $230,000,000 in the year which has closed. (Cheers.) Look at the inter-provincial trade of Canada. Look at the immense trade which has sprung up in the different provinces of the country, a trade which had increased from less than $2,000,000 in 1867 to $125,000,000 in 1894. (Cheers.) But Sir Richard Cartwright was not content with criticising the census, and, although he did not refer as much as usual to it in his speech, yet he adopted his old tactics of deprecating and deerying the country in which he lived. Worse still, he was not correct in his statements.

He said that farming property in the Province of Ontario had decreased in value to the extent of $200,000,000. What should be said of a statement of that kind, when the records showed there had been no decline whatever in that respect; on the contrary, there had been a gain of $95,000,000? (Cheers.) Land had decreased—(Opposition cheers)—but there had been an increase in buildings and implements and live stock. (Hear, hear.) Let him refer Sir Richard to an authority which he would not deny—the authority of Mr. Blue, an officer of the Ontario Government, and Sir Oliver Mowat's statistician.

Sir Richard Cartwright: He is much like your own statistician. (Ministerial oh! oh's.)

Mr. Haggart: Oh, then, we are able to take the statement of Sir Richard Cartwright with regard to everything that is going on in this country. (Cheers and laughter.) According to him, our statistician is at fault, and so is the statistician of the Government of Ontario, who has taken every means to find out the real facts and who has a staff at his command for the purpose of inquiring into them. Should we not better depend on such statistics than on those furnished by the honorable gentleman? Where are we to go for our statistics if not to duly accredited officials? (Hear, hear.) What means had the honorable gentleman at his command for finding out what the real statistical condition of the country is? (Hear, hear.) Are we to take his ipse dixit as to what the condition of the country is, and are we to reject the statement of the statistician? He was taking evidence, such as was furnished in this country, evidence that could not be controverted and it showed that, instead of a decline in the farming operations and agricultural wealth of the country, it had increased to $979,000,000 in 1892. (Loud cheers.)

If any other evidence was wanted of the progress of the country, of the commercial development of the country, and of the increased wealth of the country, the railway statistics showed it. There were 6143 miles of railways in operation in the country in 1878, and there are 15,827 at the present day. The train mileage run in 1878 was 19,660,447, and in 1894 it amounted to 43,670,029. (Cheers.) The number of passengers carried in 1878 was 6,443,924, and in 1894 the number amounted to 14,462,498. The tons of freight carried in 1878 was 7,883,472, and in 1894 20,721,116. Earnings of the roads in 1878 amounted to $20,520,078, and the earnings of the roads in 1894 were $49,552,523. The working expenses in 1878 were $16,100,102, and in 1894 they were $35,218,433. (Loud cheers.)

With reference to Sir R. Cartwright's onslaught on the Intercolonial, the Minister claimed that the road was in a greater state of efficiency than it had ever been before, and yet every year for the past three years it had shown a profit. (Loud cheers.) The Chignecto Marine Railway and Hudson Bay Railway schemes were set down by Sir Richard as liabilities of Canada, but whatever policy was adopted by the Government in regard to those projects, Parliament would be fully consulted about them. THE LOCAL Y. M. C. A.

Young Men's Christian Associations are by no means money making enterprises; they are, on the other hand, money spending institutions and, generally speaking, the community receives an excellent return in the general benefit conferred upon its most important members, the young men. After so many years of successful existence and operation it would be idle to discuss the abstract proposition of the desirability of these Associations. That is conceded on every side and by all, even by those who take no practical or even sympathetic interest in their existence. Figures could be multiplied and statistics presented to show what excellent results have attended the work of Young Men's Christian Associations. Young men, though protected by the best of home training, are, when thrown on their own resources, subjected to numerous temptations which, though they appeal strongly to the natural desire in the young man's heart for amusement and recreation, are fatal, if yielded to, undermining the foundations of careful Christian home training, and being destructive to manly character. In many cases a very little thing—a kind word—will turn the scale, and these kind and seasonable words it is the function of the Y.M.C.A. to speak, not to mention the providing of a wholesome rendezvous, where the natural aspiration for social enjoyment and rational recreation, can be safely realised. The work that these Associations do is worthy of practical encouragement. And as a matter of business, apart from moral considerations, employers of young men have a direct interest in promoting the interests of a work, which in turn will promote the interests of those that serve them and make them better and more faithful employees.

The local Association is carrying on a good work under very untoward conditions. It is in debt, not from unusual expenditure, but from continuing its work upon insufficient revenue. The public liberality, which is its only source of income, has by no means been equal to the normal demands upon the financial resources of the Association. It seems this is to some extent, due to the prevalence of a mistaken idea that through the munificence of the late Mrs. Nicholls, the Association has an endowment sufficient to provide for current expenses. This is not the case. Her bequest was for a specific object—the construction of a building—and it seems, by the terms of her will, cannot be diverted from that purpose. The directors, who are busy men, should not have thrown upon themselves unaided the work of conducting and financing an institution whose maintenance, in a fairly easy financial and, consequently, useful, condition, is of interest to the Christian community as a whole. The directorate is issuing an appeal to the public liberality for the funds that are so greatly needed to carry on the work of the Association. The sum of $1,200 a year at least is required, and certainly a community that boasts some half dozen churches, with large congregations, should not find it difficult to respond to an appeal for the provision of the needed funds.

AN ALARMING INCREASE.

The Prevalence of Female Complaints Found to Result Largely From the Kidneys.

Saginaw, Mich., May 8.—Doctors are beginning to turn their attention more exclusively to the causes for the great increase of what are known as female complaints during the past ten years, and to the remedy for the same. Many causes have been investigated, and among others that of Mrs. Reanny, of Ashland, Wis., who was cured of this form of trouble by the use of a kidney medicine known as Dodd's Kidney Pills, which originated in Canada, but has now become widely known and used throughout the western states. This and other similar cases go to show that these troubles are largely due to the kidneys, and that the above mentioned remedy is likely to have a great effect in lessening the number of victims to this form of complaint.

OUR NATIONAL GAME

The Lacrosse Districts Arranged for 1895.

FIVE CLUBS IN THE SENIOR SERIES

The Senior Schedule Drafted—Club's Which Comprise the Various Districts—A Bright Outlook for the Game This Year—Contests Must End Aug. 15.

Toronto, May 8.—At a meeting of the Senior Club's Canadian Lacrosse Association, held Tuesday afternoon, President Dr. Roberts of Brampton occupied the chair. The delegates were: Torontos, Harvey Willis; St. Catharines Athletics, George Downey; Toronto Tecumsehs, D. A. Rose; Seaforth Beavers, R. E. Jackson; Brampton Excelsiors, W. D. Dawson; Fergus Thistles, W. C. Kennedy. Several other lacrosse enthusiasts were in attendance, and it was a very lively meeting before the business was concluded. Mr. Rose claimed that the Torontos did not intend to put their best team into the C.L.A. series. He proposed that the Toronto Club be not scheduled, but the motion was defeated and Mr. Rose withdrew the Tecumsehs from the series.

The following schedule was adopted:

June 5, Toronto at St. Catharines; June 7, Fergus at Seaforth; June 14, St. Catharines at Fergus; June 19, Seaforth at Brampton; June 26, Fergus at St. Catharines.

July 6, Fergus at Toronto; July 10, St. Catharines at Seaforth; July 17, Brampton at Fergus; July 20, St. Catharines at Toronto; July 24, Toronto at Brampton; July 24, Seaforth at Fergus; July 31, Brampton at St. Catharines.

August 2, Toronto at Seaforth; August 6, Fergus at Brampton; August 10, Brampton at Toronto; August 19, Seaforth at St. Catharines; August 19, Toronto at Fergus; August 23, Brampton at Seaforth; August 28, St. Catharines at Brampton.

September 2 or 13, Seaforth at Toronto.

It was decided that each club should pay its own expenses and retain its own gate receipts.

In the evening the District Committee met, with Vice-President W. C. Kennedy in the chair, the other members being Secretary Hugh McConaghy and Mr. Frank Nelson. After going over the reports of the district secretaries the following arrangement of the clubs was made for the championship season of 1895:

YORK DISTRICT.

Toronto Elms, Toronto Junction, Toronto Tecumseh II., Aurora, Weston; F. C. Waghorne, secretary; meet at Atheneum Club, Toronto.

CENTRAL DISTRICT.

Orangeville, Fergus, Georgetown, Brampton II., Milton, Toronto II., F. C. Milner, secretary; meet at Brampton.

MIDLAND DISTRICT.

Stouffville, Woodville, Markham, Uxbridge, Newmarket, Richmond Hill, Arch. Campbell, secretary; meet at Markham.

NORTHWESTERN DISTRICT.

Grand Valley, Arthur, Elora, Mount Forest, Fergus II.; William McIntyre, Grand Valley, secretary; meet at Arthur.

NORTHEASTERN DISTRICT.

Bradford, Barrie, Orillia, Collingwood, Midland, Beaverton; J. B. Handerson, secretary; meet at Orillia.

EASTERN DISTRICT.

NIAGARA DISTRICT.

Athletic II., Niagara Falls, St. Catharines Juniors, St. Catharines Y.M.C.A., Thorold, Merritton, Hamilton. Henry O'Loughlin, secretary; meet at St. Catharines.

District secretaries are requested to notify the clubs in their districts of the hour and location of their meetings, all of which are fixed for Saturday, May 18. Under rule 12, section 5, all district championship schedules must be arranged to close not later than Aug. 15. The outlook for lacrosse is very bright, and the amount promises to be the best the association has ever known.

Secretary McConaghy has the Western banner ready for the Stars of Windsor, and it will be forwarded as soon as the Stars execute the usual bond for its return at the end of the season.

Nervous People

And those who are all tired out and have that tired feeling or sick headache can be relieved of all these symptoms by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives nerve, mental and bodily strength and thoroughly purifies the blood. HYAMS TRIAL MUST PROCEED.

Another Abortive Attempt to Get It Delayed—No Communications Received From the U. S Authorities.

Toronto, May 8.—Counsel for the defense made another attempt to secure a further postponement of the Hyams' case in the Assize Court yesterday. Application was made to proceed with the Dicks' case at the conclusion of the manslaughter case. As this trial, according to the Crown, is likely to last two or three days, its commencement would have necessitated delay in the Hyams' case. Crown Prosecutor Barron intimated that he would not be ready to proceed with the Dicks' case until the conclusion of the Hyams trial, and the trial of the alleged murderers of William C. Wells will consequently begin to-morrow morning.

Counsel made an application to Mr. Justice Street for a commission to examine Mr. J. D. Nasmith for the defence in the Hyams' case. Mr. Nasmith had made arrangements to go to England with his family before he was subpœned and cannot remain.

His Lordship said that he had no authority under the law to grant a commission. "Otherwise," said he, "I should be happy to do so."

Mr. John R. Cartwright, Deputy Attorney-General, stated yesterday that Sir Oliver Mowat had received no communication whatever from Secretary Gresham, requesting that Mr. Wellman be allowed to plead for the Hyams' at their trial this week. Such a letter would be quite useless, as the matter rests altogether with the trial judge, it being a mere matter of courtesy.

COAL AND IRON STRIKE.

The Disaffection Spreading—Business Paralyzed—Troops Ordered Out.

Pocahontas, Va., May 6.—The situation in the coal field strike is decidedly more complicated to-day. The mines here, the only ones not affected last week, are seriously crippled to-day, at least 25 per cent. of the men being out. The Southwest Virginia Improvement Company will probably endeavor to secure new men, and it is evident that such men will need armed protection. Troops have been ordered from Graham to Pocahontas.

Business Paralyzed in Eastern Ohio.

Bellaire, Ohio, May 6.—To-day all the miners who were working on the 60-cent basis and those on the co-operative plan were notified to lay down their tools and go out. This evening will find 3500 miners in Belmont County and 4000 in Harrison, Jefferson and Guernsey, making a total of 7500 idle. This will necessitate the closing down of all the iron manufacturers for want of coal, and business will be paralyzed in Eastern Ohio.

Steel and Iron Works Go Out.

Pittsburg, May 6.—The strike of members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers for an advance in wages in the Pittsburg District is gradually extending. To-day, in addition to the Sligo and Lockhart mills, which are now entirely idle in all departments, the Keystone, Oliver, South Tenth-street mill and the Pittsburg Forge and Iron Company are almost entirely idle on account of the absence of puddlers, who did not go to work. In all about 1500 men in these five mills are idle. That strike will extent to other departments than puddlers and several other extensive iron works is now certain.

FOREIGN FLEETS AT CHEFOO.

Japan Renounces the Liao Tung Peninsula—Treaty Ratification To-Day.

Chee-Foo, May 6.—The foreign fleets are assembling here. Eight Russian ships, including three torpedo boats, are already here, and it is expected that Great Britain, France and the United States will each send one vessel, and Germany two.

French Cruisers.

Toulon, May 6.—It is reported that the cruisers Siax and Cecille will accompany the cruisers Tage and Suchet to the China Sea. They were loaded with munitions and provisions yesterday, and are ready to sail to-day.

The Paris Figaro says that although the situation is not grave and the bombardment of Japanese ports by the Russian and German fleets could not reasonably be expected, the negotiations with Japan will not proceed as smoothly as is generally believed. French radical journals agree that France would act wisely in advising Japan not to abuse her victory, but at the same time France must not resort to coercion.

The Journal Des St. Petersburg, semi-official, publishes a communication stating that Japan, in conformity with the friendly advice of Russia, France and Germany, has undertaken to renounce her claims to final possession of the Liao Tung territory.

Demands of the Alliance Met.

London, May 6.—A despatch to The Globe from Yokohama says that Premier Ito, accompanied by Chief Secretary Ito-Miy-Joi, has arrived at Port Arthur and will proceed at once to Chee Foo, where he will meet the Chinese envoys. It is expected that the ratifications of the treaty will be exchanged to-morrow.

The St. James Gazette publishes a despatch from Paris saying that Sone Arasaka, the Japanese Minister to France, yesterday informed M. Hanotaux, Minister of Foreign Affairs, that Japan, in deference to the friendly advice of the protesting powers, had renounced her claim to permanent possession of the Liao-Tung Peninsula, including Port Arthur.

A despatch to The Globe says that Japan has also intimated to Germany her willingness to give up possession of Kiao-Tung.

SHIELDS TO STOP LEAD.

Devices to Protect the Soldier Against Bullets.

Equipping soldiers in war with shields to stop bullets is not a new idea, in spite of all the recent talk in military circles caused by the experiments with the bullet-proof cloth.

In primitive warfare man's first idea was to offer a protection against the arrows and spear thrusts of the opponents, and for this purpose shields were always carried. Among the ancients these shields were held in great veneration. Among the Franks the ceremony of investing their chiefs consisted of carrying them on their shields. In Lacaedemonia the loss of his shield meant disgrace to the soldier: "Rather be brought home dead on you shield than return without it.

The Egyptian shield was a perfectly movable parapet; with the Greek sectum a vertical rampart could be set up or the torture could be built for attacking the walls of besieged cities. They were in all shapes, rectangular, oval, round, flat and curved. Those of Argos were formed like lyres; those of Corinth like ivy leaves.

The material of which they were made were infinite in their variety, from the golden shields of Solomon's guard and those of the Assyrians, of cane covered with the skins of wild animals, to those of the Mexicans, made of tortoise shell.

In modern times the first to experiment with a shield which should protect its wearer against bullets was Capt. Goepp of the French Zouaves, now lieutenant-colonel, who, in 1868-69 made a shield as high as a man and said to be bullet-proof. The Goepp system consisted of covering the front and flanks of an attacking column by a certain number of these shields, which were to be carried by extra-strong men.

Experiments by Greaves have demonstrated that the ball of the Lebel gun can pierce, at the distance of forty yards, a steel shield of one-seventh of an inch thick. Goepp's shield was about a quarter of an inch thick, and could withstand a fair volley of balls. By giving the shield an inclination of from 30 to 35 degrees, the resistance to the balls was materially increased.

Each regiment was to be furnished with three hundred shields, which was computed to be enough to cover the front and flanks of three battalions. Wagons were to carry them to within five or six hundred yards of the enemy, near some sheltered spot, where the distribution was to be made to the men detailed to carry them. These shields, being two yards high, were supposed to completely protect the soldiers marching within these living breastworks. The shield recently adopted by the Danish army and constructed by Capt. Von Holstein, is copied from the Goepp model and has its dimensions and general features.

Tailor Dowe got his idea for the bullet-proof coat from a passage in a history of Charles V. Which told of a draper of Frankfort named Osterdam who in the sixteenth century discovered a felt which was bullet-proof. This felt or cloth was made into plastrons for a body of calvary called the Regiment des Tuchtrooper. After experimenting for a year, Dowe submitted to Col. von Oppen, at Mannheim, what he called his bullet proof uniform, "kugelsichere" uniform.

This material was from two and a quarter to three inches in thickness and possessed a certain amount of suppleness, weighing from six to nine pounds a square yard. The use of these bullet-proof coats as a target, according to the German military journals, gave the following results: Balls fired at 200 yards, penetrated slightly; at 400 yards the projectiles just grazed the nap of the felt. These results caused great excitement in Germany and Dowe was summoned to Berlin to see the Emperor and from him obtained permission to continue his experiments at Spandau on a much greater scale.

PROTECTED BY THE PORTABLE SHIELD.

But they were not so successful in their ultimate results, later reports say. A certain Major Brickman succeeded in perforating these plastrons at a distance of 600 yards several times consecutively, and thus became temporarily famous, though his celebrity was due rather to his powerful gun. However, the question of protecting the soldier is still under consideration in Germany. Recently another inventor Reindel, presented to the Emperor, under the patronage of Gen. Kattenberg-Stachan, formerly Minister of War, a bullet-proof coat which, while having all the powers of resistance of Dowe's plastron, has neither its density, thickness nor weight.

It has been suggested that a shield which shall cover a man entirely, and shall be furnished with two adjustable feet, to be set in the ground during halts and loading, is the only practical shield. It should be high enough to cover a kneeling man, and light enough to permit of his carrying his full quota of ammunition. A very clever model has been made by Lieut. Guy of the French army. It is a shield held upright by two pegs, fastened to the lower edge and firmly planted in the ground. On the right side a slight projection offers a support to the gun, and the kneeling man resting his gun on it also helps to keep the shield in a vertical position. This shield is intended to be carried by the soldier constantly. With fifty of these shields, a company can cover its front. Four companies could easily unite their shields and form a solid marching front. The 200 shields thus massed together would be sufficient to cover the front of a battalion.

With these shields the natural terror experienced by a soldier in the front ranks would disappear, for as he rises from his knees he creates a wall in front of him more solid than the earthworks he has just fire at; and as he feels the shock of the balls against his shield, he realizes how protected he is, for he knows that any one of them was capable of stretching him lifeless on the ground.

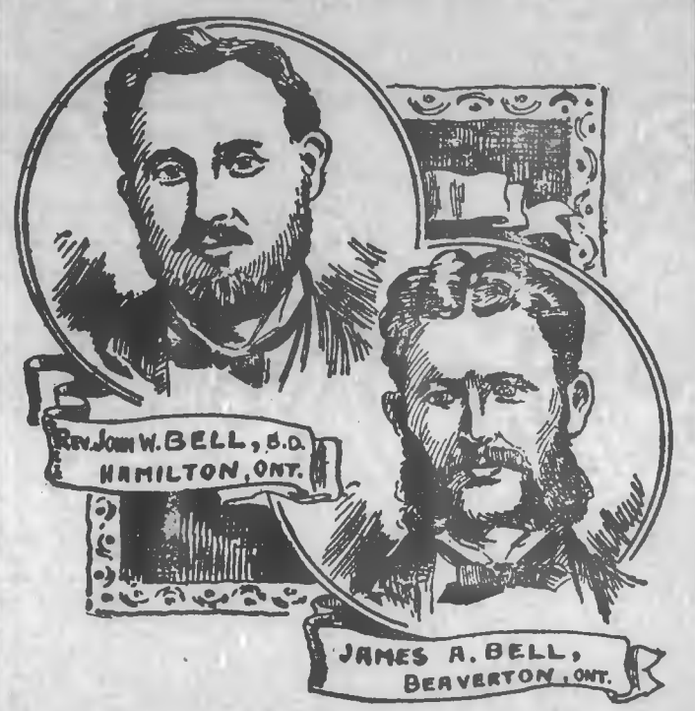
BUILT UP THE SYSTEM IN A WONDERFUL MANNER.

James A. Bell, of Beaverton, Ont., Brother of the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., Prostrated by Nervous Headaches--A Victim of the Trouble for Several Years --South American Nervine Effected a Complete Cure.



In their own particular field few men are better known than the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., and his brother, Mr. James A. Bell. The former will be recognized by his thousands of friends all over the country as the popular and able missionary superintendent of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Among the 30,000 members of this order in Ontario, his counsel is sought on all sorts of occasions. On the public platform he is one of the strong men of the day, battling against the evils of intemperance. Equally well known is Mr. Bell in other provinces of the Dominion, having been for years a member of the Manitoba Methodist Conference, and part of this time was stationed in Winnipeg. His brother, Mr. James A. Bell is a highly respected resident of Beaverton, where his influence, though perhaps more circumscribed than that of his eminent brother, is none the less effective and productive of good. Of recent years, however, the working ability of Mr. James A. Bell has been sadly marred by severe attacks of nervous headaches, accompanied by indigestion. Who can do ft work when this trouble takes hold of them, and especially when it becomes chronic, as was, recently, the case with Mr. Bell. The trouble reached such intensity that last June he was completely prostrated. In this condition a friend recommended South American Nervine. Ready to try anything and everything, though he thought he had covered the list of proprietary medicines, he secured a bottle of this great discovery. A second bottle of the medicine was taken and the work was done. Employing his own language: "Two bottles of South American Nervine immediately relieved my headaches and have built up my system in a wonderful manner." Let us not deprecate the good our clergymen and social reformers are doing in the world, but how ill-fitted they would be for their work were it not the relief that South American Nervine brings to them when physical ills overtake them, and when the system as a result of hard, earnest and continuous work, breaks down. Nervine treats the system as the wise reformer treats the evils he is battling against. It strikes at the root of the trouble. All disease comes from disorganization of the nerve centers. This is a scientific fact. Nervine at once works on these nerve centers; gives to them health and vigor; and then there courses through the system strong, healthy, life-maintaining blood, and nervous troubles of every variety are things of the past.

A Good Thing is Always Desirable

So it is with the visits of Prof. Dorenwend to Peterborough. On his last visit he was so busy that many ladies and gentlemen were unable to be attended to, he is therefore returning to give all who desire it another opportunity of procuring his art goods for the head. Prof. Dorenwend is undoubtedly one of the leaders of his profession on this continent, his skill in arranging the coverings for the head of either lady or gentleman is well known. His goods are acknowledged to be perfect, and in every way true to nature. They are the best protection to the head, besides giving a refined and youthful expression to the face. Call and examine those marvels of art and have them fitted in order to judge of the effect. Consult him about your hair, he will (free of charge) give you advice as to the preservation of it. He will be at the Grand Central Hotel on Thursday, 16th of May.

THE HUNTER STREET STABBING AFFAIR.

An Italian Fined Five Dollars and Costs for Drawing his Knife.

In the police court this morning Mr. John McNaughton and Signor Frank Merino were charged with being drunk and disorderly yesterday afternoon.

In the evidence adduced it was shown that Mr. McNaughton and the Italian became involved in an argument concerning religion. The altercation waxed warm, and Mr. McNaughton proposed that the difficulty could probably be best settled in the back yard. The signor consented, and the two, accompanied by a crowd of spectators, adjourned to a yard in the neighborhood. The Italian being a big burly fellow, had the best of the affray, until an onlooker named Leary interfered, when Merino drew a knife and cut Leary twice with it on the hand and wrist.

The Magistrate fined Mr. McNaughton two dollars and costs for starting the row, and assessed the Italian seven dollars for drawing the knife.

A FALSE RUMOUR.

Young Collins and Long, of Ashburnham, are Both Safe.

Mr. William Collins, of Ashburnham, returned at midnight from the back country, whither he had driven to corroborate or disprove the rumour of concerning the death of his brother and young Long, also of Ashburnham, who were both reported to have been drowned.

Mr. Collins located the Dickson Company's camp at Clarke's Bay, just above Mount Julian, and found his brother and Long both in the best of health.

Just where the cruel rumour concerning their drowning originated it is impossible to ascertain, but the many friends of the young men will join with THE EXAMINER in expressing pleasure that the statement had no foundation, whatever.

Durward Lely in Massey Hall. Last Night.

To-day's Mail says:—"The Caladonian Choir concert, held last night in Massey Hall, was in every respect a magnificent success. Mr. Durward Lely received a most cordial welcome. He proved a host in himself, and almost on a par with his great singing were his bright comments on the songs, his humourous hits illustrative of Scottish character, and his pointed anecdotes. His masterpiece was "McGregor's Gathering," of which he gave a phenomenal rendering. Mr. Lely made a reputation as a Scottish vocalist which ranks very high, and last night's effort will not detract from it. His pianoforte accompaniments were efficiently played by Mrs. Lely." Mr. and Mrs. Lely appear in Peterborough to-morrow evening, May 9th, in the Opera House. "McGregor's Gathering" is one of the numbers on the programme, along with nine other gems of Scottish, English and Irish song. See programmes and other particulars. 1d

JAMES J. BREALEY IN TROUBLE AGAIN.

His Rifle Once More Plays a Prominent Part in a Dispute.

Application was made yesterday before County Magistrate Edmison by Mr. Bert Downer to have Mr. James Brealey bound over to keep the peace.

The story connected with the case as told by the parties is an odd one and its narration may prove interesting.

The Brealey farm has been mortgaged to Mr. T. Bradburn and the mortgage is overdue. Mr. Bradburn claims that he is "mortgagee in possession," and accordingly drove a flock of sheep into the fields to pasture.

Mr. Brealey observed these sheep on the farm, yesterday morning, and letting down the fence proceeded to drive them off the premises. Downer, who is in charge of the place for Mr. Bradburn, attempted to interfere, but as Brealey carried a rifle and pointed it at him twice, warning him to come no nearer. Downer thought discretion the better part of valour and remained at a respectful distance.

The sheep were all turned into the road and then Brealey approached Downer and wished him to look after the animals. This Downer refused to do and straightway came into town and laid the facts of the case before his employer. A summons was immediately issued for Brealey and the case came before the county magistrate in the afternoon.

The accused did not deny pointing the rifle at Downer, stating that he knew Downer carried a revolver at times and he did not want him to come within pistol shot of him. He held that he was not trespassing in driving the sheep off the premises, as Mr. Bradburn was not in the position of "mortgagee in possession," but was merely an "overholding tenant" having leased the farm the year previous. The lease expired in March, and Mr. Bradburn simply remained in possession.

The point was one beyond the jurisdiction of the County Magistrate's Court, and Mr. Edmison decided not to give a decision on this phase of the case. In regard to the threats alleged to have been uttered by Brealey, the accused applied for an adjournment until this afternoon at three o'clock, as he wished an opportunity to secure some witnesses. The case was therefore enlarged until to-day.

THE SPRING DRIVE OF LOGS.

The Quick Run Made to Rice Lake Yesterday—Seventeen Hours.

The Gilmour drive of logs, which has just gone through, was invested with peculiar interest in the eyes of the lumbermen of the district, inasmuch as it was the first spring drive ever run through on the Otonabee, when the water was high. Its progress, therefore, was critically watched and viewed in the light of an experiment.

The result, under the skilful supervision of Foreman Stone, was all that could be desired. The logs ran down from Lakefield were collected in the Little Lake, and day before yesterday were cut loose at eight o'clock in the evening for the run to the mouth of the river at Rice Lake—21 miles distant, where booms were stretched. The head of the drive reached the boom at one o'clock, yesterday afternoon, thus making the long run in seventeen hours, which is the quickest passage of this nature ever occurring in this vicinity. Commodore Calcutt has been interested in lumbering operations for the last forty years and cannot remember to have ever heard of half so quick a run being made to Rice Lake.

The logs kept together remarkably well on the way down and formed a long sinuous raft about thirty feet long and lying right in the channel of the river all the way from the Little Lake to Rice Lake. It is the opinion of the river drivers that not more than 200 logs will be found caught in snags along the banks.

The last of the drive will reach the lake by to-night, and already the City of Peterborough has started to tow the logs to Hastings down Rice Lake.

The success of attempting a spring drive has been demonstrated, and although a good deal of extra guard booming is required along the shores of the river on account of the high water, still the amount of time and labour saved it is thought will more than compensate for this. The drive was wintered at Lakefield, as it was late coming down, and the water began to get too cold for the men to work in. As the result of this experiment, spring driving, it is probable, will probably be largely utilized in the lumber business.

LACROSSE.

The Shamrocks re-organized last evening in the Palace Restaurant parlours, and elected the following officers:

Hon. President—H. LeBrun.
President—R. Fife.
1st Vice-President—F. Fairen.
2nd Vice-President—P. J. Doris.
Secretary—T. McDonough.
Captain—J. McDonough.
Manager and Treasurer—C. LeBrun.
Executive Committee—P. J. Doris, F. Lynch, J. T. McCabe, E. Hickey and F. Adams.

Lacrosse matters are at sixes in Peterborough just at present, and the reorganization of the Shamrocks last evening, after an amalgamation between them and the Peterboroughs practically agreed upon, rather complicates the existing difficulties.

Some of the officers elected were not present, and stats that they have no intention of joining the Shamrocks. At their meeting last night, the Shamrocks elected Mr. H. LeBrun to the position of Honourary President, thus placing that gentleman in the peculiar position of being a high official on two opposing clubs, as he is also Honourary President of the Peterboroughs.

The Juniors and Seniors at a meeting last night, practically decided to amalgamate, and the Secretary of the Seniors was authorized to make every effort to secure the best possible teams for matches during the season.

BASEBALL.

The Peterborough Baseball club challenged the Vaticans to a game to take place on Saturday next, the Peterboroughs offering to play seven men against nine of the Vaticans. The answer to the challenge is appended:

To the Sporting Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—The members of the Vatican baseball club were very much surprised at seeing an article in yesterday's Morning Morning Times saying that the Peterborough baseball team were desirous of arranging a match with them for Saturday next, and further, that they would play them with seven men to nine. The Vaticans were not aware that there was any baseball team known as the Peterboroughs, as it is supposed they had died on or about Sept. 4th, 1894. Moreover, their saying that they will play the Vaticans with seven men shows that they cannot organize a team. However, if those seven (?) are after a game the Vaticans will accomodate them in the near future and also lend them two men to make the game somewhat interesting.

The merits claimed for the tire are numerous, and the effect of wear and weather on Mr. Conway's will be watched with interest.

THE OLD SCHOOL TO BE ENLARGED.

NO NEW SCHOOL FOR THE SOUTH WARD.

The Expense Would be Too Great to Erect a New School Structure and the Board Decides to Enlarge the Present South Ward Building.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education, last evening, there were present Dr. Burnham, chairman, and Messrs. J. J. McBain, Henry Denne, W. H. Wrighton, W. H. Law, Peter Hamilton, James Edgcombe, Dr. Caldwell, John McKee, W. H. Hill, J. J. Hartley and L. M. Hayes.

COMMUNICATIONS

were received from

Miss Minnie Warner, drawing attention to the crowded state of the Kindergarten rooms. Miss Warner stated "that the registered number at the South Ward is seventy, with an attendance for the past week of fifty-eight and a fraction. At the Central there are seventy-two registered, with an average for the last week of sixty. In the case of the South Ward, a large number of children have had to be refused admission, and, with the exception of two, were all five years of age, and therefore entitled to enter the Public Schools. The room in the Central is really overcrowded, if seventy children are admitted. That of the South Ward would accommodate a larger number, but it is not to the interest of the class that this be done.

In order that the best results of the training be secured it is necessary to give a large amount of individual attention. We want to keep the work up to as high a standard as possible and we find that where classes are too large—much of our time is taken up keeping order, etc. The south ward especially is at a great disadvantage—it being just newly organized—the children all new to the work and insufficient help. Would not a limited number, not to exceed 60, which would give an average of nearly 50, be better than taking such a large number and not being able to do them justice ?"

Received.

From Hon. R. Harcourt, provincial treasurer, enclosing a cheque for $633.92.

Received.

From Miss Emma Aldridge, applying for reappointment as teacher on the staff.

Referred to the Committee on Appointments.

From Miss McIntyre, inspector of Kindergartens, containing the following report on the Peterborough Kindergartens :

There are two Kindergartens.

CENTRAL SCHOOL.

Staff—Miss Warner. Three assistants.

Average—50 children.

Accommodation—Very good, a large, bright room—neat and clean, well decorated.

Teaching—Very good. Children's work shows systematic and thoughtful development. Manner sympathetic.

Discipline—Very good.

SOUTH WARD SCHOOL.

Staff—Miss Davidson. Two assistants.

Accommodation—The Kindergarten is temporarily held in the basement of a church. It would not be good for a permanent location at all, as the ventilation is very poor, and it would be damp in wet weather.

Average—50 children.

Teaching—Very good—The children's work shows logical and thorough development. Manner sympathetic.

Discipline—Good.

THE COMMITTEE ON APPOINTMENTS reported through its chairman, W. H. Hill, as follows :

Your committee having considered the matters within its jurisdiction beg leave to report and recommend :

1. That the Principals of the Ward and Central Schools be a committee to prepare and have printed the promotion examination papers—the principals of the Ward Schools to prepare the papers below their form grades, and the Principal of the Central School to prepare the papers for the remaining grades.

2. That the secretary be requested to ask the department to appoint a presiding examiner to take charge of the departmental examinations, including the Entrance, the Primary and the Junior Leaving examinations and to advise the Department that this Board would respectfully nominate Mr. J. Coyle Brown, County P. S. I., for that position.

3. That the Department be requested to allow the Senior Leaving and Honour Matriculation Examinations and also Scholarship examinations to be held at Peterborough this year.

4. Your committee would also recommend that Mr. H. A. Yeomle be appointed as representative of the Public Schools on the Board of Entrance Examiners in charge of the mid summer examinations.

The report was adopted without discussion.

Mr. Peter Hamilton, chairman, then introduced the following report of the

PROPERTY COMMITTEE :

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education :

GENTLEMEN,—Your Property Committee beg leave to report as follows regarding the furnishing of more school accommodation for the public schools ; that since the last meeting of the Board, with the opening of spring, a still larger number of children have presented themselves for admittance to the public schools which the present rooms are altogether inadequate to accommodate. In the south ward there will be required nine rooms, allowing 50 pupils to each room ; the west ward and Central school are also overcrowded. In view of all these facts and wishing to consult the universal public opinion to avoid as much as possible all unnecessary expense, but having in view the absolute necessity of enlarged school accommodation, we have decided to recommend for your approval the addition to the South Ward of four rooms instead of two rooms, this to cost, with furniture, about $6,500. The strong claims in favour of this scheme present themselves to us under the following heads :

1. Efficiency—As we have been strongly advised by the principals of the Central and South Ward Schools that better grading and better work can be done in a large school than in a few roomed school. We also think that a higher grade should be taught in the South Ward School than is possible at present, owing to the limited number of rooms.

2. Economy—The estimated cost of a new school, purchasing grounds and furnishing rooms is $11,000. Deduct from this $6,500 for the proposed addition leaves a balance of $4,500. Add to this for salary of janitor of new school $250 per annum, difference in salary of an extra principal and salary of an ordinary teacher, $275, and $150 for extra fuel and cost of maintenance, will mean an additional annual expense of $674, equivalent to $14,000 balance between cost of addition and new school, and it makes an addition of $18,500 to the public school indebtedness. In view of these facts :

1st, Efficiency ; 2nd, economy, and while the new school offers as advantages, nearness to a few of the remote residents of the South Ward and possibly enlarged play ground for the children, we feel strongly that we are consulting the best interests of the ratepayer in recommending the addition to the present South Ward school, and would recommend immediate action in this line, and that the Town Council be requested to take such steps without delay as they may consider necessary to furnish the Board of Education with the money to enable them to proceed with the work.

Also that the Property Committee be instructed to have working plans and specifications prepared, and to ask for tenders for the erection and completion of the same by the close of the mid-summer holidays, and on receipt of the tenders to report to a special meeting of the Board, to be called by the chairman as soon as the Property Committee can report that they are prepared to proceed with the proposed additions.

Mr. W. H. Law challenged Mr. Hamilton's figures in the report, being of opinion that a new school could easily be erected at a cost of $9,000.

Mr. Hamilton in reply went carefully into the question of the relative cost of the two buildings, and explained fully the conditions from which he had drawn his estimates.

It was moved by Mr. Law, seconded by Mr. Henry Denne, that the Board proceed to build a school in the south ward, on the Lundy lot, or any other adjacent lot and have the same completed ready for occupying by the 1st day of September, '95, and that the town council be requested to furnish by way of debentures the sum of $9,000, for the said purpose of buying the lot and erecting the said building."

Mr. Law's amendment was put and lost and the report was adopted.

It was moved by Messrs. W. H. Hill and John McKee, "That the municipal council of the town of Peterborough be and they are hereby required to raise or borrow the sum of $6,500 for the building of a four room addition to the south ward school and if necessary to submit the question to the vote of the electors of the municipality, who are supporters of Public Schools in the manner provided by the Municipal Act for the creating of debts, and that the Secretary forward a copy of this resolution to the town council.

Carried.

On motion of Messrs. J. J. McBain and W. H. Hill, it was resolved that the payment of the following accounts be confirmed :

Mrs Geo Tighe	$ 5 00
Jas E Cullen	22 50
Geo Wallace	74 25
Jas Baptie	75 00
Jas Middleton	25 00
Jno Fitzgerald	58 50
Thos Williams	7 20

The Inspector's report was then read as follows :

INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education :

GENTLEMEN.—The total numbers of pupils enrolled in April (kindergartens included) was 1,508, with an average attendance of 1,240 or 83.1 per cent. The enrollment in April, 1894, was [illegible] ; average, [illegible] or [illegible] per cent. The Central enrolled last month, 604 pupils ; average, 571 or 95 per cent. ; the Rubidge street school enrolled 131, average, 373 or 86.5 per cent. The Park street school, 253 ; average, 166 or 82.3 per cent., and the Barnado avenue school, 187 ; average, 161.5 or 85 per cent.

Each kindergarten has now about 70 pupils.

The various divisions were thoroughly inspected in April with the exception of the two senior entrance classes. Generally speaking the proficiency of the pupils was highly satisfactory to me.

It is assumed by some that undue attention has been given the last two years to writing, and that the standard attained in that branch is not a fair criterion by which to measure the general progress. Such an assumption, however is not warranted by the facts, for as good work, or nearly so, has been and is being done—if we except music this term—in every other subject on the curriculum. I found to my regret that music had been dropped in most of the rooms because it was thought by the teachers that there would be no examination therein at the end of June.

As for the entrance classes I shall be disappointed if, at least, one hundred of their number do not succeed at the approaching departmental examinations.

Before the Committee of the Whole I shall be pleased to give the Board my criticisms on the work done in every division inspected. Each teacher at the time of inspection received a duplicate.

In March last I was absent from my duties for two weeks. The necessity for my absence was explained to the chairman of the Committee on Appointments, and he was informed that the time would either be put in by me or the money refunded. It was my intention to put in the two weeks in May and prepare the promotion papers, as no stranger unacquainted with my limit tables or with the papers set the last four promotions could satisfactorily do so. But as the secretary-treasurer of the Board was instructed by several chairmen of committees not to pay me on the 15th of April for the two weeks referred to—notwithstanding there was a subsequent month's salary due me on the 15th of May, prior to which date the matter could have been laid before the Board and settled by them, I have not carried out my intention.

Any assistance I can render the Board in winding up successfully the work of the term, or in securing a competent educator to succeed me, I shall be happy to give. My interest in the Peterborough Public Schools did not cease on the 30th of April.

Thanking you for the uniform kindness and courtesy shown me during the last two calendar years, and expressing regret for the unfortunate misunderstanding of this term, I remain

Respectfully yours,
J. W. GARVIN.

The report was received and the Board adjourned.

GRAND TRUNK REFORM

The Canadian Officials to Be Overhauled.

MEETING OF THE SHAREHOLDERS

Sir Henry Tyler Says Farewell—A Committee for Reorganization Appointed—Sir Charles Rivers Wilson to Draw $30,000 a Year as President

London, May 7.—The meeting of the shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railway to-day was a crowded one. Sir Henry Tyler, the retiring president, opened the meeting by saying he would move the adoption of his motion made at the last meeting that the reports and accounts of the Board be received, and then his successor in the chair could proceed to business.

In the meantime Auditor Winney made a statement on behalf of himself and his fellow-auditors. He said that Mr. Barker's report was in substance correct; but he disagreed in certain deductions made therefrom, especially in the matter of the amount due by the Chicago and Grand Trunk Railway. He suggested that if the capital account were kept in London, and the working account kept in Canada, and sent here for the purpose of making a balance sheet, the officers of the company in Canada would be made to realise that they must render accounts to London.

Mr. Joseph Price criticised adversely the methods of keeping the accounts.

Mr. Girdlestone announced that the Shareholders' Committee nominated the following gentlemen as a Board of Directors to succeed the old Board and reorganise the company's affairs: Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, Lord Welby, Sir William Young, Colonel F. Firebrace, Sir Henry Mather Jackson, Mr. Joseph Price, C. von Chauvin and Messrs. Mather Hubbard, Clutton-Brock and Allen.

These gentlemen, he said, had been chosen for directors from a list of 28 names. He thought all of the creditors of the company would be satisfied with them. He eulogized Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, who, he said, would be a valuable man at the helm and would be ably supported.

Shareholder Barker rose amid great tumult and asked whether the advances to the Chicago and Grand Trunk were fully secured. He considered that the charges of concealment against the board should be withdrawn, and expressed the hope that Sir Henry Tyler would remain on the board.

This allusion to Sir Henry Tyler created laughter.

Sir Henry Tyler then moved that the half-yearly accounts as presented be adopted, which motion was seconded by a shareholder. Sir Henry then said: "I now take my leave, and hope that my successors will work as hard and faithfully as I have done."

Sir Henry Tyler then vacated the chair, which was taken by Mr. Allen, who moved that the other gentlemen named as directors be elected. The motion, including Mr. Allen's name, was carried unanimously, amid great applause.

Mr. Allen moved a resolution that the board be empowered to raise debenture funds when it should be necessary. They did not want any money now, but merely wanted the power to issue debenture bonds if it should become necessary.

Mr. Girdlestone seconded the motion, and it was carried unanimously.

Mr. Girdlestone then moved to increase the sum for remuneration of the directors—(laughter and derisive cheers)—from £6000 to £7500 a year. "We propose," he said, "to give Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson £4000 a year, as he is a good man." (Cries of dissent, and a voice, "Let's see his work.")

Mr. Girdlestone proceeded, saying that underpaid men were not an advantage.

Mr. Allen explained that the increase was solely in the salary of Sir Charles Wilson. The remuneration of the other directors was not increased. The motion was carried.

Mr. Girdlestone moved that he be reimbursed for the expenditures he had incurred in furthering the organization scheme, which money he was really out of pocket. He had devoted much time and money to the movement, and that £1500 would cover the whole sum he had disbursed. The motion was carried unanimously. The old auditors were re-elected, and a vote of thanks to Mr. Girdlestone was passed. Mr. Girdlestone said that the Board would have a difficult and laborious task. The shareholders could not expect an immediate advance in prices, but the board would always tell the shareholders the worst and give them clear and honest accounts.

Mr. Clutton-Brock, as a member of the old and new boards, said that he went into the old board with a prejudice against Sir Henry Tyler, but that feeling had been turned into admiration of his energy. Sir Henry, he said, had been ousted by the bad times. He himself would not split on the old board. (Cheers.)

The Times says that the new board has a heavy task before it, but it is strong enough for the work.

The Standard says that the prospects with the new Board of Directors are good for a thorough overhauling of the company's affairs. It adds that almost the first test of the board's ability will be the re-organization of the staff in Canada.

A Position for Barker

Hamilton, May 7.—Samuel Barker, whose report on Grand Trunk finances led up to the recent success of the opposition to Sir Henry Tyler, and the old board, left last evening for London in response to cablegram from the men now in control. The object of his trip is not known, but it is suspected he will be given a responsible position in the company's service.

Hanged to a Lamp Hook.

Toronto, May 8.—Joseph Edwards, aged 40, who earned a livelihood by sewing and laying carpets, committed suicide at his residence, 28 Hayter-street last evening.

When Mrs. Edwards entered the house shortly after 7 o'clock she found her husband's dead body suspended by a piece of manilla twine from a lamp hook in the centre of the dining room ceiling.

Edwards had stepped on a chair, tied the twine to the hook, slipped the noose around his neck and kicked the chair from under him. His feet were about a foot from the floor.

Sawmill Burned by Lightning.

Breslau, Ont., May 7.—This morning John Burnett's sawmill was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. The season's sawing had just been completed and all the stock of shingles stored in the mill were destroyed. Estimated loss $3000. No insurance.

NOT GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER.

The Unionville Station Agent Acquitted by a York Jury After an Absence of Five Hours.

Toronto, May 8.—After being locked up for five hours an Assize Court jury last evening returned a verdict acquitting Albert Weighill of Unionville of the charge of manslaughter.

10 o'clock yesterday, and was given to the jury at 3.30 p.m., the addresses of counsel and judge occupying two and a half hours. Great sympathy was felt for the accused throughout the trial, and the verdict was received with satisfaction by his friends.

Albert Weighill, the accused, was the last witness called for the defence. He swore positively that he and Boundy did not meet that day, and consequently no words passed between them. The snowplow had preceded No. 1 only 10 minutes, and could not have reached Agincourt, as the distance is six miles and the tracks were heavy. While the witness was in the station passenger No. 1 pulled out. "I ran out and threw up my hands to signal her to stop. Had there been a man on the rear end of the train, as there should have been, he would have seen my signal and the accident prevented."

IN THE COMMONS.

Questions Regarding Corinto and the Japan Treaty.

London, May 7.—In the House of Commons to-day Sir Edward Grey, Under Foreign Secretary, in reply to a question by Mr. J. W. Lowther, said that Rear Admiral Stephenson, with his ships, had left Corinto, having received a letter from the Government of Nicaragua promising that the indemnity should be paid within a fortnight and accepting the other terms of the ultimatum.

Sir Edward Grey, replying to an interrogation by Sir Ellis Ashmead Bartlett, said the Government understood that an arrangement had been arrived at between certain powers by their negotiations with Japan, but could not add any information to what had already been published in other quarters.

Toronto Markets

Toronto, May 8.—Flour market steady. Straight rollers are quoted at $3.55 to $3.85, Toronto freights.

Bran—Car lots of bran are quoted at $14 here, and shorts at $16.50 to $17.50.

Wheat—The volume of business to-day was limited, while the tone of the market shows a slight improvement. White wheat is quoted outside at 82c to 83c. No. 1 Manitoba hard is steady; with buyers at 87c west, lake and rail.

Barley—Trade is quiet, with sales of feeding qualities at 44c; No. 1 is quoted at 48c and No. 2 at 46c.

Oats—The demand is fair and prices rule firm. White sold at 35c on the Northern and mixed at 33 1-2c west. Cars on track nominal at 33c.

Peas—The market is firm, with sales outside west at 60c.

Rye—Scarce and prices nominal at about 56c.

Buckwheat—Business very dull and prices nominal.

Sudden Death in a Street Car.

Hamilton, Ont., May 8.—Robert Patrick, aged 60 years, of 25 Chatham-street, died in a street car. He felt unwell and was going home in the car, when he died of heart disease.

Crispi Under the Ban.

Rome, May 7.—The Pope has summoned Cardinal Hohenlohe to the Vatican owing to his having toasted Premier Crispi on the occasion of a recent dinner at the residence of Baron Black, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

The News Editor of the Golden Rule offers suggestions to correspondents who send news items to that paper as to the class of news they want. It is also very suitable to correspondents who write for this column, and we therefore publish it. He says:

May I suggest a few classes of news that will be especially desirable:

First of all, any unusual number of accessions to your church through the associate membership.

Important missionary gifts with brief mention of how the money was raised.

Any special work undertaken by your Society.

Successful methods of committee work, if they are new.

Ways of helping the church and pastor that you have lately proved in your Society.

Meetings of your Society in which anything of general interest is developed.

In short, all the C. E. News that is practical and helpful.

We clip the following from the Gospel News and think it worthy of reproduction:

A Presbyterian Endeavour Society of Union S. C., puts one of the elders of the church on each of the committees as ex-officio member. This places all branches of work directly under the supervision of the church officers. Surely under such a system, no one could complain that Christian Endeavour makes a separation between old and young.

HE TOOK TIME TO DIE.

By Amos R. Wells.

There was an old fellow who never had time
For a fresh morning look at the Volume sublime,
Who never had time for the soft hand of prayer
To sooth out the wrinkles of labour and care,
Who could not find time for that service most sweet
At the altar of home where the dear ones all meet,
And never found time with the people of God
To learn the good way that the fathers have trod;
But he found time to die,
O yes!
He found time to die.

This busy old fellow, too busy was he
To linger at breakfast, at dinner, or tea
For the merry small chatter of children and wife,
But led in his marriage a bachelor life;
Too busy for kisses, too busy for play,
No time to be loving, no time to be gay,
No time to replenish his vanishing health,
No time to enjoy his swift-gathering wealth;
But he found time to die;
O yes!
He found time to die.

This beautiful world had no beauty for him;
Its colours were black and its sunshine was dim.
No leisure for woodland, for river, or hill,
No time in his life just to think, and be still;
No time for his neighbours, no time for his friends,
No time for the highest immutable ends
Of the life of a man who is not for a day,
But, for worse or for better, for ever and aye.
Yet he found time to die!
O yes!
He found time to die.

UNION MEETING.

The meeting next Monday evening, in Murray street Baptist church, promises to be of a very practical and helpful nature.

At the model business meeting there will be reports from the following model committees,—Lookout, Prayer Meeting, Social, Missionary, Good Citizenship, and Good Literature. One from each of the town societies, also model reports from a junior superintendent, a treasurer, and a secretary—these will be certain to give new ideas to the workers.

There will also be a paper and a conference on "How can we get most profit from the Consecration meeting."

The annual election of officers will also take place. Bring your friends, your songs and solos and your collection.

JUNIOR WORKERS, ATTENTION!

A few months ago, President Clark made a suggestion to the juniors, which we hope to see responded to by every society in this county. You will notice that your reports ought to be sent in almost at once. Lest there should be any superintendent, who has not heard of it, we copy Mr. Baer's letter published in the Junior Golden Rule:

"At the Boston convention there will be four junior honour books. In one of them will be recorded the names of the junior societies, whose members faithfully keep the pledge, if the secretary or superintendent will let Dr. Clark know about it. He would also like to know what percentage of the active members are conscientiously faithful to the pledge, in the estimation of the superintendent, that this may be reported.

The second honour book will contain the names of societies that are particularly helpful to their pastor, the pastor or superintendent certifying to this.

The third honour book will record the societies whose members have especially tried to make home a pleasant place, according to the report of the superintendent, while the fourth book will contain the names of societies whose members have given at least one cent a week to missions.

Let the president, secretary or superintendent write to Dr. Clark before the first of June next, in which of these books the name of your society ought to be recorded. The books will be at the Boston convention, and afterwards kept safely by the United Society, that others, in years to come, may be helped to do better by a record of your endeavours for Christ.

Of course the name of your society can go upon all four of the books if you deserve it, but Dr. Clark will want to know why it should be recorded in any of them."

St. Paul's Junior Endeavour Society is planning to have a flower show next fall. Are there any others who are thinking of doing likewise? If so, your plans should be made at once.

Have you seriously thought of organizing a Mothers' Society, Junior Superintendent? You will find it really a great help and blessing, and there is very little machinery connected with it.

The Peterborough Junior Local Union will hold their Executive meeting, next Tuesday, May 14th, at Miss Mann's residence. We hope every Junior worker will arrange to be present. The meeting commences at eight o'clock.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.

The regular business meeting of the Society was held Monday night and was well attended. The opening exercises were conducted by Mr. B. Anderson, and the business part of the evening was conducted by Miss Forsyth. The topic, "Lessons from Gesthemane," was ably dealt with by Miss Bathgate. Reports were then received from the various committees, some of which show excellent work done.

MARK STREET SOCIETY.

Monday evening was held the regular consecration service. Mr. J. H. Heal took up the topic in a very practical manner, followed by the roll call, all members responding. There were two members added to our list. The society have procured Rev. J. J. Rae to give a lecture on Friday evening, May 17th, in the church. Subject, "Mind your own Business."

CHARLOTTE STREET SOCIETY.

On Monday evening our society held their regular monthly consecration service and had what was considered one of the best meetings our society ever experienced. The opening exercises were conducted by the President, after which the topic was taken up by I. Richardson. The remainder of the service was a profitable one, being full of life. We are glad to see our Endeavourers coming to the front in consecration services. There will be no meeting of our Society next Monday evening on account of the local union meeting in Murray street church, at which we hope to see our society well represented.

ST. PAUL'S SOCIETY

Held their monthly business meeting on Monday night. Encouraging reports were received from each of the committees. The report of the Nominating Committee was also received and adopted. The following is a list of the officers elected for the ensuing term:

Hon. President—Rev. Dr. Torrance.
President—T. H. Martin.
Vice-President—Miss E. Christie.
Rec.-Secretary—Miss M. Coulter.
Corresponding Secretary—J. Connal.
Organist—Miss Annie Patterson.
Editor—A. J. Johnston.
Superintendent Junior Work—Miss M. Quinn.
Secretary of Lookout—W. A. Beaton.

The several committees are as follows:

Prayer—Jas. Connal, convener; Misses Fiunia, Donaldson, Christie, Martha Jordan, Addie Moncrief, and Messrs. Lillico and A. Simpson; Sessional Member, Mr. Wright.

Lookout—T. H. Martin, convenor; Misses Minnie Moncrief, Bessie West, Emily Carter, and Messrs. F. Dobbin, B. Gerraus, W. A. Beaton, and members of Executive; Sessional member, Mr. Madill.

Social—Miss T. McIntosh, convenor; Misses E. Davidson, Florence Davidson, Addie Scott, Mary Scott, Mary Menzies, Maggie Pollock, Katie Menzies, Bella Best, Addie See, and Messrs. J. Savigny, Jas. Simpson, and R. Strachan; Sessional member, Mr. W. W. Johnston.

Music—Mr. Crowe, convenor; Misses Annie Cameron, Lillie Dixon, Hattie Courtney, Mary Patterson, Annie Patterson, and E. Montgomery; sessional member, Mr. R. Hall.

Flower and Calling—Miss Emma Hall, convenor; Misses Phemie Patterson and Miss Simpson; sessional member, Mr. G. M. Roger.

Missionary—Miss M. Beckett, convenor; Misses Maggie Jordan, Aggie Cromie, Aggie Patterson, Mary Stalkey, Bella Davidson and Mr. A. J. Johnston; sessional member, Mr. Collins.

Sunday School—Miss L. Best, convenor; Misses Jennie Mahood, Bella Thompson, Jennie Rose, Lillie Wallace, B. Best; sessional member, Mr. Fife.

Good Citizenship—J. McKelles, convenor; Misses Jennie Pollock, Mabel Johnston, Rhe Nethercutt, Jessie Stephenson, Aggie Smart, Bella Mahood, Emma Temple, Tillie Hope and Rev. Mr. McKnight; sessional member, Mr. Gilchrist.

Good Literature—Miss Adelaide Pearce, convenor; Misses Ina Cummings, Emily Carter, Rebecca McKim, Jennie Pollock, and J. McKellar; sessional member, Mr. Simpson.

General Information—Miss Blanch Brown, convenor; Etta Thompson, Bella McKnight, Lizzie Pollock, Lillie Moncrief, Bella Smart; sessional member, Mr. Wm. Walsh.

After the business was finished the President called the names of the members of the different committees, and as each name was called they stood and followed their convener to the Sunday School room, where each committee had an alcove allotted to them. The different committees had an opportunity of planning work for ensuing term on this, the first night of the term.

SALEM, May 7th, 1895.

The Epworth League of Christian Endeavour holds its meetings at this place regularly every Monday evening, each meeting lasting one hour.

The meetings are conducted by the President, Mr. H. S. Armstrong, while one of the active members, of which we have quite a number, discuss the topic. Last night we held our monthly consecration service. The meeting was opened with a short but inspiring song service, after which followed our customary prayer meeting, which was also heartily engaged in. The topic was then taken up by Mr. H. S. Armstrong, and so many points were brought before our notice and lessons which we might each learn, from that hour in Gethsemane that all were deeply impressed and felt as never before the great debt of love we owe our Master and that even with our heart's best service we cannot hope to ever repay that debt, but all He asks is that we "come to Him and find rest."

After the discussion of the topic the roll was called to which all responded, whether Active or Associate. A good spirit seemed to pervade the whole meeting. After the meeting was closed, the Executive met and drafted out a plan of work for the month.

Letter of condolence sent from Salem E.L. of C.E. to a bereaved sister member, Miss Annie Cromie, on the death of her sister:

Salem, May 3, 1895.

DEAR SISTER,—We, the members of Salem E.L. of C.E., feeling great sympathy in the sad bereavement and loss sustained by one of our circle, desire to express our feelings and share with you the sorrow you must feel, hoping it may lighten and help to dispel the gloomy feeling of sadness which is very natural in us upon such occasions, though we know it is but a call from the Master to "Come up higher, I have other work for thee to do." A loved one has left the earthly home circle and you look upon her vacant place with sadness, but she is only lifted up nearer the right hand of God, and although she has passed from our sight, yet we have the blessed assurance that we can go to her, and what sweet comfort can be taken from the thought that she is now watching and waiting for us to enter the mansions of glory, there to be forever with the Lord. We are all on this side the river, while she has got safely over, and is but one more link in the chain which connects us here upon earth with the glories and bliss of an immortal life in heaven. May God bless and comfort you, dear sister, you have our sympathy and prayers, and may you and all of us rest assured in the thought that though the scenes be those of deepest grief, still "Tis God's hand that leadeth us," and may we form at last an unbroken circle around the great white throne above.

Signed on behalf E.L. of C.E.

H. S. ARMSTRONG, President.

Robert Forbes of Guelph Dead.

Guelph, May 6.—Robert Forbes, one of the oldest, best known and wealthiest residents of Guelph, died this morning in his 80th year. Although somewhat feeble in health the past year, his death was unexpected. Deceased was prominent in financial circles here. He was connected with several of Ontario's monetary institutions, was head of the R. Forbes Woolen Company, whose mills are at Hespeler, and was also interested in other prosperous manufacturing concerns.

No More Prize Fights at New Orleans.

New Orleans, May 6.—The Supreme Court to-day decided against the Olympic Club, knocking out the fights before that institution. This is the second opinion in the case, the court having, on the first hearing, remanded the matter. Judge Eighter's decision denying the right of the club to give prize fights was thus set aside to-day by the higher tribunal. The result is a death-blow to prize fights here.

The most advantageous shop to buy Clothing in leads to one conclusion—to purchase from us. You may twist and turn and argue as you will—admit you must that our Clothing is by far the best ready-made in Canada. If you discuss prices, we say again—our selling figures are lower, because the qualities are so much better.
Fathers and sons grown up, you, to whom a sensible word can be seriously spoken, take a look at our Spring Overcoats or our new Spring Suits and convince yourself whether we are not more stylish and if our goods are not better made and trimmed or fit neater than any goods shown elsewhere.—Mothers, who generally have good judgment and look for novelties for their youngsters, never fail to look in at our establishment, for we surpass any competition in the way of Children's Clothing.
The splendid value we give in a 2-piece suit at $1.50, or a 3 piece at $2.50, should make us many new acquaintances.

A REVENUE TARIFF.

to 30 million dollars a year in the shape of interest to foreign investors was a staggerer. He (Mr. Haggart) repeated it to emphasize the absurdity of the figures.

Sir Richard had quoted The London Economist as a great authority in support of his views, but probably that paper was a little prejudiced. It had a correspondent in Canada (Cartwright) who affirmed that the Canadian agriculturist was being bled white. (Laughter and cheers.) Sir Richard was a great friend of the farmer. He was so enamored of the Patrons that the was recently an applicant for admission to that society. (Laughter.)

Sir Richard Cartwright: Will Mr. Haggart give his authority?

Mr. Haggart: Does the hon. gentleman deny my statement?

Sir Richard Cartwright: Certainly I do.

Mr. Haggart: Well, I will take the hon. gentleman's denial at present, but what I do say is this, that he was proposed for admission to a Patron lodge and refused admission. (Laughter and Opposition Oh ohs.) Fancy Sir Richard Cartwright seeking admission to a Patron lodge. (Renewed laughter.)

The Minister then dealt with the general expenditure of the country, and asked under which headings the Opposition would apply the pruning knife. On their western trip last summer the Opposition leaders had been profuse in their promises of public works. Amid continuous laughter the speaker read from newspaper reports of Messrs. Laurier and Gibson's speeches at Medicine Hat, Revelstoke, Vancouver and other places, at which direct bids for support of the people were made.

The Minister then proceeded to refer to the growth of certain industries in Canada and concluded an able speech by the declaration that when the Government appealed to the country they would support the policy of the Liberal-Conservative party. The Minister of Railways resumed his seat, amid prolonged applause.

Mr. Paterson (Brant) was the next speaker. He did not see that the Liberals were bound to declare the details of their policy at the present time. One way to economize would be to wipe out the Franchise Act; another would be not to spend $400,000 on building a $200,000 bridge. He protested against the indignity put upon the House by the Finance Minister's refusal to furnish information respecting the Hudson Bay Railway, while the Senate could get full explanations. He condemned the unblushing bribery of constituencies by promises of public works.

Hon. Mr. Dickey moved the adjournment of the debate, and the House adjourned at 11 o'clock.

A Clergyman Commits Suicide.

Montreal, May 8.—In Cote St. Antoine Rev. William Hall, principal of the French Methodist Institute, West Mount, committed suicide this morning by shooting himself. He had been in the ministry for thirty years. Mr. Hall was 58 years of age. The suicide shot himself in the throat with a rifle.

RUN ON ST. JOHN'S BANKS

Anti-Confederationists Start a Scare—All Demands Promptly Paid in Gold.

St. John's, Nfld., May 7.—Last night a rumor was set afloat here that the Bank of Montreal had suspended payment owing to the depression in Canadian railway securities and the deficit in the Canadian revenue. The report spread with inconceivable rapidity, and this morning a run was organized on all three of the banks in this city, the branches of the Bank of Montreal, the Bank of Nova Scotia and the Merchants' Bank of Halifax.

Hundreds of persons gathered around the banks before the opening hour, demanding gold for the notes in their possession. Fortunately all the banks have an abundance of gold to meet the demands upon them and redeem their circulation. Each is redeeming notes of the others, and gold is so plentifully displayed that confidence is beginning to be restored.

A run was begun on the Government Savings Bank also. This bank is supplied by the Bank of Montreal, which has plenty of coin to carry both safe over the crisis.

The business people and the more intelligent classes of the city have not taken part in the run, being confident of the stability of all four institutions. Only the poorer people have been affected.

The canard originated with some of the anti-confederationists in this city, who are blamed by all classes for their incendiary writings. The anti-confederationist press is also largely responsible for the sensation.

The run ceased this afternoon, and at the closing hour of business all the institutions were reported to be in a normal condition. About $90,000 in gold had been paid out altogether. The indignation of the people at the fraud is intense, and rewards will be offered for the discovery of the originator of the story.

Two Marvellous Fire Eaters.

The fire eaters of whom we propose to speak, and who have been exhibiting in the hall of the Olympia at Paris, excel in their line anything of the kind that has been seen up to the present. They not only swallowed flames, but handle fire and cause it to flash from their fingers.

These fire eaters are two young Americans who have cultivated physics and electricity considerably. When they perform their experiments they are clad in a tight-fitting costume of a red color, which represents that of the devils of fairy scenes. The stage upon which they appear remains but dimly lighted during the entire time of their presence thereon. At the back of it there is a piece of furniture that resembles an office desk seen from the rear, but no detail of this object is distinguishable. The devils go behind it and seem to make some preparation with their hands there, and then they come to the front of the stage and cause very thin but brilliant flames to dart from their fingers. Bringing these flames near their mouths, they seem to swallow them, and then extinguish them between their teeth.

When the two devils touch each other's hands a crackling is heard and long flames dart forth for a few seconds from the tips of their fingers, which they continuously move.

In a subsequent experiment, without putting anything in their mouths, they blow with energy and a brilliant flame makes its exit from between their lips. They shoot forth a jet of flame for a considerable length of time, which certainly exceeds half a minute.

While these singular phenomena are occurring the spectators absolutely smell no odor. It is probable that the combustion is due to a very volatile essence, but we are unable either to state precisely the nature of it or to give an exact explanation of the experiments performed. The red devils keep their secret, and when they are questioned remain mute.

For the chemist there are here some interesting experiments to take up and study.—La Nature.

The Man of To-day

Who does'nt know that the possibilities for elegance in Clothing have as wide a scope in READY-MADE as in Made-to-Measure is simply not well informed.

The citizen of Peterborough who does'nt know that GOUGH BROS. every season exhaust these possibilities in the very latest fashion creations of the Clothing world—is also devoid of information, which might be made of great practical value to him from an economical standpoint.

The object of this announcement is to call attention to the two facts above suggested—and to invite a personal investigation of the matter.

There are no Doubts Connected With This Business

We undertake to dress any man from head to heel to his complete satisfaction—including the item of cost, which we guarantee to make SMALLER than any other house in Western Canada.

While we can sell a Man's Suit for $2.90 and a Boy's Suit for 89c, we can just as easily suit the man who insists on having a fashionable Suit worth $12.00 or $14.00, or the Boy whose parents can afford a stylish suit worth $4.50 or $5.00.

Our stock is not limited. We are always prepared for the steady stream of the masses, that finds its way here continually. This means that we have the goods to suit all classes—the medium-price and high-grade Clothing as well. Half assortments drive away trade. Customers won't waste time running where they can't get what they want.

Are you Getting any of our Good Lines we sell so Cheaply

We Have in Clothing
Elegant Black Worsteds, Fine Fancy Cheviots, beautiful Tweeds, durable Cassimeres—made in single and double-breasted, sack and cutaway style—Everyone a true $15.00 Suit, for $12.00. We sell more Clothing and YOU are the cause of it—YOU, because our values win your trade.

We Have in Hats
The very latest. None others Our Leading Fedoras at $1.25 and $2.00 are not equalled outside our stores. We have the best $1.50 and $1.75 Hats in Canada. Of course you may get just as good by paying $2.00 and $2.50 at other Hat stores, but, well, your choice, not ours.

We Have in Shoes
A range of prices that are down so low they cannot get lower for high-class goods. Leather is going up and the manufacturers are asking more money for Shoes, but we shall continue to sell at present prices. If you would only take the trouble to compare more, our crowds would be larger.

"ALWAYS GOOD AT GOUGH'S."

SHALL WOMEN VOTE?

The Commons Discuss Women Enfranchisement.

THE QUESTION A PROVINCIAL ONE

Nicholas Flood Davin Upholds the Ladies' Cause—Mr. Laurier Holds It Is Not Germane to Dominion Politics—Charlton's Sunday Bill Killed.

Ottawa, May 8.—Mr. McCarthy is after the scalps of Lieut.-Governor Schultz and Dr. Bourinot, with reference to the opinion given by the latter on the Manitoba school question. He promises to make things lively to-morrow.

Women's suffrage was debated at the afternoon session of the House. Mr. Davin who introduced the subject, marshalling all the arguments in favor of the fair sex with excellent effect. At first the discussion dragged, and for the moment there was a possibility of it petering out. But presently the members awakened, and then until 6 o'clock some excellent speeches were made pro and con.

At the evening session Charlton's Sabbath Observance bill was considered in committee and eventually a motion of Mr W. F. Maclean's that the committee rise, was carried by 37 to 25. This for the present kills the bill, but Mr. Charlton will endeavor to get it restored to the order paper.

In the House in the afternoon Mr. Edgar asked: Under the proposed amendment of the Inland Revenue Act, section 130, sub-section a, fixing an excise duty on distilled spirits of $1.70 per gallon of the strength of proof, what would be the excise duty upon each gallon of spirits of the following strengths: 1, 65 per cent. over proof? 2, 50 per cent. over proof? 3, 20 per cent. under proof? 4, 25 per cent. under proof?

Mr. Wood replied to the first question, $2.80 1-2 per gallon; to the second, 2$.55 per gallon; third, $1.36 per gallon; fourth, $1.37 1-2 per gallon.

Mr. Edgar asked: Under the proposed amendment of the act respecting the duties of customs, 57-58 Victoria, chap. 33, section 7, sub-section A, of seedule A, fixing the customs duties on alcohol and spirituous liquors at $2.25 per gallon of the strength of proof, what would be the customs duty upon each gallon of spirits of the following strengths: 1, 65 per cent. over proof? 2, 50 per cent. over proof? 3, 20 per cent. under proof? 4, 25 per cent. under proof?

Mr. Wallace replied to the first question, $3.71; to the second, $3.37 1-2; and to the third and fourth, $1.91 1-4.

Mr. Davin rose to move that in the opinion of this House the privilege of voting for candidates for membership thereof should be extended to women possessing the qualifications which now entitle men to electoral franchise. When he read his motion there were loud cries of "Carried."

"I am glad to hear that," remarked the Regina orator.

"I said marry," came a voice from behind the speaker, amid much laughter.

Mr. Davin: That would be a solution of the question, although it has not yet had my practical support. (Renewed laughter.)

Continuing, he said, his proposal would not apply to married women; only to those women spinsters who were householders or property-holders in their own right. The speaker then entered into an elaborate history of the Women's Emancipation movement. It was claimed that women were not qualified to exercise the franchise, but he thought the burden of proof lay with those who made that statement. Women in every branch of life had proved that they were the equals, if not the superiors of men. He read a long list of notable women who had influenced the politics of the world. If then they could discharge the highest political functions, was it possible to conceive that they could not perform one of the simplest duties? It was objected that if women were enfranchised it would enormously increase the power of clergy. The inference was that women would not vote according to their own judgment, but did the men? He thought not. Men were just as easily influenced as women. In the first draft of the Electoral Franchise Act of 1885, a clause was inserted to give the franchise to women, and in speaking on the subject Sir John Macdonald said it was only a question of the time when woman suffrage would obtain throughout the world. Nor did he support the view that the right to vote carried with it the right to be elected. Hon. Mr. Mills, too, had supported the principle of female franchise. Mr. McMullen expressed similar views. Speaking at Brantford in August last Mr. Laurier said that in Quebec they had not "thought of giving woman the franchise, for she had been in the habit of ruling and governing for ever so long." (Applause.) He himself believed the ladies would "vote to a man" for the Conservative party. (Laughter.) In the four elections he had fought his first endeavor was to enlist the sympathy of the ladies. That ensured success. As to objections, the Bible did not pretend to be a political guide. St. Paul might be quoted, but St. Paul rather advised women not to marry at all. Mr. Davin had no sympathy with those who distorted Genesis in the effort to further advanced ideas of woman's rights, but he would quote the description of woman in the last chapter of Proverbs. He did not believe that politics would degrade woman.

Hon. Mr. Montague moved the adjournment of the debate in order that hon. members desiring to speak as he did himself might give time to the consideration of the facts set forth by the mover of the resolution.

Hon. Mr. Laurier, after declaring his sympathy with all movements looking towards the recognition of woman's equality with man, added that there was no feeling in favor of woman suffrage in Quebec; that if such a resolution as Mr. Davin's were moved in the Local Legislature it would certainly be defeated. He thought it was entirely a matter of provincial concern, and the motion to adjourn having been withdrawn, Mr. Laurier moved in amendment that "the question of woman suffrage is one which, like other questions concerning suffrage, more properly belongs to provincial jurisdiction."

Dr. Sproule said it was amusing to hear Mr. Laurier's observations, considering the source from which they emanated. Since 1885 the leader of the Opposition had invariably accepted the principle of the Dominion franchise. Now, if his suggestion was carried out Ontario would have to confer the right to vote at Dominion elections on widows and unmarried men. Personally he (Dr. Sproule) favored Mr. Davin's resolution.

Mr. Mills (Bothwell) thought, all things considered, Mr. Laurier's amendment was one which ought to be acceptable to both sides of the House.

Mr. McMullen took it as a sign of the weakness that the Government had no mind of its own on this important question.

Mr. Craig regarded this argument as rather inconsistent, seeing that only a few years ago, in the Ontario House, Sir Oliver Mowat favored woman suffrage, while two of his colleagues, Messrs. Hardy and Fraser, opposed. He was surprised also that such a doughty champion of the woman's rights as Mr. Davin was a confirmed bachelor himself. Did he envy his married male friends their domestic happiness that he wished to throw this source of discord into the home? (Laughter.) For himself he did not think it would be a good thing for woman herself to have the right to vote. For one, he would not like to have his home beseiged by candidates or canvassers at election times soliciting his wife's vote. But, seriously, it could not be argued that woman would greatly elevate politics. It might be, if politics were conducted invariably by the best class of citizens, but experience here and in the United States showed it to be otherwise. (Hear, hear.)

Dr. Lachapelle had too much regard for woman to desire to impose upon her the burden of this obligation.

W. F. Maclean argued against women in politics. He agreed with the idea of the gradual emancipation of women, but politics was the last thing they should meddle with. They could first conquer in the domain of business, of teaching and art, but politics were neither suited to them nor would women be advanced, but rather retarded by participation therein. He read from Goldwin Smith's recent article in The North American Review to support his contention. Politics demanded reason, but, as things were, there was a lack of reason and a great deal of prejudice in them now, and if to this was added a flood of female emotion, the Prime Minister of Canada would be a man like Mr. F. S. Spence of Toronto and his colleagues—men of the Charlton stamp.

Col. Amyot also opposed the resolution. The home and not political life was woman's proper sphere. He was opposed to leaving the question to the province.

Mr. McInerney thought woman' suffrage rage should not be forced on any province without the consent of the province, but he was not willing to place the matter within the absolute control of the provinces, believing that this Parliament should retain control of its own franchise. Mr. Laurier's amendment seemed to him an attempt to induce the House by a catch vote to declare itself in favor of a principle of which it did not approve.

Mr. Foster said he wished to say a few words on this subject before a vote was taken, and as it was now nearly 6 o'clock he would move the adjournment of the debate. (Carried.)

Mr. McCarthy: When we meet again at 8 o'clock I propose to call the attention of the House to a very extraordinary document, published the day before yesterday by way of advice offered to the Lieut.-Governor of Manitoba, by an officer of this House. I think it is a matter of such importance that I will move the adjournment in order to ask the House to consider the propriety of the conduct of the Lieutenant-Governor and of an officer of this House.

Mr. David Mills (Bothwell): I hope the hon. member will not bring that matter up to-night as I should like very much to be present when it is discussed and I cannot possibly be here to-night.

Mr. McCarthy: What time will suit you? I should like it to be early.

Mr. Mills (after consultation with the other Opposition leaders): To-morrow afternoon.

Mr. McCarthy: Very well.

The House then went into committee on Mr. Charlton's Sabbath Observance bill. On the first clause, prohibiting Sunday newspapers, Mr. W. F. Maclean thought the measure an unnecessary one: it was illiberal, reactionary and inconsistent with Mr. Charlton's principles, which bound him to oppose restrictions on individual liberty and to uphold provincial rights. Ontario had passed legislation providing for the due observance of Sunday. The religious beliefs of a majority of the people of Quebec was not the same as that of the majority of people in Ontario, and he regarded as an injustice that the Federal Parliament should interfere with the right of the people of Quebec to observe the Sabbath in any way they thought fit.

Mr. Curran pointed out that Mr. Charlton had re-introduced the bill in the same objectionable form as last year. He thought the measure was irregular, and should have been introduced as an amendment to the Criminal Code.

Mr. Charlton, replying to objections, said that he regarded Sunday newspapers as an unmitigated curse.

Mr. Amyot thought Parliament would have to submit to periodical fits of sanctity. He entered a vigorous protest against the bill.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Masson, Curran, Hasen, Jeannotte and Tisdale.

Mr. Foster said he was not in favor of Sunday newspapers. The reading of six days' successive news in a week was enough. He had no objection to the principle contained in clause one.

Mr. Dickey thought legislation of this character ought to be dealt with solely by provinces.

Mr. Maclean's motion that the chairman leave the chair was carried by 37 to 25, and the bill was killed.

The House adjourned at 10.30.

An interesting discussion took place at a meeting of a committee on Agriculture, on a motion introduced by Mr. Taylor, that a circular be issued to cheese-producers, asking their opinion as to the advisability of passing the McLennan bill for branding on cheese the day and date of manufacture, as well as to the box. Mr. Cochrane thought there was no necessity for sending out a circular. He hoped the bill would pass this session. The farmers would be in favor of it, it was the cold storage men, from whom opposition might be expected. Mr. McNeill strongly emphasised the importance of all cheese being branded with the word "Canada." Messrs. McMillan, Roome, Smith (Ontario) and others took part in the discussion and eventually the motion was carried. Incidentally Mr. Reid of Belleville remarked that years ago he had offered a bonus of $100 for the first cheese factory ever built in Canada. It was decided to send a deputation of members to Brockville on Thursday to discuss the branding question with the cheese board.

Mr. McCarthy will ask if Mr. Ouimet was correctly reported in The Montreal Herald of the 8th inst. as having said on the occasion of the visit of Lieut.-Governor of Quebec to Monument National: "It was here that they (French-Canadians) had once been conquered, but could boast that they had reconquered their country since the Queen was represented in the province by a French-Canadian. As to himself he could say that he had shown lately in the Federal Cabinet that the French Canadians were not only respected, but they could even command." Mr. McCarthy wants to know the meaning of the last reference.

Notorious Reds in Limbo.

Berlin, May 8.—The two notorious Anarchists Jaehs and Krebs were arrested here late this evening. The police say they were planning a dynamite outrage. The Socialists and Radicals think the arrests were arranged to cause a reaction in favor of the anti-Socialist bill.

The men were arrested on the evidence of a woman who overheard them discussing the case with which the Emperor might be assassinated on his way to the Tempelhoferfeld. The woman declared they had buried explosives in Friedrichshain, but the police found nothing at the spot indicated and obtained no evidence confirming the woman's story. The Government papers are not likely to get much capital out of the affair to help the anti-Socialist bill."

Daily Examiner.

THURSDAY, MAY 9, 1895.

If anything were needed to cast discredit on the Canadian Senate, it has been supplied by the list of the dates at which the ten vacant Senatorships became respectively vacant. Here they are :

October 18	1890
May 14	1891
April 15	1892
October 30	1893
December 4	1893
June 15	1894
July 7	1894
January 17	1895

One vacancy is four years and a half old, another just four years, another three years, and so on. Why asks the Brantford Expositor, fill up these vacancies at all? The Senate goes on the even tenor of its way just as well with its reduced membership.

THE Ottawa Free Press says :—" Among the promises made in regard to the Senate is one given to Mr; Aikens, formerly of the band of mediocrities with which Sir John liked to surround himself, and later Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba. Mr. Stevenson, M. P. for Peterborough, has quite as strong claims, in a party sense perhaps greater. The reasons for one or other appointment can readily be imagined, but it is said that Mr. Wallace favours the appointment of Mr. Aikens.

"BUSINESS men," says the Ottawa Journal 'will appreciate the action of the city council in postponing the operation of the by-law compelling the removal of projecting sign-boards. The reform is making way, and there is no need for rigor in pushing it." If way-back Ottawa had exercised a little more "rigor" in pushing things generally she would not have been more than a dozen years behind Peterborough in the matter in question.

TORONTO'S street railway receipts steadily increase in spite of the bicycles. April was over $6,000 better than last year. The receipts seem likely to reach a million dollars this year. In that case the city's percentage will be eighty thousand dollars in addition to mileage tax of probably seventy thousand.

OMEMEE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Farmers are delighted with the very fine seeding time and prospects were never better.

Gardening and housecleaning ar the order of the day.

Dr. J. A. Thompson says it is an unusually healthy spring, and while his practice is up to the average, yet no fever or contagious diseases.

John Lane, of Lane & Richards, Omemee Mirror, has left town for the Southern States by advice of his physician, to regain his health. He had made many friends whilst here. Mr. Richards will conduct the paper.

Mr. John Kincaid, accompanied by Peterborough's "lightning shinglers," put the roof on his brick dwelling here, occupied by Miss Thornton, in one day that formerly took up a week of other mechanics' time. Many of the local carpenters here have not yet got over the shock, believing that "life is too short" to trifle away the time, as they have in the past. Archie and his partner are travelling missionary mechanics in the truest sense.

The many friends of A. Orr, the popular public school teacher, here, in the High School, owing to unavoidable causes from ill health and disability, has had a good settlement from the different fraternal insurance companies he is connected with.

The Rev. Jno. Tanner, B.A., son of Prof. Tanner, proprietor of the Morin College, Quebec, has returned to assume the pastorate of Omemee, Fowler's Corners, and Mount Pleasant congregations to the delight of each place. Last Sunday he preached a most powerful sermon, calculated to arouse the most thoughtless. The congregations were large in each and every place, and the rev. gentleman was delighted with the kind reception, and no doubt will prove one of the most worthy pastors. He has had some four years experience as a Fredch missionary in Quebec besides preaching to many English speaking congregations, is a good classical scholar and good sound theologian.

HELPLESS FOR MONTHS.

AN ATTACK OF LA GRIPPE FOLLOWED BY PARTIAL PARALYSIS.

Such was the Experience of Frank Menger, of Fergus—The Details of His Recovery Related.

From the Fergus News-Record.

The many friends of Mr. Frank Menger, son of Mr. Geo. Menger, of the Dominion hotel, know that for over six months he was all but helpless from an attack of paralysis and that he has again recovered the entire use of the parts affected. Mr. Menger was questioned by a reporter of the News-Record regarding his recovery, and, while not anxious for notoriety, candidly admitted that Dr. Williams Pink Pills was the first medicine to start him on the road to renewed health. "Three years ago," said Mr. Menger, "I was telegraph operator at St. Joseph's, in Waterloo county. I was taken down with an attack of la grippe and became so enfeebled that I was forced to quit work and return to my home, at that time in Alma. I was then stricken with partial paralysis and was unable to move my limbs. I remained in this trying condition for six months, and was well-nigh giving up in despair, when my father brought home Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I began taking, and soon felt an improvement. I continued the use of Pink Pills until I had taken twenty boxes and daily found life and strength being restored to my limbs. Only those who have been attacked as I was can understand the feelings of joy occasioned by a renewed lease of health and activity, and you can rest assured I shall always speak in warm terms of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

The News-Record can add that Mr. Menger is a thoroughly reliable young man, and a total abstainer both as regards stimulants and the use of tobacco.

WIDEAWAKE WARSAW.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. Geo. Rose, who has just returned from Queen's University, gave us a short call before going to his summer's work. He looks well after his hard term's work.

On Thursday last Dr. Couch was suddenly called to his former home at Madoc, where his mother is seriously ill.

Miss May Clute left for her home at Sillsville on Saturday.

The brickwork on Mr. B. James, Jr., house is about completed. Ashburnham is not going to be out done by this side of the river.

The bus of the circular saw is now to be heard from morning till night, Mr. Wasson having secured Mr. Robt. Forsythe as sawyer. As the old saw says the third man is the charm.

Mr. John Wasson is beautifying the premises by planting a row of fine young maples in front of his residence on Water street. We hope that others will follow his example and thus add new beauty to our otherwise picturesque little town.

We understand that Mr. Donald McIntosh has again secured the contract of conveying the mail between Peterborough and Warsaw. All agree that a better selection could not be made as Mr. McIntosh's past record has proved him to be a thoroughly trustworthy and obliging mail carrier. Certainly he is the right man in the right place.

The annual meeting of the Warsaw football club was held in Mr. B. James' office on Saturday night. The attendance was large, and the enthusiasm displayed showed that the boys intend making the season of '95 interesting for the other local teams. The treasurer's report showed a nice little balance on hand to commence the season's operations with. The following are the officers :

B James, jr	Pres
E Watts	Vice Pres
F Morgan	Sec.-Treas
H Kidd	Capt
D Forsythe	Assist.-Capt
F Tully	Curator
Jas Kidd, D Forsythe and ———	Councillors

The nursery stock delivery men are busy these days. Mr. B. James is delivering a large stock for Carer Bros., and Mr. W. J. Doughty is at present delivering the stock of E. O. Graham from Lakefield to Apsley.

At the regular meeting of the E.L.C.E. in the Methodist church Monday evening, the topic was John Wesley, his life and works. The meeting was very interesting and report says "it couldn't have been better."

Some four or five of Norwood's hopefuls passed through our quiet little village at an early hour on Sunday morning on their new bikes en route for Lakefield. They returned in the evening looking a little tired, quite muddy and awfully hungry. After a sumptuous tea at the Morgan House, they set out for their native village, there to tell tall stories of their wondrous speed—of how Jack ran over the side of the turnpike, how Archie can guide the wheel with one handle, and countless other adventures. It's all right, boys, call again.

TEST THE QUESTION OF PROHIBITION.

Temperance M.P.'s Decide That Mr. Flint's Resolution Be Voted On.

Ottawa, May 9.—At the Prohibition Conference 35 members were present, together with a number of active temperance workers.

Mr. Flint's resolution, That in the opinion of this House the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors in Canada, except for sacramental, scientific, manufacturing and medicinal purposes, should be prohibited by law," was the main topic of discussion.

Mr. Scriver, M.P., moved that Mr. Flint proceed with his motion and Dr. Macdonald, M.P., agreed.

Dr. Roome, M.P., in amendment, said the resolution meant nothing, and moved that a committee of five draft a satisfactory resolution.

Taylor, M.P., approved the amendment, while Dr. Weldon and Mr. Craig upheld the motion, which was carried.

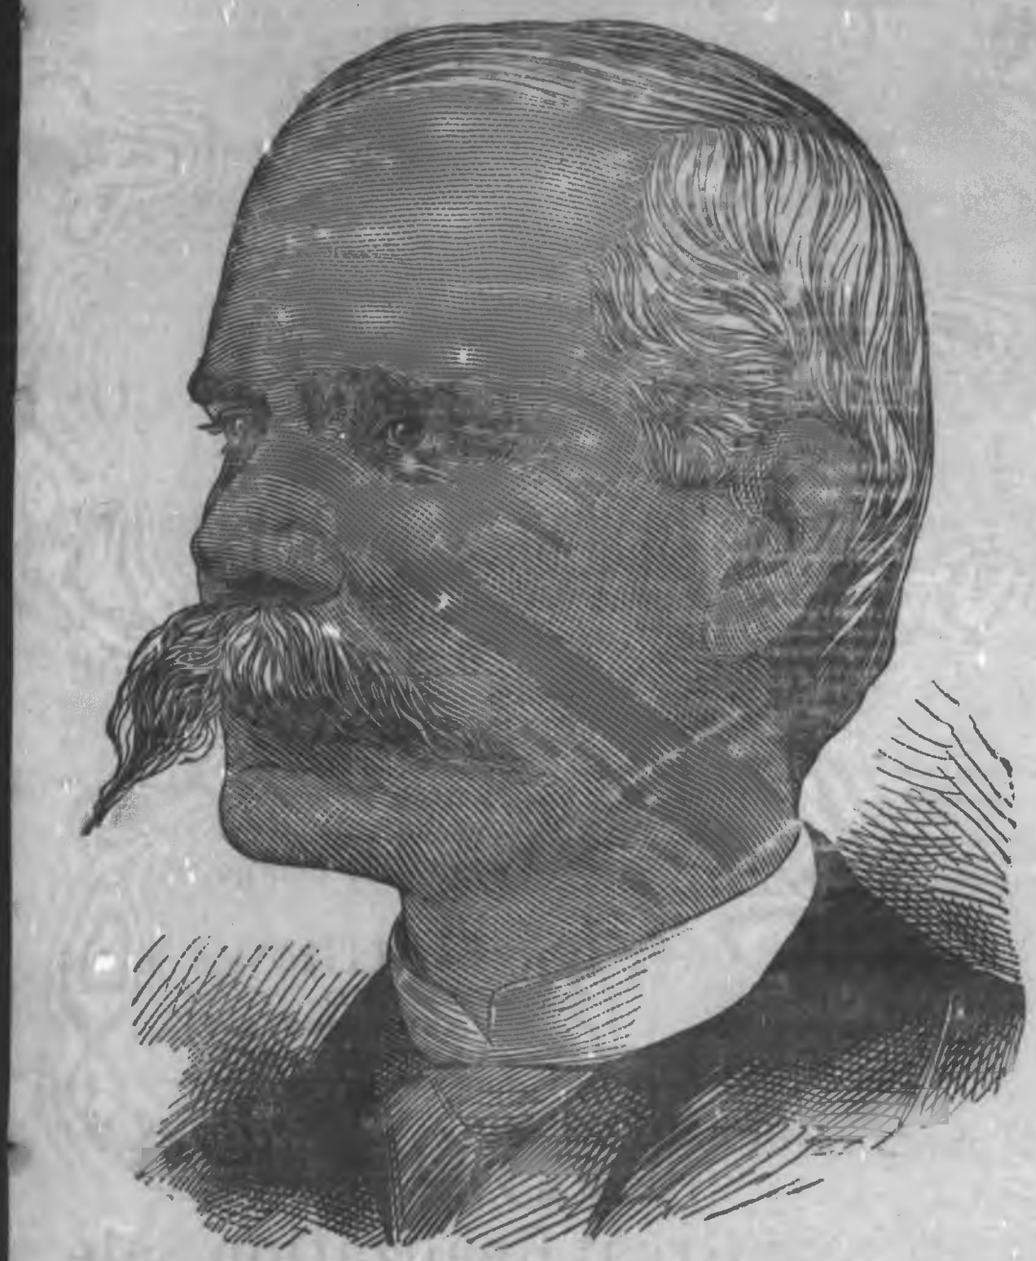
JOHN NEWTON WILLIAMS.

Eminent Inventor of the Williams Typewriter Owes Strength and Health to Paine's Celery Compound.



The old-time visionary inventor has given place to the practical, hard-working professional inventor of to-day.

The successful inventor must now be a business man as well as a man of mechanical ideas.

The high tension of the nervous system, often kept up for months and months, makes tremendous drafts on the health of those busy brain workers. Many succumb to nervous prostration when they seem just on the point of surmounting every difficulty.

Of all the countless recent useful inventions none has passed through so many or so rapid a course of improvements as the typewriter. To-day, the latest perfected machine is undoubtedly the Williams Typewriter, which represents a vast amount of cumulative invention.

Many of the best commercial houses and large corporations in Canada are now using the Williams Typewriter. This perfected machine has also been adopted by some departments of the British and Canadian governments.

John Newton Williams, its inventor, was born in 1845 in Brooklyn, N.Y. He spent his early manhood on the western frontier. Subsequently he settled in Kentucky, where he became known as one of the most successful stock breeders in the state.

But it is as an inventor that he has won his national reputation. Several most useful and important inventions were made by him before he produced the Williams typewriter, a machine that probably excels all others in the most important features.

Mr. Williams, speaking of the labour expended in bringing the machine that bears his name to its present perfection says:—

"Some four years ago, when engaged in experimental work on the 'Williams,' I was putting in about sixteen hours per day of hard work and worry, and came near breaking down. Although very particular and regular in my habits and careful about eating, my stomach troubled me. It was difficult to eat, and more difficult to digest and assimilate my food, my stomach acting in sympathy with an over worked brain. A friend had sent some Paine's Celery Compound to one of my business associates, and knowing him personally, and seeing what it did for him, I thought I would try it. I commenced taking it before meals, and it at once stimulated my appetite and aided digestion. I took two bottles and was much benefitted.

"Again, two years later, I was troubled with nervousness and indigestion, and again took Paine's Celery Compound with great benefit. My wife, after her long illness last summer, and severe nervous prostration, and some trouble from indigestion, concluded to try Paine's Celery Compound, a few weeks ago, and she is now taking it with steady improvement. Several of my friends have taken it on my recommendation, and are now practical believers in its great restorative powers. I have found the Celery Compound a tonic and restorative that I could lean upon with confidence in time of trouble."

Paine's Celery Compound makes people well! As a spring remedy it is unsurpassed.

Clothing.

The most advantageous shop to buy Clothing in leads to one conclusion—to purchase from us. You may twist and turn and argue as you will—admit you must that our Clothing is by far the best ready-made in Canada. If you discuss prices, we say again—our selling figures are lower, because the qualities are so much better.

Fathers and sons grown up, you, to whom a sensible word can be seriously spoken, take a look at our Spring Overcoats or our new Spring Suits and convince yourself whether we are not more stylish and if our goods are not better made and trimmed or fit neater than any goods shown elsewhere.—Mothers, who generally have good judgment and look for novelties for their youngsters, never fail to look in at our establishment, for we surpass any competition in the way of Children's Clothing.

The splendid value we give in a 2-piece suit at $1.50, or a 3 piece at $2.50, should make us many new acquaintances.

NORWOOD NEWS NOTES.

(From our own Correspondent.)

School Board meeting next Monday evening.

Quarterly meeting services were held in the Methodist church, last Sunday morning.

Bicycles are becoming numerous in town.

A row occurred on Monday evening, on Peterborough street. A number of men, most of whom were drunk, got into a brawl and soon stones and eggs were flying around. Some of the bystanders had narrow escapes from being hit with the missiles. No arrests were made.

Mr. and Mrs. Haines and family arrived in Norwood, on Monday, from Bloxwich, England, and are the guests of Mrs. J. L. Squire.

Mr. Garthung, of Brantford, Grand Organizer of the C. O. F., paid a fraternal visit to Norwood Lodge, last Wednesday evening.

Messrs. Harvey & Kellogg's merry-go-round was set up on the town hall block last week. They did a good business Saturday evening. Owing to the sparks which rose from the engine, the residents objected to having it so close to their buildings and the council refused to grant a further license for running the affair. It is being removed to Havelock this week.

On Monday, April 20th, Mr. Geo. Airhart, who resides near Sandy lake, in the township of Methuen, killed a large grey wolfe. He fyled his affidavit with Mr. T. Fraser, clerk of the Division Court and received a certificate under 55 Vic., chap. 59, which on presentation to the county treasurer will entitle him to the usual bounty. Mr. Airhart says there are a considerable number of wolves in that section.

Wednesday morning of last week the marriage of Miss Grace Young, youngest daughter of the late Mr. Young, of Rockdale, to Rev. Dr. W. E. Smith, of Elizabethville, was solemnized by the Rev. Mr. Brown of Madoc. A large number of friends and relatives was present. The bride was supported by her sister, Miss Annie. Miss Bertha Young was maid of honour. Mr. Jas. Smith was best man. After the ceremony the guests partook of a delicious wedding breakfast. Miss Young was once a student at the High School here and will be remembered by a number of friends in the village.

The annual meeting of the members of the Mechanics' Institute, or as it is more properly named, the Public Library, was held on Monday evening with a fair attendance. The following officers were elected:

Hon. Presidents—J. B. Pearce and resident clergy.

President—A. R. Anderson.

Vice-President—F. E. Perney.

Board of Managers—Jas. Pengelly, W. Rutherford, P. W. Reynolds, J. McClelland, Thos. Rork, W. P. Plant, J. G. Keefer, W. Ebbs, G. Nichol, R. Nicoll and Dr. Ford.

Mr. Perney, Dr. Ford and the secretary were appointed a committee to draft by-laws and regulations for the library. The institutions is now on a sound footing with a membership of 204.

COUNCIL MEETING.

The regular monthly meeting of the Council was held Monday evening, all the members present.

Applications from Messrs. A. Robinson, J. Paget, D. McCarthy and Scott, for sidewalks on their respective streets, were received.

Moved by Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Stuart, that the council be called together at as early a date as possible to inspect the streets and make up the estimates of new sidewalks, repairs, etc.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Stuart and Mr. Buck, that the council meet as a Court of Revision on the assessment roll on Monday, June 3, at 9 o'clock a.m., and that the Clerk give the necessary notice.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Drain and Mr. Reynolds that Mr. J. Murphy be notified to deliver plank according to contract, forthwith, and failing so to do, the council will hold him responsible for any loss which the village may sustain thereby.

Moved by Mr. Stuart and Mr. Buck, that all persons owning or harbouring dogs shall procure tags on or before the 15th of May, after which date the constable be authorized to proceed according to the by-law.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Stuart, that the owners of the merry-go-round be notified to remove it from the Town Hall lot, as the hall and other buildings are in danger of being fired by sparks.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Stuart, that in future the license for a merry-go-round be $10 per day, and the corporate seal be attached to this motion until a by-law is prepared to cover the same.—Carried.

ASHBURNHAM PUBLIC SCHOOL.

A GREAT CELEBRITY.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Extensively Used in Collingwood and District.

COLLINGWOOD, May 9.—There are fewer sufferers from severe rheumatism in Collingwood this year than ever before, and the fact has been much commented on. Several theories have been broached to account for this, but the one most generally accepted is the general use of Dodd's Kidney Pills, which obtained a great celebrity in this section of the country, when Mr. Valentine Fisher, of this town, made such a remarkable recovery through their use. The particulars of the case became widely known, with the result that the remedy came into general use, and produced the most beneficial results.

J. J. Brealy Sentenced.

This afternoon Mr. Jas. J. Brealy was sentenced to pay a fine of $20, or be confined in the gaol for 30 days, for pointing a rifle at Mr. Bert Downer for the purpose of intimidating him, when Mr. Downer attempted to stop him from driving a flock of sheep owned by Mr. Bradburn from the Brealey farm, the ownership of which is at present disputed between Mr. Bradburn and Mr. Brealey. The defendant refused to pay the fine and was placed in goal.

DIED FROM A PET RABBIT'S BITE.

Peculiarly Sad Death of Mr. Thomas Lush.

A week ago—Wednesday, May 1st—Mr. Thomas Lush, baker, of Dublin street, was feeding a pet rabbit some potato parings; the little animal in taking its treat from the hand of its master, bit him upon the thumb. The bite was not considered anything serious, and Mr. Lush went the rounds of his customers as usual. However, before he arrived home he began to experience pain in the bitten thumb, and he felt in such a weak physical state that he reached home in an almost fainting condition. Dr. Pigeon's services were procured, and the usual remedies resorted to, but apparently without beneficial result. Blood poisoning set in, and continued its course till death resulted last evening. Mr. Lush, who was a native of Dorsetshire, Eng., was for a time in the regular army, serving in China and the East. He was invalided and received a pension, and came out to Canada several years ago. He was some time employed in the bakery of his brother Mr. N. Lush, but a few years ago started business on his own account. He was married to Miss Annie Coward, a native of the same county in England, who came to Peterborough for that purpose. Two children were born, and what makes the case sadder is that the greatly bereaved wife expects soon to again become a mother. Mr. Lush's other relatives in town are two brothers, Mr. Nehimiah and Mr. Henry Lush. Mr. Lush was a steady industrious citizen, who enjoyed the respect of all who knew him. He was for many years a member of Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England, and his funeral took place this afternoon under the auspices of that society, and though the notice was short a large number of the brethren turned out to pay a last tribute of respect to their departed brother.

The stock, which includes trimmings, ornaments and novelties, is all this season's goods—the finest and most fashionable, as well as the most stylish. The beauty of these goods, the marvellous reductions in price, next thing to cost, should make Mr. Hall's millinery Saturday a busy day at his extensive establishment. Ladies who are proud of bargains—and what lady is not?—will be sure to avail themselves of the wonderful millinery bargains that will be offered from 8 o'clock a.m. till 10 o'clock p.m. on Saturday. 3d109

The Boys Never Forgotten.

3,000 boys' suits for 3,000 boys! Red-hot bargains in them all! Our assortment of low priced suits is just as complete as in the finer grades. Mothers! a dollar or two will do wonders between now and the 24th of May! We call your particular attention to our 2-piece suits at $1.25 and upwards and our 3-piece suits at $2.50 and upwards. A new suit once a month at these prices wouldn't hurt most of you. Talk about buying them cheaper—it can't be done. The cheapest is not the lowest priced—its most goodness to the dollar. The suits and prices we have just now are as near right as we can come to it. Besides we give away free with every boy's suit, a lacrosse stick or a baseball and bat. We like to encourage the healthy games and athletic sports. We like waiting on the boys and their mothers.—H. LEBRUN & Co.

ATHLETICS.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES IN EVERY LINE.

Items of Interest to Local Sportsmen, Aquatic and Field Sports—At Riverside, the P.A.A.A. and the Driving Park.

LACROSSE.

That extremes often meet was amply exemplified last evening, when from the most complete disorganization in lacrosse circles, one of the healthiest and strongest of organizations sprang into existence by amalgamating of the Junior and Senior Peterboroughs. The club met for practice in the Riverside Park, and the turnout of old and tried players, as well as of plenty of ambitious young blood, was most encouraging indeed. It is doubtful if there ever was a larger or more enthusiastic lacrosse practice in the town, fully half a hundred players being out on the field.

Although the season is advanced the boys have made arrangements to have Riverside Park for practices on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays of each week and will doubtless soon be in their old shape and fit to go to Campbellford on May 24th, and bring back the thirteen gold lockets. The next match will then probably be in Orillia after which a game will be played with Madoc, and as the Crescents of Montreal have written for a date here, a match with them will be the next on the schedule.

An exceptionally strong team will be placed in the field this year and every player in it will be a Peterborough boy, too, which fact should be a strong drawing card for matches, as each individual player will have his little coterie of friends who will come to see him play. On Friday evening every lacrosse man intending to join the club should be on the grounds as early as possible. Such well attended practices, as it is evident will be held, make it practicable to choose sides each evening, therefore the necessity of coming early.

NEWSPAPER A. A. A.

The members of the Newspaper Amateur Athletic Association have arranged that lacrosse shall be played on the Riverside Park on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and baseball on the alternate days. All members desirous of participating in either or both games are urged to turn out immediately, in order that the teams may get into shape as soon as possible. A number of matches are being arranged by the secretary.

CRICKET.

The Veterans and Colts were scheduled to play a match yesterday, but when the players arrived on the grounds it was thought better to choose sides for the match, which was most interesting and was played with the following result:

COLTS.

W Salisbury, c Lefevre	3
Gurd, c Ray	2
Chappel, not out	43
Drope, b Lefevre	1
Dunsford, b Lefevre	3
Burnham, not out	13
Montgomery, c Lefevre	7

Mr. Chappell was in splendid form and the straight bat which he played was much admired by the older cricketers. His hits and drives were the features of the game and his bowling was exceptionally good. His presence greatly strengthens the club.

Mr. Sam. Ray was out on the crease yesterday and his accurate placing and clever outs proved quite a lesson to the younger cricketers.

Hal. Burnham is playing in good form this year and Lefevre's bowling looks very promising.

Court Pousette is developing into a splendid bat and his 28 of yesterday was very neatly put together.

Another match is on for next Wednesday and in the meantime practices will be held every afternoon.

THE SHAMROCKS.

After a practice at the Driving Park last evening, the Shamrock Lacrosse Club decided to change its name to the Athletics. The practices will hereafter be held on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at the Driving Park.

THE VATICAN PARK B.B.C.

The Vatican Park nine are arranging to hold their practices on Riverside Park on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, and will probably turn out this evening for the first time. The club will have a crack nine this season, and are open for challenges.

BASEBALL.

Manager Horkins of the Peterborough Baseball Club is in the dark as to who is challenging the Vatcans, and signing "Manager of the Peterborough's" to the communications. Such challenges coming from one without authority do not hold water.

THE PETERBOROUGH BICYCLE TRACK ASSOCIATION.

It Assumes the Management of the Driving Park—Election of Officers.

The driving park has changed hands and the track is being metamorphisized into an ideal speeding ring for bicyclists by a company to be known as the Peterborough Bicycle Track Association.

The lease of the grounds has been assigned to the new company, which has assumed the management and at a meeting held last night the stockholders elected the following officers:

President,—R. D. Hamilton.
First Vice-Pres.,—W. L. Allen.
Second " —H. R. H. Keaper.
Secretary,—G. L. Hay.
Treasurer,—Alex. Gibson.
Executive Committee,—Messrs. G. J. Horkins, Robert J. Fife, D. Davidson, C. LeBrun and A. Merger.

The new Association had decided upon putting on three race meets during the summer, but owing to the action of the council in refusing a grant, the dates of the races will probably be cancelled and the citizens of Peterborough be deprived of the pleasure of witnessing some fine racing during the summer. These meets would in all probability have drawn large crowds from out of town, as many strangers, likely, would be attracted by a holiday demonstration.

The new Association will hold a meeting to-morrow evening.

Bankrupt stock of pianos, organs, melodeons, violins, etc., to be cleared during the next thirty days, regardless of cost, at JACKSON & Co's., 378 Aylmer street north.

Pains in the Joints

Caused by Inflammatory Swelling

A Perfect Cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"It affords me much pleasure to recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla. My son was afflicted with great pain in the joints, accompanied with swelling so bad that he could not get up stairs to bed without crawling on hands and knees. I was very anxious about him, and having read so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla, I determined to try it, and got a half-dozen bottles, four of which entirely cured him." MRS. G. A. LAKE, Oshawa, Ontario.

ONTARIO CANOE CLUB.

Organization for the Season and Election of Officers.

The Otonabee Canoe Club met and organized for the season last evening in Mr. A. Clegg's office. The following officers were elected:

Commodore—T. Barry.
Vice-Commodore—Fred Dickson.
Secretary—J. Connal.
Assistant-Secretary—R. Strachan.
Treasurer—A. Clegg.
Executive and Regatta Committee—J. H. Smith, chairman, and Messrs. F. Brownscombe, J. Tucker, R. McWhinnie, A. Turner, W. Sharpe.

In years gone by canoeing used to boom in Peterborough, regattas were held periodically and wherever the name of Peterborough was heard it was associated with canoeing. In the evenings the river and lake would be dotted with crafts and illuminated parades were a frequent occurrence. Of late years, however, the pastime has in a measure been only followed by a few enthusiasts, whereas it used to number its devotees by the score.

It is alleged that the reason for the dry rot getting such a foothold in canoeing circles was that for some years no regattas for local talent have been held. To meet the emergency and to endeavour to restore canoeing to its pristine glory in this, its home, the Executive Committee of the Otonabee has been authorized to hold regattas and illuminated parades periodically during the summer.

OBITUARY.

The Late Cornelius McAuliffe.

An old and respected resident of town passed away last night, in the person of Mr. Cornelius McAuliffe, who died at his residence, 906 Water street. The deceased gentleman was sixty-five years of age and a native of Limerick county, Ireland, parish of Broadford. He came to Peterborough in 1851, and has ever since been a well respected resident. In 1854 he was united in marriage to Miss Margaret Riordon, and the result was the birth of eight children five sons and three daughters, all of whom, together with the mother, survive him, except one boy and one girl. Deceased has two brothers living, Mr. John McAuliffe, Douro, and Mr. Florens McAuliffe, Peterborough, and three sisters, Mrs. T. O'Connel, Mrs. J. O'Connel and Mrs. Ed. Wall, all of Ashburnham. The funeral will take place from the family residence, at nine o'clock Friday morning, and interment will be in the Roman Catholic Cemetery. Thus, one by one, the old residents pass away to their reward.

To purify, vitalize and enrich the blood, and give nerve, bodily and digestive strength, take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

THE TOWN COUNCIL'S REGULAR SESSION.

Contemplated Improvements to the Town Streets.

THE BRIDGE AT AUBURN.

The Bicyclists Apply for a Grant, but Through a Misunderstanding They did not Receive it—The Council Will Confer With the School Board About the Erection of a New South Ward School.

The Town Council assembled in regular monthly session last evening, there being present the Mayor, and Messrs. Cahill, Best, Denne, Mills, Phelan, Dawson, Clirkscale, Stone and Brady.

The following

were read:

From John Lane and 20 others requesting that the portion of George street between Argyle street and Victoria avenue and that portion of Water street from the G. T. R. crossing to the terminus of the street railway be watered.

Referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Quite a discussion was generated over the street watering question, as a majority of the councillors were anxious to see certain streets in their wards watered.

Councillor Brady spoke strongly in favour of having those portions of streets watered, which were mentioned in the above communication. They had been watered last year and he could see no reason why they should be cut off now.

Councillor Stone backed up Mr. Brady in his contention.

Councillor Denne thought Gilmour street should be watered, and Councillor Cahill spoke regarding some streets in the south end in which Mr. O'Brien was interested. On his motion Mr. O'Brien spoke concerning the following communication:

From Jas. O'Brien, H. W. Watson, and ten others, asking for Aylmer street to be watered between Rink and Lake streets.

The matter was referred to the Street and Bridge Committee, and the water will doubtless be sprinkled on the street mentioned, as it is understood that the cart passes over it.

From Rebecca Hartley, re back taxes.

Referred to the Court of Revision.

From R. H. Green, asking for some gravel to be placed on the market square.

Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee, with power to act.

From J. Green, drawing attention to the obstruction of Wolfe street by a C. P. R. building.

Received.

From the Board of Education re the submission of a by-law to the ratepayers to raise the sum of $5,500 to defray the cost of an addition to the south ward school.

Received.

From Mrs. Thos. Porter giving notice of appeal against taxation.

Referred to the Court of Revision.

From the Geo. Matthews Co'y asking for a hydrant to be placed in front of their packing house.

Received.

On motion of Councillors Phelan and Denne, Mr. Frank Matthews was heard on the subject. He stated that the Company's buildings were not sufficiently protected from fire. Two or three hundred thousand pounds of lard were kept on the premises and being very inflammable material, the company was anxious to have a hydrant placed nearer the works. One which stood just north of the C. P. R. track could be moved nearer without placing anybody else's property in jeopardy.

On motion of Messrs. Phelan and Brady the request of Mr. Matthews was granted.

From the Bicycle Club and Driving Park Association, asking for a grant of $500 wherewith to purchase prizes for three bicycle meets, which are to be held in Peterborough. The communication set forth that $1,200 would be expended in prizes and that one of the meets would be included in the American Circuit, bringing over 200 crack wheelsmen to Peterborough.

Received.

On motion of Councillors Phelan and Denne, Mr. Geo. J. Hopkins was heard on the question. He spoke briefly and to the point, explaining that three bicycle meets will be held in town during the summer. On the dates chosen no other races will be held in Canada, and consequently wheelmen would be present from all over the Dominion. The club asked $500 to assist in purchasing the necessary prizes and fixing up the track.

Councillor Dawson didn't think that the council had power to throw away the public money for the holding of bicycle races.

Councillor Stone agreed with Mr. Dawson in his remarks.

Councillor Dawson moved, seconded by Mr. Clinkscale, that the request be not granted.

In amendment Councillors Brady and Denne moved that the sum of $350 be granted.

The amendment was lost.

Councillor Mills then moved that $200 be granted to the wheelsmen, but the resolution was declared out of order as not coming before the question had been disposed of. The wheelsmen, therefore, will not receive a grant towards defraying the expense of their races.

From James Russell applying for the position of Street Inspector.

Referred to the Committee on Appointments.

From Joseph Mitchell, asking permission to erect a barber's pole in front of his premises.

Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee with power to act.

From E. A. Peck, re taxes for 1891 and 1892 on premises 508 Aylmer street, owned by Mrs. Cookson.

Referred to the Court of Revision.

From James McWilliams, asking for remission of dog tax.

Referred to the Court of Revision.

From Mrs. Lasier, asking for a remission of her taxes.

Referred to the Court of Revision.

From J. W. Fitzgerald, re over assessment on his town property for 1893 and 1894.

Referred to the Court of Revision.

From T. Dolan, re his assessment for 1894.

Referred to the Court of Revision.

THE FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT COMMITTEE, through its chairman, Councillor Brady, reported as follows:

1. We recommend that this committee be authorized to have the pipes of the drinking fountain on Hunter street repaired.

2. In reference to the petition of A. E. Dixon and others we recommend that the Peterborough Water Company be instructed to place a hydrant at the corner of Aylmer street and Manning avenue. We cannot at present recommend the placing of an electric light at this point.

Councillors Brady and Denne moved the adoption of the report.

Councillors Best and Clinkscale moved in amendment that the second clause be struck out.

Councillor Cahill and Best moved the adoption of the report.

Carried.

THE STREET AND BRIDGE COMMITTEE reported as follows:

1. Your Committee made an inspection of the streets and recommend that the following work be done:

NO. ONE WARD.

Crescent street—New culvert and repairs near the Cemetery.

Boundary Road—Between the Cemetery and Jackson's, ditching, draining and gravelling. We also recommend that the Grand Trunk Railway be notified to extend the earth filling on each side of their track at Jackson's.

Lock Street—From Lake street to Romaine street, to be watertabled on the west side and the earth used to fill the holes at the cribbing and culvert across the street to let the water run into the lake.

Southern Boundary—From Jackson's corner to Park Street, to be watertabled at several points.

Park Street—From the southern boundary to the C. P. R. crossing, to be watertabled and a crossing at Robert Nicholls'.

Parnell Street—To be tablewatered to let the water come to Park street drain.

Patterson Street—To be watertabled at the west end and the earth used to fill up.

Sherbrooke Street—To be graded and levelled and two crossings at the junction with Park street.

Ware Street—A short sidewalk and two crossings.

Townsend Street—Approach to Roderick McLean's house.

Sherbrooke Street—Approach from Bethune street to John McNaughton's.

Bolivar Street—Short sidewalk on north side.

Bethune Street—Culvert at the corner of Sherbrooke street extended.

Sherbrooke Street—The bridge over the creek to be rebuilt.

Rubidge Street—South of Wolfe street to be watertabled and gravelled.

Aylmer Street—Broken stone to be placed at several points and a crossing at Sherbrooke street.

NO. TWO WARD.

Park Street—From Charlotte to Simcoe and Brock streets to be watertabled and broken stone put on.

Gilmour Street—To be graded, watertabled and stoned at some points and crossings.

Weller Street—West end graded and repairs to the sidewalk, and the eastend watertabled.

Cedar Street—To be graded at the west end and Cambridge street to be graded.

Brock Street—From Rubidge street to the T.R. crossing to be watertabled and broken stone put on.

Rubidge street—A railing on the brow of the hill at Murray street.

Water Street—From Charlotte to Brock streets to be watertabled and broken stone used.

Downie Street—Watertabled from Charlotte to Hunter streets.

Simcoe Street—From Park to Reid streets watertabling and broken stone on parts.

Brock Street—The old water tank east of George street to be filled in.

Aylmer Street—Crossing on north side of Brock street.

Simcoe Street—New sidewalk in front of the fire hall.

NO. THREE WARD.

Park Street—Crossing and culvert at Cedar street; sidewalk from McDonel to London street on east side.

Park Street—New bridge over the creek, the centre pier to be done away with and a truss superstructure built.

London Street—To be watertabled from Park street to Downie street.

Donegal Street—To be watertabled from Brock street to the creek and north.

NO. 4 WARD.

Boundary Line.—To be repaired near Communication road, also Reid street connecting at the same point to be drained and broken stone put on, and a crossing at Mr. Green's house.

Inverlea St.—About 250 feet of four feet sidewalk on the north side.

George St.—Grading from Smith street to Dennistoun's, and broken stone on part.

Benson St.—Sidewalk from Aberdeen avenue to Jas. Fife's house, and continue sidewalk on Aberdeen avenue to Wm. Smith's.

Aylmer St.—Sidewalk on west side from George Cochrane's house and crossing to Manning avenue.

Smith St.—Sidewalk to be repaired from Water to George streets, on the south side.

Councillor Best moved the adoption of the report.

Councillor Brady asked about the Auburn bridge matter.

Councillor Best stated that it would be better to wait and learn the intentions of the Street Railway regarding the erection of a bridge before the council took any steps in the matter.

The report was then adopted.

On motion of Councillors Mills and Denne, Mr. Rackstraw was heard regarding a birds-eye view of the town, which he proposed getting out. He wished to sell a number of them to the town at 15 cents. Other cities had taken from 1,000 to 1,500 from him, which being a guarantee enabled him to proceed with the work.

Referred to the Printing Committee with power to order any number which they may see fit.

Through Councillor Denne,

THE CHARITY COMMITTEE reported as follows:

1. We recommend that no orders for charity be recognized unless signed by the Chairman of this committee.

2. We recommend that during the absence of chairman, Councillor Sproule be appointed acting chairman.

3. The amount expended by your committee in charity up to the end of April is $1,005.62, as compared with $1,090.26 during the same months last year. This, together with the saving in the salary of the Relief Officer represent a saving of, in the four months, $183, although this has been a hard winter.

On motion of Councillors Dawson and Brady the first clause was struck out, when the balance of the report was adopted.

THE JOINT COMMITTEE reported that in accordance with a resolution of the council, passed on February 22nd last, a deputation from the council together with a deputation from South Monaghan visited Ottawa on May 3rd inst., in regard to the proposed bridge over the Otonabee river at Ross's. The deputation was introduced to the Minister of Railways and Canals by Messrs. James Stevenson, M. P., and John Burnham, M. P., and was cordially received by the Minister. From the assurances received from the Minister, your committee is confident that a grant will be made by the Dominion towards the construction of the bridge and recommend that the expenses of the deputation be confirmed.

Councillor Phelan, the chairman, moved the adoption of the report.

This is to certify that I have suffered from piles for a long time and tried several articles recommended for this complaint, but none of them benefitted me till I tried Chase's Ointment, which has completely cured me.

MRS. JOHN GERRIE.
R. Phillips, Jr., Druggist Witness.

"My six-year-old daughter, Bella, was afflicted with eczema for 24 months, the principal seat of eruption being behind her ears. I tried almost every remedy I saw advertised, bought innumerable medicines and soaps, and took the child to medical specialists in skin diseases, but without result. Finally, a week ago, I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and the first application showed the curative effect of the Remedy. We have used only one-sixth of the box, but the change is very marked; the eruption has all disappeared, and I can confidently say my child is cured. (Signed) MAXWELL JOHNSTON

The Regular Volunteer Drill to Be Held This Year.

COVERNMENT HAD INTENDED THIS

Dominion Rifle Association Meet—Minister of Militia on the Necessity of a New Rifle—Finance Minister Foster Would Spend Half the Receipts.

Ottawa, May 9.—An invading army of military men held possession of the Parliament Buildings all day. Theirs, however, was a peaceful mission. In the morning the annual meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association was held, and in the afternoon an important conference took place with the Government in regard to the drill of the city corps, and although no definite announcement had been made, the impression was general that as the Militia appropriation has been cut down by a quarter of a million dollars the city battalions would suffer. As a result of the very strong representations which were made this afternoon, it is almost certain that the drill pay for the city regiments will be forthcoming. Mr. Foster's speech evinced a warm interest in the welfare of the militia, and his expression of opinion that he would like to see all the volunteers drilled annually and less spent on the permanent corps evoked tremendous applause.

The deputation strongly urged that city battalions be drilled this year and mentioned among the reasons therefor the following points: That the city corps fund their drill for the purpose of providing for an annual review, also to purchase helmets, leggings, pay drill instructors, support regimental bands, pay an adjutant, fitting of uniforms, cost of armories, purchase of uniforms for men over the authorised number and other expenses of a purely military character. For this year these expenses have already been largely incurred and it was claimed that it would be a serious blow to the efficiency of the force under der these circumstances to have the ander these circumstances to have the annual drill pay withheld. It was pointed out also that in addition to the amount derived from the annual pay the officers and men contribute largely out of their own pockets towards the objects named.

Hon. Mr. Foster, in reply, said that no one sympathized more than he with the active militia. He did not pretend to know anything pertaining to the mysteries of the force, but he had given some attention to the subject generally, and had come to the conclusion that the larger part of the money which Canada could bestow on her military force should be on the active militia. He had conceived the idea that too much altogether was being spent on the permanent corps, while the active militia was being starved. He sympathized with the sacrifices which the militia had made. He knew something of them personally. He knew with what loyalty and fidelity the officers had endeavored to keep up their corps.

Mr. Foster: Continuing, said that with reference to the rural militia, they were to be drilled this year. The Government never had any other idea on that point, and a supplementary vote would be brought down to provide for them. (Applause.) With regard to the reduction in the militia appropriation for next year, he thought it was impossible to make the vote any larger than it is, but it might be possible to effect some economies in other parts of the militia service whereby a portion of the appropriation could be devoted to paying the city corps. (Hear, hear.) For his part, he sympathized very much with all that the gentleman had said as to the force in Canada. Anything he could do, in conjunction with Mr. Dickey, to make matters smooth for the militia, he would be glad to do it. (Applause.)

Col. Denison called attention to the fact that there was an unexpended amount voted for the purchase of new rifles, which might be devoted to paying the city corps.

Mr. Foster remarked that he would like to see the rural corps drilled every year. (Loud applause.)

Hon. Mr. Dickey said he had listened to the representations which had been made with a great deal of pleasure, and as far as lay in his power he was willing to meet the wishes of the deputation in every way. (Cheers.)

The discussion closed with the significant observation from Mr. Foster, "I think we will be able to fix it between us. This remark elicited a chorus of gratified "hear, hear."

Dominion Rifle Association

Hon. Lieutenant-Colonel Gibson, president of the Dominion Rifle Association, presided at the annual meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association. His Excellency the Governor-General, the new Minister of Militia, Hon. A. R. Dickey, besides a number of members of Parliament, were present.

The chairman moved the adoption of the annual report. After referring to the financial condition of the association, Lieut.-Col. Gibson said the negotiations were now in progress for the purchase of a new rifle range at Rockliffe, near Ottawa.

Referring to the Bisley team of 1894, Lieut.-Col. Gibson said that it made a splendid record. In this connection he paid a high tribute to Major E. B. Ibbotson, the commander of the team.

Hon. L. H. Davies moved, and Mr. William Gibson, M.P., seconded a vote of thanks to the Governor-General for his attendance at the annual meeting, and for his generous contribution of $300 to the funds of the association.

Hon. Mr. Dickey, replying to congratulations on his appointment, said that although not an active member of the militia force, he took great interest in it. He intended having no prejudices and no favorites. There was an option on the new rifle range, but he could not say what the Government would do. The department, he said, made an agreement with the Imperial Government for the purchase of Martini-Metford rifles. Anticipations regarding these had not been realised. The Imperial Government had acted in good faith, and in the event of the Home Government asking the Canadian Government to stand by the agreement made, then the Dominion would have to make the best of a bad bargain and ask Parliament for the necessary funds.

He admitted that it was very disheartening for the militia to stand up with an old Snider rifle before an enemy armed with a modern rifle. In his opinion Parliament should not object to having a few modern rifles on hand. He did not fear any trouble with the United States, but there might be trouble from Indians coming across the border.

All the old officers were re-elected. There were very few changes on the council.

BETTER THAN A BANK.

"Would you put your money," we said to a bank manager, who had previously shown us a handful of policies upon his own life, "would you put your money in a bank if you had your life to live again?"

"Not I," he replied, "I should invest it in life assurance policies, on the endowment plan."

The same question was put to another banker, who smiled at its innocence, remarking that the bank rate was uncertain from day to day. It might be 3½ per cent.; it might be much less. On the other hand, he said, insurance companies obtain over 5 per cent. on their accumulated premiums. The fact of the matter is, he continued, there is no institution in the world which can be compared to life insurance; for by its means a man is enabled to make provision for his family, or for his dependents, at once.

Assuming that a young man did put by $50 a year in a bank, it would take a long time to accumulate an amount which could be secured forthwith by payment of the $50 to a life assurance society. For instance, an annual premium of $50, commencing at age 25, secures a policy in the Confederation Life Association of Toronto for about $2,200, with profits payable at age 60, or previous death. The provision, even if death occur when only one premium has been paid, is immediate; while in the other case it is a paltry $50 which his family will inherit, against $2,200 if an insurance has been effected.

The real point of contrast, however, between the insurance company and the bank, is the certainty which attaches to the one, and the uncertainty which marks the other. In point of fact, the bank investor is, more truly speaking, a speculator who stakes the welfare of his family on the chances of his own life, and his power of resisting the temptation to divert the investment; that is, to use it for some other purpose than that of family provision. If only he be spared, they may fare well enough; but if death or misfortune come before his plans are matured, their case is a sad one indeed.

The policy-holder, on the other hand, is the conscientious investor, for, having regard to a provision for his family, he seeks safety—the first condition of "investment," as opposed to "speculation"—before anything else. Thanks to the insurance companies, he finds that he can forthwith make this provision absolutely secure and certain, and at the same time can obtain profits on his outlay greatly superior to the utmost profits that would accrue if he "ran his own risk" under the most favorable circumstances.

Canadian manufacturers have a reputation for shrewdness; they are keen, hard-headed men of business, and no men insure more largely. Next to commercial men come doctors and clergymen in the practical recognition of the value of life insurance. Like merchants, they are keenly alive to the investment element, but press its moral aspect home to all who come within their influence. The reason is obvious; our spiritual and medical advisers are the first to be appealed to in a case of distress brought about by death. They are the first to devise means for relieving the widow and orphan; and, from the difficulty they encounter in securing efficient help, their experience forces them to realize the necessity for every man to make provision for his own family, and not leave them to the tender mercies of the world.

The Endowment Policy issued by the Confederation Life Association gives absolute and unconditional guarantee of payment of claims immediately upon receipt of satisfactory proofs of death, or should the insured survive the endowment period he may elect to take his money in any of the following six ways: First—The policy may be surrendered, and the entire value taken in

1. Cash.
2. Paid-up policy, payable at death.
3. Life annuity, an annual payment to the insured till death.

Second—Or, the policy may be exchanged for a paid-up policy of assurance, payable at death, without profits, for an equal amount of insurance, and, in addition, there will be paid an annuity for life of $45 per $1,000, applying the accumulated surplus either in

4. Cash.
5. Bonus addition to the sum assured.
6. Life annuity.

Mr. Jas. E. Nicholson, Florenceville, N. B., Struggles for Seven Long Years with CANCER ON THE LIP,

AND IS CURED BY

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Mr. Nicholson says: "I consulted doctors who prescribed for me, but to no purpose; the cancer began to eat into the Flesh, spread to my chin, and I suffered in agony for seven long years. Finally, I began using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a week or two I noticed a Decided Improvement. Encouraged by this result, I persevered, and in a month or so the sore under my nostrils began to heal. In three months my lip began to heal, and, after using the Sarsaparilla for six months, the last trace of the cancer disappeared."

Admitted at the World's Fair.

SCENE IN THE HOUSE

O'Donovan Rossa Interrupts Parliament.

BUT HE WAS PROMPTLY EJECTED

Hardly Had He Uttered a Dozen Words When He Was Hustled Outdoors—Labouchere and Saunderson Are the Men He Was After.

London, May 9.—An extraordinary scene occurred in the House of Commons to-day, and for a few minutes created great commotion. The House was debating the bill offered by Edmund Knox, member for West Cavan, to repeat Balfour's Coercion Act. John Morley, Chief Secretary for Ireland, had just concluded his speech when O'Donovan Rossa, who had occupied a seat under the Strangers' Gallery, rose to his feet, and in a loud voice, said:

"An assassin's blow has been dealt to me in this House and a stain put upon my name."

A number of officials hurriedly seized Rossa, and amid great excitement he was forcibly ejected from the Chamber, when he had finished the first sentence of what was evidently intended to be an extended harangue.

Rossa was conducted outside the Chamber and forbidden to re-enter the House. It is plain that he had intended to make a speech in resentment of several uncomplimentary allusions to him in the earlier part of the debate.

Mr. Knox's bill passed its second reading by a vote of 222 to 208.

The Pall Mall Gazette says the O'Donovan Rossa was very anxious to gain admission to the House yesterday, but the Irish members suspecting something wrong did not give him the necessary permit. To-day Mr. Edward Barry, member for South Cork, unsuspectingly gave him entree to the Distinguished Strangers Gallery. Soon after entering the gallery he produced from his pocket a document purporting to be a letter written by Mr. Labouchere, warning somebody against Rossa, and shouted, "An assassin's blow has been aimed at me in this House, and a stain has been put upon my name by a member of this House. I have come here to confront him."

He uttered Mr. Labouchere's name, but got no further, as he was quickly hustled to the lobby, thence to the street. Rossa was anxious to meet Mr. Labouchere here and Major Saunderson.

O'Donovan Rossa said this evening: "It was my deliberate intention to address the House of Commons in reference to a letter from Mr. Labouchere to an individual in America, repeating the assertion that I received money from the English Government. I was not surprised at my expulsion. In fact, I should not have been much surprised if I had been imprisoned."

BRITISH CABINET UNION.

Lord Rosebery Eulogizes Harcourt, and Harcourt Rosebery.

London, May 9.—The National Liberal Club held its annual political reception last evening. Lord Rosebery made the most noteworth speech. He referred briefly to the "untiring and brilliant Government leader (Harcourt) in the House of Commons," and then turned his attention to the persistent rumors of Cabinet crisis. The daily report that this or that minister would resign, he said, had grown wearisome. The ministers would never for a moment think of striking their flag as long as they should have the confidence of the party. They would continue to uphold the flag, but they must express their regret at the tendency of the party to discontent and criticism of the Government because certain items of the party program were not carried. It was well to remember that these failures caused the leaders as much disappointment as the followers. Finally, Lord Rosebery reminded his hearers that the chief obstacle in the way of Liberal progress was the House of Lords. During his speech an ejaculation from the audience caused Lord Rosebery to lose the thread of his argument, and he was obliged to consult with his friends before he could proceed.

Sir William Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, spoke in another room regarding the Cabinet's unity and program. His remarks were similar to Lord Rosebery's.

Ashmead Bartlett the Sultan's Defender.

London, May 8.—Sir Ellis Ashmead Bartlett, M.P., has communicated to the newspapers a letter sent by him to Mr. Gladstone protesting in the name of common honesty and true humanity against Mr. Gladstone's condemning the Sultan and Turkish army unheard. He reiterates his doubts that any deliberate atrocities were committed in Armenia by the troops, and asserts that there is not the slightest evidence that the Sultan was answerable in any way whatever for what happened.

Russian Railway Through Manchuria.

London, May 8.—The United Press correspondent in St. Petersburg says he learns from a high source that Russia has a separate understanding with China. This understanding does not cede Manchurian territory wholly to Russia, but it places it under Russian control to the extent of allowing Russia when so disposed to prolong the Siberian railroad from Nertschinsk, through the valleys of the Nonni and Sungari, in the Kirin Province, to Broughton Bay, in the Sea of Japan. China has agreed also to let Russia build a branch railroad from Kirin city to New Chwang.

SIX FATALLY BURNED.

Fire in a Baltimore Sweat shop—Heroic Work of a Teamster.

Baltimore, May 8.—Six persons were probably fatally burned by the explosion of a gasoline stove and the fire which followed in a sweat shop at 1424 East Pratt-street, this evening. The explosion occurred in the third story of the building, and but for the heroic conduct of Samuel Morris, a colored teamster, who heard the frenzied appeals for help, five of the unfortunates would not have been taken out alive from the garret.

Morris rushed upstairs and found the door of the sweat shop securely locked. He reached the verandah in front of the second story windows and called to the panic-stricken inmates of the third story to jump. One woman had already leaped from the third story window to the street, with her clothing on fire. She was miraculously saved from instant death by outstretched arms, which broke her fall. Morris caught two others in his arms, smothered the flames in which they were enveloped, and carried them to the sidewalk. He then ran upstairs again, kicked open the door of the sweat-shop and hauled out the prostrate forms of two men and a woman. The injured persons were quickly removed to the Baltimore University Hospital. The victims were all alive at a late hour to-night, but none of them will recover.

WANT SALMON MADE FREE

British Columbia Canning Firms Petition the Government.

Victoria, B.C., May 9.—A petition was telegraphed to the Government at Ottawa to-day by representative canning firms having their headquarters in Victoria, asking that the Canadian tariff be amended to enable salmon and other fish of similar character to be imported free into the Dominion. The petition is the outcome of the recent decision of the Board of General Appraisers of New York, given Jan. 7, to the effect that fish are fresh water fish, and as such are entitled to free entry into the United States. The immediate local effect of this order is that while American canners of Point Roberts, Blaine and neighborhood towns of Washington, can now get salmon by British Columbia free of duty, canners under the Canadian laws must pay half a cent a pound duty, equal to four or five cents on each salmon for any fish they get from the United States.

NEWFOUNDLAND AND UNION.

The Legislature, Not Having Canada's Reply, Will Adjourn for a Week.

St. John's, Nfld., May 9.—Up to yesterday afternoon the Newfoundland Government had not received answers from Great Britain and Canada in regard to confederation, and consequently intend adjourning the Legislature to-day for another week. A section of the public has become uneasy over this delay and even profess the belief that it is really preliminary to the final abandonment of the confederation plan altogether.

It is known as a fact that the Government is preparing a retrenchment scheme embodying a revision of the tariff, and by it anticipates bringing the expenditure below a million dollars yearly. It is stated that the adjustment of the tariff will realize $1,500,000, enabling the payment of interest on the public debt. The stumbling block to the success of this plan is the colony's present depressed condition financially. The floating debt of $2,000,000 is due June 30, and cannot be met without a loan, and this, it is lieved, it will be impossible to secure.

The steamer Aurora, the last of the sealing fleet to return, arrived here today fro mher second trip with 4000 seals. Her return ends one of the most successful catches on record.

Would Certificate Quebec Catholic Teachers

Montreal, Que., May 7.—At a meeting of the Council of Public Instruction to be held to-morrow in Quebec, a motion will be presented, it is said, to compel all teachers in Catholic schools, whether lay or clerical, to be provided with regular diplomas. If is motion, if proposed, is expected to raise a howl of indignation from the French-Canadian Catholics.

Firebugs at Work Again in Toronto

Toronto, May 9.—The firebugs of the city showed their hand again at 12.30 this morning, when an unsuccessful attempt was made to burn the vacant O'Donoghue building at Adelaide and Church-streets. The building was formerly occupied as a hotel, but has been vacant for some months. In addition to the doors opening into Adelaide and Church-streets, a door opens into a back yard.

P. C. Skelding was patrolling his beat, and on turning the corner of Adelaide-st. he saw, through the space, beneath a door, a small flame shooting upwards. Informing some of the occupants of adjoining buildings of his discovery he rushed over to Lombard-street fire-hall and called out the hose-reel.

When the firemen entered the building they found the flames beginning to burn fiercely at the head of the stairs leading into the cellar.

A perceptible odor of coal oil attracted attention and a large quantity of burning oil waste and paper thoroughly saturated with the kerosene was discovered lying on a step near the top of the stairway, where the draft would assist in the spread of the fire throughout the building.

The rear door through which the incendiary entered, was standing wide open.

THE TOWN COUNCIL'S REGULAR SESSION.

ing funds for the making of an addition to the South Ward school came up, Councillor Brady suggested that a bylaw be submitted at the same time regarding the building of a bridge at Auburn.

The ball once started rolling on the bridge question, the council debated on it for over half an hour.

Mr. Cahill finally made the following resolution in respect to the matter:

"That the question of building a bridge over the River Otonabee at Auburn be referred to the Finance Committee with a view of taking such steps as may be found advantageous to provide the necessary funds for the building of such bridge without unduly increasing the taxes of the current year; and that the Committee be authorized to confer with the Commissioners of the Town Trust for that purpose, and also with parties who may be interested in the construction of said bridge, and who may be willing to contribute to such bridge, in cash, right-of-way or otherwise, and if funds can be provided, the bridge shall be built under the supervision of the Street and Bridge Committee."

Carried.

In regard to the school by-law the following committee was appointed to confer with the Board as to the advisability of erecting a new building, Councillors Best, Cahill, Denne, Brady and Dawson.

RESOLUTIONS.

On motion of Councillors Best and Deane, it was resolved that the Streets and Bridges Committee be authorized to purchase the necessary planking, scantling, cedar blocks and cedar ties for sidewalking, and suggest the use of culled 12 inch sewer pipes for culverts, instead of plank culverts, the cost being very little more for sewer pipe than plank.

It was resolved, on motion of Councillors Cahill and Best, that the Mayor be requested to call a meeting of the Council, as a Committee of the Whole, at as early a date as convenient for the purpose of considering the question of dealing with manufacturers who may be desirous of locating here; and also that the Mayor request members of the board of Trade to be present at such meeting.

The Council then adjourned.

THE WORK OF THE Y.M.C.A.

The Following has Been Furnished the Examiner — Facts Regarding Work for Men.

Between 9.30 and 10.30 on a certain evening 60 young men went into the bar and pool rooms of one of our leading hotels.

On the same evening at the same hour 58 went into another.

By strict count on that night 381 men, between 16 and 30 years of age, patronized 24 out of 30 bars and pool rooms.

231 men of the same age were found in 7 churches on a bright Sunday morning, and 311 in the evening. Where are the others? What is to be done? The bars and pool rooms of the town reach more men in an hour than any Christian institution does in a week.

Does the church do anything? Yes. The Gospel is earnestly preached day after day, and more than that, the church in unity does a special work for men in the form of a Young Men's Christian Association. The movement is a world wide one, and has been much used of God in the salvation and Christian culture of men. The local Association is by no means perfect, but it has done great good in the past. A social and spiritual work has been carried on, and there is a grand chance for an educational and physical work.

A Saturday night song service benefits an average of 30 men.

Sunday afternoon meeting reaches an average of 53.

A much needed work along the lines of personal purity helped 90 men of an average at four lectures.

Six young Christians study the Word in a Beginner's Bible class.

Thirteen men are being trained in a Workers' Training Class for efficient service in church, home and business.

Social events bring from 150 to 200 men together.

Many have professed conversion, and some have united with the church of their choice.

Kilsallaghan Wins the Chester Cup.

London, May 8.—This was the second day of the Chester meeting, with the Cup race as the principal event on the card. It had 16 starters and was won easily by the outsider, Kilsallaghan, the favorite, Newcourt being unplaced. The race was run over the Old Cup Course, nearly two miles and a quarter. The American horse, Don Alonso, was "scratched."

Truth says in its turf article: "Banquet's victory in the 2000 Guineas Trial Stake race is not regarded with satisfaction by thoughtful observers. Nothing is more pernicious than entering a good horse in a selling race, backing him for thousands and then buying him in. If gambling of this odious kind is the aim and end of the American invasion, the sooner the American turf men return home the better, both for the turf and themselves."

The Sportsman says that Banquet, Stonell and Mantauk will take part in the races at Baldoyle, running for the Howth, Curragh and Stewards' plates on June 3 and 4. The Lord Mayor of Dublin has tendered the hospitalities of the Mansion House to the American horsemen, and a committee comprised of distinguished persons is making preparations to give them a reception.

WHITE ASIATIC LILIES.

They Have Great Beauty for Decorative Purposes Especially for Church Altars.

One who will glance over the list of standard lilies now in cultivation in this country will be struck with the fact that very few are natives of America. A large proportion have been brought from Europe and Asia—in fact almost all that come under the head of cultivated lilies, the few purely American species being largely wild, and but little thought of, although their beauty warrants more generous treatment. Among the lilies for which we are indebted to Asia is a group distinguished by its white flowers, Lilium candidum (shown in the accompanying illustration), speciosum and longiflorum. These flowers are worthy of more general cultivation, even, than they now have, because of their great beauty for decorative purposes, great masses of such magnificent white bloom being especially suitable for altar decoration in churches and for decoration elsewhere, where pure white flowers are especially appropriate. Lilium candidum is perhaps as satisfactory to grow as any those mentioned, from the fact that it bears so many blossoms upon one stalk, whereas the others usually bear but one. Such lilies are very attractive when growing in a little cluster by themselves upon a well-kept lawn, their erect stalk and many nodding flowers giving them a very graceful and beautiful appearance against a background of green turf.—American Agriculturist.

The Man of To-day

Who does'nt know that the possibilities for elegance in Clothing have as wide a scope in READY-MADE as in Made-to-Measure is simply not well informed.

The citizen of Peterborough who does'nt know that GOUGH BROS. every season exhaust these possibilities in the very latest fashion creations of the Clothing world—is also devoid of information, which might be made of great practical value to him from an economical standpoint.

The object of this announcement is to call attention to the two facts above suggested—and to invite a personal investigation of the matter.

There are no Doubts Connected With This Business

We undertake to dress any man from head to heel to his complete satisfaction—including the item of cost, which we guarantee to make SMALLER than any other house in Western Canada.

While we can sell a Man's Suit for $2.90 and a Boy's Suit for 90c, we can just as easily suit the man who insists on having a fashionable Suit worth $12.00 or $14.00, or the Boy whose parents can afford a stylish suit worth $4.50 or $5.00.

Our stock is not limited. We are always prepared for the steady stream of the masses, that finds its way here continually. This means that we have the goods to suit all classes—the medium-price and high-grade Clothing as well. Half assortments drive away trade. Customers won't waste time running where they can't get what they want.

We Have in Hats

The very latest. None others Our Leading Fedoras at $1.25 and $2.00 are not equalled outside our stores. We have the best $1.50 and $1.75 Hats in Canada. Of course you may get just as good by paying $2.00 and $2.50 at other Hat stores, but, well, your choice, not ours.

We Have in Shoes

A range of prices that are down so low they cannot get lower for high-class goods. Leather is going up and the manufacturers are asking more money for Shoes, but we shall continue to sell at present prices. If you would only take the trouble to compare more, our crowds would be larger.

THE HYAMS ON TRIAL

For the Murder of William Wells in 1893.

THE CASE WILL LAST FOR TEN DAYS

Mr. Wellman Not Permitted To Appear—Trouble Securing a Jury—Mr. Osler Addresses the Jury and the First Witness Put On the Stand.

Toronto, May 10.—The trial of Harry Place Hyams and Dallas Theodore Hyams twin brothers, for the murder of William Chinnock Wells in the Colborne-st. warehouse rented by the prisoners, on Jan. 16, 1893, opened at the York Assize Court before Mr. Justice Street and a jury. The trial, which will last at least ten days, will prove in many respects the most remarkable ever heard in Canada. A crime more terrible than that with which the prisoners are charged has never, perhaps, startled this continent. The method of the prisoners, if the contention of the Crown is correct, was a simple one. They ingratiated themselves into the good-will of three orphans, a brother and two sisters. One of the prisoners courted one of the sisters, finally becoming her affianced husband. Then the two insured the life of the brother for a large sum, the sister being made the beneficiary. Then they killed the young man, one of them married the sister and the two absorbed the insurance.

Mr. Lount arose and asked the indulgence of the court in permitting Mr. Francis L. Wellman, a distinguished member of the New York bar, to be associated in the defence of the accused.

Justice Street, in reply, said that he did not feel justified in establishing He did not feel justified in establishing such a precedent unless absolute necessity therefor existed and it did not appear to him that it did exist. The gentlemen could advise with the other counsel and give them the benefit of their knowledge. He declined, however, to allow Mr. Wellman to examine witnesses.

Less than 90 minutes were occupied in empanelling the jury, although the defence peremptorily challenged its full complement of 40. There were no challenges for cause. This will help the reader.

Mr. Osler in the course of his address said: You will have to prepare yourself for the solemn duty imposed upon you by casting aside all you have heard and read. Try and eliminate everything concerning the case and have your minds free to receive the evidence. 000.

In 1892 an agreement was arranged by which the Hyams secured $2700 from Wells and his sisters for the purpose of investing, agreeing to pay therefor $80 a month; to pay the whole back after notice had been given to them to do so, and to pay 13 1-3 per cent. interest for the money in the meantime. Eventually the amount of the loan was made up to $3000, $1000 being subscribed by the dead man and $1000 by each of the sisters. Connected with the loan was an agreement to provide for the employment of the deceased and also for his brother-in-law, Aylesworth. This, shortly was the relationship as it started. H. P. Hyams subsequently married one of the Wells sisters.

The prisoners had an office at 11 King-street west. It will appear before you that there was not much business carried on. In November, 1892, they took a warehouse in Colborne-street and called themselves the Toronto Storage Company. From November, 1892, until a period three months after the death of Wells the prisoners ostensibly carried on business in the warehouse. I say ostensibly, because part of the crown's case is that little or no business was carried on. In that warehouse were employed William Wells, Aylesworth and Miss Lattimer. They were paid weekly wages. In the basement of the warehouse on Jan. 16, 1893, William Wells was killed.

Why should they kill him? In August a life insurance policy was taken out in the New York Life Insurance Company for $30,000, made payable to Martha Wells. There were also in addition a Covenant Mutual policy of $3000 and another policy of $1000 in the New York Life; all these amounts being payable to Martha Wells. The premium on the $30,000 policy had been paid by the Hyams, and H. P. Hyams' bargain with regard to that insurance was that he was to pay the premium and was also to pay Wells in three years $2500 for the use of his money. Harry Hyams also claimed the right to name the beneficiary.

The first quarter's premium was paid by money handed by one of the prisoners to Wells, who in turn paid it to the agent. Another quarter's premium would have fallen due shortly after the date on which Wells was killed, and this premium would have had to be paid in order to keep the policy alive. Only one quarter's premium was therefore paid. The premiums were payable to Martha Wells.

Wells' share of the $3000 advanced by himself and sisters to the Hyams had not been paid when the tragedy occurred in the Colborne-street warehouse. Young Wells had gone down to Pickering a few days before and arranged for the purchase of a small farm, it finally being settled that Monday, Jan. 16, Wells and his sister were to go to Pickering to close the negotiations for the purchase of the farm. This was on the explicit understanding that on the 16th Hyams would pay young Wells the $1000 they owed him. Therefore, you see the necessity existed for the payment of the $1000 on the morning Wells was killed.

There was little business done in the Colborne-street warehouse, as I have said. It will be for you to say whether the renting of that warehouse was not part of the scheme which culminated in the death of Wells. It will appear that in that warehouse a young woman was employed whose sole occupation was to address envelopes that were never mailed. Now, was that warehouse merely rented to give an appearance of a business with the realization of the insurance on young Wells' life as the ultimate result?

Mr. Osler then described the elevator in the Colborne-street warehouse. He wished the jury to pay particular attention to the fact that notwithstanding the little use to which the elevator was put the prisoners were constantly tinkering with the elevator. They built a platform with the avowed object of taking off the weight from time to time, as occasion required, and changing it for a lighter one.

In the order of events the prisoners, Wells, Aylesworth and Miss Lattimer should be at the office that Monday morning. Saturday night Miss Lattimer is given three letters to deliver on Monday morning before she comes down. The crown suggests that was in order that she might be out of the way. That left Aylesworth, however. On Sunday an order is left for Aylesworth to go over the Don and make some enquiries. Aylesworth is thus out of the way. An order is given for Wells to be down early at the office. Wells is going to Whitby with his sister on the midday train to make the payment on the farm. There is no reason given why he should be down. There were no goods to take in, nothing to be moved from flat to flat. Wells is found dead.

It is claimed that the weight slipped from the rope. Were this so, the gravity would bring that weight down pretty straight, even if it had caught. The crown claims that there was not enough play in the box to give the weight tilt enough to slip off the rope. Shortly after the accident, Harry Hyams, who seemed to have Martha Wells pretty well under control, commenced to obtain cheques from her until two amounts of $1700 and $2500 were obtained. About this time a friend told her that the house and office furniture of the Hyams' were under chattel mortgage. Then she became alarmed and consulted a solicitor. Subsequently she went into retreat in a church school, with a view of breaking off all relations between them. Harry Hyams found her location, visited her, conversed with her and as a result induced Martha to marry him on the following Tuesday. As a result of this marriage, with the exception of $4000 or $5000, given by Martha Wells to her sister, Mrs. Aylesworth, the prisoners have absorbed every dollar of the insurance money. If the prisoner, Harry Hyams, thought in marrying Martha Wells he would have influence enough to secure the insurance, he thought correctly. If their object was to kill in order to get the money that object has been attained.

Ebenezer W. H. Aylesworth, the brother-in-law of the dead man and of the prisoner, Harry Hyams, was the first witness called. He related the initial meeting of the Hyams and Wells families six years ago at the house, 55 Gould-street, where they all boarded.

The agreement by which the witness, Willie Wells and Martha Wells loaned $3000 to the prisoners was put in and recognised by witness, who testified that Willie Wells put in about $1000 of the amount. The prisoners were then carrying on business as financial brokers at 11 King-street west, under the firm name of H. P. & D. T. Hyams.

Witness went into their employment in March, 1892. Wells had been employed there as a writer of mercantile reports for a short time before the witness commenced work. The warehousing business was opened about September, 1892, a month after the insurance of $30,000 in the N.Y. Life was placed.

Witness then detailed the employment he was put to in the warehouse. It consisted in copying out names on the mercantile agency reports. He did not know to what practical use these copies were put. No person ever came in to inquire for them to his knowledge. One hundred sheets, exact copies, all in the handwriting of deceased, were put in to support the Crown's contention that the Hyams' had no need for clerical work, but merely kept the deceased employed to fill in time. Another part of the supposed work was to address envelopes—the envelopes produced which had been found in the office unmailed. He knew of no result from the work of either himself, deceased or Miss Lattimer, another clerk.

Aylesworth then detailed the proposition made by the prisoners to Willie Wells, that he should insure his life for $30,000, the prisoners agreeing to pay the premiums and to give deceased $2500 at the expiration of 2 1-2 years for the use of his name.

Prisoners at the same time wanted Aylesworth to insure his life for the same amount, but he replied that neither he nor Willie Wells could afford to pay $1200 a year in premiums, and he did not allow another man to pay for insurance on his life.

Aylesworth told of the pressing demands of the deceased for the $2000 due him by prisoners, and of the final promise of the prisoners on Saturday prior to the tragedy that they would pay it on Monday. Wells had made arrangements to go to Pickering with H. P Hyams on Monday soon after receiving the $1000 from the prisoners and close the deal. On Saturday Wells wrote out a telegram to Uriah Jones of Pickering stating that he would be down. Harry Wells was present when this telegram was written and it was arranged that the prisoner should send it.

Then witness told of the message left for him by the prisoners to go to the East End and make enquiries instead of going to the warehouse the morning of the tragedy He ordinarily went to the warehouse at 8.30 to 9.

Witness described at length the elevator cage, the lift and their surroundings. He swore positively that from the time of the renting of the warehouse until Jan. 16 the only practical use to which the elevator was put was to carry up three or four loads of groceries and furniture.

Aylesworth told of the arrival of Dallas at the house in Gould-street with intelligence that Willie Wells had been badly hurt. Dallas complained of his back, stating that he had strained it lifting the weight. His fingers were also bleeding. Witness bound up the fingers and assisted Dallas to bed. Then he went to Dr. King's, and in consequence of what he heard visited Humphrey's undertaking establishment, where permission to view the body was refused him. He then proceeded to the warehouse. He found the rope off the pulley, the boards which held it in place being off. The weight was off the rope and resting against the south side of the elevator, east of the casing. The end of the weight was on the ground. There was blood in two different places on the floor. The blood spots were half a foot apart.

When witness asked Harry Hyams, who came in shortly afterwards, how the accident occured, he replied that he didn't know, that he was not at the warehouse at the time of the tragedy, neither was Dallas.

Later in the day witness viewed the body of deceased. The skull was fractured across the centre and there was a gash over the right eye, which was driven in.

In the basement he saw a small chisel, which he had never seen before, covered with blood, and there was blood on the handle of a hammer. There was an ax about the premises, but he did not see it on that occasion.

Aylesworth testified that the dead boy wore glasses permanently. He was very near-sighted and had to wear glasses all the time, even to walk about.

Witness testified that his wife received $4750 of the insurance money on Wells' life in September or October of 1893.

There was a defect in the elevator, and the cage would catch occasionally about the second story. It could be readily released by pulling up the rope.

There was nothing in the warehouse which would require the use of the elevator on the morning of the tragedy.

Another Defeat For Toronto

Scranton, May 9.—Toronto went down again to-day in a game that was well played up to the sixth innings, although Crane was hit pretty freely. Gray went in and was no better. The visitors' fielding was ragged at times, while the work of the home men in this respect was none too good. Score:

Corbett Willing to Meet Jackson

New York, May 9.—Corbett has agreed not to make a match with Jackson, but to meet him in the arena of the New York Sporting Club of London, the place preferred by Jackson. All that Corbett asks of the officials of the English organization is that they offer a suitable purse and schedule the contest for August or September. Corbett's change of base was occasioned by the recent action of the Florida Legislature in passing an anti-prize-fighting bill and the decision of the Supreme Court of Louisiana in declaring glove contests in New Orleans illegal. The champion has also little faith in the ability of the Florida club to hold the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight in Dallas, Texas.

Went to the Cemetery to Die

Buffalo, May 9.—Hebley V. Beaston, or Beatson, native of Toronto, aged 36, last employed as switchman, committed suicide by taking poison in Forest Lawn Cemetery early this morning. He left a letter for his wife. The story it told was the threadbare tale of sickness, loss of employment, discouragement and drink. A reference was made in it to an occasion when he had bought some poison, and that his wife accused him of intending to use it on her. This development, he said, would show how false was the charge, as he had used the poison now to end his own existence. His troubles he attributed to sickness and drink.

THE BARD'S SCHEME.

Mr. Nicholas Flood Davin, M. P., Regina, the Bald Browed Bard of the Blizzard Belt, introduced a resolution in the House of Commons, on Wednesday, declaring the principle of extending the parliamentary franchise to women. Mr. Davin's action may be a gallant one, but it has an element of selfishness in it. If the franchise were extended to women, it is more than probable that the vast majority of them would vote for candidates of the present wicked Conservative Government. It would be just like them. From the days of mother Eve the gentler sex has shown its sympathy with the doubtful characters of society. It is a notorious fact that a man, if he is the least good looking, if charged with a crime, no matter how heinous and, put into jail, at once arouses the sympathy of the ladies, who lionize him, send him flowers, sweets, billets doux and dainties; and, the bigger the blackguard he is, the more petticoated sympathy he receives. On the same principle the Tory candidates would capture the virginal vote (for Mr. Davin would rob married ladies of the franchise) and "dish the Grits." No, Nicholas, though we believe the ladies could vote as intelligently as, and more honestly, according to their sympathies, than, the majority of male voters, we don't want any of your wild west tricks worked off upon honest Liberals.

AFRAID OF CRITICISM.

The Conservative government plunges the country up to the ears in debt; its extravagance creates disgraceful deficits; but when Sir Richard Cartwright criticises, in the interests of the country, the misgovernment and recklessness that bring about such results, he is accused of being a pessimist and of preaching "blue ruin"—"Blue ruin" might not be an inappropriate term. No doubt the government and its defenders or rather apologists, would be quite content to carry on their misgovernment and criminal extravagance unchecked and uncriticised, and their shrinking at legitimate discussion of their methods and the evil effects, shows that the knife touches a tender spot. A thief would be very well pleased if the law refrained from bestowing practical criticism on his operations, but he would be regarded as having adamantine and colossal cheek if he accused a prosecuting attorney of preaching moral "blue ruin" because he called attention to his crimes.

SCHULTZ AND BOURINOT.

The Conservatives were very much exercised over the indelicacy and impropriety of Attorney-General Sifton, of Manitoba, coming down to Haldimand to take part in an election campaign, but they never utter one word of reproof of the gross impropriety of Her Majesty's representative, Dr. Schultz, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, practically insulting his advisers and rushing to Ottawa to seek ex-parte and party advice as to the course he ought to pursue in relation to the Manitoba School question. According to the constitution, the Lieutenant Governor has only one set of official advisers, and it is altogether undignified and improper that he should slight their advice to seek that of even as great an authority as Dr. Bourinot. If Dr. Schultz wished to pick a quarrel with his advisers he has taken the right course; and that the Manitoba Ministers have not resented the insult is more credit to their forbearance than to the Lieutenant-Governor's sense of the decencies of the gubernational position.

Mr. Foster's budget speech, says the Montreal Witness, with its three deficits and increased taxation, is reported to have caused the run on the Canadian banks in Newfoundland. Thus doth the whirligig of time bring in its revenges. Mr. Foster has been in the habit of twitting the Opposition with its deficits and Sir Richard Cartwright with his depressing speeches, but his optimism has practically, it appears, more blue-ruinous effects than the pessimism complained of.

The present by-election contest in Haldimand is not over yet. Mr. McCarthy, the politician was extinguished, but Mr. McCarthy, the lawyer, survived, and now, rumour says, intends to prosecute the bribers that operated so numerously and successfully to his disadvantage. Such practices may be recognized as regular by the Government and its friends, but, to Mr. McCarthy's legal mind, they are decidedly irregular.

Principal Grant, being interviewed by a Montreal Star reporter as to the work of the Prohibition Commission, said: "Generally, I agree with the views and recommendations of the majority report, though as the commission is to cost about $100,000, it may be a question whether it was worth spending so much to get so little."

ATTACKED THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Dr. Tanner Creates a Scene in the Imperial House.

London, May 10.—Dr. Tanner, anti-Parnellite for the middle division of Cork, caused much excitement in the House of Commons last night by sharp attack upon the Royal Family. At midnight, on a motion to adjourn, he rose and asked with a considerable show of feeling: "Is the report true that the Duke of Cambridge, the Commander-in-Chief of the army, is retiring to make way for a better man?"

There were loud cries for order, but Dr. Tanner ignored them.

"Is the time come at last," he continued, "when a member of the Royal Family, who has been drawing the people's money too long, is going to retire?"

The second question increased the confusion. Shouts of "Name him" came from all sides, and the Speaker rose with his eyes fixed upon the Irish member. Dr. Tanner remained standing.

"Are these remarks in order?" asked George Bartley, Conservative.

"They are not," replied Speaker Gully. "They are entirely out of order."

Most members supposed that Dr. Tanner would succumb to this rebuke. The Conservative cheers which greeted the speaker's declaration, however, seemed to enrage him. With a quick gesture of disdain he bawled at Mr. Ellis, the sole occupant of the treasury bench: "What I wish to know is whether his Royal Highness is going to retire?"

There was no answer. The Speaker put the motion to adjourn, which was formally approved, Dr. Tanner meanwhile gesticulating violently and trying to address the House.

The palms taken by Campbell-Bannerman on April 28 to deny that his Royal Highness was about to retire apparently had a bad effect upon the Nationalists and Radicals. The subject has been discussed with much feeling by the Radical press in the last week. The critics of His Royal Highness contend that he opposes every reform in the army and is incompetent, useless and expensive.

The agitation has begun spreading among the more moderate journals. Punch which is invariably non-partisan, has a cartoon in the current issue, representing General Wolseley, saying to the Duke of Cambridge, "I have to retire from my command in September," to which the Duke replies, "Dear me, I haven't."

Rosebery Suffers From Lapse of Memory

London, May 9.—During the reception of the National Liberal Club last evening it was generally remarked that Lord Rosebery looked pale and wearied. The lapse of memory from which he suffered, causing him to lose the thread of his argument, lasted several minutes, in spite of the fact that he was repeatedly reminded by Earl Spencer and Campbell-Bannerman.

Meanwhile the Premier gazed about him in a dazed sort of way that was painful to see. When he recovered himself he was inclined to end his remarks then and there, but he was persuaded to proceed, which he did with great effort. Some ascribe his condition to the use of drugs.

Lord Rosebery's physician issued a bulletin in the afternoon, stating that the Premier was suffering somewhat from fatigue.

NEWFOUNDLAND HAS NO REPLY.

The Legislature Adjourns For a Week To Hear From Ottawa.

St. John's, Nfld., May 10.—The Legislature met yesterday and adjourned for another week. An important debate occurred, in which the prospects for confederation were considerably enhanced Premier Whiteway made an official announcement of the condition of the confederation negotiations. He announced that the delegates had not yet received a reply to their ultimatum from the Dominion Government. Premier Whiteway telegraphed Premier Bowell last Tuesday night, urging the necessity for a prompt reply. Premier Bowell answered that he would cable his answer at the first possible moment.

Premier Whiteway believes it unwise to terminate the negotiations at this juncture. He urged the immense importance of the subject. Its bearing on the future of the country, and the difficulties of the present position. He stated that it was the unanimous decision of the Government party to prolong the period of waiting, so as to give the Dominion Cabinet time to arrive at a decision. Mr. Whiteway avowed himself an ardent confederate, and had been so all his life. He believed that confederation on advantageous terms the best thing possible for the country at this juncture.

At the same time, he said, if nothing is received from the Canadian Government this next week his Government is prepared to bring in a scheme for drastic retrenchment, providing for economies in every department of the public service. It is intended to increase the tariff so as to provide for means for meeting all indebtedness. The introduction of this, he intimated, would constitute the virtual abandonment of Confederation, and further, stated that the colony would not submit to insolvency and that it would strive to work out its own destiny.

Mr. Morris, one of the delegates, corroborated Mr. Whiteway, and accused the late Government of wrecking the colony's affairs. He said that the Whiteway Government was prepared to accept the fullest responsibility of the position.

Mr. Scott, Receiver-General, followed in a similar strain, and charged the Goodridge Government with expending nearly half a million dolars without legal authority, also that the public accounts show a disgraceful squandering of public moneys by that Administration. These charges were denied by the representatives of the late Government.

Neither Premier Whiteway nor Mr. Scott would say whether the question of Confederation will be submitted to the electorate. This disinclination confirms the belief that the Government will finally force a measure through the Legislature requesting England to despatch a Royal Commission to investigate and reorganize the country's affairs.

An immense concourse of people filled the Chamber and much disatisfaction expressed because nothing definite was done. The people are also dissatisfied with the settlement without a popular vote.

A GOOD THING.

The City on the Thames Knows How to Appreciate a Valuable Discovery.

London, Ont., May 10.—London citizens have claimed for some time that their city is one of the most progressive in the Dominion and many points appear to bear out the assertion. Among other valuable novelties that have met with general adoption may be mentioned the remedy so effective in all cases of kidney trouble, called Dodd's Kidney Pills. The wonderful recoveries of Mr. and Mrs. Langley of this city, of Drs. Rose and McCormack, in the Eastern part of Canada, and of Mr. G. H. Kent, of Ottawa, to say nothing of many others who have used the remedy and been restored to health, have convinced Londoners that they have got hold of a thoroughly good thing.

CUSTOM DUTIES TO BE ABOLISHED

Tobacco, Opium and Spirits Only To Be Dutiable—Revenue To Accrue Mostly Direct Taxation on Land and Income—The Colonial Budget.

Sydney, N.S.W., May 10.—Premier Reid made a statement in the Assembly regarding the estimates for the coming year. The Budget, he said, proposed a great change in the country's policy. The Government were pledged to abolish the customs duties imposed in 1891 to establish a tariff on a free trade basis, and to reform the civil service. The Government was determined to stake its existence on direct taxation. There would be a land tax of a penny a pound, and an income tax of sipence on the pound with exemptions. There would be a permanent tariff only on wines, spirits, beer, tobacco and opium. The old duties would be retained for a year, the sugar duties alone remaining untouched for two years. Political patronage in the civil service would be abolished. The estimated surplus was £56,184.

GREENWAY WANTS MORE TIME

The House Adjourned Until June 13 at His Request

Winnipeg, Man., May 10.—When the Manitoba Legislature resumed for business yesterday, Premier Greenway made the following statement: Before proceeding to the orders of the day I desire to say that when asking the House to adjourn until the present date it will be within the recollection of members I stated that in view of the gravity of the questions involved in the consideration of the School Remedial Order communicated in His Honor's message of March 25 last, we would require sufficient time to consider the same. I am now about to ask the House to order a further adjournment to June 13, next in order that further consideration may be had.

I am aware, Mr. Speaker, in making the motion that the House do now adjourn, I am asking the indulgence of the House because making the motion it would require, if my honorable friends opposite insisted, that I should give notice, as it is not the intention of the Government to proceed to other business until this matter is disposed of. I desire to move now, if there is no objection, that the House do now adjourn to the date mentioned.

A. F. Martin, member for Morris, protested against further postponement, especially as the Government gave no particular reason, therefore, he claimed, as one of the Roman Catholic minority, that some statement should be made of their intentions. Mr. Martin continued speaking until 6 o'clock, reading copious extracts from and ridiculing Attorney-General Sifton's speeches during the Haldimand campaign.

At the evening session Mr. Martin continued his speech, and was followed by Mr. Prendergast, who regretted the Government had found it necessary to take a further adjournment.

Attorney-General Sifton said the Remedial Order as submitted by the Dominion Government involved a return to the old school system, and this they did not purpose to do. There were also a great many other phases of the question, and further time must be taken for consideration.

The question was then put, "Shall the rules be suspended?" There was no dissenting voice, and the Legislature was declared adjourned to June 13.

GETTING INTO SOCIETY

A Serious Moment for the Plebian Rich Woman.

New York society is a very curious puzzle to strangers. The relative positions of the various factors that combine to make up the sum total bear no extrinsic relation to one another. To the outsider there is no especial reason why Mrs. S. should be among the very smartest of the smart, and Mrs. Z. whose position is quite as good, who is quite as bright, if not brighter, and who may possess in a greater degree than her neighbor those qualities which go to make one desirable socially, is not of so fine a position. It seems inexplicable. We have these types, and very strongly marked, as any careful observer will agree. The disturbances in relative "values" (to use an artistic term) that is caused by the introduction of a new element among so delicately balanced an organization is very interesting.

I had a chance not long ago to witness the initation of such a factor. The lady is of vast wealth and of very recently acquired prominence. For some months everybody has known that she was a "coming" woman, socially speaking. A ball was given by one of her social sponsers, a veteran of the "grand armee," a leader whose position is recognised on two sides of the Atlantic. For a twelvemonth she has guided the course of her protegee as a skilled chess player directs the movements of his pieces. This dance was to be the beginning of the end. At it the leaders of the ultra inside circle were to make their first acquaintance with the rising sun. It was in short an historic night. Would the powers that be come forward voluntarily to make the first advances, or would they hold aloof? The small fry had all assembled. The lady of the evening stood close to the hostess. Around her clustered a crowd of newly made friends.

At last the fateful moment arrived. "Mrs. Awful Smartset," bawled the major domo who was announcing the guests, and the great person made her salutation to the hostess, and then, while the throng gave way, the two advanced straight to Mrs. Manyplunketts. An awed hush succeeded to the clatter that had filled the salon; the Hungarian band, as though at the beck of an unseen stage manager, struck up a slow and solemn strain. In a brief word the presentation was made, whereupon Mrs. Awful Smartset extended her exclusive hand in cordial grasp and exclaimed with real effusiveness: "My dear Mrs. Manyplunketts, I can't tell you how charmed I am to meet you. I hope to see you often. I am coming to call on you in a few days." It was done! The aristocrat of 1883 had fraternized with the plebeian of 1895. The old regime had absorbed the new. Conversation was resumed. The band struck up a joyous air.—New York Mail and Express.

The Newest Collars and Cuffs.

White linen and batiste collars, simply hemstitched, adorned with lace and insertion, are much patronized just now for morning wear. The specimens shown on our cut are among the newest models out. The high turned-over collar is a great favorite; it is generally completed by a satin or laced-trimmed batiste cravat. The one of the sort illustrated has the cuff to match. All the other models are equally provided with cuffs, which constitute a pretty finish to morning dress.

Sick Room Suggestions.

How few women really know what constitutes good nursing. When they move about a sick room, they either do it in a stealthy, tip-toe sort of fashion that is quite enough to drive a nervous person frantic, for they indulge in a tread that shakes to its very foundation the bed of the invalid. The most loving care and anxious thought is often at a discount, for good nursing is an art, a heaven-born gift, that is often lacking in even the best of trained nurses.

It is a most artistic work to prepare a dainty cup of tea and dish of toast. Nine out of every ten women who attempt this delicate task fail signally, the tea being too often half cold and either too strong or too weak, and so deluged with sugar that even the most robust might protest. As for the toast, the keen eyes of the invalid quickly detect the slightest scorch that may linger about the edges.

"There is an opening for some woman," said a trained nurse in a recent gossip on sick room methods, "in making to order tempting broths, beef tea, custards, invalid delicacies, in fact, that could be relied upon for their wholesomeness and genuine home-made qualities. A woman with a natural aptitude for cooking could soon perfect herself in the creation of invalid foods, and by getting some well-known physician as her patron she might supply his patients with such dainties as he advised. Many a home have I been in where the weary housewife would have gladly given orders for articles which, in the worry and flurry of nursing, home folks had little chance to prepare."

So here's a hint for the "born cook" anxious to add to her meagre pin money. Let her hang out her little shingle bearing the unique notice "Invalid Caterer." Haven't the least doubt her business would soon be a telling one.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

BOY'S FATAL SHOT.

Shooting in Essex He Killed His Nine-Year Old Playmate.

Essex, Ont., May 9.—About 9 o'clock this morning Aylmer Chase, an 11-year-old boy, while flourishing a revolver, shot Anthony Gascoe, aged about 9 years. Chase was evidently trying to scare Gascoe, without thinking the revolver was loaded. The ball entered the nose and took an upward course towards the base of the skull. The boy will die.

EARL JERSEY'S REPORT.

Deputation Will Urge the Government To Adopt Its Resolutions.

London, May 10.—Lord Rosebery will receive on May 17, a deputation from the Associated Chambers of Commerce, who will urged the adoption of the resolutions made by Lord Jersey in his report on the Ottawa Intercolonial Conference.

The deputation will recommend especially the resolutions of the Ottawa conference regarding postal and telegraph routes.

- ABOUT -

Clothing.

The most advantageous shop to buy Clothing in leads to one conclusion—to purchase from us. You may twist and turn and argue as you will—admit you must that our Clothing is by far the best ready-made in Canada. If you discuss prices, we say again—our selling figures are lower, because the qualities are so much better.

Fathers and sons grown up, you, to whom a sensible word can be seriously spoken, take a look at our Spring Overcoats or our new Spring Suits and convince yourself whether we are not more stylish and if our goods are not better made and trimmed or fit neater than any goods shown elsewhere.—Mothers, who generally have good judgment and look for novelties for their youngsters, never fail to look in at our establishment, for we surpass any competition in the way of Children's Clothing.

The splendid value we give in a 2-piece suit at $1.50, or a 3 piece at $2.50, should make us many new acquaintances.

Home Circle Meeting.

Another very successful meeting of this society was held in the Sons of Canada Hall last evening. F. N. Baines, M.A., Supreme Leader, was present, and explained the many good features in connection with the society. There were several new members initiated, and from present indications it is anticipated that by next autumn the membership will reach one hundred. The special rates for joining will close at the end of the present month, and those wishing to become members will kindly make application to Dr. T. N. Greer, corner Hunter and Simcoe streets. The next regular meeting will be held on the last Monday of this month.

A Quiet Wedding.

On Tuesday evening Robert McConnell, of Dummer, and Mrs. Enoch Thistlethwaite, of Norwood, were married by the Rev. J. F. Somerville. The wedding, which was a very quiet affair, took place at the bride's residence, on Belmont street, Norwood.

Local Matriculation Examination.

Candidates who desire to write on the local matriculation examination of McGill University, Montreal, to be held at the Peterborough Business College, Peterborough, on June 3rd, should sign application forms in the hands of Mr. A. Blanchard, Deputy Examiner, not later than May 20th.

Indian Relics.

Mr. Rod. Keller, of Healey Falls, a few weeks ago, presented Mr. T. J. Barrie, of Campbellford, with a collection of Indian relics, comprising fifty-four pieces. Mr. Barrie has also received specimens of crystals and amethysts from Methuen township, presented to him by Mr. David Meldin, of Seymour.

A Good Trout Pond.

Mr. W. J. Crossen, of Cobourg, has leased the John Dawson trout pond, north of Castleton, and hereafter no one will be allowed to fish there. Those who have been in the habit of visiting this pond from Peterborough will do well to paste this notice in their hat, and save the trouble of a long drive to no purpose.

The season for selling fishing tackle is now on, and if you want to view a nice assortment of trolling baits and lines, fishing hooks and lines, trout and bass flies, steel rods, bamboo poles and jointed rods, minnows, frogs and other fancy baits it is to be seen next door to the Post Office, at George Stethem & Son's Hardware store. 1d1w

Entertainment at Chemong.

On the Queen's Birthday a tea will be held in the Pavilion at Chemong and an entertainment afterwards in the Methodist church in Bridgenorth. The chair will be taken by Rev. Geo. Clare, of the Bridgenorth Methodist church, and it is probable that a large number will drive out from town.

Queen's Birthday.

The excursion of the non-commissioned officers to Jubilee on the 24th, under the patronage of the officers of the Rangers, is being looked forward to with pleasurable anticipation. A full orchestra will be taken along, and members of the Infantry, Cavalry and Artillery from Peterborough, Port Hope, Cobourg and Norwood are expected to be in attendance in uniform. 2d

A Runaway.

A horse belonging to a local livery stable became affrighted and ran away last evening, while being driven by a young man named Law, in the north end of the town. Law, it is stated, jumped from the buggy and allowed the horse to run just where its own sweet will dictated. The animal ran up Argyle street and was caught far out in the country by Mr. Will Chamberlain, who was driving into town.

To-Night's Concert.

The Electrical Works' employees' benefit concert will take place to-night in the Opera House. A really excellent programme will be rendered by the best local talent in Peterborough. The laudable object of the concert is well known to the citizens. There should be a large attendance and no doubt there will be. The Fire Brigade Band will be in attendance and render several splendid selections during the evening. One of the best, if not the best concerts of the season will to-night's event be. Those who have not secured seats should do so at once. The reserved plan is at Sallsbury's stationery store.

An Episcopal Portrait.

The splendid life-size portrait of his Lordship Bishop O'Connor, presented him by the clergy of the diocese on May 1st, the sixth anniversary of his consecration, is now on view in the south window of the Peterborough Bookstore. The painter, Mr. J. W. L. Forster, Toronto, has, in this portrait, achieved a genuine work of art. The likeness is perfect, the benign expression characteristic of his Lordship's countenance is splendidly caught, the detail of the episcopal vestments is well worked out, and the whole picture is invested with an air of repose and dignity so well fitting the distinguished subject. This portrait, which is regarded, by one of the foremost of Canadian portrait artists, as his best work, may be seen by His Lordship's many admirers in the place indicated above.

His Dwelling Burned.

If there is an unfortunate man in Seymour east, it is Mr. John Brunton, who has suffered loss in various ways. Two years ago last winter Mr. Brunton's team ran away in Campbellford, and plunged into the river and were drowned. Last fall another team ran away and were scorched, and the contents of his wagon strewn about the road and burned by a spark from his pipe setting fire to his straw while he was returning home on Sunday morning. Early on Wednesday morning of last week, Mr. Brunton's dwelling house took fire. It is supposed from defective stovepipes, and it was in a short time laid in ashes. With the assistance of his neighbours, the furniture of the lower floor was removed, but the contents upstairs became a prey to the flames. There was no insurance on either building or furniture.

Mr. Robert Hall's May Millinery Sale.

Saturday shoppers—ladies who are compelled by other duties to employ that day—will be specially interested in the announcement of the May millinery sale of Mr. Robert Hall, on Saturday next. That will be millinery day, par excellence, at his rooms. On that occasion a specially beautiful and varied stock of millinery, consisting of trimmed and untrimmed hats and bonnets, will be offered at specially low prices—for that day only. The stock, which includes trimmings, ornaments and novelties, is all this season's goods—the finest and most fashionable, as well as the most stylish. The beauty of these goods, the marvellous reductions in price, next thing to cost, should make Mr. Hall's millinery Saturday a busy day at his extensive establishment. Ladies who are proud of bargains—and what lady is not?—will be sure to avail themselves of the wonderful millinery bargains that will be offered from 9 o'clock a.m. till 10 o'clock p.m. on Saturday. 3d109

THE GREAT LELY CONCERT.

A Voice of Exceptional Range and Great Sweetness.

One of Peterborough's most cultured audiences greeted Mr. and Mrs. Durward Lely last evening at the opera house, and that the rich and mellow tones of the great tenor were certainly appreciated was amply exemplified by the fact that although the programme lasted for almost two hours, there were none present who would have willingly had it shortened by a single number.

Mr. Lely's singing last evening was characterized by the most artistic phrasing, denoting the high pitch of cultivation to which his voice has been brought; the sweetest of low notes and the most agreeable personal manner, while the range of his voice was so delightfully extraordinary as to go far to show how he has attained that high place of pre-eminence which he occupies to-day in the musical world.

Not the least charming part of the programme existed in the explanations with which Mr. Lely prefaced all his songs. He proved himself a delightful raconteur, and his many quaint references to the authors and composers, and the conditions under which they had evolved their productions were most interesting and at the same time amusing, as many of the narratives were of the mirth-provoking order.

Perhaps the number which was most appreciated by the audience, as a whole, was Balfe's arrangement of "Come into the Garden, Maud," though of course the Scotch songs were most enthusiastically received by the many sons and daughters of "Auld Scotia," who had assembled to hear the Scottish melodies rendered as they had never been rendered before.

The pianoforte solos with which Mrs. Lely preluded the two parts of the programme, while being artistically presented were, perhaps, less generally pleasing than the sympathetic and excellent accompaniments she furnished for her husband's grand singing.

The piano used on the occasion was a Berlin Cabinet grand supplied by the Peterborough Music Company. Messrs. Turner & Cunningham. The palms and cut flowers used were furnished by Messrs. Jordan Bros., and added not a little to the appearance of the stage. The different numbers were rendered in the following order:

"O a' Airts the Winds Can Blaw,".....Burns
"Come Into the Garden, Maud,".....Balfe
"Cam' Ye by Athol,".....James Hogg
"The Cruiskeen Lawn,".....Benedict
"McGregor's Gatherin,".....
"The Distant Shore,".....Gilbert and Sullivan
"Tom Bowling,".....Dibden
"The Land o' the Leal,".....Lady Nairne
"The Minstrel Boy,".....Moore
"Alaister McAllister,".....Author Unknown

TYPOGRAPHICAL FISH HUNTING.

The Printers Prey on the Succulent Sucker.

THE EXAMINER comps "Locked" their "forms" last night and were after the succulent suckers with a sharp "stick." Four boat loads of typographical disciples of Izak Walton went down to the Locks last night. The sport they had can hardly be called angling, though the boys claimed to have made a corner on suckers. The sucker, the black sheep of the carp family, is not very much thought of, though he is always a "soft thing" for the fisherman, and he enjoys no protection from the game laws. Like that other more lively and sanguinary sucker, the tuneful mosquito, the aquatic sucker is always in season, so far as snaring him is concerned. Like other fresh and forward specimens of the sucker in the human family, he is always first on hand, making the first run of the season.

Except for those who delight in holocaust there is not much sport in capturing suckers. A sucker is about as game as a fish-worm, and makes about as lively a fight for his life, as that patient squirmer. The printer boys claim to have made good catches, bagging altogether 200. This is the actual count, not to speak of the discount, that generally forms a part of the numerical equipment of a fish story. The means employed to capture the Catostoma were sharp sticks, gaff hooks and nets. The boys made a big catch, but didn't have any fish for breakfast, for, through the neglect to provide themselves with ice, the suckers melted before they could be got home.

REFUSES TO KEEP THE PEACE.

J. J. Brasly will Probably be Confined a Long Time as he Will not Sign Bonds.

After sentence had been passed upon Mr. James J. Brasly yesterday, the complainant wished to have him bound over to keep the peace for a year. Mr. Brasly stated that he would never sign bonds to this effect, and the probability is, therefore, that he will remain in the county gaol for the next few months.

During the progress of the trial yesterday the defendant expressed himself as being much disgusted with the enactments in the Criminal Code, which he considered took away the liberties which his forefathers as British subjects had fought and died for. An Englishman's house, he thought, could no longer be termed his castle, as the Criminal Code took away his right to protect his property. He considered the Brasly farm his property, and in driving Mr. Bradburn's sheep off it he was simply protecting that property, as he was also doing when he kept the complainant at a distance with his rifle by threats of "boring a hole in him."

The Magistrate, who showed the greatest of forbearance with the defendant throughout the trial, held that a man was not justifiable in pointing a gun for the purpose of intimidating, simply because he thinks another is committing a trespass.

THE BODY NOT YET RECOVERED.

The Remains of Oliver Vinnett Still in the River.

Exertions for the recovery of the body of little Oliver Vinnett, who was drowned on Tuesday last, are continued on the river with unabated energy.

Dynamite is now being used in the endeavour to dislodge the body if it is caught in the weeds on the bottom, but it is feared that the remains have been drawn under the slide and is kept there by some cribbing that runs along the edge of it, and if this is so no efforts would be of any avail to dislodge it.

The shock of the little fellow's sudden and tragic end has thrown a heavy strain on his parents, and his mother is still prostrated through its effect.

This afternoon Mr. Jno Kemp undertook to examine the cribwork in question and endeavour to ascertain whether the body was caught amongst the old timbers.

NEWS NUGGETS

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—Manager Jackson, of Cow Island, Rice Lake, is building a summer cottage for himself and family.

—Commodore Calcutt and party are on a tour of inspection down the river and intermediate ports on Rice Lake to-day.

—The buds are bursting on apple and pear trees, and in a few days the sweet-scented blossoms will give grandeur to the garden.

—Two girls ten and twelve years of age were placed in the guardianship of the Children's Aid Society yesterday. The society would receive applications for nurse-maids.

—Mr. J. J. Turner, of Peterborough, put up two new awnings at the Simpson house this morning. The guests can now enjoy their siesta with a proper degree of comfort.—Lindsay Post.

—The Lakefield News says: Quite a number of cottagers came up on the train on Monday from Peterborough, and took the steamers for Stony Lake to look after after their cottages.

—Several of our citizens boast that they have not yet abanonded their winter underwear—never do before the 24th of May. In the meantime they are looking decidedly uncomfortable.

—The Lindsay Post says: A baseball match between a team made up from the Lindsay newspaper employees and the Peterborough Athletic Association nine may be one of the 24th of May attractions.

—The number of pupils on the roll of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute for April was 212; average, 198. There were 292 pupils on the rolls of the Lindsay Collegiate for April; average, 195. Quite a difference.

—Small sections of sidewalk are being renewed where decay has taken place and loose and warped planks have outgrown their usefulness. There are many projecting nails which should receive a blow from a hammer.

—Rabbits are not altogether desirable pets. The fatal bite received by Mr. Lush suggests the fact that a year ago, a little girl in the south ward was bitten by a rabbit; blood poisoning ensued and her life was with difficulty saved.

—It is now in season to pluck the savory water cress, with which the creeks of this locality abound. During the early days of summer is the time to gather it, as then the plant is crisp and tender, and free from the depredations of flies which feed upon the leaf.

—If we may judge by the heat of the last few days, it would appear as if with one bound, we have leaped into the warmth of midsummer. We must be prepared for a set back; it is very possible we may have some sharp weather yet before the month is out.

—In former years the drawback to arranging by land or water, excursions for the Queen's birthday anniversary was the feared inclemency of the weather; it has generally been so cold. One is inclined to wonder what it will be like this year when the thermometer has already registered 89 degrees in the shade.

—The Lindsay Watchman says: A large consignement of live hogs was shipped to the Mattews' packing house at Peterborough, on Monday. In the lot was a veritable giant porker that although very thin weighed over 500 pounds. Many farmers thought that it would easily weigh 1,000 pounds if properly fatted.

—The advance in prices for beef and cattle, has resulted in a mad rush for the same by drovers all over the country, and it is claimed that there is not an animal fit for slaughter in this country that has not been picked up. Some of our local butchers have made sure of a supply by purchasing ahead so that they are all right.

WHEEL.

The Canadian Wheelman says: "The live cyclists of Peterborough with three meets on hand, evidently do not propose to hide their light behind a bushel this season. Reports have it that Chief Hustler Hopkins, with an eye for the future, is organizing a number of new clubs in the Quinte district. It will thus be with more power to their elbows that the Peterboroughites will come to the conclave next Good Friday, to urge their claims to the annual fixture. See.

Big Chief Geo. VanFelson, way down in that ancient city, Quebec, does not by any means propose to stand idly by and allow his western rival to do all the wire pulling. He is, on the contrary, already on the warpath, getting his newly mapped out district into training for the fray. As a result of his missionary labours, the hot blooded great grand children of Sunny France, by the score, may be expected to forsake their quiet country picnic parties and to betake themselves to the winged steed with all the ardor of their impulsive natures. With forces armed for battle, down will they swoop upon us next spring. So subtle their wooing, and so determined will be their seige, that the Peterborough cohorts may be obliged to fight to the death to beat them off, if indeed they succeed in finally carrying the day.

I am advised by the wideawake Winnipegger and hero of the bull chase Signor Beaton, that the cyclists of the Prairie City are strictly in earnest in the formal notice which they have given, that they are after the annual meet of 1898, (not 1908 as a wag put it on Good Friday.) Have not the Westerners made a mistake in their calculations, and why should not '99 be just about the correct thing, I may ask? By an unwritten law, as inviolable, as that of the Medes and Persians, the annual fixture goes East and West in alternate years. Next year, it will go to either Quebec or Peterborough and the following season, London, St. Thomas or Woodstock, will be in line. The West's turn at the best, will come in '99.

The Mail and Empire says: It is evident that Scotch plaid stockings are coming into vogue among bicycle riders. Club members have not worn them to any great extent as yet, owing to the fact that heretofore black hosiery has formed part of regulation uniforms. Several of the dry goods and furnishing houses on King and Yonge streets have a variety of plaids, and appear to find a ready sale for them. A New York exchange is authority for the statement that three-fourths of the riders of that city wear plaid hose.

The following programme of bicycle races has been struck to be run in connection with the Queen's Birthday celebration in Kingston. There will be ten events: One mile, novice; half-mile, class A; two mile, members of the K. B. C. only; half-mile, class B; one mile, class A; two mile tandem, open; one mile, open to policemen only; one mile, class B; one mile, Midland district amateur championship; two mile, class B.

N. A. A. A.

Lacrosse players belonging to the Newspaper Amateur Athletic Association are requested to turn out at Riverside Park tonight.

To-morrow afternoon at four o'clock a game of baseball will be played on the Riverside Park between picked nines from the three newspaper offices.

FOOTBALL.

On Friday evening last a meeting was held in Lakefield for the purpose of organizing a football club for the ensuing season. The following officers were elected:

Hon. President—G. A. Strickland.
President—J. R. Griffin.
Vice-President—W. Wilson.
Sec.-Treas.—J. W. Ridpath.
Capt.—T. C. Ridpath.
Vice-President—H. Lempriere.

LACROSSE.

Mr. W. Galley has returned home from Toronto and states his intention of falling in line with the Peterboroughs this year. He will be a welcome addition to the club. If he plays as good a game for the Peterboroughs this year as he did for the Shamrocks, at centre, last season, he will strengthen the team considerably.

The Peterboroughs will turn out for practice on Riverside Park, this evening. A full attendance is desired, as after practice a short business meeting will be held.

The Park has been well rolled and cleared of stones and is now in splendid shape.

None but lacrosse players will be allowed on the grounds this evening and those using the Park must be bona fide members of the teams who have paid for the privilege of practising at Riverside. Outsiders using the grounds at any time are subject to prosecution for trespass.

Mr. A. V. White, head draughtsman of the Canadian General Electric Works, who resigned his position through sympathy with the employees in the recent difficulty left for his home in Woodstock to-day. Mr. White during his stay in Peterborough made many friends who will sincerely regret his departure from the town. His eminence in his professional capacity was recognized by everyone with whom he came in contact, and the classes which he conducted so successfully in connection with the Mechanic's Institute last winter brought him prominently before the public.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK.

Bass and Trout Evidently Don't Bite Well on the Same Day.

Rev. Mr. Shorey, of Lindsay, formerly of Peterborough, and Mr. J. S. Knapman, local manager of the Bell Telephone Co., returned this morning from Hastings, where they went yesterday on a fishing expedition. The two gentlemen were successful in catching fifty two splendid bass, of an average weight of about three pounds and were fully satisfied with the success of their trip.

Mr. Geo. Cochrane was back in Haliburton county on business yesterday, and having the afternoon at his disposal decided to try for some trout. He knew a lake in the vicinity and repairing to it embarked in a punt for a spot where he had landed many a speckled beauty before. The punt leaked but Mr. Cochrane had a Globe in his pocket, and knowing that it had stopped the mouth of a good many "Tories" in its day, thought he would try its effectiveness on stopping the leak in the punt and found it worked like a charm.

In less than five minutes the Inspector landed a five pound and a quarter trout, and made up his mind he would be satisfied if he got a dozen of them. As the afternoon waned and he received no more bites, Mr. Cochrane thought half a dozen would do. When the sun began to sink, just one more trout to make the pair would have filled his cup of contentment to the brim, but it was not to be, for, though he could see the fish darting hither and thither in the clear water of the lake, it was an off day for them and he could not catch another, angle as he would.

A GENTLEMAN TRAMP.

Beating His Way From Halifax to Winnipeg.

The Rossin House is the present place of abode of Mr. H. Guy Reid, a scientific tramp, who hails from Halifax. Mr. Reid, who states that he is a graduate of King's College, Windsor, N.B., has undertaken on a wager of $2,500, to beat his way from Halifax to Winnipeg. He started on March 30th from a club, being stripped of all but his underclothing, and his task being to reach Winnipeg by July 10, dressed in broadcloth and wearing a silk hat. He was not to accept a railway pass or money for a railway ticket; he was not to travel more than 300 miles without stopping 12 hours, and he was not to carry letters of introduction to anyone in the next town, while any money he might earn in a town must be spent before he left it, and he was to stop at first-class hotels. He has come thus far, is nine days ahead of his time, and has only walked 30 miles. He is a guest of the Toronto Athletic Club here, and has been well treated all along. He will leave to-day for Detroit, and from there he will go to Chicago, Milwaukee, and on to Winnipeg.

BE CAREFUL HOW YOU FISH.

The Close Season for Bass Begins To-day

It is spawning time for fish, and the close season for pickerel, bass and maskinonge. To-day is the first day of the close season for bass, and for several weeks no one can legally drop the hook and line for the purpose of taking either bass or maskinonge.

Restrictions are absolutely necessary to preserve good fishing grounds and afford sport for the angler, and this being the case it is to the interest of every man fond of fishing to assist in enforcing the regulations. Let every one acquaint himself with and observe the following dates covering the close season, just as they appear in the Dominion statutes:

Pickerel—No one shall fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell or possess any pickerel between the 15th day of April and the 15th of May, both days inclusive.

Bass—No one shall fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell, or possess any bass between the 10th day of May and the 30th day of June, both days inclusive.

Maskinonge—No one shall fish for, catch, kill, buy, sell or possess any maskinonge between the 15th day of April and the 15th day of June, both days inclusive.

MATRIMONIAL.

A Peterborough Boy Wedded in Lakefield.

Wednesday afternoon the Lakefield Methodist church was the scene of an interesting event when the rites of holy matrimony was performed for Miss Annie May, eldest daughter of Mr. Matthew McIlwain, of Lakefield, and Mr. Walter Bates, of Peterborough.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Limbert in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride who, was given away by her father, was assisted by her sister, Miss Jennie McIlwain, while Miss Mabel Bates was maid of honour. Mr. Green of Peterborough, acted as groomsman. As the wedding party entered the church the wedding march was played by Miss White. After the ceremony, the party proceeded to the residence of the bride's father, where the usual wedding repast was partaken of. The bride was the recipient of many useful and handsome presents. The church had been nicely decorated for the occasion.—Lakefield News.

Constriction of Diet.

The French snail-eating habit is said to be growing apace in America. Its ultimate popular adoption should by no means occasion surprise. Snail-eating is no more queer than turtle-eating. The development of cooking is the miracle of civilization; and yet the American custom of pickled pigs' feet might offend the African epicure who dines upon elephants' feet baked in a hole in the ground. Rattlesnakes, blacksnakes and lizards were all pronounced edible by the late Frank Buckland, the naturalist, and are no more repulsive, in a way, than the misshapen frog. In New Zealand a great delicacy is the boiled grasshopper, afterwards crisped in an oven and served headless. The flavor is said to resemble that of shrimp. Here is a suggestion for the Kansas farmer. Why not the pate de grasshopper as a rival edible to the hors d'oeuvre de snail?

A Song of Fatherland.

I've wandered east, I've wandered west,
In gypsy-wise a random roamer,
Of men and maids I've known the best,
Like that far-travelled King in Homer.

But oh for the land that bore me,
Oh for the stout old land,
Of breezy Ben, and winding glen,
And roaring flood and sounding strand!

I've stood where stands in pillared pride
The shrine of Jove's spear-shaking daughter,
And humbled Persia stained the tide
Of free Greek seas with heaps of slaughter.

I've stood upon the rock crest,
Where Jove's proud eagle spreads his pinion,
Where looked the god far east, far west,
And all he saw was Romeis dominion.

I've seen the domes of Moscow far,
In green and golden glory gleaming,
And stood where sleeps the mighty Czar,
By Neva's flood so grandly streaming.

I've stood on many a famous spot,
Where blood of heroes flowed like rivers,
Where Deutschland rose at Gravelotte,
And dashed the strength of Gaul to shivers.

I've fed my eyes by land and sea
With sights of grandeur streaming o'er me;
But still my heart remains with thee,
Dear Scottish land that stoutly bore me.

Oh for the land that bore me,
Oh for the stout old land,
With mighty Ben and winding glen,
Stout Scottish land, my own dear land!

SKIM MILK AND PIGS.

Dairying is Closely Associated With the Production of Pork.

Ontario is a great dairy country. Of this fact we are all proud. Quebec is following nobly in the wake. The Maritime Provinces are also giving more and more attention to this great question, and even Manitoba is fast waking up to the great importance of dairying. Dairying is also associated very intimately with pork production, because much milk and whey mean much pork. Immense quantities of pork are already being produced in Canada, as in Denmark, largely by the aid of these by-products But it is a fact, nevertheless, that very much of the food value of the skim milk is lost, and also of the whey, by making too large a proportion of the ration to consist of these products, or, it may be, by feeding them in unsuitable combinations, or in an unsuitable condition.

One of the commonest mistakes in feeding these products is to feed them in proportions altogether too large. When thus fed much of the food is lost. It passes through the animal undigested. Great care, then, should be taken to feed the milk along with meat. The proportions that have been found very suitable are 100 pounds of milk and whey to 30 pounds of meal. Cornmeal is excellent as the meal adjunct. But peameal is also very good, as are also shorts. Rye meal is also valuable. When good skimmilk is fed along with cornmeal or peameal, it has been affirmed that 100 pounds of it is worth a bushel of corn or a bushel of peas; that is to say, when the system of feeding as a whole, is judicious. If these statements are true, these by-products are of great value, relatively, as a food for swine.

These products could easily be fed in unsuitable combinations; that is, it would be easily possible to feed them too largely along with nitrogenous foods. Skim milk may be spoken of as a nitrogenous or flesh-forming food. Because of this, it is largely used in feeding calves to be reared for the dairy. It makes them grow without bringing them into a fat condition. Corn is a fat-producing food; hence, when fed along with skim milk to swine, the combination is an excellent one.

One of the commonest mistakes in feeding these by-products is allowing them to sour before they are fed. This is a very great mistake. Sugar is one of the valuable elements of these products. When either becomes sour, the sugar is lost. The effects of feeding sour food in large quantities are also injurious to digestion; hence the aim should be to feed them before they become sour. Notice how rapidly young pigs grow when they are being nursed by the dam. One reason of the rapid growth is the sweet condition of the milk. When skim milk and whey are fed to pigs, the conditions which surround them are oftentimes not of the best. In instances not a few of these products are conveyed to them by pipes which lead from the creamery or cheese factory, as the case may be, to a plot of ground with a trough in it. The place soon becomes very foul, and oftentimes muddy and miry in rainy weather. Under these conditions there is grievous waste. There is, first, waste of food, owing to the too large proportion of milk given with the meal. Then there is waste of fertility. Thirdly, there is waste from the uncomfortable condition of the quarters. Where hogs are fed in a wholesale way, it would pay well to feed them so carefully that the best results could be obtained from the food given.

The plan of keeping the pigs in a field and changing the places of feeding every two or three days has its advantages. It may involve more labor in feeding, but is excellent for the health of the pigs, and it is also excellent for bringing fertility to increased areas of land. —Canadian Live Stock Journal.

A CHICKEN HOUSE MADE OF SOD.

Healthful, Convenient and Large Enough to Accommodate 75 Hens.

The sod house shown in the illustration, I have found healthful, convenient and large enough to accommodate 75 to 100 hens. In a bank sloping southwest, I made an excavation 12 ft. east and west by 22 ft. north and south. At the southwest corner the excavation was on a level with the surface of the ground; at the north side it was 2½ ft. deep. Around the edges I built a sod wall making its upper edge five feet above the floor. I roofed the north half with boards and covered with tar paper. A border of sod was placed all around the edge, then the whole overlaid with 6 inches of gypsum taken from a pit near by. In the south half of the roof I put two hotbed sashes 3x9 ft. and covered the remainder of the space the same as the north side. In the walls were placed two glass windows and a door with glass in the upper part. In the north wall there is a window level with the roosts 18 inches high and five feet long. It is used for ventilation in the summer. In winter it is covered with boards and banked with earth. The windows are hinged and covered with heavy wire netting. I have an extra lattice door for summer.

The walls were given two coats of gypsum or poor man's plaster (very abundant in the southwest), and when dry a heavy whitewash was applied to fill all cracks. Roosts occupy the north half. The south half under glass is reserved for nests and a feeding ground during stormy weather. The floor under the roosts is made of gypsum, cement and sand. From this the droppings can be readily taken. I feed boiled wheat in the morning, dry wheat at noon and a feed of meat at least once a day in winter. I have kept from 75 to 100 single comb Brown Leghorns in this house for three winters without having a frozen comb. The hens lay well also. The bank feature is not essential; walls made entirely of sod will answer.

NOW FOR GOOD POTPIES.

A Baltimore Woman Has Invented a Much-Needed Crust Supporter.

Many a good cook has failed of success in baking a potpie, or meat-pie, as it is sometimes called, by reason of the vexatious behavior of the top crust. In preparing this savory and popular dish for the oven the pan is lined, bottom and sides, with the pastry, the required quantity of meat and vegetables is put in and a top crust is laid over all.

There is nothing to sustain this top crust, however, during the increase of temperature in baking and it often sags down and becomes soaked with the liquid in the pie, in which condition it persistently refuses to "brown" and the result is wholly unsatisfactory.

This trouble is all done away with, however, by the invention of a skeleton crust supporter, made of metal, which is adjusted on the top of the baking pan. The crust is laid on this supporter and it never fails to "brown" all over, for it cannot sag and come into direct contact with the filling of the pie.

There are openings in the supporter, which allow the vapors from the cooking meat and vegetables to ascend into the top crust and flavor it, so that the good qualities of the pie are in no way diminished. In serving the pie, too, the supporter is of advantage, for the top crust may be removed bodily and cut separately while the filled is being dished out.

The accompanying picture shows what this new device is like. It was invented by a Baltimore woman and is described in The Baltimore News.

ABOUT BLUSHING WOMEN.

Some of Them Still Exist in Spite of the Cynics.

Some time ago a man took it upon himself to assert that the modern woman has forgotten how to blush. The imputation was launched at femininity in general with so much bitterness and asperity that one might gather therefrom that blushing is a virtue, and that not to blush is criminal. Whatever the connection between this sudden heightening of color and innocence in the case of women, however, the blush is considered a sign of grace by men. Cynics have always maintained that women can cry at anything, and at a moment's notice, and it is indeed pretty well known that many actresses can squeeze out real tears nightly at the proper moment; but blushing is more difficult to acquire as an art.

Blushes are evidently considered as important by the generality of men. For instance, to call a man "an unblushing scoundrel" is a distinct slur on his character, and to tell another that you blush for him used at one time to be a pretty common form of insult. Even now the phrase, "we blush to relate," is to be found in our daily newspapers. The poet Young lays it down in his "Night Thoughts" that "the man who blushes is not quite a brute." Darwin's observations determined the fact that blushing is confined to the human species.—Philadelphia Press.

RICH WOMEN ARE HUNTED

ANNOYANCES THAT AN HEIRESS MUST SUBMIT TO.

Wiles of the Fortune Hunter—He Makes It His Business to Propose to Every Rich Girl He Meets—The Newspaper Pest.

The position of an heiress is a very trying one at any time. It is not so bad for a pretty girl who is not loaded with too much sensitiveness, or for a plain girl who is blinded by excessive vanity. It is worst of all for a plain girl who knows that she is plain, and is oppressed by the fear that every man who is decently civil to her is pursuing her with the hope of marrying her for her money.

An heiress very soon learns that she is regarded as "fair game" by almost every man with whom she is brought in contact, and many of her would-be capturers, in their anxiety to secure the prey as soon as possible, do not trouble to give her the ordinary "law"—to treat her to the ordinary delays and decencies of courtship—before coming to a proposal of marriage.

One heiress tells a story of a certain man who was invited to a luncheon party expressly to meet her (as she afterward found out). He was introduced to her before lunch and sat next to her during the meal, when he made a far more favorable impression on her, owing to the vapid and cynical nature of his conversation: after lunch he contrived to pin her into a corner, on pretence of showing her some photographs, and, without more delay, asked her to marry him. She was so outraged by what she regarded as an insult that she did not answer, turned away and has since resolutely refused his acquaintance. He was asked by an intimate friend why he hurried matters so and he replied:

"Well, you see, I was going to meet Miss X——(naming another heiress) "at dinner in the evening and I wanted to know whether Miss Y—— would have me or not, in order to know how to behave to Miss X——."

In another case a certain man was in love with a girl, whom he thought had money. As it happened, she had but little and he had less, so she told him they could not marry.

"But there's my friend Miss L., the heiress; why don't you make up to her?"

She thereupon introduced him to the heiress, and in a very short time he told the latter that she was the only girl he ever loved. The heiress laughed.

"Either you must be very forgetful or very fickle," she said. "A week ago you were for ever after my friend, danced with her all night, were always with her, and had no eyes for anyone else. If you have forgotten her already, you can have no heart at all; and if you have not forgotten her, how can you have the assurance to tell me that I am the only girl you ever loved?"

A form of annoyance which every heiress has to go through is that of being proposed to by a certain number of impecunious men, who make it a regular business to offer themselves and what they style their hearts to every woman of fortune who comes in their way. They appear to forget that they are well known as fortune hunters, and that the history of their proposals is, probably, the first thing that is told about them to each successive miss. There is one young man of rank who has proposed to every heiress during the last eight years, and has been refused by all. One of the more recent objects of his attempts says that, after she had proposed to her three times, she asked him how much he would require per annum in exchange for a written promise never to propose to her again.

Nor is this the only form of annoyance that heiresses are subjected to. Within recent times a wealthy and beautiful young lady was so tormented by a ruffian who insisted on addressing her and forcing his society upon her whenever he met her (apparently with the mad idea that she would marry him at last to put an end to this persecution), that she was several times obliged to go through the disagreeable business of prosecuting him, in the hope of putting an end to his insults.

Another heiress was pestered by a correspondent who used to write her anonymous letters, in which he not only called her by every endearing name and protested his undying devotion to her, but actually referred to their "last meeting," her "last dear letter," and the kisses which he had pressed upon her "dear lips." Whether these letters were written by a madman or a scoundrel was never known, and they ceased as unexpectedly as they had begun. While they lasted they were a source of great trouble to the poor girl, who was especially anxious that they should not fall into other hands than her own.

In a third case an heiress received a written proposal from a gentleman whom she knew very slightly. It happened that shortly afterwards two girls came to see her who were also heiresses and intimate friends of hers. In the course of conversation she alluded to the proposal which she had had, whereupon it transpired that both her visitors had some little time before received proposals from the same man, which they had refused. The heroine was so indignant at the heartlessness displayed by the man that she referred to her knowledge of it in her reply.

Another girl was really in love with an impecunious man and consented joyfully when he asked her to be his wife. But when he found that her fortune was to be settled on herself, and that her parents declined to settle anything on him, he broke of the engagement.

Less annoying, but quite troublesome enough, is the newspaper criticism and advertisement which a rich girl has to go through. One ladies' paper will say that she is "not exactly good-looking, but very pleasant in expression." Another observes that she has blue eyes, when she is most anxious that everyone should know that they are gray. A third ladies' paper will describe her feature for feature, and every one of them wrong, and wind up by observing that, as she will have a dowry of so much a year, she is one of the greatest catches in the matrimonial market.

Then there are the ladies' columns and "gossip" in other papers, which will observe that she was in the park on Sunday "in green," and that her appearance "was not improved by the cold"; or will say that she has taken to cycling, and describes her early tumbles; or will find out that she hunts, and express a hope that she will "grow out of that"; or on the strength of the fact that she was once at a private view, will include her in the list of "those present" at almost every artistic function of the year, and sandwich her in between the newest divorcee and the latest erotic minor poet.

Abduction may be dismissed from the list of an heiress' possible troubles, but undue influence is not by any means the least of them. Her family may insist on her marrying some man who is absolutely obnoxious to her, but who is a person of high rank. Of course, no girl can be really forced to marry a man she does not like, but pressure can be put on a sensitive girl which renders life so intolerable that she will do anything to escape. Again, an unscrupulous guardian (if she be so unfortunate as to be left an orphan) may exercise pressure on her through her feelings of gratitude and obedience, to oblige her in spite of her objections to marry so as to secure her property in his own family.—Boston Herald.

HOW SHOPPING WOMEN LUNCH.

Everything Goes That Tastes Good, and Dyspepsia is the Penalty.

"I suppose no man ought to complain of what puts money in his pocket," remarked a well known doctor the other day, "and therefore it is not a matter that I am going to move heaven and earth to reform, but at the same time I don't mind giving anybody the benefit of my opinion that the lunch parlors that have sprung up in the shopping districts have been productive of much dyspepsia among women, especially the class whom I might call chronic shoppers.' But that such is the case is, of course, purely the fault of the women themselves, who persist in gorging themselves on pies and cakes and meringues and creams and puffs, and all manner of concoctions that are prepared with an eye single to their capacity for tickling the palate, without any regard to their digestive qualities.

"It is a fact which has brought many dollars to my pocket that when it comes to ordering what they call a light lunch most women will order the very things that they ought most to avoid. Instead of the plain and wholesome they will choose the variegated and bilious. They are much worse sinners than men in this respect. Where a man would take a ham or a tongue sandwich, a woman, nine times out of ten, would select, by way of a starter, a cream puff or a tart, or some indigestible compound with a 'highfalutin' name. Though at home they feed with some regard to the eternal fitness of things, when on these 'luncheon orgies,' as I call them, women seem to abandon themselves to a reckless desire to gratify their tastes, utterly regardless of the pains and penalties which it entails on their stomachs. Everything goes—sweet and sour viands, hot and cold fluids, light and solid compounds, without any regard to natural order and precedence.

"There is something coming, too, that is going to make matter worse. That is the 'rapid transit lunch' for women in the shopping district, as we have it in the down-town business districts for men. Then when women have simply to stretch out their hands to get what ever tempts their appetites most, and in an atmosphere where fast feeding is contagious, many will soon fall to wondering what makes them so cross and irritable, and their husbands will be racking their brains for excuses for staying out late more frequently. But as a doctor with a keen appreciation of the good things that money will buy, the prospect is one that I can at least regard with philosophical resignation."—New York Herald.

Underground Irrigation.

Underground irrigation is often more useful than water applied on the surface, for small fruits and forced vegetables, especially the strawberry when the plants are developing fruit. The sinking of empty flower pots here and there through the plot, and keeping these filled with water, which gradually soaks out into the surrounding ground, may answer for a small plot of berries, but for a larger area the plan suggested in the accompanying illustration will be found more serviceable. Between every second row of plants is laid, a few inches below the surface, a row of drain tiles, the first one in each row coming to the surface. With a hose each row of tile can be filled in a moment, and the water will be absorbed by the earth and reach the roots of the plants as needed, and there will be no baking of the surface soil. If desired the first row of tile could be extended around through the various rows and the whole filled from one point. A modification of this idea is used with many other crops.

A citizen whose influence carries a good premium in the growing town of Brockville is Ald. A. F. Stagg, an extensive stock dealer in that section of the province. For over fifty years he has carried on business in Brockville. The people know the man. How much he has accomplished during this half century in building up the municipality is known to them, and they have been ready to show their appreciation of these labors by making him a town father. Mr. Stagg, however, failed just where so many other men of active and aggressive temperament fail, namely, in exceeding his strength. About two years ago his nervous system became broken and shattered, and he was unable to do work of any kind. This was a serious blow to a man of so active a temperament, and with the volume of business he had on hand. He did, as any one else would do, and which is the natural thing to do, sought the assistance of the local doctors of the place. He tried not only one but all of them. Whatever the trouble was they seemed unable to master it, and did him no good. He went to Kingston, hoping to find greater medical skill in the Limestone City. He was no better off for his trouble. A friend influenced him to visit Messena Springs, it being believed that the peculiar charm that surrounds that spot would have its effect in giving back to Mr. Stagg his lost health. But it was simply a case of history repeating itself everything failed, and he remained home in utter despair, seeing nothing but early death before him. His neighbor, a Mrs. Johnston, who had been using Nervine with great success, recommended him to try a bottle. It cannot be said that he did so with any bright hopes of being benefited. To his great delight, however, he found almost instant relief. After taking several bottles he to-day says, in his own words, that he enjoys perfect health. To those who do not know the particular virtues of South American Nervine all this may sound like a miracle. Here was a man whose condition was known to every one in Brockville, for everyone knew Ald. Stagg, who was completely broken up in health, and whose disease the best medical skill could not relieve, much less remove, and yet a few bottles of this wonderful discovery, Nervine, gives back to him the health that two years previous he had completely lost. This is what Nervine will do in every case. Physicians fail usually because they doctor, as it were, on the surface. Nervine succeeds in every case because it immediately acts upon the nerve centers of the body, from which, as science has unmistakably demonstrated, flows the life blood of the system. When these nerve centers are kept in healthful condition disease that may exist in any part of the body speedily becomes an unknown thing.

TO OUST GREENWAY

Because He Refused To Bow To Ottawa Dictation.

WHAT GOV. SCHULTZ WOULD DO.

Secured Dr. Bourinot's Opinion To Coerce the Manitoba Government—Mr. Bowell Made the Letter Public—A Lively Time in the Public Accounts Committee.

Ottawa, May 10.—To what desperate straits this tottering government has been reduced has been made plain by the disclosure in the House yesterday of what looks like a disgraceful conspiracy between the members and the Lieut-Governor of Manitoba to oust the Greenway Government from power because of its refusal to bow to the dictation of Ottawa. Governor Schultz, whose term of office expired almost two years ago, and who retains his position by the favor of the Government, was in Ottawa for several weeks, and it is well understood that the object of his mission was to secure a second term. Whether the Government has encouraged him in his hopes is a question, but that he is co-operating with it in opposing the Manitoba ministry with whom he should by reason of his office be in accord, is a fact about which there is no question. He procured a partisan expression of opinion from Dr. Bourinot, Clerk of the House of Commons, on a question which forms the subject of political controversy, communicated it to the Government and subsequently gave it the Winnipeg press with the object of influencing the public mind adversely to the Greenway Government. Dr. Bourinot, who as an officer of the House is supposed to occupy a position of strict political neutrality, but who has in this matter overstepped the bounds of propriety, declares that he furnished the Lieut.-Governor with an opinion for his own personal guidance and not for political use. Governor Schults denies this. He communicated the document to Sir Mackenzie Bowell, it is said, through the medium of another member of the Government, with the result that it appeared in the Eastern Government papers at the same time as it was given to the western papers, showing that a concerted plan of action had been devised.

When Mr. D'Alton McCarthy brought the matter to the attention of the House Mr. Foster sought to create the impression that the newspapers had got hold of the document in some surreptitious manner, by interpreting Mr. McCarthy's charge to mean that the Governor had not buttoned it up so securely in his pocket that a newspaper reporter could not get hold of it, but when pressed closely he admitted that it had been supplied to the Government organs by the Premier himself, and that it had been communicated to the Premier by Governor Schults. While the leader of the House would create the impression that Dr. Bourinot's opinion was wrung from the Premier, the fact is that Sir Mackenzie carried it into the press room himself and gave it to the correspondents of the chief Government organs. The predicament in which the members of the Government and the Lieut.-Governor find themselves, has led to contradictory statements which are significant. The Lieut.-Governor denies what Dr. Bourinot says as to the use to be made of the paper, and there is also a discrepancy between this statement of the manner in which it was furnished to the Government, and that if Mr. Foster, the leader of the House, says that the Lieut.-Governor communicated it to the Premier, the Lieut.-Governor says that the Dominion Government did not know that he had obtained it.

In the discussion wich occurred, strong grounds was taken by several of the speakers as to the impropriety, from a constitutional point of view, of the action of Lieut.-Governor Schults in coming to Ottawa and consulting with men who are not his constitutional advisers. This fact alone was regarded as strong presumptive evidence of a conspiracy to secure the removal from office of the Greenway Administration.

In the Public Accounts this morning there was a row over a demand for and refusal to supply particulars of Ministers' traveling expenses. Mr. Daly's expenses of $1360 formed the text for Mr. Mulock's demand for detailed accounts. Messrs. Foster, Haggart, Ouimet, Daly, Caron and Wood were present. Mr. Foster opposed any demand for details of Ministers' expenses. A long discussion ensued, in the course of which enquiries about the Government car, in which Ministers traveled all over the continent, were made, and about trips to England, the Pacific Slope and Paris.

Mr. Somerville said that Ministers ought to make a clean breast of it, and contended that Ministers' expenses while traveling on public business should be submitted to the Auditor-General before being paid and produced before the committee. If there was something wrong, and something to conceal, the Ministers were manifesting it by refusing to account for their expenses.

Mr. Foster said that when he traveled to San Francisco his car was hauled free by the railway.

Mr. Haggart said that he paid part of his official expenses out of his own pocket when he went to the Southern states in the car Jamaica. Nothing was charged to the public.

Mr. Somerville: Confessions are now in order from the other ministers.

This remark made Mr. Haggart very mad, and in an excited manner he called Mr. Somerville a liar.

Mr. Davies sprang to his feet and protested that if they were to call each other liars across the table there would be an end to decency and order.

Mr. Foster here asked the chairman to go on with the business, but Mr. Davies explained if the Finance Minister endorses that—

He got no farther, for Mr. Haggart got up and said: "I am sorry I used the expression, and I withdraw it, but what answer can one give to a charge that when traveling in a foreign country we charged expenses to the public, when there is no foundation for the charge?"

Mr. Lister said no one made such a charge, but it was known that the Government car went to the Southern States with Messrs. Haggart, Montague and some friends, and they could find no trace of the expenses in the Auditor-General's report.

Dr. Montague: The Government never paid a cent for my expense. The Auditor-General explained that there were no vouchers for Ministers traveling expenses, simply a requisition for a lump sum, which was honored.

Sir Richard Cartwright did not believe in examining minutely into expenses of Ministers on ambassadorial trips to foreign capitals, but as to other expenses it would be different.

Mr. Foster finally withdrew his amendment, and allowed the motion for what ever papers the Auditor-General had to carry.

Some little discussion took place over the case of F. Hamel, an engineer in the Public Works Department, under suspension. Mr. Ouimet said he had merely committed an indiscretion, but someone remarked that it was precisely the same indiscretion which sent Mr. Waters to jail. The papers respecting the case were ordered.

Messrs. Torrance and McPherson of the Dominion Line had an interview with Sir Mackenzie Bowell with regard to the Atlantic mail service. It appears that the Dominion Line having changed hands since last year the company will likely put in a tender against the Allan's for carrying the Canadian mails. Owing to this the Allans have not entered into a sub-contract with the Dominion Line for the use of that Company's two fast vessels, The Labrador and The Vancouver. Sir Mackenzie Bowell says that the Allans will be required, while they hold the mail contract, to carry the mails on the fastest boats entering the St. Lawrence.

FROM THEIR ENGINE TO DEATH.

Fearful Results of an Explosion on a Locomotive Freight.

Hyde Park, Mass., May 9.—Brakeman Owen J. Caffrey was killed on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad at Hyde Park to-day by the bursting of a steampipe in the cab of the engine of a freight train. The train was running fast when the explosion occurred, and Caffrey and Fireman Fuller were blown out. Caffrey's head was split open, and his brains were spattered along the ties. Fuller received frightful lacerations to his face, hands and breast, and will probably die. Engineer Buck Taylor crawled out through the window as the fire and smoke filled the cab, and hung on the running board, finally jumping off uninjured. Another brakeman who was in the cab escaped by being blown back upon the coal in the tender. No cause is known for the explosion.

Sudden Death of Sir Robert Peel.

London, May 9.—The Right Hon. Sir Robert Peel, Bart, eldest brother of ex-Speaker Peel, died here this morning. he was 73 years of age. Sir Robert was apparently in excellent health last evening. This morning he did not make his appearance at the usual time, and a servant, sent to call him, found his door locked, and was unable to get any answer to his calls. The door was forced open, when Sir Robert's body, still warm, was found lying on the floor. The doctors assert his death was due to hemorrhage of the brain, but a coroner's inquest will be necessary.

Murderer Shortis' Ancestry.

Montreal, Que., May 9.—J. N. Greenshields, counsel for Shortis, is in possession of a certificate signed by Dr. W. H. Gardner, medical superintendent of the lunatic asylum, Clonmel, County Tipperary, to the effect that Shortis' grandfather died in the asylum, and that an uncle and aunt were at one time inmates. Shortis' father is said to be of weak intellect also.

Tired of Life. She Took Poison.

Montreal, Que., May 9.—A young widow named Romillard, nee Lavasseur, living at 107 Cadieux-street, committed suicide last night by taking a dose of carbolic acid, in the presence of her paramour, saying she was disgusted with the world. She died before medical aid could be procured or a priest brought. She was known in her boarding-house as Mrs. McDonnell.

Bottle Bells.

Take two chairs, two sticks and 18 wine bottles. Rest the first stick on the tops of the chairs and second stick across the ends of the two seats, the chairs being turned back to back. Now hang the empty bottles to the sticks with strong string, each string having a double loop. If the bottles are all of the same size and shape, they can be tuned by pouring water into them—the more the water the lower the note. Strange to say, every empty bottle when struck gives out an entirely different note. Besides wine bottles ordinary medicine bottles may be used. With a musical ear it is not at all difficult to arange the bottles and fill them with water to just the right height to produce the different notes. Now take a light stick with a "spring" in it, and strike a tune on the bottles.

Accident on the Welland Canal.

Thorold, May 9.—Much damage was done by the steambarge Jack, belonging to the Calvin Company, Kingston, which carried away five lock-gates in the new canal here about 4 o'clock this morning. The barge was coming up light, and the engineer is supposed to have mistaken the signal and run ahead instead of backing up.

The rush of water did considerable damage to the banks, and also to the main line of the Grand Trunk, covering the track at the entrance of the tunnel for two or three hundred yards to the depth of two or three feet.

It also washed the road bed inside the tunnel badly. Traffic will be delayed on the main line for a few days. The trains are running on the Welland division, via Allanburgh Junction, to the Falls.

Navigation on the canal will likely be delayed until Sunday or Monday.

An Eye to the Future.

"I suppose you want the lady's name engraved inside, sir," said the jeweller after Tillinghast had selected the engagement ring.

"Oh, no," replied the careful young man. "Just put inside, 'To my heart's own treasure,' or 'The star of my life.'" —Life.

The Man of To-day

Who does'nt know that the possibilities for elegance in Clothing have as wide a scope in READY-MADE as in Made-to-Measure is simply not well informed.

The citizen of Peterborough who does'nt know that GOUGH BROS. every season exhaust these possibilities in the very latest fashion creations of the Clothing world—is also devoid of information, which might be made of great practical value to him from an economical standpoint.

The object of this announcement is to call attention to the two facts above suggested—and to invite a personal investigation of the matter.

There are no Doubts Connected With This Business

We undertake to dress any man from head to heel to his complete satisfaction—including the item of cost, which we guarantee to make SMALLER than any other house in Western Canada.

While we can sell a Man's Suit for $2.90 and a Boy's Suit for 89c, we can just as easily suit the man who insists on having a fashionable Suit worth $12.00 or $14.00, or the Boy whose parents can afford a stylish suit worth $4.50 or $5.00.

Our stock is not limited. We are always prepared for the steady stream of the masses, that finds its way here continually. This means that we have the goods to suit all classes—the medium-price and high-grade Clothing as well. Half assortments drive away trade. Customers won't waste time running where they can't get what they want.

THE HYAMS TRIAL.

Proceedings During Second Day's Proceedings.

AYLESWORTH CROSS-EXAMINED

The Defence Bar Eight Hours Try to Discredit the Witness—His Testimony, However, is Not Shaken—Mrs. Aylesworth in the Box.

Toronto, May 11.—At the rate of progress which was made in the Hyams' case yesterday the trial will last for two or three weeks. Of the dirty witnesses for the Crown, but three had been examined when the court rose, after a two-days' session. The greater portion of the time was taken up with the cross-examination of Ebenezer Aylesworth, the brother-in-law of the prisoner, Harry Hyams, and of deceased. This witness was on the stand for eight hours. He is the principal witness for the Crown, and the defence naturally paid more attention to him. Their efforts were directed to an attempt to discredit him in the eyes of the jury.

The twins wore a more cheerful air yesterday morning than the day before, although Dallas appeared much distressed during the morning session. This was explained by the fact that he was suffering from toothache. During the noon adjournment a dentist operated on the diseased molar, and as a result the prisoner was more cheerful during the remainder of the day.

The court room was again crowded, and people who had business there and were forced to attend were put to great inconvenience by the kindness of the constables in indiscriminately granting admission to parties attracted by gaping curiosity.

When the court opened Ebenezer Aylesworth, after a reprimand by the judge for being ten minutes late, proceeded with his testimony. He recognised a letter produced as being in the handwriting of the deceased. Thursday witness spoke of the fact that deceased always wore spectacles. Yesterday he testified that the spectacles had never been seen since his death.

Coming back to the old mercantile reports that he and Wells used to copy, witness began to tell how people used to come in and "laugh at us copying these old reports," when he was stopped by the defence. Aylesworth described how many bundles of these reports had been burned by the prisoners without any use whatever being made of them.

Then the cross-examination of Aylesworth was proceeded with by Mr. Lount. Witness testified that he was absent from Canada for nine months, when he was employed at his trade, as baker and cook on a Government survey on the Missouri River.

Mr. Lount—During this time were you engaged in what is called gambling, tanding bucket shops, pool-rooms, etc? A.—No.

Continuing, in answer to questions in this line, Aylesworth admitted that he frequently attended the pool-rooms and made bets on horses. As a result he was about $200 ahead of the game. Aylesworth denied positively that he had ever invested a dollar of his wife's money in pool-rooms.

Aylesworth denied that a greater part of the $4700 received by his wife of the Wells' insurance money was gone. Then Mr. Lount asked where it was. Witness declined to answer the question until ordered to do so by the magistrate. Then he said it was invested in chattel mortgages, notes, etc. Of the total amount witness had invested $2000. Asked to give the name of the mortgagors, Aylesworth said he could not do this without his books. Requested to name one he named Charles Eman, Pembroke-street, $500, and Hugh Brown, College-avenue, $900. Witness said that he retired from pool-room speculation when the city pool-rooms were closed, and had not patronized the Port Credit or Junction pool-rooms.

Aylesworth admitted that he had a room in the Pacific building for three weeks or a month last winter. His family was living at Parkdale at the time. The room was a furnished one, and was rented for his own accommodation.

Witness admitted that he had rented another furnished room in the Oddfellows block at Yonge and College-streets "for his own accommodation." Finally after a good deal of questioning Aylesworth said that he kept these rooms to transact business in.

"Why, you had a broker's office in Yonge-street, had you not?" said Mr. Lount. "Yes," was the answer, "but everybody does not care to come to a broker's office."

Aylesworth admitted that he rented a room up a house in Peter-street, but it was for the purpose of storing furniture in. The furniture was not packed up, but went towards furnishing the room. The house was occupied by Mrs. Walsh and her family.

"And it was reported that you kept Nellie Walsh, wasn't it?" said Mr. Lount. "Not that I know of," said the witness, "and if it was it wasn't true."

For an hour and a half the witness was put through a catechism of this kind.

Then Mr. Lount questioned witness as to the arrangements under which he entered the employ of the Hyams twins. He admitted that the understanding was that he was to be trained as an auctioneer.

Martha Wells was a book agent at the time and had a number of subagents. The office of the Hyams Bros. was also her headquarters.

"I believe you have no love for these Hyams?" said Mr. Lount.

"Don't put it that way," said witness, "they always used me right."

"Don't you feel strongly against them?"—A. No, I can't say that I do.

Witness admitted that he put detectives watching Harry Hyams in Montreal after the publication of the story in The World.

Aylesworth admitted that he took possession of all of Harry Hyams papers in Montreal and handed them over to the crown.

Aylesworth stated that he understood the Hyams brothers were great believers in the system of insurance. They frequently talked about it and witness was told at the time the placing of the $30,000 insurance on the life of young Wells was being discussed that Dallas was carrying $50,000 on his life.

Then Mr. Lount brought witness to the time when the proposition to place $25,000 on the lives of Aylesworth and Willie Wells was discussed. Both said they were unable to carry the amount and Harry Hyams said he would pay the premiums.

"Then," said Mr. Lount, "Hyams offered to pay the premiums on your life although your wife was the beneficiary and there was nothing for them to look forward to as a refund?"—A. That is the case.

The defence then sought to prove that the reports which witness and young Wells prepared were made up from the information obtained by Aylesworth in his rounds, that the name and address of a citizen alone was copied and the amount filled in, and that the sheets used were the current ones.

Despite a severe cross-examination witness held to his story, however, that the mercantile sheets given to him and Wells to copy were old sheets. He denied emphatically that the information which he obtained was utilised on the sheets or that the amounts were different. What was copied was an exact fac simile of the sheets.

Aylesworth reiterated his story that the weight was resting against the side of the box. If Fox, the expressman, had placed the weight back again on the rope earlier that day then some person must have taken it out again.

The defence will urge that young Wells himself purchased the morning of the tragedy the hammer and chisel which were found in the basement.

Aylesworth swore that there was an ax in the warehouse both before and after the tragedy.

"Supposing I should prove by a reputable witness that the ax was brought there afterwards what would you say to that?" A.—I would say that it wasn't so.

Then counsel commenced experimenting with Aylesworth. First he was asked to lift the weight. He expressed a reluctance to straining himself, but when it was insinuated that he couldn't lift it, he bent down, tilted it over, and by a shoulder grip raised the immense chunk of iron a couple of feet from the ground.

Then occurred the only dramatic scene of the day. Harry Hyams was asked to step up to the box and stand alongside Aylesworth. Prisoner left the dock and stood beside the chief witness. He was shown to be a much slighter built man than Aylesworth, who is probably 4 1-2 inches taller than either prisoner. "Do you believe that either of the prisoners, or even both of them, could have lifted that weight?" asked Mr. Lount.

Witness did not know, but thought it would depend how they caught hold of it.

Continuing, witness said Harry had certainly told him that he had first gone to a barber shop the morning of the tragedy. Going to the warehouse subsequently and finding no person around he had gone down stairs and found Dallas lying across the dead body of Wells. Dallas had fainted.

Then Mr. Lount gave Aylesworth a final shot: "Were you at the marriage of Harry Hyams and Martha Wells?" he asked, and receiving a reply in the affirmative, concluded: Then, although you had suspicions from the day of the tragedy, you assisted in filling out the claim papers, which purported to show that the affair was an accident; your wife accepted a portion of the insurance money, which if a murder had been committed was blood money, and nothing but blood money; you knew that Harry Hyams was continuing to pay attention to Martha Wells, and yet you never breathed to this young woman the suspicions you had of a crime and permitted her to marry the man who, according to your suspicions, had murdered her brother. That's all I wish to say to you, sir."

To Mr. Osler witness stated he had gone to New York State on his own responsibility and the police authorities knew nothing about it.

The circumstances that several things came out yesterday which were not told at the Police Court was explained by the fact that witness was asked questions at the preliminary examination and not allowed to tell his story generally.

Aylesworth denied that he had in any way countenanced the marriage of Martha Wells and Harry Hyams. "After the funeral was over," said Aylesworth, "thinking there was something wrong, something suspicious, I asked Martha not to have anything more to do with him until this was cleared up. The outcome was that she was to go some place where she would not be bothered by Harry Hyams until we could have an opportunity of investigating the facts, and she went to the Bishop Strachan School.

Witness denied that he sanctioned the marriage. He was away and received a telegram that Martha was to be married to Harry Hyams. The marriage took place two years ago yesterday.

Mrs. Mary Ann Aylesworth, sister of deceased, testified that the Hyams came to live with them in Spadina-avenue six years ago. Martha, or "Mina" and Harry Hyams only became engaged about two months before the wedding. Witness testified that the bulk of the money which the Hyams brothers borrowed from her, had not been returned on Jan. 16, the day of the tragedy. Neither did her brother receive back the $1000 that he had loaned them.

Mrs. Aylesworth remembered H. P. Hyams coming to her house on the day of the killing about 1 o'clock. She described the condition the prisoner was in. He seemed to be greatly overcome, and he said his back was strained from lifting the weight. The prisoner's fingers were bleeding. Harry never gave witness an account of how the tragedy occurred. When Dallas came to the house five days later he said he had gone into the office to write a letter to his wife. He had taken off his coat when he heard a noise, and ran down cellar and found Willie pinned to the ground with a weight. He then fell over the body.

"The Hyams didn't wish to talk about the affair at all," said the witness.

"Why do you say that?" asked Mr. Osler.—A. Because our uncle was suspicious and wanted the brothers to go out to the country and explain to him how the tragedy occurred, but they would never go. They said people would talk anyway, and the best thing was to pay no attention to them."

Mrs. Aylesworth, continuing, spoke of the visit of Harry Hyams to her place at 213 Mutual, on Sunday, Jan. 15, the night before the tragedy, and of his messages to tell Will (the deceased) to be down at the warehouse early Monday morning, and to tell Aylesworth to be sure and go and fill out the inventories before he came to the warehouse.

The Sealers' Compensation

London, May 10.—Finance Minister Turner of Victoria, B.C., has presented to the Colonial Office a protest on behalf of the British Columbia seal fishermen against the delay in the payment of the compensation to seized vessels awarded by the Behring Sea arbitration tribunal.

Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner, had an interview with Lord Ripon, Colonial Secretary, this afternoon. It is believed that the subject of the interview was the protest of Premier Turner against the delay in paying the Behring Sea awards.

BIG BLAZE AT HARRISTON.

The Market, Hotel and Two Dwelling Houses Destroyed.

Harriston, Ont., May 11.—Fire started in Weiland's Stables of the Market Hotel yesterday, completely destroying hotel, stables and livery barn, together with a brick dwelling adjoining. Brisbin's drygoods and boot and shoe store was slightly damaged; stock all removed. The dwelling house occupied by A. F. Climie was slightly damaged. This building was two blocks off and caught from a spark. Total loss heavy, but not known.

Farmer Victim of a Fireberg.

Tottenham, May 11.—Joseph Williams, lost his stable, barns, outbuildings, three head of cattle, 18 pigs, 500 bushels of oats, 200 bushels wheat, all his implements, feed and farming outfit, by fire this morning, the work of an incendiary. The total loss will exceed $2000, with $900 insurance.

RESCUED, BUT TOO LATE.

A Sailor From the Reina Regente Picked Up Mid-Ocean.

Lisbon, May 10.—The newspaper Cronista, published in Teneriffe, Canary Islands, says the captain of the brig Curidad, recently reported there, that he found in mid-ocean an exhausted sailor lashed to a plank, who said he was from the lost cruiser Reina Regente. The castaway is said to have tried vainly to tell his story. He died. The Cronista says a few minutes after being taken aboard the Curidad. No dates are given in this story.

COLLISION OFF MACKINAW.

Steamship Cayuga Sunk By the Joseph L. Hurd.

Mackinaw, Mich., May 11.—The steamship Cayuga of the Lehigh Valley Line, Chicago to Buffalo, collided with the steamer Joseph L. Hurd of the Lake Superior Line, three miles this side of Skilligallee Lighthouse, in a dense fog this morning. The Cayuga sank in about 20 minutes. George Johnson, the steward of the Hurd, was knocked overboard by the crash of the collision and drowned. The remaining members of both crews were picked up by the steamer Manola and landed here. The boats were not more than 200 feet apart when their signals were distinguished, but it was too late then to avoid the collision. The Cayuga was valued at $175,000. The Hurd's value is placed at $15,000.

GREENWAY GOING TO OTTAWA.

Manitoba's Premier and Attorney-General Will Confer With the Governor-General —Still "Set" in Their Views.

Winnipeg, May 11.—Attorney-General Sifton and Premier Greenway will leave for Ottawa next week in connection with the school question.

It is understood they have been summoned by Lord Aberdeen to discuss the Remedial Order, but National school supporters and the Ministers themselves say they have not the least intention of abandoning their position.

It was necessary, they say, to adjourn the Legislature in order to obey the commands of the Governor-General, but he can not change their convictions.

THE ADVANTAGES OF CIVILIZATION.

There are great advantages in living in a civilized community, under conditions that beget in the population a respect for law and order. This advantage may be shown better by contrast. In Chicago a year ago there was the great Pullman strike, which was accompanied with such dreadful exhibitions of lawlessness and loss of life that an army had to be mobilised to restore order. On Tuesday last vicious and violent rioting began again in Chicago as the result of a strike of the labourers of the Illinois Steel Works, the strikers murderously attacking those who had replaced them. The police quelled the riot with difficulty. The men struck for shorter hours and higher pay. Their right to seek both will not be denied, but civilization suggests other means to gain their ends than mobbing peaceable fellow-workmen.

Now, by way of contrast, as showing the vast difference in the working citizenship of Chicago and Peterborough. We had a labour difficulty in Peterborough; a large body of workmen "went out" rather than submit to conditions which they regarded as more unjust than the long hours and short wage the Chicago strikers complain of. Yet what was the course of the workmen here? They quietly stated their grievances. There was no rioting, or violence to the person of other employees who were willing to work—there was even no violence of language. The men acted with great moderation and forbearance—they acted—well, no higher praise can be given them—like Canadians. Instead of mobbing, maltreating and murdering the men that sought to occupy their vacated places, the Electric Works employees treated them like brothers and fellow-workingmen, giving them material assistance where needed, and sending home those who wished to return and who could not have returned but for the means supplied by the men whose whose places they were seeking to fill. Our Yankee cousins may be much more stirring and go-ahead than Canadians, but we can bear the reproach with equanimity when we see what advantages we are enjoying in living under good administration of law in a civilised country. In view of the excellent behaviour of the Electric Works men during the difficulty—it is a fine thing for Peterborough that that difficulty was settled and the men returned and again at work. It would have been a misfortune to have lost a couple of hundred of citizens, who so distinguished themselves as sober, moderate-minded and law abiding members of the community, and such worthy upholders of the dignity of labour.

A local poet in the Montreal Herald referring to Hon. George Eulas Foster's temperance lecturer record and his increased tax on whisky, says:

Of old commanding temperance crew,
On deck his constant watch,
George cuts adrift for revenue,
And makes his pile from "morning dew."
And hot and mellow Scotch.

If, as the prohibitionists claim, making money from the liquor traffic is immoral and wicked, as regards the individual, isn't it equally immoral and wicked for the state to "make its pile from mountain dew?" Does the necessity for money to repair the wicked and extravagant waste of the government justify them making money out of the traffic which temperance advocates say is essentially evil? Is this policy a step in the direction of the practice of that "righteousness that exalteth a nation?"

One of the objections to giving the franchise to women, is that of the philosophic Mr. Mills, who pointed out the danger of female voters, blessed with good looks, being overwhelmed with canvassers, to the destruction of the privacy and seclusion of the home. It is feared that canvassers would be as numerous and persistent as insurance solicitors or book agents. If the baby has to suffer candidatural kissing to propitiate the paternal voter by proxy, when the design is to win over the maternal voter direct, the baby with a handsome mother, would be made raw with osculation or possibly be neglected from the "mater pulchra filia pulchrior."

Finance Minister Foster's character is developing. The fact has also developed that he could not stand water—his devotion to prohibition was the result of a momentary weakness—and now it turns out that he cannot stand fire. He made a determined attempt to rob the volunteers of their drill, but the moment the latter turned their guns upon him he "wilted," capitulated, and, in spite of his promise to the contrary, we shall find Mr. Foster proposing a sum in the supplementary estimates for the drill of volunteer corps.

We are sorry we cannot say to the New York Tribune, "you're another." What it says is sadly enough, too true. The Tribune says: "Canadians who are in the habit of assailing the character of public men in this country will now have something to do nearer home. Thos McGreevy, who was convicted a year or so ago of defrauding the Government, and who served a year in prison, has just been elected a member of parliament."

The "new women" feels like quoting Shakspere—with a variation—"there's a Davin-ity that shapes our ends."

THE HALDIMAND BYE-ELECTION.

Startling Rumor Printed by a Toronto Evening Paper in Connection With the "Campaign of Corruption."

Toronto, May 9th.—An evening paper says:—A case which in excitement and interest promises to overshadow any election trial ever known in Canada will in a few days be introduced to the political public in Toronto. A prominent Toronto man who has been frequently connected with elections, and who, it is said, has been responsible for many a Conservative victory, will likely be arrested, charged with bribing the electors in the county of Haldimand at the recent elections, when $10,000 of government money is said to have been spent on Dr. Montague's return. The McCarthyites claim that a straight case can be made out against this man, and sufficient evidence will be produced against him to put him behind prison bars. They say that one man, who received money, has confessed and that the Toronto politician was seen passing over the money. The trial will not be followed up by an election protest because a general election is close at hand and because of Dr. Montague's enormous majority.

A YOUNG GIRL'S TRIALS.

HER PARENTS HAD ALMOST GIVEN UP HOPES OF HER RECOVERY.

Pale and Emaciated, Subject to Severe Headaches, She Was Thought to be Going into a Decline—Now the Picture of Health and Beauty—How Her Restoration Was Brought About.

From the Richibucto, N.B., Review.

There are very few people, especially among the agriculturists of Kent Co., N.B., who do not know Mr. H. H. Warman the popular agent for agricultural machinery of Moins River. A Review representative was in conversation with Mr. Warman recently, when the subject of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills was incidentally touched upon. Mr. Warman said he was a staunch believer in their curative properties, and to justify his opinion he related the cure of his sister, Miss Jessie Warman, aged 15, who he said had been "almost wrested from the grave by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." Miss Warman had been suffering for nearly a year with troubles incident to girlhood. She suffered from severe and almost constant headaches, dizziness, heart palpitation, and was pale and bloodless, and eventually became so weak and emaciated that her parents thought thought that she was in consumption, and had all but given up hope of her recovery. Her father, Mr. Richard Warman, who is a well-to-do farmer, spared no expense to procure relief for the poor sufferer. The best available medical relief was employed, but no relief came, and almost in despair, they still strove to find the means of restoring their loved one to health. Mr. Warman, like everybody else who reads the newspapers, had read of the many marvelous cures effected by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but like some others, looked upon these stories as "mere patent medicine advertisements." However, as everything else had failed he determined that Pink Pills should be given a trial, with a result no less marvellous than that of many other cases related through the press. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have completely cured the young lady, so that in a few months, from a helpless and a supposedly dying girl, she has become a picture of health and activity. The Warman family is so well known in this part of the country that no one would think of disputing any statement made by any of its members. Mr. H. H. Warman, on account of his business as salesman for agricultural machinery, is personally acquainted with nearly everybody in the county, and we feel assured that any enquiries made of him concerning the statements made above will be readily answered.

The gratifying results following the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the case of Miss Warman, prove that they are unequalled as a blood builder and nerve tonic. In the case of young girls who are pale and sallow, listless, troubled with a fluttering or palpitation of the heart, weak and easily tired, no time should be lost in taking a course of Dr. Williams Pills, which will speedily enrich the blood, and bring a glow of health to the cheeks. They are a specific for troubles peculiar to females, suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold in boxes, (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred) at 50c. a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company at either address.

AN OLD LADY OF OVER 80 YEARS.

HER RIGHT SIDE WAS BADLY PARALYZED.

Her Sufferings Were Such That She Wished to Die.

Paine's Celery Compound Saved Her Life and Renewed Her Strength.

THE BEST MEDICINE FOR THE OLD AND YOUNG.

It is now an established fact that our dear fathers and mothers and our grandparents can have their lives prolonged, and their years made happy and joyous by the use of Paine's Celery Compound.

Many old people suffer from nerve troubles, rheumatism, kidney and liver complaint, sleeplessness, and terrible paralysis. With such dangerous diseases clinging to them, they are liable to drop off at any moment.

If we are truly and honestly interested in the welfare of the old people, we will anxiously seek to use the agency that will best meet their troubles. In the past, thousands of our aged people have been rescued from death by Paine's Celery Compound, and are now enjoying a happy old age. Every week new testimony is received from old people, as well as from their friends and relations, lauding the strengthening and rejuvenating powers of earth's best medicine.

Mrs. James Cain, of Perott Settlement, N.S., now in her eighty-first year, has just sent in convincing and cheering testimony regarding the value of Paine's Celery Compound; she writes as follows:—

"I am happy to state that Paine's Celery Compound has been a great blessing to me. In November, 1893, the whole of my right side was paralyzed, and the doctor said I was too weak to take much medicine; I managed, however, to use a little, and was able to sit up for a short time, but felt so bad, that I wished to die, as I thought death would be a great relief to me.

"In my weak condition I began using Paine's Celery Compound. The first bottle gave me relief. I continued to use the compound, and I have gained health, strength and flesh, and my friends say I look quite healthy. Although in my eighty first year, my limbs are getting stronger, and I hope soon to be quite myself again.

I would advise all who are suffering from paralysis and other troubles to use Paine's Celery Compound and the Wills' English Pills that accompany the compound, and if properly used, they will surely cure."

ONE TERM OF UNION.

England To Assume Newfoundland's Debt

AND BUILD THE ISLAND RAILWAY

This Is Said To Be Canada's Proposition. To Which a Favorable Answer Has Been Received—French Shore Question To Be Settled.

St. John's, Nfld., May 10.—Important despatches were received to-day from the English Government relative to confederation. It is understood that favorable action is likely to be taken in the matter. The members of the Cabinet appear satisfied with the progress of the negotiations.

The most important point submitted to the Imperial authorities was Canada's proposition that England assume Newfoundland's obligations and the completion of the railroad across the island.

Newfoundland would be willing to pass legislation to settle the French shore question in return for England's acceptance of this proposal.

Union and the Shore Difficulty.

London, May 11.—The Daily Chronicle says: The precise term of the union between Newfoundland and Canada, perhaps do not concern us greatly, but what does concern us is that there will be now a strong body of public opinion in British America to repress the local irritation of the Newfoundland fishermen. Regarding the traditional rights of the French fishermen, we shall, as the Imperial power, remain answerable to France; but the union problem will make France moderate in her demands."

GUARDING PARLIAMENT

Fears of Dynamite in the Imperial House of Commons.

London, May 11.—In the House of Commons yesterday Sir William Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, refused to fix a day to proceed with the motion to appoint a Scotch commission to deal with certain Scotch bills.

Sir Donald Macfarlane said: "If the matter is further delayed the Scotch Liberal members will have to reconsider their position towards the Government."

Sir William Harcourt: "My answer is that it is entirely open to members to reconsider their position."

It was rumored in the lobbies of the House of Commons last evening that the force of detectives at the approaches to the House had been doubled. It was suggested that this step was taken on account of O'Donovan Rossa's outbreak in the strangers' gallery on Wednesday. There was also a noticeable increase of the number of loiterers in the central lobby and palace yard. The reporters' enquiries elicited only indefinite answers, purporting to be denials.

Sir Rivers Wilson G.T.R. President.

London, May 10.—At the meeting of the Grand Trunk Board to-day Sir Charles Rivers Wilson was unanimously elected president, and Joseph Price was made vice-president.

SPAIN WILL LOSE CUBA.

Her Campaign Against the Rebels Being Sadly Mismanaged

Santiago, De Cuba, May 10.—Energetic and decisive campaigns, which Gen. Martinez Campos was to have inaugurated, has been somewhat disarranged by the Spanish forces, who have shown their utter inability to put down the insurrection; and it is now plain that the struggle is to be long continued and attended with the sacrifice of many lives and the expenditure of many millions of dollars of Spanish money. Even then there is no certainty that Spain will retain the Island of Cuba, for from the moment that Campos landed and issued his proclamation, alienating the support of the Autonomists there have been large accessions to the insurgent ranks, and now that Maceo, Gomez, and Marti have reached the base of operations, people are leaving the plantations and towns by hundreds to join them, so that the rebel chiefs have more men than they can arm.

Among those now in the camps of the insurgents are many who fought in the rebellion 18 years ago. The insurgents in the field are nearly all blacks or mulattos, but they are courageous, obey orders and know how to handle a gun, and their skill with the machette is marvelous. Their warfare is that of the guerilla, but it is systematic and effective.

To fully understand the failure of the Spanish troops in the field one should follow a regiment for a week after its arrival from Spain; that interval transforms plump red-cheeked soldiers into wan, wasted wretches, footsore, weak and utterly incapable of fighting through mountaineers.

The Spanish army is an undisciplined mob. The youthful conscripts are treated with the greatest inhumanity by their officers. The army has absolutely nothing in the shape of camp equipment and there is no commissary department for field work.

Troops are fed when they are at barracks; when they make long marches into the interior they go without food. An interval of three days between rations is not uncommon and this is while the troops are marching over rough roads under a boiling sun with no protection at midnight from the heavy dews.

Such treatment and the lack of clean linen cause yellow fever to appear before the rainy season has set in and much before it was expected by the residents. There are 40 cases in the hospital here although the authorities will not admit it.

Japan to Withdraw Gradually.

London, May 10.—The Standard is informed from Yokohama: "It is believed to be Japan's intention to withdraw her troops gradually from the Liiao Tong Peninsula, as the war indemnity shall be paid."

Madge York's Murderer Pleads Not Guilty.

Philadelphia, May 10.—James E. Gentry, the actor who shot and killed his fiancee, Margaret W. Drysdale (Madge York) the actress in this city on Feb. 17, was to-day arraigned before Judge Finletter. He entered a plea of not guilty. Gentry was then removed to prison to await trial.

International Bookbinders.

Buffalo, May 10.—The International Brotherhood of Bookbinders closed its session to-day. Benjamin Roden of Brooklyn was elected president, J. E. Henry, Toronto, Ont., was elected district organizer.

THE CRAZE FOR GOLD.

Speculators Buying Land in the New Eldorado at Rainy Lake.

Rat Portage, May 10.—The "gold fever" in the Rainy Lake district of Canada is assuming enormous proportions. Eight small sections of land in that country were sold two days ago for something over $250,000, with no mines opened on any of them.

The purchasers were Americans, who are making arrangements for the immediate development of their property. It lies along the Seine River, a stream which has sprung into sudden fame from the wealth already unearthed in the valley through which it flows.

The great stir caused by the discovery of gold in the Rainy Lake country last year first brought the district into prominence. Since then better locations have been found up the Seine. Reports of still richer finds upon an island in Big Manitou Lake, which is a sheet of water connected with Rainy Lake, have got abroad. Miners and prospectors are rushing into this country by way of Duluth in large numbers, and it certainly contains some of the richest deposits of gold ever found.

TRADE DECIDEDLY IMPROVING.

Good Reports From All Parts of the Dominion.

New York, May 11.—Bradstreet's says: General trade reports from the Canadian Dominion are exceptionally favorable. Toronto reports that advances in cotton, sugar leather and wheat have increased the demand, helped collections and created a buoyant feeling. The opening of navigation in Montreal and advances in sugar and whisky, due to tariff changes, are additional factors. Quebec city shoe manufacturers are doing a good business. Nova Scotia and New Brunswick report a fair volume of trade, and Newfoundland a successful seal fishery.

Bank clearings at Winnipeg, Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax equal $21,442,000 this week, a gain of about 16 per cent. over last week, 6 per cent. over the like week of last year, 9 per cent. over 1893, and 3 per cent. over the week in 1892.

The total of 27 business failures in Canada this week is contrasted with 36 last week, 30 a year ago, 27 two years ago, and with 36 three years ago.

Japs Not Strife-Makers in Hawaii.

Washington, May 11.—Mr. Kurino, Japanese Minister to the United States, has taken the trouble to deny a statement circulated under a San Francisco date, relating to probable disturbances in Hawaii to be instigated by the Japanese residents of those islands. Mr. Kurino characterized these statements as absurd and ridiculous in the extreme. The Japanese in Hawaii, he says, are orderly and industrious people. Most of them are farmers and some of them have received military training. They have prospered in that country and have no disposition to interfere in its affairs. The rights and privileges of their position are guaranteed by the treaty and the present Government of Hawaii has been informally recognized by Japan.

Four Instantly Killed.

Trinidad, Col., May 10.—An explosion of coal dust this morning in Mine No. 10 south at Sopris, near this place, resulted in the instant death of four men, two of whom were track cleaners and two watermen. Three leave families.

Royal Chancellor of the Welsh University

London, May 10.—The Prince of Wales has accepted the Chancellorship of the newly-formed Welsh University.

ITS FAME SPREADING.

A New Remedy in General Use in Manitoba and the North West.

Winnipeg, May 11.—The effects of the regular wave of sickness which sweeps over this portion of the Dominion in the spring, are noticeable in the increased amount of the druggists' sales. There has been quite a run on the kidney remedy now so well known under the name of Dodd's Kidney Pills. The recovery from Bright's Disease of Mr. Arthur Coley of Somerset, through their use, an account which appeared in the papers, gave a considerable impetus to the sale, and the remedy has become indispensable in many Manitoba households, its fame having penetrated into the remotest parts of the Province and Northwest Territories.

Clothing.

The most advantageous shop to buy Clothing in leads to one conclusion—to purchase from us. You may twist and turn and argue as you will—admit you must that our Clothing is by far the best ready-made in Canada. If you discuss prices, we say again—our selling figures are lower, because the qualities are so much better.

Fathers and sons grown up, you, to whom a sensible word can be seriously spoken, take a look at our Spring Overcoats or our new Spring Suits and convince yourself whether we are not more stylish and if our goods are not better made and trimmed or fit neater than any goods shown elsewhere.—Mothers, who generally have good judgment and look for novelties for their youngsters, never fail to look in at our establishment, for we surpass any competition in the way of Children's Clothing.

The splendid value we give in a 2-piece suit at $1.50, or a 3 piece at $2.50, should make us many new acquaintances.

Telfordian Temperature Topics.

SATURDAY, May 11th,

At this morning's observation the self-registering thermometer indicated 55 degrees above zero. Yesterday was again a day of the number reaching 89 deg. in the shade. I believe to-day it will make out the 90 deg., with some thunder storms.—TELFORD.

Worth its Weight in Silver.

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. John Williamson, of North Monaghan, picked up an old scrap of a newspaper, fifty years old, on his farm. It was dated May 13th, 1845, and amongst the advertisements was one for the sale of 5,000 gallons of old whiskey, manufactured at the Ontario Mills. That 5,000 gallons would be worth about its weight in silver now.

The New Schools.

The Property Committee of the Board of Education and the special committee appointed by the town council will meet on Monday evening, in the council chamber, to confer regarding the question of erecting a new school in the southern portion of the town. The Board, it will be remembered, recommended that the present school be enlarged, but it is understood that the ratepayers in ward No. 1 are anxious to have a school placed even farther south than the present structure in order that the little ones will not have to cross the railroad tracks.

The Saturday Market.

The market to-day was a good one, the farmers coming in from every direction. All kinds of country produce was most plentiful. Butter brought from 15 to 16 cents, and eggs from 9 to 10. There was lots of rhubarb, asparagus and other garden "truck," which found a ready sale at five cents a bunch. Chickens brought 50 and 60 cents and turkeys from 75 cents to $1.25.

An Awkward Position.

Mr. Fred. Winch was the victim of a rather ludicrous accident, which occurred yesterday afternoon. He was driving down George street and after lighting a cigar, threw the match in the bottom of his buggy, where there were a couple of horse blankets lying. The blankets became ignited and Mr. Winch had to hastily vacate his seat. In another moment he was dancing an impromptu hornpipe on his blankets in the endeavour to stamp out the smouldering sparks.

Lovely Idylwild.

This popular resort is again open for pleasure seekers, and we have no doubt many will visit that place during the summer. On Thursday morning, Mr. C. W. Voshall, of Rochester, representing the syndicate of that city who control Idylwild, arrived in Cobourg, on his way to Rice Lake to complete arrangements for managing the place for the summer. Mr. Voshall stated that a great many friends of the syndicate would visit Cobourg and Rice Lake this summer. Mr. A. B. Spellman, of the Clarendon, is the lessee and all visiting that resort will receive a genial welcome and find it in apple pie order.—Hastings Star.

A Practical Joke.

This morning a lad named Owens was looking at a bicycle near the Post Office, when a young man from Ashburnham, who was passing, stated that the wheel was his and added that Owens could try it for a while if he wanted to. Owens jumped on the machine and wheeled off, but was the victim of a practical joke as running across the Ashburnhamite had an hour later the latter explained that he didn't own the bicycle himself, nor had he any idea who did. The lad waited around the Post Office for some time, to try and find the rightful owner and explain the matter. Failing in this he took the wheel to the Police station, where it awaits an owner.

Shot a Wolf.

On the 29th of April, Geo. Airhart, of Methuen township, shot a large wolf, which with two or three more of its kind had been observed prowling around Mr. Airhart's premises, very eager to obtain one of his sheep. Monday, Mr. Airhart took his wolfship's fur coat to Norwood, fyled an affidavit with Thos. Fracer, clerk of the second Division Court, who, after cutting off the two ears, gave him an order on the country treasurer for $10, being the amount of the bounty offered by the Ontario Government. D. A. Fraser, of Norwood, purchased the hide. If you call at the hardware store you can see it. Many a day has passed by since a wolf was shot in this section before.

The Light That Failed.

A couple of evenings ago three prominent and well known citizens of Ashburnham observed a light in the Little Lake cemetery, and after a hasty consultation resolved to investigate, as the circumstances looked suspicious. They embarked in a skiff and after much circumlocution edged in close to the cemetery shore in the endeavour to discover what was the business of the midnight intruder in the graveyard. After silently disembarking they cautiously advanced to the spot where the light had last been seen, but it had mysteriously and suddenly disappeared. After much conjecture and a minute examination of the premises, it was finally ascertained that the light was caused by the reflection of an Ashburnham electric light on the polished surface of a granite monument.

A Good Thing is Always Desirable

So it is with the visits of Prof. Dorenwend to Peterborough. On his last visit he was so busy that many ladies and gentlemen were unable to be attended to, he is therefore returning to give all who desire it another opportunity of procuring his art goods for the head. Prof. Dorenwend is undoubtedly one of the leaders of his profession on this continent, his skill in arranging [illegible] for the head of either lady or gentleman is well known. His goods are [illegible] wedged to be perfect, and in every way true to nature. They are the best protection to the head, besides giving a refined and youthful expression to the face. Call and examine those marvels of art and have them fitted in order to judge of the effect. Consult him about your hair, he will (free of charge) give you advice as to the preservation of it. He will be at the Grand Central Hotel on Thursday, 16th of May.

A Champion of Early Hours.

Last night about 12 o'clock a young gentleman going home from the benefit concert, after a rather lengthened escort tour and a front gate bivouac, was startled by the sudden appearance of a man in the middle of the street, running at top speed, followed by a woman with blood in her eye, and with tucked up skirts, also under full sail. The pursued sprinter made good time, but his pursuer made better. She had evidently got her second wind, for she had plenty of breath to indulge in caressing conjugal expressions of endearment like, "O you villain! I'll teach you to come home at this hour of the night—I'll give it to you when I ketch you—O you—you—you—wretch," etc. The hatless husband ran for dear life, turned two or three corners and disappeared, with his infuriated spouse close on his wheel, in the rear of a manufacturing establishment, and the sudden throttled cry of pain and a scalp-lifting, ripping sound that smote the midnight air, announced that the wifely champion of early hours had won. The husband was led home, and will find it necessary to inspect Dorenwend's stock of toupees when the latter visits town next week.

LAST EVENING'S CONCERT.

A Programme of Unusual Excellence Rendered.

The Fire Brigade Band opened the programme at the benefit concert given in aid of the fund for the support of the Canadian General Electric Company's employees last evening in the opera house. The attendance was good and the programme was of a nature to arouse great enthusiasm, as the different numbers were rendered.

Mr. Geo. H. Adams brought the house down with his humourous songs and the local hits which he made.

Mrs. Stapleton sang Rubinstein's "Voices of the Wood" very sweetly, and was followed by Mr. J. Miller in a cornet solo of unusual excellence. Mr. W. H. Manning's fine rendition of "Ora Pro Nobis" was greatly appreciated.

Mr. Thomas Dunn was never in better voice in his life, and his rich baritone sounded to splendid advantage in the selections which he gave. Many present gave vent to the expression that they preferred his voice to even that of Lely.

Little Lola Ostrom was as sweet as ever and recited "Poor Little Joe" in a manner which greatly delighted the audience. She is certainly a wonder as an artistic finished elocutionist. Mrs. G. A. Smith and Mrs. Hibbard contributed a brilliant instrumental duet to the programme, after which Miss Hansen, of Oshawa, sang Boardman's "Farewell" in such clear, mellow tones as to merit the enthusiastic encore which recalled her to the platform. A particularly sweet and touching lullaby was given in response by Miss Hansen.

Mrs. W. A. Sanderson sang a selection from Kummer very effectively, Mr. Butcher accompanying with flute obligato. The instrument harmonized particularly well with her clear notes.

It is doubtful if a concert of such universal excellence, composed entirely of non-professional talent, has ever been given before a Peterborough audience. Those in attendance went away heartily pleased with the evening's entertainment.

THANKS OF EMPLOYEES.

The Electric Works employees desire to return their cordial thanks to all concerned in the benefit concert of last night—to Mr. Bradburn for the free use of the Opera House—to those who so successfully contributed to the programme—to the band—to the press—to the Peterborough Music Store for the free use of pianoforte—to those who so liberally attended, and to all who in any way showed practical sympathy with the employees.

NEWS NUGGETS

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—Miss Hansen, of Oshawa, will sing in St. Paul's church to-morrow evening.

—Special music and "Women's Rights" at the Y.M.C.A. to-morrow afternoon, for men.

—The ever present dandelion now sprawls goldenly and disgustingly in the verdant lap of the lawn.

—The dust is flying on the unwatered streets and sometimes in the nominally watered thoroughfares.

—The statesman now becomes obscure,
His glory has gone hence;
The public's looking for the man
Who bats it over the fence.

—Two little stores stood side by side,
Trade thrived in one, in t'other died;
Twould not be very hard I think,
To tell which one used Printer's ink.

—George Pearson, charged with being drunk and disorderly, last evening, was allowed to go on suspended sentence by the magistrate this morning.

—Having got tired of dodging wheels, pedestrians will hail with delight the new fad for wheelmen—plaid stockings—anything to keep the cyclists' legs in check.

—Men should hear Rev. J.J. Rae talk on "Woman's Rights" at the Y. M. C. A. to-morrow afternoon. A cornet solo and vocal duet will add to the interest of the service.

—Yesterday afternoon Mr. Wesley Howden, an employee of the Bridge Works, was working on the contruction of a heavy steel girder; it accidently fell with a weight of several tons on his thumb. The bone was badly crushed but Dr. Clarke who was called, thinks that the thumb can probably be saved.

O, Trilby, I fain you were buried so deep,
That Gabriel's horn could not break your last sleep.
I long, with Svengli, to gloat o'er your bones,
And to smother in ashes your hypnotic tones.
Peace, peace to your soul, and your mem'ry be blest,
But chase yourself, Trilby, and give us a rest.

An easy shave can only be had from a razor that is perfectly ground and of perfect temper. Every razor that we sell from the highest to the lowest priced is warranted to give satisfaction or a new one will be given in exchange.—GEORGE STETHEM & SON, 134 Hunter street, next the post office. ldw

—The street inspector is complaining about the practice of storekeepers throwing waste paper on the streets. It does not improve the appearance of the streets, and is the cause in some instances of frightening horses, especially when the wind is blowing. He threatens to punish the guilty parties if they persist in the practice.

PERSONAL.

Miss Gobeil has returned from Toronto.

Mr. J. W. Ridpath, of the Lakefield News, is in town to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Carlon have returned to Peterborough for the summer.

The Orono News says: Mr. T. H. McLean of Peterborough, is in town.

Mr. B. W. Folger, Jr., of Kingston, was in town on business during the week.

Mr. F. J. Daly has purchased the business of the Russell House, Orillia, and has taken possession.

Rev. C. W. Hedley has so far recovered from his recent severe illness as to be able to be out. He intended taking a drive to-day.

Mrs. H. A. Mulhern has returned to Peterborough, and together with Mr. Mulhern, is occupying a suite of rooms at the Grand Central.

Miss Edith Gough, daughter of Mr. E. D. Gough, formerly of this town, made a great hit with a pianoforte solo at the May Festival at Loretto Convent, Belleville.

The numerous friends of Mr. Robert Walton will be pleased to hear of his improved health, and those of his family who have been called home by the illness of Mr. Walton, have now returned. They were Mrs. H. Fisher and daughter, Mrs. R. E. Walton, New York; Mrs. Lavoy, New York; Mrs. C. Pearson, of Aurora, Ont., and Mr. Fred. Walton, of Chicago.

As Well as Ever

After Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cured of a Serious Disease.

"I was suffering from what is known as Bright's disease for five years, and for days at a time I have been unable to straighten myself up. I was in bed for three weeks; during that time I had leeches applied and derived no benefit. Seeing Hood's Sarsaparilla advertised in the papers I decided to try a bottle. I found

PHILADELPHIA

ICE CREAM!

The finest in the land. When you want to cool off step into

McCALLUM'S

New Ice Cream Parlour and get a dish of that delicious Ice Cream, manufactured only by him and Frozen by Electricity.

Entrance through main store or in the Arcade, in rear of Winch Bros. market.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Is the Ice Cream Business at McCallum's New Restaurant.

Ice cream is now on the market—and more than that, it is on the market square—is as well as "on the square"—and it's "lightning" at that—at least it's frozen by electricity, at Mr. W. J. McCallum's new Philadelphia Ice Cream Parlours, advertised in another column of the EXAMINER, in connection with his present restaurant, and with an independent entrance from the market building arcade. The parlours are large, well lighted, shady and cool, and if "Mac" had called his new place the "North Pole ice cream parlours," instead of the "Philadelphia," it would have been at least as patriotic and more to the point. The rooms have been beautifully fitted up and furnished, and the luxurious surroundings, combined with the luxury of a dainty and delicious plate of McCallum's Philadelphia ice cream, frozen by electricity, will be something worth going for. The beautiful new parlours were opened to-day. It will be a cold day when "Mac" "gets left"—he's all right for the hot weather.

THE HEALTHY PENSIONERS.

Dr. Landerkin Brings the Matter to the Attention of the Government.

In the House of Commons on Wednesday Dr. Landerkin, M.P., gave notice that on Friday next he would inquire from the Government whether the attention of the Government had been called to the article in the PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER respecting the paying of pensions to Mr. Weir and Charles Guy after they had recovered health. The article is reprinted in full in in the "Votes and Proceedings" of the House of Commons. Readers in this vicinity will await the results of Dr. Landerkin's interpellation with interest.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Mr. Pady and a male quartette at 8 to-night. The mere announcement that Mr. Pady will talk to men should be enough to bring a large number of fellows to hear his message.

"Women's Rights" is the subject of a talk by Rev. J. J. Rae to men, to-morrow afternoon, at 4.15. Mr. J. Miller will play a cornet solo and Messrs. Squires and Steers sing a duett.

Workers training class at nine o'clock, to-morrow morning. Study, book of Luke.

Connect With the Peterborough Local.

The Cobourg World says: Mr. James Stephenson, general superintendent of the G.T.R., Mr. D. Morris, assistant superintendent, and Mr. A. White, general freight agent, visited Cobourg on Tuesday. They drove around town and out to Harwood. The present intention is to put on a dummy engine to connect with the Peterborough local, morning and evening, and make two trips to Harwood each day. This will supply a long felt want in the place of local railway travel.

LACROSSE.

There was a big turnout of lacrosse players on Riverside Park last evening, and as sides were chosen a good practice was held. The grounds are much improved since being rolled, and there is every prospect that lacrosse will draw better this year than it has for many seasons. The Peterboroughs will put two exceptionally strong teams in the field this year, and the players are in high hopes of upholding the old time record of not losing a game during the season. Last evening a rough draft of the senior team was drawn up and on the list appears the names of several of the last year stars of the Juniors.

The Shamrocks, it is said, will bring an outside team to town for a game on the Queen's Birthday. The Senior and Junior Peterboroughs will go to Campbellord, where they play in their respective classes for valuable prizes. Although the final arrangements for the game on June 6th with the Orillias in their town have not been arranged, the Orillia papers of this week announce that the Peterborough are going up there with the big E. B. A. excursion on that date to cross sticks with the Orillias. The Peterboroughs will take nothing with them but "local talent," but it will be a team that will reflect credit on the town, and will draw a big crowd from here to Orillia to see the game.

At a meeting held in Cobourg Monday night, for the purpose of organizing a lacrosse club, the following officers were elected:

Hon. Pres.—Col. Cornell.
1st Hon. Vice-Pres.—A. R. Hargraft.
2nd Hon. Vice-Pres.—J. D. Hayden.
Captain—Geo. Pearcy.
Secretary—Edgar Hayden.

There was considerable enthusiasm manifested and expectation is that Cobourg will have a good lacrosse team this season.

BASEBALL.

The baseball team of the Canadian General Electric Works have challenged the Non-coms. of the 57th to a game at baseball to be played at Jubilee Point on the Queen's Birthday. The non-commissioned officers have accepted the challenge and are hustling around to make up a good nine.

The Vaticans and newspaper baseball teams practise at Riverside this afternoon and evening.

AN IMPORTANT MUSICAL EVENT

The Possibility of a Great Midsummer Musical Festival.

It is just possible that Peterborough will be visited with the greatest musical festival this summer that has ever been held in Eastern Ontario. It is now in the hands of the local choirs and musicians to say Yes or No, and in order to fully understand the feeling of the people a meeting is called to discuss the project in the Y.M.C.A. Hall at 8.45 Wednesday evening, May 15th. Every choir, of whatever creed, is invited as it will be undenominational. We shall have a chorus of about 1,800 voices, and run eight excursion trains, and this means not less than 5,000 to 6,000 people. Business men and councillors should be interested, and all who feel a desire to know full particulars are invited to be present on Wednesday evening. Mr. G. W. Mulligan will address the meeting and answer all questions.

Tired, Weak, Nervous.

Means impure blood, and overwork or too much strain on brain and body. The only way to cure is to feed the nerves on pure blood. Thousands of people certify that the best blood purifier, the best nerve tonic and strength builder is Hood's Sarsaparilla What it has done for others it will also do for you—Hood's Cures.

Nervousness, loss of sleep, loss of appetite and general debility all disappear when Hood's Sarsaparilla is persistently taken, and strong nerves, sweet sleep, strong body, sharp appetite, and in a word health and happiness follows the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The strong point about Hood's Sarsaparilla is that they are permanent, because they start from the solid foundation of purified, vitalized and enriched blood.

THE ADVANCE IN SUGARS.

How the Increased Duty Deals With Prices.

In other lines outside of groceries there is no particular feature. The placing of a ½ cent per pound duty on sugars has excited a good deal of interest in that commodity. The placing of this duty on sugar was promptly followed by an advance by the refiners of one-half cent per lb. on the prices of refined sugars. The sugar markets are very strong at the moment, and owing to the advancing market for raws both in New York and London there has been a further advance in the prices of refined sugars here since the duty went on. This has made the price of granulated sugars here 4½ cents to 4¾ cents compared with 5 cents per pound a year ago with free sugars. This still leaves a margin of ¾ of a cent for granulated sugar to advance before it reaches the price of a year ago. In other words, if granulated sugar now costs 5 cents wholesale, the price would, considering the duty, be ½ cent less than it was a year ago. The change in the tariff found stock of refined sugar here generally small, only one or two houses being well supplied. The market had shown somewhat of a tendency to advance from natural causes before the change in the tariff, and those houses which are so fortunate as to have any considerable stocks on hand then began to order sugar from the refiners. One firm here had, on the morning after the change in the tariff, contracted for and had in its warehouse over 7,000 barrels of refined sugar. When the price was advanced by the refiners ½ cent in sympathy with the outside markets after the duty was put on it meant an additional profit to the firm of $2,000. There has been another advance since then, and altogether those who purchased before the advance began to stand to make about one cent per pound profit.—Globe.

ODD ICE CREAM MOULDS

TRILBY'S FOOT THE FAVORITE AT UP-TO-DATE PARTIES.

Designs Now Made to Order—Effective Table Decorations for Which Many Dinner-Givers Are Willing to Pay High Prices.

"The demand for individual moulds and novelties for the service of ice cream, water ices, Roman punch and nougat," said a caterer to a New York World reporter, "is more than a fad. It is now a standard demand. The fad consists in keeping up with the times. Now, here is the latest—the Trilby foot. We have turned out during the past week 50 dozens of these moulds, and will no doubt dispose of a hundred dozen more before something else comes along to catch the popular fancy."

The Trilby mould was shown in several sizes, ranging from nine to fourteen to the quart. They are made in two pieces, hinged at the back. The congealed sweetness is packed into the moulds, which are surrounded by broken ice until the hour of service, when the dainty foot, a model of a foot, the very apotheosis of a foot, is turned on to the plate in all its virginal whiteness and plump seductiveness.

Turning to a desk the caterer produced a printed catalogue and called attention to a list of individual moulds carried in stock, which are numbered from 200 to 1,000. Blank lines are left at the end for the addition of new designs. Anything can be made on short notice, no matter how odd or artistic.

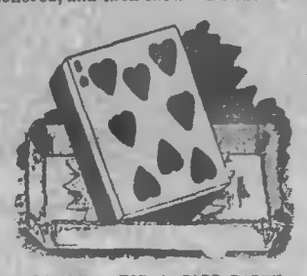
"A man comes in and says, 'I am going to give a little dinner party, and I want some little thing that will make a hit,' I ask him a few questions as to the event to be celebrated or the guest to be honored, and then show him the stock.



ICE CREAM FOR A CARD PARTY.

Suppose it is a card party. He can be supplied with moulds representing all the cards in the deck, but the aces, jacks, queens and kings shows up the best.

"For a chess party a set of moulds sufficient to set a board can be supplied. The blacks are cast in chocolate cream, the whites in lemon or vanilla. The game is set out on a small table or tray. Each square is detached and set on a little plate of the exact size, and the host distributes kings, queens, castles, bishops, knights or pawns to his guests."

One of the most elaborate children's parties ever given in New York was that of Commodore Gerry to his young relatives. When the ice cream was set before the delighted children they greeted with peals of merriment the old, familiar figures of Mother Hubbard, Jack-the-Giant-Killer, Hop-o'-My-Thumb, Giant Blunderbore, Goody Two Shoes, Cinderella, Aladdin, Sindbad and all the rest. There were 50 designs made expressly for the occasion.

Bread and Butter Plates.

"Are bread and butter plates in use yet, and are the little spreaders the proper thing to use with them?" is a query which reaches this department. The reply to the first question is made that they indubitably are, although it will not be difficult to find some authorities announcing that they are not. These little plates have been found to be a great convenience, and experience shows that when such is the case enough sensible persons are always found who will continue the use of a convenience to keep it in fashion. The bone plates which preceded them were not nice in suggestion and were speedily abandoned. A place for a piece of bread and a separate small knife with which to put a piece of butter on it is, in lieu of complicating the service of a meal, a distinct simplifier; it is more useful in the one-maid establishment, even, than in the elaborate ones, for it assists in the matter of serving. It is a mistake to have these plates too large; but it is not a mistake to have them. Glass ones are pretty and the silver "spreader," as they are vulgarly called, for the nice person does not spread bread, should be equally unobtrusive.—New York Times.

The Wabash Railway Trains

running every day in the year between Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City are the finest known to the railway service; they are complete and solid vestibuled from end to end, the entire train being a moving palace of connected apartments, all furnished with the most luxurious elegance and perfection of accommodation known to car builder's art. They include free reclining, palace, sleeping, and dining cars of the latest and best patterns. Call on or write any railway agent for tickets and all information, or address J. A. RICHARDSON, Canadian passenger agent, north-west corner King and Yonge streets Toronto.

Toilet Accessories.

There are many things necessary nowadays for the up-to-date toilet table. One of the requisites, which fortunately, can be procured without expense or trouble is a jar of salt—common table salt and it is a panacea for many ills. A little of it dissolved in warm water is sure to remove the slight inflammation from eyelids reddened by a long drive in the wind. If used for a gargle it will allay any slight irritation in the throat; a little should occasionally be put in the water in which one's teeth are brushed, as it helps to harden the gums.

Tincture of camphor or tincture of myrrh, dropped into water, is an excellent wash for the mouth and throat when the breath is not sweet. When the latter is used the proper proportions are ten drops of myrrh to a glass of water.

Powdered alum is another important adjunct; a little should be thrown into the water in which you bathe your hands before putting on gloves for a crowded reception or ball, when there might be a tendency to perspire too freely.

It is said that a few drops of sulphuric acid in the bath water is also a preventive of the too free perspiration of either hands or feet.

A equal mixture of lemon juice and glycerine is another "aid to beauty," necessary to the toilet table—it whitens as well as softens the hands.

Fashions in Engagement Rings.

For engagement rings the solitaire diamond is almost invariably used. Some lovers prefer to use the birth stones of their fiancee, garnets for January, amethysts for February, bloodstones for March, diamonds for April, emeralds for May, agate for June, rubies for July, sardonyx for August, sapphires for September, opals for October, topaz for November, turquoise for December. Where more than one stone is used the stones are arranged in a special design. Another fashion, one borrowed from the Germans, is to use a plain band of gold in which the initials and date of the engagement are engraved, space being left for the date of the marriage, at which time the newer date is added and the ring used as the wedding ring.—Ladies' Home Journal.

HOT DAY FOR FOSTER

He Refuses Information Asked For By Mr. Davies.

THE LEADER ROUNDLY SCORED

In Answer To Remarks By Messrs. Laurier, Cartwright, Mills and Davies Mr. Foster Delivers a Violent Harangue—He Statement of Terms of Union.

Ottawa, May 11.—The parliamentary week wound up with as breezy a debate as the House has had in many a day. It afforded the Liberals an opportunity of calling attention to the arrogant disregard of the rights of the House displayed by the Government in dealing with questions of vital importance to the country, and it also gave the leader of the House an opportunity to demonstrate his utter incapacity for the position in which circumstances has placed him.

It is doubtful if ever in the Canadian Commons a leader ever gave such an exhibition of bad taste and temper as did Mr. Foster, who, in response to a just and reasonable demand for information concerning the Newfoundland negotiations, made a violent and splenetic attack upon the Liberal leader and the Liberal party.

The trouble began when Mr. Davies of Prince Edward Island repeated the request which he had made on two former occasions for a statement of the position of the negotiations without the details. He took the ground that the negotiations had reached the acute stage when it was desirable and necessary that further information should be given to the House. He deprecated the position the Government had taken in reference to their relations to the House, which in fact had become a kind of donkey engine to the Senate in the presentation of information regarding the financial obligations of the country. He asked Mr. Foster whether the ultimatum of Newfoundland had been received, whether any reply had been sent and whether the ultimatum referred to international or financial matters or what did it refer to.

Mr. Foster said he would courteously but firmly refuse to place one iota of the negotiations, which were not yet concluded, before the House. One little bit of information the Minister did vouchsafe, and that was that a telegram had been sent embodying Canada's final answer.

Sir Richard Cartwright said that the Minister was practising a piece of gross deceit upon the House, whereat Mr. Foster protested and Sir Richard withdrew the objectionable term. Sir Richard demanded that the Government should state what new obligations it was proposed to put upon the country.

Mr. Mills of Bothwell made a vigorous protest against the course of the Government. He said that the Ministers wanted to assume the position of masters to the House. The people of Canada were embarrassed with the financial situation and they scarcely knew how to meet the deficit. Yet the Government proposed that they should settle with the Government of Newfoundland an agreement whereby this country would in addition to its present serious financial burden have to assume $40,000,000 or $50,000,000 of debt and add $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 to the annual charges. The Government had taxed the country to the extent of running thousands of people out of it and they proposed to place a new load upon those who were left. The time was in the history of England that if a Minister of the Crown answered a member of the House as Mr. Foster had answered Mr. Davies he would be impeached.

The Secretary of State took up the defence of the Government and made a very fair stump speech.

Mr. Laurier said he did not rise with any intention of answering the violently vehement harrangue of the Secretary of State. The only question that was before the House was: Had the House now the right to be informed as to the negotiations that had taken place between the Governments of Newfoundland Canada. It was admitted as a rule of diplomacy between foreign nations that so long as negotiations were pending, it would not be proper to bring down the practical subject matter of these negotiations. This was not the character of the present negotiations. This was not a diplomatic relation between the two countries. It was simply the basis of an agreement between two governments for the purpose of one entering into the union. The House had not been able to extract much from the Minister, but it was the information that the negotiations were ended.

Mr. Mills hardly not said a thing too strong when he said that the course of the Government was an outrage on the freedom of the Canadian people. The negotiations would be given to the Canadian Parliament only when they were cut, dried and settled so that Parliament would have to swallow or reject them. But it might be pre-hut on the part of the Government not to give this information, for the Ministers might change their minds by to-morrow, just as they had done in regard to the Hudson Bay loan.

Mr. Foster then entered upon an elaborate defence of the Government's course, and as he proceeded he spoke more recklessly and angrily. There came a point at which he lost all control of his temper, and he delivered a harangue that would scarcely have done credit to a cross-roads stumper. During this part of the uproar was tremendous.

Mr. Davies, in more dignified and parliamentary language, replied to the mock outburst of the leader. "It has long been in doubt," he said, "whether the honorable gentleman would develop those qualities which are presumed to be requisite to the gentleman who fills the position of leader of the House. That doubt will be set aside from this day forward. The dignity and prudence of the speech which the honorable gentleman had just made will settle that matter. There are complicated, delicate arrangements going forward between the Dominion Government and the Government of Newfoundland, the result of which may impose serious and heavy financial obligations on the country. He is asked to give to the House as much information as in the public interest he may, in reference to the negotiations and the reply is a bitter stump speech on the general policy and the past policy of the Opposition, which the hon. gentleman ought to be ashamed to deliver on any platform. The hon. gentleman's conduct is unworthy of a man occupying his position.

The Budget debate was continued and Mr. Martin of Winnipeg made a powerful criticism of the Finance Minister's statements.

Small Money in Demand.

Washington, May 10.—Gold in considerable quantities is being exchanged for silver certificates of small denominations in the Northwest. In Chicago yesterday the United States sub-treasury received $65,000 in gold in exchange for such paper money and the same demand, only less pronounced, is felt at other points in that region. The demand for small money is taken as an evidence of a revival of business with the opening of spring. The treasury continues, however, to lose gold at both New York and San Francisco, where United States notes and treasury notes are being presented for redemption.

France and the New Chinese Loan.

London, May 10.—The Paris correspondent of The Times says: M. Hanotaux, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has invited the leading Paris financiers to meet at the Foreign Office to-morrow to consider the impending Chinese loan, the manner in which the Bourse might co-operate in negotiating it and the conditions on which French capital might share in it. Considering the interest at which China will have to borrow, the fact that the indemnity is said to be £110,000,000, and the amount necessary to repair the ravages of war and to readjust China's finances, it will not be surprising if the loan be £150,000,000. It is not likely that a decision will be arrived at without consulting London.

Poachers' Nets Seized.

Blenheim, Ont., May 10.—The Dominion cruiser Petrel, while patrolling last night on Lake Erie, and at about 16 miles off Rondeau Harbor, discovered and captured five miles of fishing nets, supposed to have been put in by American fishermen, of whom at present no trace can be found.

Ex-Queen Natalie's Return.

Belgrade, May 10.—Ex-uQeen Natalie entered the city in triumph to-day after her four years' banishment. King Alexander and his ministers and high officials welcomed her at the station. The crowds received her enthusiastically.

LIGHT VERSUS DIRT.

It is the Most Effective Agent to Promote Cleanliness.

Light is the most efficient weapon with which to flirt dirt in the domestic, as it is in the moral world, but the kitchen, where constant warfare must be waged with grit, grime and grease, is woefully apt to be the most ill-lighted apartment in the house. Many kitchens have but one window, more only two, and these so placed upon the same side as to but partially light the room. The sink is peculiarly unfortunate in this respect; the best economy of time and labor requires it to be placed near the range, often in a corner at some distance from either window, where the kitchen maid must stand with her hands and their occupation in needless shadow.

Small wonder that the work is neither clean nor accurate where by no possibility can one see how it is being done. Forethought by the architect, supplemented by coercion judiciously applied to the builder, would remedy the trouble in ninety-nine per cent. of such houses. The tribe of builders seems to have a hereditary antipathy to windows, as they have to closets; but let all corners be flooded with day and hidden iniquities of grease and rubbish will be routed, the army of predatory insects and vermin will vanish before the blessed conjury and sweetness reign with light.

The modern fashion of plumbing, that requires all the work to be in open sight, has been most successful in overcoming the worst dangers in our sewerage system; how long before common sense and science will combine to apply the same remedy to dirt? Only occasionally is a voice raised in protest against the clouds of dust in which we move, and with difficulty breathe and have our being.

In the ordinary boarded floor the space between the joists becomes an unseen cavern for the collection of dust in its most objectionable forms, while the crevices between the boards receive layer after layer of dirty soap and water, to be again dried, pulverized by the constant treading of feet and redistributed through the air of the kitchen, falling upon the food as it is prepared for our tables and swept by currents of warm air through the whole house to be breathed.

WRITER STEVENSON'S PRAYER.

This Pathetic Composition Was the Last He Wrote.

Here is a touching prayer written or composed by Robert Louis Stevenson as real to his family the night before he died. It is reproduced from the British Weekly:

We beseech Thee, Lord, to behold us with favor, folk of many families and nations, gathered together in the peace of this roof; weak men and women, subsisting under the cover of Thy patience. Be patient still; suffer us yet a while longer, with our broken promises of good, with our idle endeavors against evil; suffer us a while longer to endure, and (if it may be) help us to do better. Bless to us our extraordinary mercies; if the day come when these must be taken, have us play the man under affliction. Be with our friends; be with ourselves. Go with each of us to rest; if any wake, temper to them the dark hours of watching; and when the day returns to us, our sun and comforter, call us with morning faces and with morning hearts, eager to labor, eager to be happy, if happiness shall be our portion; and if the day be marked to sorrow, strong to endure it. We thank Thee, and praise Thee, and in the words of Him to whom this day is sacred, offer our oblation.

The Palace of Bakhchisarai.

All archaeologists will receive with pleasure the news that the Government has granted 36,000 rubles for the purpose of restoring to somewhat of its former beauty the ancient Khan-Sarai, or Palace of the Khans of the Crimea, at Bakhchisarai. The work of restoration is to be carried on under the direction of the Academician Kotoff, who is to restore it to the same appearance as when it was previously restored by Prince Potemkin for the reception of Catherine the Great in 1787. This ancient palace is reported to have been erected in the thirteenth century, and some portions belong to the eleventh century. The second court, which is called the new building, is entered by an iron gate, on which is the inscription stating it to have been erected by Menghi Ghirey Khan, who conquered the Crimea in 1480. In addition to the interesting suite of apartments contained in this court are two fountains, one of which has been rendered historical by the famous Russian poet Pushkin, and the inscription on it states that it was erected in 1736 by Khan Krim Ghirei in honor of Dilliarah Bikeh, his beautiful Georgian wife, whom he could never induce to change her religion as a Christian to join that of the Mussulman.

Adjoining the Khan-Sarai is a large building containing the monuments of nearly all the Khans since 1464, and many tombs of the eleventh and twelfth centuries, as well as the tomb of Devlet Ghirey, belonging to the year 955. When I visited this old palace and passed two nights therein two years ago, I was able, through the courtesy of the authorities, to examine all the interesting relics contained in this place, and, although the original Tartar silk and satin hangings to the Khan's council hall and private apartments were somewhat faded, yet the excellent manner in which everything has been kept leaves the palace in almost its original condition, as when it was inhabited by the mighty Tartar Khans in bygone ages, notwithstanding that during the Crimean war it was used as a hospital, and that nearly 50,000 Russians were carried out of the building to find a resting place forever within a few minutes' walk of its historical walls.—Odessa Correspondence London Standard.

MEN'S STYLES THIS SPRING.

Large Checks—New Shaped Hat—The Toga Overcoat.

According to The New York World, the young man's fancy this spring will lightly turn to thoughts of large check clothes. This direction of his fancy will be accomplished without much effort on his part for the best London tailors have decided that cloth of a large check pattern shall be worn.

The most trustworthy features of the latest form of evening dress is the piping which edges the waistcoat and the tails of the coat. It is of gros-grain silk.

The tails of the coat are not very long, fit closely to the figure and are cut sharply away. There may be four buttons on the sleeves. The cuffs are occasionally turned over. A remarkable innovation is the outside breast pocket.

The shawl collar has passed away. The notch collar faced with silk reigns.

No striking variation is promised in the frock coat, that garment in which all sartorial art finds its climax. The very long-tailed frock coat is, of course, an abomination in the eyes of those who sit on the pinnacles of fashion. The frock coat should barely cover the knees and fit closely below the waist.

The new silk hat is of exactly the same design as the one that was in vogue about seven years ago. The body is perfectly straight and produces the effect of tapering slightly towards the top. It is, in fact, the stovepipe returned. The brim is smaller and less curled than in the late hat.

The latest pattern in derby hats is called the D'Orsay. The crown is low, being but four and a half inches high, and its general aspect is square. The brims have a half inch roll. Like all other fashions, this hat is not new but a revival. It is practically the same that was worn thirteen years ago.

We are at least two months from the season of straw hats, but the fashions may be foretold. For a few summers past London swells have taken kindly to straw hats. At first they wore them with very wide brims and low crowns, but they were soon adopted by every Tom, Dick and 'Arry. Then the gilded ones were forced to hats with high crowns and narrow brims. These are still to be the fashion.

Soft felt hats for summer use, called Alpine and Italian, will also have high crowns and narrow brims. In color they will vary from pearl gray to light brown.

The crowns will not be dented in the middle.

The new overcoat for evening wear is called the toga. It is believed that the Roman Senator's garment was made of a great circular piece of cloth, in which a hole was cut for the head. The new overcoat is constructed on a similar principle. It opens, of course, in front, where there is but one fastening, a clasp, at the neck, with chain. The material is black cloth without lining. It requires about seven yards of cloth to make a toga. It's great recommendation is that it is difficult to wear with grace.

Looked That Way.

Wool—Benedict says his wife's clothes cost a mere trifle.

Van Pelt—Did he marry a living picture?

Better So.

"No," said the "emancipated" young woman. "Harold and I will not marry. The engagement is broken off."

"What was the trouble?"

"He does not agree with me in politics, and I am compelled to believe that his ideas about housekeeping are hopelessly crude and chaotic."—Washington Star.

EYES TO SEE AND SEE NOT

That is the case with many people. They need spectacles, and the strange part of it is that some folks never know how bad their eyes are until they have them tested. Have been going through life without seeing as much as they ought to see—perhaps suffering from headaches and tired eyes.

If you will call at Sanderson's Jewellery Store, George street, your eyes will be examined free of charge. If you need Glasses they will be supplied at a reasonable price. Do not neglect this matter and so be like those who have EARS TO HEAR AND HEAR NOT.

XII.

THE USE OF LIFE III. THE CULTIVATION OF THE MIND.

Every person has two educations, one which he receives from others, and one more important, which he gives himself.—Gibbon.

Doubts as to the value of education have in some cases arisen from that strange confusion between ignorance and innocence with which many people seem to solace themselves. Whereas if you take away a man's knowledge, you do not bring him to the state of an infant, but to that of a brute, and of one of the most mischievous and malignant of the brute creation.—Arnold of Rugby.

The importance of education, under which term we include all that disciplines and enlightens the understanding, corrects the temper, cultivates the taste, and forms the manners and habits, is denied by very few in our day, but it may well be questioned whether many people have more than a very imperfect conception of its range. It is still a too common idea that education is the pouring into the mind of a number of useful facts by the teacher. Whereas this is but the first and least important of the functions of education.

THE EDUCATION OF THE MIND is precisely analogous to the education of the hand in manual arts.

A carpenter puts a tool into his apprentice's hand and first tells him or shows him how to use it, and then bids him practice according to the instruction. Just so the teacher imparts knowledge, often in the shape of principles and rules, which it is absolutely necessary for the child to apply, and it is only by practice that facility and skill in the use of principles is acquired.

The brain is indeed an instrument, equally with the hand. It has certain powers and capacities, which, however, will never be of much use, and may indeed be most injurious unless properly trained. That these truths are fully understood by our teachers, that the appreciation of the true objects and benefits of education is increasing amongst the people, no one who really studies the methods of our schools and converses with the more advanced scholars, and their parents can doubt, and whilst they are justly proud of their profession and the rapid progress it has made in late years, none are more alive to the possibilities of further improvement than the teachers themselves.

Still, if it may be permitted to an amateur, I should like to make

ONE OR TWO SUGGESTIONS.

1. The true scope of education should be repeatedly explained and illustrated to the senior pupils who have attained to "years of discretion."

2. They should be exhorted not to drop all their studies as soon as they leave school. It would be an excellent thing if it were possible to have a course of ten or twelve weekly lectures on some period of history, or some branch of science, or some great literary work, during the winter months, for all who cared to enrol themselves, and especially for youths and maidens who have recently left school.

3. If education includes "the correction of the temper, the cultivation of the tastes and the formation of the manners and habits," it would seem that despite the somewhat portentous list of subjects already taught, there are some additions which could be made with profit. First and foremost it has long appeared to me that simple instruction in the rudiments of ethics is needed. We are of ten or twelve years the rudiments of physiology, but not even our senior scholars anything about morals, although our life is made up of actions, and, our actions are the outcome of principles and in all probability of laws as precise as those which regulate our bodies. In the next place short courses of popular lectures intended to develop the sense of the beautiful, and thirdly another course on what Emerson has called "The Conduct of Life" would be of quite inestimable value.

But how, it will be asked, can we accomplish all these things? The only way which occurs to me is for the Education Department to organize a staff of peripatetic teachers, who shall prepare courses of lectures and deliver them from one Institute or High School to another, spending about a fortnight in each school. Such teachers, if thoroughly competent men, might give a few public lectures in the evenings to those who cared to hear them. Peripatetic teaching was no uncommon thing in ancient Greece and a good lecture would always attract a large audience.

THE CULTIVATION OF THE MIND

is one of the conditions of true wisdom. Knowledge is a power, but its highest use is to produce wisdom. In order to do that it must be manifold. Knowledge of facts, knowledge of principles, knowledge of self, knowledge of human nature, all are needed; for the brain is something like the stomach, in that it takes in knowledge as a kind of food, and transforms it by its own process of digestion into wisdom, as the stomach converts food into nourishment. "Knowledge of the electric telegraph," says Kingsley, "saves time. Knowledge of writing saves human speech and locomotion. Knowledge of domestic economy saves income. Knowledge of sanitary laws saves health and life. Knowledge of the laws of the intellect saves wear and tear of the brain; and knowledge of the laws of the spirit—what does it not save?"

But

THE HIGHEST OBJECT OF EDUCATION

is best expressed in the Proverbs of Solomon:—

"To know wisdom and instruction;
To perceive the words of understanding;
To receive the instruction of wisdom,
Justice and judgment and equity;
To give subtlety to the simple,
To the young man knowledge and discretion."

Let us not make the great mistake of supposing that the pursuit of wisdom will make us preternaturally grave or solemn. The reverse is the truth. I was conversing with a German the other day, and she said, "We Germans are a jolly people." And it is true. And the Germans, of all European races, love learning the most. The harassed, worn looks, the sombre countenances, of the men and women of our Canada, arise out of the continuous devotion of their minds, not to the acquisition of true wisdom, but of dollars and cents, or of social distinction.

But—"Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom, and with all thy getting get understanding."
